Twitter's security in doubt as hackers target famous users

TWITTER'S STATEMENTS CONFIRM FEARS THAT THE SERVICE ITSELF HAD BEEN COMPROMISED, SAY SECURITY EXPERTS

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington, July 16: Unidentified hackers broke into the Twitter accounts of technology moguls, politicians, celebrities and major companies Wednesday in an apparent Bitcoin scam.

Democratic presidential front-runner Joe Biden, Mike Bloomberg and a number of tech billionaires including Amazon CEO Jeff Bezos, Microsoft co-founder Bill Gates and Tesla CEO Elon Musk.

Celebrities Kanye West and his wife, Kim Kardashian West, were also hacked. The fake tweets offered to send $2,000 for every $1,000 sent to an anonymous Bitcoin address.

There is no evidence that the owners of these accounts were targeted themselves. Instead, the hacks appeared designed to lure their Twitter followers into sending money to an anonymous Bitcoin account.

The Biden campaign, for instance, said that Twitter's integrity team "locked down the account within a few minutes of the breach and removed the related tweet." The FBI said it was aware of Twitter's security breach, but declined further comment.

In a tweet, Twitter noted that it was aware of a "security incident impacting accounts on Twitter." The San Francisco company said it is investigating and promised an update shortly. It did not reply immediately to requests for comment.

The apparently fake tweets were all quickly deleted, although The Associated Press was able to capture screenshots of several before they disappeared. The security problem was severe enough for Twitter to warn that many of its more than 166 million daily users might be unable to tweet or reset their passwords while the company tried to lock things down.

Among the political figures targeted, the hack mostly appeared to target Democrats or other figures on the left, drawing comparisons to the 2016 campaign. US intelligence agencies established that Russia engaged in coordinated attempts to interfere in those US elections through social media tampering and various hacks, including targeting the various campaigns and major party organisations.

The hack might also be a simple demonstration of Twitter's weak security controls as the US heads into the 2020 presidential election, a contest in which the service is likely to play an influential role.

The Bitcoin account mentioned in the fake tweets appears to have been created Wednesday. By the end of the day, it had received almost 12.9 bitcoins, an amount currently valued at slightly more than $114,000. At some point during the day, roughly half that sum in bitcoin was withdrawn from the account. Bezos, Gates and Musk are among the 10 richest people in the world, with tens of millions of followers on Twitter. The three men are worth a combined $362 billion.

Sachin Pilot takes Congress to court

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Jaipur, July 16: Sachin Pilot and 18 other dissident leaders Thursday moved the high court, challenging the notices from the Rajasthan Speaker over a Congress move to disqualify them from the state Assembly.

But as the matter was taken up for hearing by Justice Satish Chandra Sharma, their advocate Harish sought time to file a fresh petition. The judge granted them time to draft a new petition. The matter will now be heard by a larger division bench.

Congress chief whip Mahesh Joshi, who had written to the Speaker seeking the MLAs' disqualification, also approached the court, asking to be heard before it passes any order. The 19 MLAs were sent notices Tuesday by the Speaker after the Congress complained that they had defied a party whip to attend two Congress Legislature Party meetings.

The Pilot camp, however, argues that a party whip applies only when the assembly is in session. In its complaint to the Speaker CP Joshi, the

HC defers hearing

JAIPUR: The Rajasthan High Court has deferred the plea of the 18 MLAs led by Sachin Pilot against their disqualification from the Assembly, as the Pilot camp appealed to amend the plea. The petition was filed by PR Meena, an MLA from Pilot group on behalf of 18 other MLAs who were slapped notice for not attending two CLP meetings called recently.

Congress sought action against Pilot and the other dissidents under paragraph 2(1)(a) of the Tenth Schedule of the Constitution. The provision disqualifies MLAs if they "voluntarily" give up the membership of the party which they represent in the House. The Congress said in the letter to Speaker that the Supreme Court has "unequivocally held" in the past that the provision comes into effect when the conduct of an MLA leads to this inference.

In court, advocate Harish Salve argued that the MLAs wanted to challenge the Constitutional validity of the notices and needed some time to file it afresh. Among those sent notices are Vishvendra Singh and Ramesh Meena, who were sacked along with Pilot from the state Cabinet after their rebellion against Ashok Gehlot.

India announces air travel bubbles with US, France

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, July 16: India has established individual bilateral bubbles with France and the US that will allow airlines of each country in the pact to operate international flights, Civil Aviation Minister Hardeep Singh Puri said on Thursday, adding that similar arrangement with Germany and the UK will soon be permitted.

Air France will be operating 28 flights between Delhi, Mumbai, Bangalore and Paris from July 18 to August 1, the minister said at a press conference, adding that American carrier United Airlines will be flying 18 flights between India and the US from July 17 to July 31.

"They (United) are flying a daily flight between Delhi and Newark and a thrice-a-week flight between Delhi and San Francisco," Puri noted. The minister said India is planning to establish a bubble with the UK soon under which there would be two flights per day between Delhi and London.

"We have got a request from Germans also. I think the arrangement with Lufthansa is almost done... We are processing that request," Puri said. "Now we have many demands for air bubbles, but we need to be careful. We should permit that many only that we can handle," the minister noted.

From India, Air India will be operating flights to France and US under these bubbles. An air bubble is a bilateral arrangement with a set of regulations and restrictions in which the carriers of the two countries can operate international flights.

Disengagement process in eastern Ladakh intricate: Army

THE CORPS COMMANDERS HELD 15-HR-LONG NEGOTIATIONS IN CHUSHUL ON THE INDIAN SIDE OF THE LAC FROM 11 AM TUESDAY TO 2 AM WEDNESDAY, COVERING VARIOUS ASPECTS OF THE COMPLEX DISENGAGEMENT

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, July 16: China and India are committed to "complete disengagement" of troops, and the process is "intricate" that requires "constant verification", the Indian Army said Thursday after the fourth round of marathon military talks on de-escalation of the situation in eastern Ladakh.

The Army said senior commanders of the Indian and Chinese military reviewed the progress on implementation of the first phase of disengagement and discussed further steps for "complete disengagement". The Corps commanders held 15-hour-long negotiations in Chushul on the Indian side of the Line of Actual Control (LAC) from 11 AM Tuesday to 2 AM Wednesday, covering various aspects of the complex disengagement process including withdrawal of thousands of troops from the rear bases within a specific time frame.

INDO-CHINA STAND-OFF

spokesperson Col Aman Anand said in a statement.

"The two sides remain committed to the objective of complete disengagement. This process is intricate and requires constant verification. They are taking it forward through regular meetings at diplomatic and military level," he added.

The formal process of disengagement of troops began

July 6, a day after a nearly two-hour telephonic conversation between National Security Advisor Ajit Doval and Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi on ways to bring down tension in the area. Doval and Wang are designated special representatives for boundary talks.

On the fourth round of Corps commander-level talks, Col Anand said the engagement was consistent with the consensus reached between the special representatives of India and China July 5 to discuss complete disengagement. The Indian delegation was led by Lt Gen Harinder Singh, the Commander of the Leh-based 14 Corps, while the Chinese side was headed by Major General Liu Lin, Commander of the South Xinjiang military region.

"Rebuilding mutual trust after the June 15 incident will take time. Therefore, speedy disengagement may be difficult to achieve. More talks at military level would be needed to achieve complete disengagement," a senior official familiar with the details of the negotiations told this news agency.

KULDEEP SINGH, OP

New Delhi, July 16: Justice would remain a far cry for many if the judiciary and the government continue to show a laidback attitude, especially when there is a staggering 3.33 crore cases pending in the lower courts.

It is high time the government thought about appointment of retired judges of district courts and High Courts as ad hoc judges to clear the pending cases, said a Supreme Court judge.

As per official data, over 3.33 crore cases have been pending in the lower courts across the country. Out of these, around 1.86 crore criminal cases are more than one-year old.

In Odisha, the courts have a backlog of over 14.5 lakh cases. The Orissa High Court has as many as 1,28,252 cases pending for more than one year while 8,884 criminal appeals are pending for 10-20 years. Significantly, the HC has been functioning with around 60 per cent strength of judges.

Taking cognisance of the pendency of the cases in the high courts, the Supreme Court said that the backlog of cases poses a challenge to the judiciary, inasmuch as to speedy disposal of appeals of the convicted.

In order to deal with this huge backlog, Supreme Court judge Justice

DY Chandrachud emphasised on adopting out-of-the-box thinking. During an event earlier, Justice Chandrachud had said that retired district judges could be appointed as ad hoc judges in the high courts to clear the pending cases.

It's pertinent to mention here that the Constitution does provide for appointment of ad hoc judges to mitigate the problem of pending cases.

The judiciary can invoke Article 224 of the Constitution which allows appointment of retired judicial officers as additional judges in the courts.

Article 224-A says, "...the Chief Justice of a High Court for any State may at any time, with the previous consent of the President, request any person who has held the office of a Judge of that Court or of any other High Court to sit and act as a Judge of the High Court for that State."

Article 127 of the Constitution has similar provision for appointment of ad hoc judges in the Supreme Court too.

Cuttack: The Covid-19 pandemic might have broken the financial backbone of many but that does not prevent a trader of the Silver City here from wearing a gold-studded mask. The ever increasing gold price has also failed to put a dent on Alok Mohanty's love for the yellow metal. Mohanty, 62, owns a furniture shop at Meria Bazar in the city here. He has reportedly spent ₹3.5 lakh to have a golden mask for himself, sources said.

Mohanty is well-known for his love for gold ornaments. Many locals call him as the 'gold man' of Cuttack. "I wear gold chains weighing 2 kg around my neck. I am also using a gold studded cap. STATE GOVERNMENT HIGHLIGHTS FINANCIAL AID TO THE ACE SPRINTER AMID TRAINING FUNDS ROW

Bhubaneswar, July 16: A day after ace sprinter Dutee Chand issued a clarification saying she isn't selling her luxury four-wheeler to raise training funds, the state government Thursday highlighted the financial support given to her over the years.

It was earlier reported that Dutee, who put up a now-deleted Facebook post asking potential buyers to get in touch with her manager, was forced to sell her car to raise funds for her Tokyo Olympics training.

The Sports and Youth Services department said, in statement, that a total of Rs 4.09cr has been given to Dutee since 2015.

"Rs 3 crore as financial incentive for medals won at Asian Games 2018. Rs 30 lakh for training and financial support during 2015-19. Rs 50 lakh for training support for Tokyo Olympics (released in two instalments August 2, 2019 and December 27, 2019)," the statement read.

"The state government appointed Dutee Chand as Group-A level officer in Odisha Mining Corporation (A Gold Category PSU). She is currently drawing gross salary of Rs 84,604 (June 2020 salary) per month. She is not required to come to office so that she is able to concentrate full-time on training.

Accordingly, since her appointment in OMC, no official work has been allotted her. OMC provided Rs 29 lakh for training and financial incentives," the statement added.

On Wednesday, Dutee had said that she sold her sedan to get some 'breathing space'. "I took to social media to sell my car. I don't have the resources to maintain luxury cars, though I love them. I never expressed that I am selling it to fund my training," Dutee said in a statement on her Twitter account.

"Odisha Government and my own KIIT University have always supported me. This does not deny the fact that my training is very expensive, especially for the 2021 Olympics. I just wanted to make a point that this money could be diverted for my training and a car can be bought post Covid once I receive the money from the state government," the ace sprinter said.

"With folded hands, I want to say that I was neither complaining nor making a show of my lack of finance because I am a daughter of the country and my well-wishers are there to keep me going. Bless me for my training at Kalinga Stadium so that my dream of getting a Gold for my country comes true," wrote the 24-year-old on social media.

Transgenders now covered under Madhu Babu Pension

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, July 16: The state government Thursday included the transgender community under Madhu Babu Pension Yojana (MBPY) and released a notification in this regard.

As per the notification issued by the Social Securities and Empowerment of Persons with Disabilities (SSEPD) department, the government made amendments to the rule 6 (eligibility criteria) of the Madhu Babu Pension Rules 2008.

The department has included a new criterion to include the transgender as one of the eligible categories. According to the notification, the beneficiaries should have certificate issued under Section 6 of the Transgender Persons (Protection of Rights) Act 2019. It also mandated that the income of the beneficiary must not exceed Rs 40,000 per annum and should not have a member paying income tax or a government servant.

"This was one of the progressive policies of the government. Eligible candidates from the community can avail the facilities from the government on fulfilling all the prescribed criteria," SSEPD department secretary Bhaskar Jyoti Sarma told Orissa Post.

Transgender advocacy groups have welcomed the step. "We welcome the step of the government to assist the community. However, the disbursement of pensions to them could be delayed as the rules of Transgender Act, 2019 are yet to be formulated and issue of ID cards to them as per the act will take time," said Biswa Bhushan Pattanayak, Assistant Director, SAATHI, Bhubaneswar.

He also requested the government to include Section 7 of the Transgender Act to also include such transgender who undergo sex change operation.

The community members meanwhile welcomed the step. "This is a welcome step. This shows that the government is now recognising the community. This is likely to work in reducing the discrimination in society and expedite their social acceptance," said Meera Parida, a transgender right activist from the state.

Elephant casualties in Keonjhar on rise

THE FOREST DIVISION HAS REPORTED DEATHS OF 51 PACHYDERMS FROM 2010 TILL DATE

POST NEWS NETWORK

Keonjhar, July 16: The forest department spends cores of rupees on protection of elephants in Keonjhar, but casualties of the animals are on the rise in the mineral-rich district, a report said.

Lapses in monitoring of the movement of elephants under Keonjhar forest division recently came to light. The department suspended a forester and a forest guard June 18 for negligence in duty after two elephants were found electrocuted by poachers in Joda section of Champua range June 14.

The killing raised serious questions on the field intelligence and patrolling as forest officials of Joda section were clueless about the incident till locals informed them.

Apart from poaching, accidents and electrocution, the animals have been facing a threat from the shrinking of the forest cover and loss of habitat owing to mining.

RED ZONE

- Nine elephants died in 2012-13

months, five elephants were found dead in Champua and Barbil ranges where the animals are said to be unsafe for various reasons.

Statistics have it that since 2010 till date, Keonjhar forest division alone has reported 51 elephant deaths. In 2010-11, the district saw deaths of nine elephants while four died in 201-12.

According to official data, there are 92 elephants in the Keonjhar division. To track the movement and ensure their safety, the department has engaged 110 people while 19 vehicles are pressed into service.

Range officers, foresters and forest guards are also on the act.

Trenches have been dug around forests to prevent intrusion of animals into human habitations.

Environmentalists expressed concern over the growing casualties of the elephants. They pointed out that despite all preventive and protective measures, elephants still face dangers due to various factors.

Concerned over elephant casualties, environmentalist and hon-ourary wildlife warden Harekrushna Mohant said, "Unabated mining, and declining forest cover resulted in loss of habitat and shortage of fodder. Increasing movement of mineral-laden vehicles, encroachment of forests, infrastructure development like roads and railways and industrial units in the forested pockets have posed serious threat to the elephants. With the habitat loss, the animals stray out of forests and enter villages, leading to man-elephant conflicts."

Experts suggested that underpasses, overpasses, check gates and bridges should be incorporated into a development plan in the forested pockets to mitigate elephant casualties. DFO Santosh Joshi said for protection of elephants, special squads have been formed for 24x7 monitoring while local people are being sensitized to the need for elephant safety so that man-elephant conflict can be avoided.

"Each elephant herd is being tracked by a team," he added.

7 including minor held

POST NEWS NETWORK

Patnagarah/ Belpada, July 16: Police Thursday arrested seven persons including a minor in connection with the murder of a father-son duo at Mundagaon village under Belpada police limits in Bolangir district.

This was stated here by Patnagarh SDPO Suresh Kumar Nayak and IIC Sachidananda Bariha at a press meet at Belpada police station Thursday. when family members of Banchhor had gone to Rout's house to calculate the dues when Rout's family members attacked them with sharp-edged weapons.

Blood goes waste as HIV-testing machines conk out

POST NEWS NETWORK

Dhenkanal, July 16: Even as there is a spurt in the number of COVID-19 cases in the state, blood donors in the district are in low spirits.

They allege that blood units they are donating can no longer be administered to patients because the HIV testing machine at the blood bank has gone out of order.

The blood bank has three HIV testing machines. The rule is that the collected blood units undergo an HIV test and then allowed for transfusion. But as of now, two of the three machines have developed problems and stopped functioning. Similarly, another machine procured a year ago has also been lying dysfunctional.

TIME TO SPEND, NOT SAVE

The present situation demands more expenditure, as opposed to austerity, and has link with the concept of the "paradox of thrift" popularised by John Maynard Keynes. The theory has it that if households decide to save more and consume less during a slowdown or recession, then it will aggravate the economic decline problem is accentuated when austerity measures are replicated by other countries or by various states.

It is argued by fiscal hawks that an increase of expenditure without generating commensurate revenues will lead to a rise in fiscal deficit; and that large fiscal deficits will cause high interest rates, larger government debts, and inflation. Even if the deficit doesn't spark high interest rates and inflation, they erode business confidence.

There are also those who argue that deficit should be contained as it hurts the welfare of future generations through a rise in debt. A nation that is heavily indebted needs to implement more borrowings to pay back its lenders. But the problem is not a rising debt. Problem is that beneficiaries of debt-driven growth are not the masses but rich and corporate honchos. This needs to be reversed first.

In general, drastic cuts in government spending increase unemployment and may drag the economy down to a degree that the government's tax revenues fall. The GDP also declines and as a result fiscal deficit and borrowing as percentage of GDP also rise. This outcome defeats the intention of lowering government debt. It would be equally bad for the government, as a shrinking economy also means shrinking tax receipts.

If the government is reluctant to borrow from market beyond a certain limit, it should resort to monetization of spending through monetization of some parts its deficit or through resort to spread of helicopter money. Central government should provide adequate funds to state governments so that they need not have to cut any spending and schemes, and can sustain jobs and growth momentum.

Does austerity at this point make any sense? This may well be the issue of the moment, but right now a resort to austerity would be a huge mistake. There is need for developing a workable recovery programme. Otherwise, the "Great Shutdown" could take the nation, and the world, to another Great Depression, with enduring low growth and high rates of unemployment. A depressed economy would be a disastrous proposition.

The writer is an Odisha-based columnist and economist.

With shrinking revenue, the Union government has re-prioritized its spending and taken a slew of new austerity measures to contain the fiscal deficit and overcome the mounting debt burden. The current fiscal, the government banned new public-funded schemes and freed creation of new posts.

Various states including Odisha have also taken similar steps as the Centre had imposed limits on states' borrowing capacity in contravention of the principles of cooperative federalism. While the Centre has allowed states to increase fiscal deficit from 3 per cent to 5 per cent of the GSDP, fact is also that out of this 2 per cent, an additional borrowing space of 1.5 per cent is conditional.

In reality, austerity measures will effect a contraction of the economy, while the Covid-linked lockdown scenario would require perusal of an expansionary policy through higher spending. Since private spending got subdued due to supply disruptions, restriction of people's movement and business activities, an increase in government spending, more of job creation and new schemes are vital for a revival of the economy facing recessionary trends.

While the world has announced a $1100 billion package for revival, India has come up with around $226 billion, of which fiscal outgo is around $27 billion. Monetary measures like liquidity infusion and lower interest rates are aimed at addressing supply-side problems or supply disruption. But problems are from the demand side, especially a compression of demand. Supply disruption can be eased only when people move around freely.

The present situation is demanding more of expenditure, as opposed to austerity, and has linkages with the concept of the "paradox of thrift" popularised by John Maynard Keynes. The theory has it that if households decide to save more and consume less during a slowdown or recession, then the resulting reduction in aggregate demand will aggravate the economic decline.

In the present Covid-induced recession, people are forced to save more due to uncertainty about the future and the ban on free movement, economic activities and business transaction. As a result, aggregate demand has come down, leading to a further decline in growth. As such, the correct policy response is to increase government spending, and not resort to austerity measures.

No investment will come and no industry will function if there is no demand for products. Hence, spending is vital. Each spending, whether public or private, creates job opportunities. While public expenditure leads to equitable growth, private sector expenditure is inequitable in nature. The government must spend money or have it spent in large quantities to create the demand needed to fuel economic growth.

Hence, steps like a ban on recruitment as also stalling new schemes will have potentially catastrophic consequences. Any spending cut or job squeeze would hurt the economy, hinder recovery, undermine long-term growth, and increase inequality and discrimination.

A major question is whether the implementation of immediate fiscal austerity during a fragile economic recovery is justified and whether it will help in deficit reduction. According to Paul Krugman, Nobel Prize-winning economist and columnist, cutting spending in a depressed economy is a bad idea.

Past experience shows that austerity measures in times of demand compression or recession have backfired or boomeranged.

Amid the 2007-08 financial crisis in the US that later spread to Europe, the principle of austerity as a cure was adopted by central banks and encouraged by economists. They believed that a tough fiscal policy was the only treatment for excessive debt and any easing would spell disaster. As countries started to act this way, many realised that such policies were self-defeating and counterproductive. Economies already hurt by the crisis were condemned to perpetual stagnation and shoulder even larger debt burdens. The IMF report reveals that the belt-tightening by the European governments has had a negative effect on the economies of these countries and unemployment scenario became more acute.

An examination of how states fared during and after the economic downturn a decade ago hints that states which preserved or expanded their public sector workforce weathered the recession better and came out with fewer job losses, fewer private sector job cuts, and saw lesser growth in unemployment and faster job growth during the recovery.

It is argued that a country wading in a sea of debt needs to tighten its expenditures. Although the austerity strategy can lead to deficit reduction and prevent insolvency in the case of an indebted individual, this may not necessarily be the outcome in the case of national indebtedness. The

A mug's game

The state government last week announced a slew of austerity measures in view of the falling revenues and to pool resources for meeting contingency spending arising out of multiple anti-Covid-19 programmes launched by the government. Expenses of every department barring the Health and Family Welfare have been stopped. All air travel and first class train journey by officers have been disallowed. A complete ban has been put on purchase of new vehicles. Officers have been told to reduce travelling and monitor programme implementation through video-conferencing instead. All expenditures for renovating government buildings and guest houses and re-furnishing of offices have been stopped. Expenditures ₹5 lakh for repair and renovation of government office buildings and over ₹2 lakh for repair and renovation of government residential quarters would not happen without special approval. There has been a complete ban on meetings, seminars, workshops and holding of official lunch and dinner in hotels with government funds. Officers have been told to go for video-conferencing mode instead. A ban has been put on leave travel allowance of government employees. No new state scheme or projects to be taken up by the administrative department except for Health and Family Welfare department. A complete freeze has been put on fresh recruitment while permission has been given for hiring for existing posts.

The cost-cutting measures announced in the wake of the pandemic are only a repetition of an extant policy that the government had brought in to tamp down spending in 2001 - years after the Biju Janata Dal government came to power. In fact, checking the runaway expenses leading to a mounting debt burden was a priority area for the new government. Even though the memorandum was still in force, the government allowed every department to splurge money on luxuries. Scores of populist schemes were introduced without statutory monitoring for political considerations. Thousands of crores of rupees were spent on unplanned programmes. The government allowed itself to violate its own circular. The Finance department is responsible for such gross financial indiscipline. The department allowed wasteful expenditures by senior bureaucrats who spent big on their tours, foreign jaunts and remodeling of office chambers, among others. The Finance department approved proposals for purchase of costly vehicles when there were curbs on purchase of luxury cars. Bureaucrats were allowed to blow money on office decorations and fancy furniture as if these were their rights. All such wasteful expenditures would not have taken place without the consent of the Finance department. The result was the total debt burden of the state shot up from below ₹20,000 crore in 2001 to above ₹1 lakh crore now. The per capita debt load has gone up to ₹20,000.

India has been going through an unforeseen economic recession. Countries across the world are jacking up public spending to create opportunities and employment. The Centre on its part has earmarked ₹20 lakh crore to be spent under different welfare programmes and to help people overcome the crisis triggered by the pandemic. The coronavirus has exasperated the contemporary economic slump. Millions of people have lost jobs. The rate of unemployment is at a record high. The general despondency among public is not going to go in near future, at least until the discovery of a vaccine. In such times, a blanket ban on state spending on schemes and development programmes may not make much economic sense. A ban on wasteful government expenditure is welcome. But banning all expenditures regardless of their implications for the poor could have been avoided. A public announcement banning all government spending will exasperate the depression. Cutting down the flab is welcome, but extending the ban across all spending including welfare and development may be a mug's game.

Sudoku

Sudoku refers to a puzzle consisting of a 9-by-9 grid of squares, each divided into nine 3-by-3 squares. Some of the squares already contain a number. The aim is to fill in the remainder so that every horizontal and vertical line, and every 3-by-3 square, contains the numerals 1 to 9 with no repeats. The puzzle first appeared in the USA in the early 1980s under the name Number Place and was taken up by the Japanese publishing house Nikoli in 1984. Its current Japanese name is formed from the original title at that time, which may be translated as "only single numbers allowed". The short form is a compound of the Japanese words su and doku, which respectively mean "single" and "number". It has recently become a widespread and addictive craze here in the UK (the derived term sudokumania has been coined for it). It has now returned to the USA and has also become common in other countries. The first puzzles were featured in The Times back in November 2004 and soon after in the Daily Mail and several other newspapers, though the craze really took off around May 2005.

Suffonsified

The phrase seems to be a variation on a polite rejoinder that was once quite widely known and is still around. A host might ask if you have had enough to eat. Rather than just say that you had had enough, being fearful that so bald a statement might be taken as unrefined or ill-bred, you might instead say, "I've had an elegant sufficiency". This presumably has its origin in some catch phrase old enough that it has had time to disseminate widely, since I've seen examples from Scotland, Ireland, Wales, Australia, and the USA. A possible source is a poem called Spring by James Thomson, dating from the middle of the eighteenth century, very widely quoted during that century and the following one: "An elegant sufficiency, content, retirement, rural quiet, friendship, books, Ease and alternate labor, useful life, progressive virtue, and approving Heaven; These are the matchless joys of virtuous love."

Sugar and sure

The early history of sugar is obscure, especially the way it was said. But variations in the way it was spelled in old documents suggest strongly that the u was said as a diphthong. Help with IPA, very much the way we now say the word you, and that the initial s was said like that, not as sh. Sometime in the Middle English period the initial letters su shifted to the pronunciation they now have. If you relax the mouth and tongue somewhat when you are saying the older form, your pronunciation shifts to the modern one, as you'll realise if you try out the two sounds in turn; the modern version is actually rather easier for slack-jawed English speakers to say.

THE NATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION RECORDED 1,723 DEATHS IN JUDICIAL AND POLICE CUSTODY IN 2019. THOUGH THERE COULD BE MANY REASONS FOR DEATH, THE HIGH NUMBER IS A CAUSE FOR CONCERN AND REMEDIAL ACTION

UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres has stressed that every death in police custody with signs of torture should be investigated. The South Asia Director of Human Rights Watch has said that it is important for the authorities in India to embark upon robust efforts "to ensure police reform, accountability, and putting an end to the culture of immunity".

Two incidents - one in Tamil Nadu in a place notorious for custodial violence and the other in Uttar Pradesh - involving police handling of accused person(s) in their custody have rocked the entire nation in recent days. The first related to the death of a father and son in police custody for interrogation and the other to encounter killing of an arrested person. The TN case is entrusted to an eight-member CBI team for investigation.

The Tamil Nadu case apparently arising from a minor offence of violation of lockdown rule on closing time of shops led to arrest of a shop owner and his son and shutting them in police lock-up. The allegation is about merciless torture of the traders in police custody to the extent of causing their death. The irony is that the incident happened close to the International Day in Support of Victims of Torture observed on June 26. The offence in this case is not grave by any stretch of imagination to require excessive use of police force. The UP case is a clear case of police excess after murder of eight cops by the accused.

It is for the government and legal and judicial authorities to deal with the cases. They will do it with reference to existing laws and regulations and prescribed procedures. For the society, more important is the criminal law and procedure and the role, responsibility and authority of the police including methods of investigation and treatment of the accused and witnesses. Union Home Minister Amit Shah has categorically asserted a few days back that the age of third degree torture is over. He had been saying that the central government has "zero tolerance on custodial deaths, extra-judicial deaths, and police atrocities".

A Member of Parliament has pointed out to the Home Minister that during 2019, the National Human Rights Commission recorded 1,723 cases of death of persons in judicial and police custody across the country. Though there could be many reasons for death, the number, if accurate is a cause for concern and remedial action. NHRC has registered over 400 cases of alleged death in police custody and over 5,000 cases of death in judicial custody. The MP has also referred to an analysis by the National Convention Against Torture for the period 2005-2018 which revealed that of the 500 deaths in police custody, only 281 cases were registered and 54 policemen were charge-sheeted and no one has been convicted.

The UN Convention Against Torture was adopted by the UN General Assembly on 10 December 1984 and came into force in 1987. India became a signatory in 1997, but has not yet ratified the Convention by a comprehensive law. By June 2020, the Convention had 170 state parties. Prohibition of torture has long been established as a universal code or jus cogens that all countries have agreed to abide by. The Committee Against Torture (CAT) is a body of human rights experts that monitors implementation of the Convention by State parties.

To ratify the convention, the Prevention of Torture Bill was introduced in the Lok Sabha in May 2010, but it lapsed. Its main provision was to make torture a punishable offence. The bill was again brought in the Lok Sabha in 2017 and 2018 as a Private Member's Bill, but could not be passed. Some MPs are now demanding promulgation of an ordinance to curb custodial violence and police brutality.

Under NHRC Guidelines of 1993, every incidence of custodial death or rape must be reported to the Commission by the concerned State within 24 hours, and should be followed by post-mortem report, a video report, and a magisterial enquiry.

The writer is a former Director of ICSSR, New Delhi.

Oli's Ayodhya

Sir, Nepal Prime Minister Khadga Prasad Oli has claimed that the 'real Ayodhya' is in Nepal, not in India. He has been quoted as saying that Ayodhya of India is 'fake Ayodhya', and the real Ayodhya is in Thori near Kathmandu. The Ayodhya there is a village, West of Birgunj. Perhaps Oli's Ramayan replaces Valmiki's Ramayan in Nepal. The bizarre explanation given by him is, "Why would Lord Ram travel as far as Janakpur to marry Sita, had Ayodhya been in India". Of late, Oli has been in news more for the wrong reasons. He issued a new Nepal map claiming Kalapani, Lipulekh and Limpiyadhura as Nepal's territories. He has started playing into the hands of China. China is believed to have taken away 33 hectares of Nepal's land. Oli has also incurred the wrath of people from his own party for 'junking India' and 'joining China'. David Frawley has advocated re-merging of Nepal with India. A good suggestion.

Rhea requests Shah for CBI probe

ADDRESSING HERSELF AS RAJPUT'S "GIRLFRIEND" FOR THE FIRST TIME IN PUBLIC, CHAKRABORTY SAID "COMPLETE FAITH" IN THE GOVERNMENT, A CBI INQUIRY WOULD HELP BRING JUSTICE TO THE CASE

she has "complete faith" in the government, a CBI inquiry would help bring justice to the case.

"Respected @AmitShah sir, I'm Sushant Singh Rajput's girlfriend Rhea Chakraborty. It is now over a month since his sudden demise. I have complete faith in the government, however in the interest of justice, I request you with folded hands to initiate a CBI enquiry, part 1 -

"I only want to understand what pressures prompted Sushant to take this step. Yours sincerely, Rhea Chakraborty. #satyamevjayate," she added.

Earlier in the day, Chakraborty requested the cyber crime cell to look into rape and murder threats she was receiving ever since Rajput's death, with social media users blaming her for his suicide.

The actor, known for films such as "Mere Dad Ki Maruti" and "Jalebi", eventually disabled the comments section of her Instagram page. "I was called a gold digger. I kept quiet I was called a murderer. I kept quiet, I was slut shamed. I kept quiet. But how does my silence give you the right to tell me that you will get me raped and murdered if I don't commit suicide @mannu raaut?" she wrote tagging one of the accounts from which she received threat.

No one should be subjected to this kind of "toxicity and harassment", she urged. Shortly after Rajput's death, Maharashtra Home Minister Anil Deshmukh said the Mumbai Police would also probe the angle of "professional rivalry", which was alleged to be the cause of the suicide. On June 18, Chakraborty was called to Bandra police station to record her statement.

Bhopal, July 16: The case of police atrocity on members of a Dalit family in Guna district has heated up the politics of Madhya Pradesh.

The Congress has gone belligerent on the Shivraj Singh Chouhan government accusing it of persecuting Dalits and the poor, even as the administration in a strong move removed the IG of Gwalior division, the Guna Superintendent of Police and the District Magistrate.

The Dalit family was brutally beaten up by the police during an anti-encroachment drive. Videos on social media showed a man, his wife and two children at the receiving end of the police action. The man was seen being dragged by the police after being beaten up as the woman and the children begged and grovelled in the dust of the open field, where he was engaged.

The man faced the brunt of police action for occupying the piece of land meant for college building in Cantt area of Guna. This incident dates back a few days ago. The Dalit couple had then consumed insecticide. The video of the incident went viral on the social media and now, the matter has taken on political hue with the Congress targeting the state government for being anti-Dalit.

The government also swung into action and removed the administrative staff after ordering an inquiry.

Political analysts say that the incident happened in the area from where Jyotiraditya Scindia, who moved to the BJP in March after toppling the Congress government, has been MP and the assembly by-

It is for this, the Congress has started training guns at the Shivraj government show such courage to redeem thousands of acres of government land occupied by the so-called public servants and influencers in these areas? Such an incident cannot be tolerated. Immediate action should be taken against the culprits, otherwise the Congress will not remain silent."

Retweeting a tweet of the Congress party, the former chief minister said, the Congress has always supported the poor and farmers in their fight against injustice. "This inhuman act of the Shivraj government has exposed the dictatorship in him. This is the beginning of the end of the Shivraj government in Madhya Pradesh," he said.

Jyotiraditya Scindia, now Rajya Sabha MP from the BJP, quickly damage controlled with the statement that Guna SP and Collector have been removed, and the incident is being investigated. "I am confident that action will be taken against all those responsible for this heinous crime," he said.

Girl raped outside Covid ward

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Patna, July 16: A security guard of Patna Medical College and Hospital (PMCH), the largest hospital in Bihar, has been arrested for allegedly raping a minor girl outside a Covid ward in the hospital, police said.

A police official said Thursday, that July 8, the minor girl was seen wandering at Barh railway station. The child helpline rescued the 15-year-old girl and handed over to the PMCH for Covid test.

It has been alleged that on the night of July 8, the ward's security guard Mahesh Prasad (40) took the victim to the bathroom and raped her.

The victim did not reveal this to anyone out of fear. When the members of Child Helpline came to see her on Wednesday, she narrated the ordeal. Aarti Jaiswal, in-charge of Patna Mahila Police Station, said an FIR has been lodged in this connection on the basis of victim's statement and the accused has been arrested. She said that the victim has been medically examined, the report of which is yet to come. Police is investigating the entire case, she added.

The commission said in view of its restrictions on number of voters at a polling station, Bihar is creating approximately 34,000 additional polling stations (45 per cent more), which will increase the total number of polling stations to around 1,06,000.

"This would entail formidable logistical challenges of mobilising 1.8 lakh more polling personnel and other additional resources including requirement of much larger number of vehicles in the state of Bihar. Similar challenges would be there for the coming by-elections also," it said.

'REAL TOURISM' YET TO BEGIN

Fresh lockdown in Goa to affect tourist sentiment

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Panaji, July 16: The Goa government's sudden announcement of a lockdown may have affected the tourist sentiment and confidence building efforts made by the state's tourism industry to lure tourist footfalls to the coastal state, Travel and Tourism Association of Goa president Nilesh Shah said Thursday. Shah, who heads one of the oldest bodies of travel and tourism stakeholders in Goa, also said that despite the state government opening its doors to the tourists from July 1, trade had not picked up and that only "5 to 7 per cent" hotels were witnessing some bookings. "What is badly affected is the sentiment and the confidence that we were gradually building. The continuity has also been interrupted. The sentiment was already decreasing because of the rising number of cases and there is no clear way forward. Now it has gone down even more," Shah told reporters here. The comment from the president of the industry stakeholders' body comes a day after Chief Minister Pramod Sawant on Wednesday announced a two-tiered curfew in the state. While a complete lockdown (barring essential and medical services) has been ordered in Goa from Thursday night to Monday morning, a night curfew has been imposed until August 10, in view of the prolonged spike in the number of active Covid-19 cases in the state which have crossed 1,000, in India's smallest state with a population of just 1.5 million. Most of the cases have been reported over the last one month. Sawant had said the state could be heading towards peak numbers, especially in view of the monsoons, when he said there was a tendency for viral infections to increase. Shah said that despite the state government opening up the state for tourism on July 1, "real tourism" had not started. "Generally speaking, tourism hadn't really picked up in the state with only 5-7 per cent hotels having some occupancy and that too was only people of the younger, more care-free generation," Shah said.

Haryana gears up for intense locust attack

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Chandigarh, July 16: The Haryana government has stepped up efforts to control locust swarms and crop damages in view of warning about potential intense attacks in several districts after July 22.

Additional Chief Secretary Sanjeev Kaushal said, here Thursday, arrangements had been made to stock additional quantities of pesticides. The locust swarms in the region had become resistant to the commonly used pesticide Chorypripfos, he added. To prevent homogeneity in use of pesticides during repeated spraying, arrangements are being made to stock 20,000 litres of Lambda Cyhalothrin in addition to existing stocks of pesticide. Three drones were being purchased for aerial spray of pesticide, he said.

According to Kaushal, 66 fire-tenders are available along with 3,540 tractor-mounted spray pumps. The state would also acquire fogging machines being bought by the Centre from the UK for use on trees. The Locust Warning Organisation has warned of high intensity attacks in Nuh, Rewari, Mahendragarh, Bhiwani and Charkhi Dadri districts after July 22 as large-scale locust breeding was observed in the Jhunjhunu district in Rajasthan.

These attacks are likely to be far more severe than the previous ones over 13,038 acres in Hajaraj, Charkhi Dadri, Palwal, Sirsa, Nuh, Rewari, Bhiwani and Narnaul districts between June 26 and July 16. Kaushal said farmers in Hajaraj, Palwal and Nuh didn't report any losses due to locust swarms.

KULBHUSHAN JADHAV CASE

India gets second 'consular access'

AGENCIES

Islamabad, July 16: Pakistan Thursday provided consular access to Indian prisoner on death row Kulbhushan Jadhav, days ahead of a deadline to file a review petition in a court here against his conviction by a military court. This was the second consular access to Jadhav. The first consular access was provided by Pakistan on September 2, 2019, the Foreign Office said in a statement.

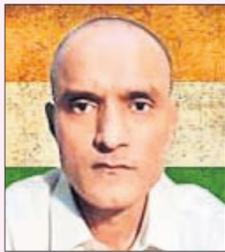

Jadhav, the 50-year-old retired Indian Navy officer, was sentenced to death by a Pakistani military court on charges of "espionage and terrorism" in April 2017. Weeks later, India approached the ICJ against Pakistan for denial of consular access to Jadhav and challenging the death sentence. The Hague-based ICJ ruled in July last year that Pakistan must undertake an "effective review and reconsideration" of the conviction and sentence of Jadhav and also to grant consular access to India without further delay.

"Two consular officers of the Indian High Commission in Islamabad were provided unimpeded and uninterrupted consular access to Commander Jadhav at 1500 hours," the FO said in the statement on Thursday.

It also recalled that the mother and wife of Jadhav were allowed to meet him on December 25, 2017.

"Pakistan remains committed to fully implementing the International Court of Justice (ICJ)'s judgment of 17 July 2019. It is hoped that India will cooperate with the Pakistan court in giving full effect to the said judgement," the statement said.

Pakistan enacted an ordinance called the "International Court of Justice Review and Reconsideration Ordinance 2020" on May 20 under

India said Pakistan did not give "unimpeded, unhindered and unconditional" consular access to Indian death row convict Kulbhushan Jadhav

India had earlier sought unrestricted consular access to Kulbhushan Jadhav

This request was made ahead of the July 20 deadline to file a review petition which a petition for the review of a military court's decision can be made to Islamabad High Court through an application within 60 days of its promulgation.

The ordinance would expire on July 19.

Last week, Pakistan's Additional Attorney General Ahmed Irfan said that on June 17, 2020, Jadhav was offered to file an appeal in the Islamabad High Court for review and reconsideration of his sentence and conviction.

Meanwhile, External Affairs Ministry Spokesperson Anurag Srivastava said Jadhav was "visibly under stress" and indicated that clearly to the Indian consular officers, adding the arrangements did not permit a free conversation between them.

Oxford University Covid-19 vaccine raises hopes

AGENCIES

London, July 16: Researchers at the University of Oxford believe they may have a breakthrough in their search for a Covid-19 vaccine after the team discovered that the jab could provide "double protection" against the deadly coronavirus following early stage human trials, according to media reports in the UK.

Blood samples taken from a group of UK volunteers given a dose of the vaccine showed that it stimulated the body to produce both antibodies and killer T-cells, a senior source from the trial was quoted by The Daily Telegraph as saying. The discovery is promising because separate studies have suggested that antibodies may fade away within months while T-cells can stay in circulation for years. However, the source cautioned that the results, while extremely promising, did not yet prove that the Oxford vaccine provides long-lasting immunity against the deadly virus.

The vaccine development, by the university's Jenner Institute, is being supported by the UK government and AstraZeneca, which will support the production phase.

Chinese executives get 'pre-test' injections in nCoV vaccine race

AGENCIES

Beijing, Jul 16: In the global race to make a coronavirus vaccine, a state-owned Chinese company is boasting that its employees, including top executives, received experimental shots even before the government approved testing in people. "Giving a helping hand in forging the sword of victory," reads an online post from SinoPharm with pictures of company leaders it says helped "pre-test" its vaccine. Whether it's viewed as heroic sacrifice or a violation of international ethical norms, the claim underscores the enormous stakes as China competes with US and British companies to be the first with a vaccine to help end the pandemic — a feat that would be both a scientific and political triumph.

"Getting a COVID-19 vaccine is the new Holy Grail," said Lawrence Gostin, a global public health law expert at Georgetown University. "The political competition to be the first is no less consequential than the race for the moon between the United States and Russia." China has positioned itself to be a strong contender: Eight of the nearly two dozen potential vaccines in various stages of human testing worldwide are from China, the most of any country. And SinoPharm and another Chinese company already have announced they're entering final testing.

Both China and SinoPharm have invested heavily in a tried-and-true technology — an "inactivated" vaccine made by growing the whole virus in a lab and then killing it, which is how polio shots are made. Leading Western competitors use newer, less proven technology to target the "spike" protein that coats the virus.

That protein is "a good place to make our bet," Dr Gary Nabel, chief scientific officer of the French pharmaceutical company Sanofi, said at a US biotechnology industry meeting. But "it's good to have some diversity. I like the fact that there is an inactivated, whole vaccine. That provides an alternative in case one of these should fail." SinoPharm's claim that 30 "special volunteers" rolled up their sleeves even before the company got permission for its initial human study raises ethical concerns among Western observers. The company's post cites a "spirit of sacrifice" and shows seven men in suits and ties — a mix of scientists, businessmen and one Communist Party official with a background in military propaganda.

Oli-Prachanda meeting ends without progress

AGENCIES

Kathmandu, July 16: With embattled Prime Minister KP Sharma Oli refusing to resign or give up his position as chairman of the ruling Nepal Communist Party talks aimed to strike a new power-sharing deal between him and former premier Pushpa Kamal Dahal 'Prachanda' failed to make any headway Thursday on the eve of a crucial meeting of the party.

Prime Minister and party chairman Oli, executive chairman 'Prachanda' and former premier Madhav Kumar Nepal held an informal meeting at the PM's official residence at Baluwatar on Thursday, ahead of the meeting of the party's 45-member powerful Standing Committee. However, the three leaders failed to reach a deal after Oli and Prachanda, who is leading the dissident group, stuck to their demands, said Standing Committee member Ganesh Shah.

The trio tried to sort out differences between Oli and the dissident group. But, as the Prime Minister didn't accept their condition of a one-man-one-post, the talks failed, he said. Oli and Prachanda have failed to reach a power-sharing deal even after at least eight rounds of talks in recent weeks. Thursday's talks took place just ahead of the Standing Committee meeting on Friday which is expected to determine the political future of the 68-year-old prime minister who has previously alleged that his detractors were trying to remove him with India's help. Top party leaders, including 'Prachanda', have been demanding Prime Minister Oli's resignation, saying his recent anti-India remarks were "neither politically correct nor diplomatically appropriate." They are also against Oli's autocratic style of functioning.

There could be a middle point for compromise even if the Prime Minister agreed to quit either of the two key positions, which he did not accept, resulting in a deadlock in the talk, Shah said.

UK IS bride can return to fight citizenship

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

London, July 16: Shamima Begum, a British resident who ran away in 2015 to become an Islamic State (IS) jihadi bride, has won a legal battle to be allowed to return home to fight the government's decision to remove her UK citizenship, a media report said Thursday.

In its ruling, the Court of Appeal said she had been denied a fair hearing because she could not make her case from the camp, the BBC reported.

The judgement means the government must now find a way to allow the 20-year-old to appear in court in London despite repeatedly saying it would not assist removing her from Syria.

Responding to the development, Daniel Furner, Begum's solicitor, said: "She has never had a fair opportunity to give her side of the story. She is not afraid of facing British justice, she welcomes it."

"But the stripping of her citizenship without a chance to clear her name is not justice, it is the opposite." Begum had argued that the government's decision to revoke her citizenship was unlawful because it left her stateless. In 2015, Begum, then aged 15, was one of three schoolgirls from Bethnal Green Academy who left their homes and families to join the IS.

Kadiza Sultana, then 16, and Amira Abase, then 15, and Begum boarded a flight from Gatwick Airport to Istanbul, Turkey, on February 17, 2015, before making their way to Raqqa in Syria.

Russia trying to steal vaccine data, say UK, US and Canada

REUTERS

London/Ottawa, July 16: Hackers backed by the Russian state are trying to steal COVID-19 vaccine and treatment research from academic and pharmaceutical institutions around the world, Britain's National Cyber Security Centre (NCSC) said Thursday.

A co-ordinated statement from Britain, the United States and Canada attributed the attacks to group APT29, also known as 'Cozy Bear', which they said was almost certainly operating as part of Russian intelligence services.

"We condemn these despicable attacks against those doing vital work to combat the coronavirus pandemic," said NCSC Director of Operations, Paul Chichester.

What's behind rising tensions in the SCS?

REUTERS

Hanoi, July 16: The United States this week hardened its position on the South China Sea, where it has accused China of attempting to build a "maritime empire" in the potentially energy-rich waters, despite regional concerns.

The rivals have accused each other of stoking tension in the strategic waterway at a time of strained relations over everything from the new coronavirus to trade to Hong Kong.

A statement from U.S. Secretary of State Mike Pompeo on July 13 was the first time the United States had called China's claims in the sea unlawful and accused Beijing of a "campaign of bullying".

But heated rhetoric has also been on the rise in the region, where Brunei, Malaysia, the Philippines, Taiwan and Vietnam challenge China's claim to about 90% of the sea.

REGIONAL TENSIONS

Vietnam, frequently at loggerheads with China over the issue, is this year chairing the 10-member Association of South East Asian Nations (ASEAN).

At a June 26 summit in Hanoi, Vietnam and the Philippines - China's most vocal challengers over the sea - warned of growing regional insecurity amid concern that Beijing was advancing territorial claims under the cover of the COVID-19 pandemic. As China held military drills in the South China Sea this month, Vietnam said Beijing's actions were "detrimental" to its relationship with the Southeast Asian bloc. The United States simultaneously deployed two aircraft carriers to the area for what it said were pre-planned exercises.

In a blustery response to the Chinese drills, Philippine Foreign Minister Teodoro Locsin said China "will be met with the severest response, diplomatic and whatever else is appropriate", if the exercises encroached on Philippine territory. That followed a surprise move by President Rodrigo Duterte - who had courted Beijing since taking office in 2016 - to suspend his decision to scrap a two-decade-old troop deployment agreement with the United States.

TROUBLED WATERS

China illustrates its claims with a vague, U-shaped "nine-dash line" that includes swathes of Vietnam's exclusive economic zone, or EEZ, as well as the Paracel Islands and Spratly Islands. It also overlaps the EEZs of Brunei, Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Taiwan and Vietnam.

A tribunal at The Hague, based on a suit brought by the Philippines, ruled in 2016 that China has no "historic title" over the waters, and that its line was superseded by the 1982 UN Convention on the Law of the Sea.

Last year, Chinese and Vietnamese vessels became embroiled in a months-long standoff in Vietnam's EEZ where a Chinese research vessel conducted a sweeping seismic survey of waters overlapping Vietnamese oil blocks.

Russian news agency RIA cited spokesman Dmitry Peskov as saying the Kremlin rejected London's allegations, which he said were not backed by proper evidence.

In a separate announcement Britain also accused "Russian actors" of trying to interfere in its 2019 election by trying to spread leaked documents online. Russia's foreign ministry said those accusations were "foggy and contradictory". Britain is expected to publish a long-delayed report into Russian influence in British politics next week.

"SELFISH INTERESTS" British foreign minister Dominic Raab said it was "completely unacceptable" for Russian intelligence services to target work on the pandemic.

Of the total exports, groundnut oil shipments more than doubled to 38,225 tonnes in 2019-20, from 15,532 tonnes last year. It was mainly exported to China.

Cap on airfares to be extended beyond Aug 24

AGENCIES

New Delhi, July 16: The cap on airfares will be extended after August 24, the civil aviation minister Hardeep Singh Puri said Thursday. Expect a short extension of airfare cap beyond August 24 as demand still muted, the civil aviation minister said in a press conference.

In the wake of coronavirus outbreak, the aviation ministry implemented a cap on domestic airfare in May. India started operating domestic flights after a gap of two months in the last week of May. The domestic flights in India have a cap on fares with both an upper and lower limit.

While the upper price limit is aimed at preventing any sharp rise in fares due to pent-up demand, the lower limit will help ensure that financial viability of airlines does not suffer amid high costs, Puri said.

Flights between cities that are under 40 minutes have been classified under section one, while those under 40-60 minutes are under section two.

Section three consists of destinations 60-90 minutes apart by flight, section four comprises cities 90-120 minutes apart, section five consists of cities 120-150 minutes apart. Destinations between 150-180 minutes and 180-210 minutes have been classified under sections 6 and 7, respectively.

The base minimum airfare of domestic flights ranges from ₹2,000 to ₹6,500 and the maximum range from ₹6,000 to ₹18,600. Airlines have to make available 40% of total seats in an aircraft at less than the mid-point price between the highest and lowest fares, aviation secretary Pradeep Singh Kharola earlier said.

Explaining the mechanism, Puri earlier said the move will mean that the lowest fare between Delhi and Mumbai, the busiest route in the country, will be capped at ₹3,500 and ₹10,000 at the higher end.

On the resumption of international flights, he said, "We are at a very advanced stage between negotiation with at least three countries for bilateral air bubble."

"Till international civil aviation can reclaim its pre-COVID numbers, I think answer will lie through bilateral bubbles, which will carry a possible number of people but under defined conditions as countries are still imposing entry restrictions," Puri said.

SBI's one-year term deposit rate is at 5.10%. "Savers will now start asking how much to save and also where to put their money. # Reliance emerges as bigger threat for Amazon, Walmart

REUTERS

New Delhi, July 16: A $20 billion fund raising spree may take India's Reliance closer to its dream of becoming a digital giant, further threatening the ambitious plans U.S. companies like Amazon, Walmart and Zoom have for India.

Stake sales in Reliance's digital unit Jio Platforms attracted not just private equity and sovereign wealth funds but also Google and Facebook, a strong endorsement for an enterprise that until a few years ago focussed largely on oil refining.

Some industry watchers equate Reliance's digital plans - which extend from online shopping and cloud computing to telecom and digital payments - to China's Alibaba and Tencent, companies Reliance it-

Reliance-Aramco partnership stalls

Reliance Industries' planned sale of a fifth of its oil-to-chemical business to Aramco has stalled after the Saudi company sought at least 20 per cent cut in $75 billion valuation billionaire Mukesh Ambani's firm was seeking. Sources privy to negotiations said Saudi Aramco had right from the beginning resisted the $15 billion price tag Reliance had put for the 20 per cent stake in O2C business, which comprises of the company's twin refineries at Jamnagar in Gujarat, petrochemical plants and 51 per cent in fuel retailing venture.

based financial advisory firm Resfeber International.

"The addition of new digital products targeting various sectors will pose threats to many large dominant players. Having strategic partners like Facebook and Google validates that Reliance gameplan is real."

The recent stake sales gave Reliance a foreign partner for JioMart, which was launched this year. Facebook's WhatsApp, which counts India as its top market with 400 million plus users, will work closely in connecting small retailers to JioMart.

"We will cover many more cities, serve many more customers across India, and expand to many more categories," said Ambani.

Asked about the potential impact on foreign businesses eyeing India, one local industry executive who advises U.S. multinationals said: "Amazon and Walmart should be scared."

GUNNERS CRUSH LIVERPOOL HOPES

Arsenal break Reds' hearts ending newly-crowned champions' bid for 100 points in Premier League

London, July 16: Liverpool will have to settle for just lifting the Premier League trophy next week. It won't be accompanied by a record-breaking points total after losing 2-1 at Arsenal.

Having ended the club's 30-year title drought, Liverpool has eased up and the bid to match or overhaul Manchester City's 100-point record is over.

Arsenal scored from their first two shots on target — to cancel out Sadio Mane's opener — and Liverpool provided the assists through carelessness Wednesday.

"We are all human," Liverpool manager Jurgen Klopp said. "I cannot make a negative out of something so positive — becoming champions so early in the season. These boys have played an exceptional season and no one can take that away from them."

Under pressure from Arsenal forward Reiss Nelson on the edge of the penalty area, Virgil van Dijk opted for an ill-judged back-pass. Alexandre Lacazette intercepted the ball and rounded goalkeeper Alisson before tapping in Arsenal's equaliser in the 32nd minute.

Alisson was at fault for Arsenal's winner by clearing the ball straight to Lacazette, and Nelson applied the finish in the 44th.

"The goals we gave them were a present," Van Dijk said. "Until the first goal it was totally us and we were dominant. But if you give goals like that away, including myself, you get what you deserve."

"Goals like that shouldn't happen and it happened twice tonight. Until I make the mistake, we did nothing wrong. I take the blame for it, of course, I take it as a man and we move on."

It had initially been Arsenal's defending that was providing gifts. Mane was left unmarked to meet Andrew Robertson's cross and put Liverpool in front in the 20th minute.

But Liverpool now has just one point from its last two games after being held 1-1 by Burnley at Anfield, ending a bid to become the first team to finish a Premier League season with a perfect record at home. This was only Liverpool's third loss of the season but it means it can only finish with 99 points by winning its remaining two matches.

KLOPP'S MEN TO GET TROPHY ON THE KOP

LONDON: Liverpool's players will be presented with the Premier League trophy on a special podium built on the iconic Kop stand at Anfield after the team's match against Chelsea next week. The league is describing it as a 'unique' ceremony that has been designed because fans won't be able to celebrate the moment with the team, as matches are being held in empty stadiums during the pandemic. Jordan Henderson will be the first Liverpool player to lift a league championship trophy in 30 years, and for the first time since the Premier League era began in 1992. The specially erected podium will be surrounded by fan banners in the Kop at the July 22 match. Players have been involved in the planning of the ceremony, with club great Kenny Dalglish — the last manager to lead Liverpool to a league title — among the trophy presentation party. The match against Chelsea will be shown on free-to-air TV in Britain, and Liverpool and the Premier League are urging fans to stay at home to watch it rather than congregate at Anfield.

The title was sealed in record time three weeks ago, with seven games to spare after a three-month pandemic-enforced break in the season.

The trophy will be presented to Liverpool players after final home match of the season next Wednesday against Chelsea.

With no fans allowed into Anfield due to the coronavirus, a podium will be built in the iconic Kop stand for Jordan Henderson to become the first Liverpool player since 1990 to lift a league championship trophy.

Arsenal has won the Premier League four times since then, but not since 2004. The north London club is way off the pace this season, 40 points adrift. This win only lifted Mikel Arteta's side to ninth place, but it remains in the hunt for Europa League qualification.

A route into Europe also remains through the FA Cup with Arsenal playing defending champion Manchester City in the semifinals Saturday.

"We've been working hard and getting the win here against the leaders is good for us," Nelson said, "and we will take it into the next game."

Silva brilliance lifts Man City

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manchester, July 16: The highlight reel of David Silva's decade at Manchester City is getting some top-quality bonus material from his last games with the club.

Silva scored from a direct free-kick for the second straight home match to lead City to a 2-1 win over relegation-threatened Bournemouth in the Premier League on Wednesday.

The former Spain playmaker also set up Gabriel Jesus for the second goal in City's first match since winning its appeal against a two-year ban from European competition.

Silva will leave City at the end of the season after a 10-year spell that will see him go down as one of the club's greatest players, if not the best.

His display against Bournemouth had other Premier League players taking to social media to praise Silva, whose curling free-kick from the right edge of the penalty area in the sixth minute touched the crossbar as it went in.

"Sorry," Leicester midfielder James Maddison wrote on Twitter after Silva scored his free-kick, "but David Silva is a true Premier League great. Have so much respect for him. Admire his character and ability. Genius at work and will miss watching him, won't miss playing against him whatsoever."

City fielded a heavily rotated side in view of the FA Cup semifinal match against Arsenal on Saturday but still just about had too much for Bournemouth, which grabbed its goal through David Brooks in the 88th minute and more than matched City in spells.

In fact, the visitors had two great chances to equalize in stoppage time through Callum Wilson and Sam Surridge. Bournemouth stayed in third-to-last place and three points adrift of safety with two matches remaining. West Ham and Watford, the teams directly above Bournemouth, have a game in hand.

Bournemouth had a second-half goal by Josh King ruled out for a narrow offside — a VAR review backed up the on-field decision — while City goalkeeper Ederson Moraes tipped a free-kick from Junior Stanislas onto the post in the first half.

Jesus has now scored in three straight games for City and is thriving as the replacement for injured first-choice striker Sergio Aguero.

His improved confidence was highlighted in the way he took his goal, receiving a short pass from Silva just inside the area before cutting inside past Jack Stacey and Steve Cook and driving a low shot into the corner in the 39th minute.

It was Silva's 10th assist of the Premier League season, the fourth time he has reached double figures for assists in a single campaign.

Hurri-Kane blows Newcastle away

REUTERS

Newcastle, July 16: Harry Kane went past 200 club career goals with a second-half double as Tottenham Hotspur won 3-1 at Newcastle United in the Premier League Wednesday to boost their European qualification hopes.

Minutes after Matt Ritchie's piledriver had drawn the hosts level, Kane's clinical header on the hour put the visitors back in front, taking him to another landmark. Kane sealed the points in the last minute with another header to take his career tally to 201.

Son Heung-min had given Tottenham the lead in the 27th minute with his 11th league goal of the campaign. Tottenham rose to seventh on 55 points with two games remaining, one point behind sixth-placed Wolverhampton Wanderers in the race for a Europa League spot.

Kane's 201 club goals have come in 350 appearances in all competitions with 185 of them for Tottenham. It was also a milestone of sorts for Spurs manager Jose Mourinho who claimed a first league win at Newcastle.

Newcastle were unfortunate to be down at halftime, although they were culpable for Son's strike. The hosts lost the ball trying to play out from the back and Spurs pounced with Giovanni Lo Celso moving the ball across to Son whose shot beat Martin Dubravka at his near post.

Newcastle had the better chances, though, with Miguel Almiron's effort cleared off the line by Davinson Sanchez, captain Jonjo Shelvey heading over and Dwight Gayle heading against the post.

Ritchie scored a deserved equaliser in the 56th minute when he gathered a poor clearance from Serge Aurier before lashing a fizzing shot past Hugo Lloris. Aurier was playing despite his brother being murdered in France this week.

Newcastle were only level for three minutes, however, with Spurs substitute Steven Bergwijn's first contribution being a superb cross that was met by Kane with an angled header. Kane dived in to head his second after substitute Erik Lamela's shot was parried.

Juventus held 3-3 at Sassuolo Sibley props England to 112/3 at tea

SAVING THE VISITORS' DAY: Alex Sandro heads in the equaliser against Sassuolo, Wednesday

Milan, July 16: Juventus were held to a 3-3 draw at Sassuolo in Serie A, although that will do little to slow its seemingly unstoppable march to a record-extending ninth straight league title.

Juventus are seven points ahead of Atalanta, which beat Brescia 6-2 Tuesday, and eight points ahead of Lazio five games remaining after the capital side also drew — 0-0 at relegation-threatened Udinese. Fourth-place Inter is nine points behind Juventus and visits Spal Thursday.

It was Juve's third straight match without a win after a 2-4 loss against AC Milan — after going 2-0 up — and a 2-2 draw against Atalanta. Juve seemed to be cruising early as it went 2-0 up within 12 minutes following goals from Danilo and Gonzalo Higuain. However, Filip Duric pulled one back in the 29th minute and Sassuolo had the better of the chances at the end of the first half.

Sassuolo turned things around shortly after the break as Domenico Berardi equalised with a free-kick and set up Francesco Caputo three minutes later.

Alex Sandro headed in a corner for Juventus to level in the 64th and Bianconeri goalkeeper Wojciech Szczesny pulled off a number of important saves throughout the match to leave the Bianconeri ultimately grateful for a point.

Lazio has struggled since the restart and was somewhat fortunate not to lose against Udinese. Rodrigo De Paul hit the post in stoppage time for Udinese, which inched seven points clear of the relegation zone.

Lazio came into the match on the back of three successive defeats and had only won two of its previous six matches since Serie A resumed following the break because of the coronavirus pandemic.

AC Milan boosted their chances of qualifying for Europe as it came from behind to beat Parma 3-1. Milan moved level on points with sixth-place Napoli, which drew 1-1 at Bologna. Roma is four points ahead after beating Hellas Verona 2-1.

Elsewhere, Sampdoria beat Cagliari 3-0 to move eight points above the drop zone and 18th-place Lecce, which lost 3-1 at home to Fiorentina.

Dom Sibley looks on after defending one into the leg side during the opening day's play in Manchester, Thursday

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Manchester, July 16: Dominic Sibley (46 batting) dug deep to hold one end up but Alzarri Joseph (0) built on from Roston Chase's (2/24) early inroads by sending skipper Joe Root (23) back in the hut as England were 112/3 at tea on the opening day of the second Test at Old Trafford here, Thursday.

After off-spinner Chase reduced the hosts to 29/2 either side of the lunch break, opener Sibley and Root — back leading the side after missing the first Test — shared a 53-run stand for the third wicket.

But fast bowler Joseph ended Root's vigil with a classic outswinger that grazed the right-hander's bat and flew to his counterpart Jason Holder at slip. At the break, talismanic all-rounder Ben Stokes (18 batting) and Sibley were at the crease.

Shortly after the second session began, Zak Crawley (0) was sent back for a golden duck by Chase who had the young No.3 batsman caught at leg slip by Holder. Having removed Burns in the last ball before lunch, Chase was on a hat-trick but missed the landmark.

Root and Sibley then steadied the ship before the former departed with Stokes joining Sibley and both trying to negotiate Joseph and Holder's fiery little spell where the ball moved sideways under overcast conditions.

Earlier, England openers Burns and Sibley got off to a cautious start but Chase provided West Indies with the crucial breakthrough at the

Archer misses Test for protocol breach

Manchester: England dropped pacer Jofra Archer from the second Test against West Indies following a breach of the team's bio-secure protocols, announcing the decision hours before the start of the match at Old Trafford Thursday. "Archer will now commence five days of isolation and will undergo two COVID-19 tests in this period, which have to test negative before his self-isolation period is lifted," the England and Wales Cricket Board (ECB) said in a statement. The ECB did not specify the nature of the breach in the statement but media reports said Archer exited the bio-secure bubble to visit his flat in Brighton between the series opener in Southampton and the second match here. The ECB said the West Indies team were satisfied with the measures taken. "I have put, not only myself, but the whole team and management in danger. I fully accept the consequences of my actions, and I want to sincerely apologise to everyone in the bio-secure bubble," said Archer.

With rain playing spoilsport, the first session saw only one hour of play on the opening day of the Test of #raisehebat series. England, who are gunning to level the series, were put to bat by Holder after he won the toss, which was delayed by more than an hour because of rain.

BRIEF SCORES: England 112/3 (Dom Sibley 46 batting, Joe Root 23; Roston Chase 2/24, Alzarri Joseph 1/19). Match to continue.
