Those who protect us are doing so sans protective kits

Slew of stories has flooded the internet on the hardships and danger that the doctors or healthcare workers are going under or are exposed to, but what about the Khaki-wearing frontline workers—the cops!

GYAN RANJAN MOHAPATRA, OP

Bhubaneswar, July 18: They are ensuring that the citizens adhere to the Covid guidelines; they are making sure that the hoodlums cannot bank on this occasion and our streets remain safe, but are they safe?

According to the Indian Police Foundation (IPF), an independent think tank, "So far, 22,925 personnel of state police and Central police forces in the country have tested positive and 149 lost their lives in the pandemic so far."

Around 30 policemen have died while 2,200 others have tested positive for the novel coronavirus infection in Maharashtra alone, the worst-hit state.

Meanwhile, several officials of the Odisha Police were also tested positive for the virus and many more have been sent for quarantine. Around 40 policemen have been found infected with the coronavirus in Odisha, till date and five have succumbed.

With the re-imposition of lockdown in four districts including the Commissionerate Police, the police force has also been burdened with two tasks: ensure the citizens adhere to the guidelines and keep themselves safe while maintaining law and order even though it is impossible for them to follow social distancing norms while dealing with knuckleheads.

Many policemen were found not following safety measures while checking commuters at the important junctions in the city. The cops, who have been accompanying the accused persons to the hospital for medical examination or to the courts for deposition before magistrates, were seen holding the accused persons' hand without wearing gloves; forget social distancing.

HAVE PPE BUT UNFEASIBLE
Additionally, checkpoints in the capital city do not have adequate sanitisers for the police personnel there. A sub-inspector on the condition of anonymity told Orissa POST, "The personnel have been supplied with PPE kits to wear during duty but it is quite difficult to stand under the scorching sun covered with the PPE kits. Similarly, many personnel approaching retirement have been deployed on law and order duty endangering their lives."

Some personnel also expressed their fear of getting infected while on-duty. One Havildar, Shrichandan Das, stationed at Acharya Vihar square here, said, "We aren't feeling comfortable while checking the commuters but it is our duty. People should help us by staying indoors and not roam in the streets."

Meanwhile, many home guards and constables in the Commissionerate Police are residing in slums where new Covid cases have sprung up.

ECI move to seek views on polls hailed

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, July 18: Most of the political parties in the state, Saturday, welcomed the move of the Election Commission of India (ECI) seeking of the parties on the issue of conducting elections amid the pandemic.

The BJP, BJD and the Congress Saturday appreciated the move of the election watchdog seeking views from the political parties irrespective of the status of the parties. BJD leader Shashi Bushan Behera said, "In a democratic country, we follow a Parliament and federal structure. The ECI under a special condition has now sought views from the national as well as regional parties. This is a welcome step."

BJP leader and Leader of Opposition in the Assembly, Pradipta Kumar Naik, said, "The ECI could have declared the election dates even without consultation with the regional parties. The ECI, however, has sought views from all parties keeping in mind the current situation. The election watchdog thus needs applause from our side for this action. This will ensure that there will be less issues relating to conduct of elections at this juncture."

The Congress party also welcomed the move but asked the Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik to convene an all-party meeting and build a consensus. "Let the Chief Minister convene an all-party meeting and later the ECI should call a similar meeting. The decision by the parties with consensus should be welcomed by all," Congress leader Tara Prasad Bahinipati said.

5 medicine shops sealed in City

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, July 18: At least five medicine shops in the City were sealed by Bhubaneswar Municipal Corporation (BMC) which were found violating social distancing and other Covid-19 guidelines.

"The shops have been closed for violation of lockdown norms and directives issued for Covid-19 management as per the provisions of Section 51 to 60 of the Disaster Management Act 2005, the Epidemic Diseases Act, 1897, Section 188 of IPC and other legal provisions," said a BMC official.

It is pertinent to mention here that local administrations across Odisha are stressing on strict adherence to Covid-19 guidelines including wearing of masks and maintaining social distance to stay protected from coronavirus infection.

However, such guidelines are being flouted by people as well as several business establishments in Bhubaneswar and other parts of the state. This has resulted in sharp rise in virus cases with certain patients emerging as local cases.

Gradually, this has led to closure and sealing of large market places in the city. BMC had temporarily closed Unit-2 market in a major crackdown against COVID-19 norm violation June 12 while it had sealed Unit IV market area Friday after a few of vendors were tested positive for the virus. Moreover, the enforcement squad of BMC-BDA, health officials and Commissionerate Police continues to conduct surprise checks at hospitals/clinics and other places to ensure strict compliance of the norms.

Green fodder sprouts hope for Covid-hit Sambalpur farmers

Under MGNREGS, the admin has decided to massively promote dairy farming by providing them with financial assistance for green fodder cultivation

POST NEWS NETWORK

Sambalpur, July 18: Even as the district has seen a huge influx of migrants and there is loss of livelihood for a large number of people, the district administration is looking at various options to provide them with livelihood.

The administration has realized that the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme (MGNREGS) will be the fulcrum of providing jobs to them at a time when revenues are drying up due to a halt in economic activities. Providing livelihood to migrants and the poor will not be economically sustainable for long.

In view of this, the forest department and other departments have already been making use of many projects under MGNREGS, creating work for daily wagers, labourers and the poor class.

Now, the administration wants to make use of the rural job scheme for dairy farmers, who have been severely affected by a series of lockdowns and shutdowns.

Under the MGNREGS, the administration has decided to massively promote dairy farming by providing them with financial assistance for green fodder cultivation/grass cultivation.

This was stated here by the office of the PD, DRDA. The animal husbandry department conducted a survey in 9 blocks and identified 690 dairy farmers.

BOOST TO DAIRY FARMING
According to the DRDA office, the animal husbandry department had conducted a survey in 9 blocks in the district and identified 690 dairy farmers. Farmers are to earmark an acre or more land for green fodder cultivation. The work will be included in the MGNREGS and seeds will be provided them free of cost. Due to lockdown, cattle feed supply was badly disrupted while the price of the feed in the market has spiraled. They can't afford the high price of fodder cultivation. The work will be included in the MGNREGS while seeds for grass will be provided them free of cost.

As per decision, each beneficiary farmer will be provided Rs 25,000.

Farmers can start cutting grass with 70/80 days from the day of sowing seeds. The administration has set a target to harvest grass five to six times a year. The farmers will have plenty of grass for their bovines. According to farmers, due to lockdown, cattle feed supply has been badly disrupted while the price of the feed in the market has spiraled. The price of the cattle feed is not affordable on part of the farmers.

At this crisis, daily farmers will not have to depend on the market while green fodder production will make them self-dependent and ensure more milk production. An official said this scheme will immensely benefit the dairy farmers and provide them with a stable income option at this crisis time.

Souvid Bisi, the district coordinator for MGNREGS, said, "This scheme will be beneficial for dairy farmers. On a half acre of land, a farmer can produce 600 to 900 quintals of grass. Grass will reduce their dependency on market cattle feeds. If a farmer doesn't have cattle, he can sell grass to other dairy farmers."

charged when they tested negative for the infection, he said. Thereafter, the couple was housed in a COVID-19 care centre in Bagada gram panchayat area in Kendrapara block as a precautionary measure, Beig said, adding they were discharged from the facility on Friday.

"The couple, particularly Surendra Pati, fought the battle against coronavirus with grit and determination despite his advancing age. Cancer patients have low immunity levels," he said. The couple has sent a message loud and clear that COVID-19 can be vanquished, the ADMO added.

Outside traders cash in on Kalahandi pineapple

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhawanipatna, July 18: In absence of adequate marketing facilities, pineapple farmers from Kalahandi district are being compelled to sell their produce under distress to traders outside the district and state.

Pineapple is cultivated mostly by the tribal farmers here. That said, Kalahandi horticulture department officials are least concerned to the issues being faced by local pineapple farmers, several farmers here alleged.

Hundreds of tribal farmers, on Niyamgiri hills bordering Kalahandi and Rayagada districts, had cultivated pineapple despite COVID-19 restrictions in the district. The harvest had also been good this year. While the local farmers were hopeful of a good earning from sales, that dream remains a farfetched reality. Local farmers failed to sell their produce owing to improper road connectivity and lack of marketing facilities, they alleged.

"Taking advantage of the simplicity of tribal farmers, the traders buy a pineapple for just Rs 5 to Rs 7 each; as against this, the traders of Chhattisgarh and Andhra Pradesh sell it for Rs 50 to Rs 70. Even to sell pineapples in local markets, we have to walk a distance of about 15 to 20 kilometres from Niyamgiri hill," a farmer lamented.

Besides, the farmers here face distress sale as there is no food processing and food preservation unit in this region. There are over 20

Online education out of reach for Angul students

POST NEWS NETWORK

Angul, July 18: Educational institutions across India and also in Odisha have been closed since March due to the coronavirus outbreak. Schools and colleges have resorted to online teaching platforms. Odisha is also not an exception to the rule.

Many schools, both government-run and private in Angul district, have implemented online teaching. However, even though education is seamless when it comes to schools in Angul town, it is the students of remote villages who suffer the most.

Nilakantheshwar High School at Jagannathpur under Angul block is a case in point. The school has 123 students studying from Class 1 to Class 10. Among them, 42 read in Class 10. They reside in neighbouring villages.

These students will be appearing for the final exams next year. However, most of their parents are too poor to buy them a smartphone. And even when one does have a phone, connectivity is a huge problem. Most of these villages lack mobile towers, so online classes continue to remain out of reach for these students.

Even though teachers have realised the plight of these students, they cannot do much. "The problem is such that we cannot do anything. Only god can help out the students," observed Nilakantheshwar HS School headmaster, Santosh Kumar Panda.

Angul district education officer (DEO) Kalpana Behera is also aware of the situation. "This problem is being felt across the nation. We are aware of students missing out on online education due to lack of connectivity and their financial conditions. But we cannot do anything else now, Behera said.

"As of now, only 20 per cent of Angul district's students are availing online classes. Our efforts are on to get more and more students into it. Those who have no alternate facilities have to wait till opening of schools. We are helpless," added Behera.

Keonjhar village in darkness as 'Saubhagya' short-circuits

POST NEWS NETWORK

Patna, July 18: Years after electric poles were erected in their village and wires connected to their homes, residents of Saradhapur village under Chakundapal panchayat in Patna block of Keonjhar district continue to live under darkness amid administrative apathy.

The ambitious Pradhan Mantri Sahaj Bijli Har Ghar Yojana (Saubhagya), which was rolled out in the district with an eye to provide electricity to backward people like these, has failed to achieve what it set out for in Keonjhar district.

There are about 24 families in this village who have been deprived of Saubhagya benefits despite having been included in it two years back.

According to villagers, a transformer has already been installed, electric poles have been planted and electric wires have been drawn in the village. That said, despite running from pillar to post, the energy department authorities are yet to electrify the village.

"We have been managing with earthen lamps and kerosene lamps for past two years. Our concerns should be addressed immediately," said a villager Kirtan Bihari Nayak.

As the village is located close to a forested area, residents panic to come out of their respective houses at night for the fear of wild animals. Their children study amid utter difficulties, another villager Sukanta Behera added.

On being contacted, Patana sub-divisional officer (Electrical) Kartik Chandra Sahu said, "Electrification work of Saradhapur village was taken up under 'Saubhagya'. Almost 90 per cent of the work has already been completed. As soon as the contractor firm hands over possession after completing the remaining work, power supply will be commissioned".

Man killed for 'infidelity', wife among 8 held

POST NEWS NETWORK

Pabitanagar, July 18: Police cracked the Sunanda Pradhan murder case that took place at Shiling village under Samal police limits in Angul district last Wednesday and arrested eight accused including his wife. Sunanda was murdered over suspected infidelity.

All the accused were court-forwarded and remanded to judicial custody as their bail pleas were rejected. According to Samal police station IIC Charulata Behera, Sunanda and his wife Bharati suspected each other of having extra marital affairs. There were so many occasions when the couple had heated arguments over this.

Wednesday night was no different. Upon reaching home, Sunanda picked up a quarrel with Bharati over the same issue.

Fearing her husband might kill her, Bharati called in her relatives in parents' house. Her father Srinibas, her brother Pinu, brother-in-law Jatindra and two others—Basant and Arjuna—reached her house late in the night.

The verbal duel then took an ugly turn when the accused lost their cool and started attacking Sunanda with wooden planks. They continued beating him up till he collapsed on the ground and died. Bharati and her two daughters surrendered at the police station the same night while others fled from the spot.

After a thorough investigation, authorities came to know what had happened Wednesday night and arrested all the eight accused.

FOCUS SOCIAL SECURITY

NO CARE FOR CARE WORKERS

Decades of public neglect and underspending have brought us to the point that even an unprecedented global health emergency and economic collapse are not enough to make mistreatment of low-paid essential workers socially and politically unacceptable

Unsurprisingly, the gender balance within each occupation changes as one goes down the pecking order, with women concentrated in the lower-status, worst-paid positions.

Globally, women hold 70 per cent of all health-care jobs. But they are more likely to be nurses, midwives, and community health workers, while men comprise a disproportionate share of better-paid occupations like surgeons, physicians, dentists, and pharmacists. Community health workers are perhaps the most exploited of all health workers, especially in developing countries. Often, they are not recognised as workers at all, but rather as 'volunteers' (as is true in India). As such, they rarely benefit from formal contracts that provide job security and a fair wage, let alone protections like healthcare.

Women healthcare workers are also more at risk in the current pandemic, because they are more likely to be involved in activities that require close physical contact with patients. For a brief period after the pandemic first erupted, these workers were widely recognised for their critical contributions to society. Around the world, political leaders and members of the public applauded essential workers, singing their praises from balconies and leaving flower bouquets outside hospitals.

But while healthcare workers at all levels were rightly described as "heroes," that seems to have represented the extent of their reward. The public acclaim has not translated into better working conditions or higher wages, and certainly not systematic efforts to ensure their physical safety during the pandemic.

For example, in the United States, a brief period during which some companies offered their frontline workers slightly higher wages was soon followed by reversion to the norm: wages returned to their previous lows - and sometimes went lower. Similarly, in the United Kingdom, Prime Minister Boris Johnson thanked the immigrant nurses - "Jenny from New Zealand," "Luis from Portugal" - who saved his life when he was hospitalized with COVID-19. But then he had no problem trying to slap a surcharge on immigration fees (ironically for the purpose of funding the National Health Service).

The situation in developing countries is even worse. Governments faced with falling tax revenues are practicing austerity in the midst of a health emergency and recession, slashing non-COVID-19 health spending, forcing pay cuts and longer hours on health workers, and avoiding the expense of procuring personal protective equipment.

So blatant is the official disregard for essential workers that doctors and nurses in India have threatened to resign, while health workers in the Democratic Republic of the Congo have gone on strike after months of working without pay. Likewise, the needs of underpaid and vulnerable sanitation workers have been systematically ignored.

Decades of public neglect and underspending have brought us to the point that even an unprecedented global health emergency and economic collapse are not enough to make mistreatment of low-paid essential workers socially and politically unacceptable. If our societies are to survive at all, something will have to shake us from our complacency. Essential care workers deserve real pay and protections, not mere lip service. Our applause is no longer enough to keep them safe.

COMMUNITY HEALTH WORKERS ARE PERHAPS THE MOST EXPLOITED OF ALL HEALTH WORKERS, ESPECIALLY IN DEVELOPING COUNTRIES. OFTEN, THEY ARE NOT RECOGNISED AS WORKERS AT ALL, BUT RATHER AS 'VOLUNTEERS' (AS IS TRUE IN INDIA)

Those who thought that a pandemic would make everyone realise the crucial role of care workers should think again. With the coronavirus still spreading rapidly, frontline workers are more essential - and at greater risk - than ever, yet public attention has shifted elsewhere.

Worse, as economies collapse and labour-market conditions deteriorate, employers in the private and public sector alike have grown more cynical in their treatment of essential workers. Far from instilling a deeper appreciation for their employees, the pandemic-induced surge in unemployment has enabled employers to exploit workers even more.

Capitalism has always had an uneasy relationship with care work. Although capitalist production relies heavily on unpaid and underpaid labour performed by women, migrants, and other disadvantaged social groups, it has historically pushed that work off the books and underground, into informality. As a result, all the varied tasks associated with social reproduction are barely recognised, much less rewarded or remunerated. Because so much care work is performed for free by women and girls within families and communities, it is simply taken for granted and, because it is outside the market, not counted as economic activity.

Unpaid work performed by women who have no other choice thus creates a vicious cycle of devaluation. When women do enter labour markets, their wages tend to be lower than those of men, not only because they are willing to work for less, but also because so much of their work is available for free. Hence, occupations dominated by women - such as in the care sector - tend to be lower paid; even men doing similar work suffer a wage penalty.

In the case of healthcare, there are additional occupational hierarchies to navigate, from highly paid 'professionals' like specialist physicians down to nurses, ward attendants, and cleaners.

Decision-making, Modi style

The news agency ANI reported a story this week with the headline: "PM Modi taking input from top 50 officials to revive economy." The meeting was 90 minutes long and would have finance and commerce ministry officials making presentations on the situation.

What would such a meeting have looked like? If all 50 got a chance to give an input and nobody else spoke or asked questions, they would get less than two minutes each. But it is likely that there would have been someone doing some sort of introduction to the meeting and setting up the agenda so it's unlikely that the per person time was two minutes. Perhaps many of them did not get the opportunity to speak at all. The headline says that the PM was looking to receive input from them so many would have said their piece. What can be communicated in a couple of minutes?

Modi likes this sort of meeting. The first time I met him, with Dileep Padgaonkar (who was editor of Times of India) and BG Varghese (who was editor of Hindustan Times), both now dead, for an Editors Guild report on the violence in 2002. At that meeting, Modi called in all his secretaries, there were two dozen and perhaps more men sitting in rows to respond to us. There were no ministers. That was and apparently still is Modi's style.

The question is what happens at such large meetings for input and what is taken away from them. You would have a series of men saying extremely concise things. And they would have to be prescriptive. The problem is already known: the ANI story says that the meeting would find means of a "speedy recovery of the economy which has witnessed a slowdown in recent quarters due to falling consumer demand."

What would a two-minute prescription be? It would be something like: "The black money problem can be permanently solved by eliminating high value currency notes. We can force everyone to exchange their notes for smaller denominations and identify the black money sources. This will also end counterfeiting and reduce terrorism."

Such a presentation would lack nuance and it would not contain detail. It may or may not get into the problems that could come about because of such an action and it may or may not list the things that could go wrong in execution. There would not be enough time for this. It would merely present some sort of solution, and if the solution looked like a permanent fix and particularly if it sounded original and innovative, it would meet approval.

This is the problem of decision making that is done on the basis of short and rapid input. But when one asks 50 people to gather and give a series of short and sharp inputs it is clear that this is the preferred style of functioning.

I have written before about this manner of Modi's governance. He has said in a very fine interview with Madhu Kishwar that he doesn't read files because he cannot govern through academic studies. He wants his people to reduce the substance of issues to a two minute synopsis which he will digest and then decide.

The problem here is that some things cannot be reduced to a short presentation because they are very complex. Many things are not clear. They are grey. Many details are not precise because there is not enough information or data. Many times what the possible consequences of decisions will be cannot be understood without very thorough analysis.

The issue of black money was such a matter. China relations is another as is Covid. The effect of a two-month lockdown is also complex. What it could do to the economy needs to be examined with great care and caution must be exercised before using such a blunt weapon as demonetisation or a total lockdown.

My intent here is not to be needlessly critical or to be contemptuous. What Modi decides affects all of us and we must see what can be done in the best interest of our nation and its people at this time.

However, the decision making style needs to be examined and there is no running away from that. Let me quote another report, this time from Saturday July 18 in the Indian Express. The headline "Manufacturers fret as sudden lockdown hits logistics of production."

The story tells of the problems. One is that at 8 pm on July 13, Karnataka ordered a lockdown from the following day and told industries to shut. Companies including automobile manufacturers like Toyota told their workers to go home, informed vendors and issued a statement. But the next evening, the government sent another circular saying manufacturers were exempt from the lockdown. But the workers had already gone by then. One week's production has been lost.

Another problem was supply chains. Auto manufacturing does not all happen in one place. It is only assembled at the main factory but the components come from around the country. There was a lockdown in some of the states meaning that even if the main assembly plant was exempt from lockdown or in a state with no lockdown, production would slow or stop.

There are lockdowns in Tamil Nadu, Maharashtra, Bihar, Bengal, Karnataka, Uttar Pradesh, Odisha, Assam and elsewhere. There was no coordination to ensure that supply chains be kept going.

Similarly, companies could not access warehouses some of which were in lockdown. Another problem was workers who were reluctant to return given the problems that they had faced during the first lockdown.

These are issues of detail and complexity. They do not require decision making. They require governance, meaning the hard work of making the state function efficiently. It is true that India has always been a hard place to govern because it is chaotic and anarchic. The government doesn't follow its own rules often. It will not be easy for us to undo the damage that has been done to the economy by the lockdown and the solution will not come from two-minute presentations.

Pandemic & plight of women migrants

Aparimta Mishra

THE INVISIBILITY OF WOMEN FROM OFFICIAL STATISTICS AND POLICY DISCOURSE HAS MARGINALISED THEM FROM THE LIMITED STATE-SUPPORT. THE POST-PANDEMIC ECONOMIC SITUATION IS LIKELY TO MARGINALISE WOMEN FURTHER

The coronavirus-induced lockdown severely affected many lives. The plight of migrants and their families, captured through horrifying images, brought out their rights to the centre stage. Partly as a response to this, state agencies and NGOs tried to provide some help to stranded workers. However, the problems faced by women workers, particularly from less developed states like Odisha, remained largely invisible.

Mobility of workers is not a new phenomenon though its frequencies have increased in recent decades. The latest data, which is almost 10 years old, provides a glimpse of changing patterns of inter-state migration. As per Census 2011, there were 54.3 million inter-state migrants in India, of which 30.4 million were females. Nearly 1.3 million migrants from Odisha reside outside the state, out of which 53 per cent are females. The top five destinations for women migrants from Odisha are Chhattisgarh, Andhra Pradesh, Jharkhand, West Bengal and Gujarat.

The main causes of migration of women are marriage and movement of families. Hence, there is a tendency to neglect women migrants in policy-making. However, women are increasingly migrating out for employment. Census data reveals that out of the total out-migrants from Odisha for a duration of less than one year, 21 per cent of women have migrated for employment. Besides, many women start working to supplement their family income after reaching their destinations, even if the initial cause is marriage. Even those women migrants, who are not part of the labour-force, contribute to the household economy through their unpaid and care work. Without their labour, a substantial section of the migrant labour would not be able to survive with meagre wages. Similarly, the left-behind women of migrant households, in the absence of men, shoulder major household responsibilities. However, women migrants remained largely invisible in the policy response towards the Covid-19 crisis.

Women workers are mostly found in low-paid, vulnerable employment. They suffered immensely during the lockdown. Lack of income, inability to pay house rents and lack of savings added to their miseries.

In recent years, migration scenario from Odisha has undergone substantial changes, and it is valid for women as well. However, official statistical systems are blind to such changes. We simply do not have enough reliable information about migrant workers from Odisha. Field surveys and newspaper reports suggest many women migrants were recruited through labour contractors. Those who worked in sectors such as garments, brick kilns, construction and live-in domestic work faced restrictions on mobility. Women workers were subjected to coercion, confinement, and, in some cases, mental and physical violence by employers and associates.

Digital divide across genders leads to systematic exclusions. The government's efforts to provide relief through cash transfers to Jan-Dhan accounts, Building and Other Construction Workers' Welfare Board and Aadhaar are likely to have excluded many women workers. Further, health rights of women seem to have taken a back seat during the crisis. When stranded workers and their families tried to return, the special needs of pregnant and sick women were ignored.

After reaching their homes, migrants, especially women faced additional problems, such as hostility of local population, lack of adequate facilities for quarantine. Incidents of caste and gender discriminations were reported in some places. Besides, the access of women to livelihood generation programmes like NREGA and Garib Kalyan Yojana was limited.

As migrants and their families attempt to survive the crisis, the role and condition of women within the households deserve particular emphasis. During a crisis, it is typically the health and nutrition of women of the household that suffer disproportionately. Also, a typical household survival strategy is to substitute purchased products by home-made and unpaid goods and services, the burden of which falls largely on women. The National Commission of Women has recorded a sharp rise in domestic violence against women amid the lockdown.

The invisibility of women from official statistics and policy discourse has marginalised them from the limited state-support. The post-pandemic economic situation is likely to marginalise women further. There is an urgent need to examine the gender sensitivity of short and medium-term programmes that have been announced. The specific vulnerabilities of women migrants have to be taken into account in designing and implementing livelihood support programmes.

Soldier stands guard

A new soldier was on sentry duty at the main gate. His orders were clear. No car was to enter unless it had a special sticker on the windshield. A big Army car came up with a general seated in the back. The sentry said, "Halt, who goes there?" The chauffeur, a corporal, says, "General Wheeler."

"I'm sorry, I can't let you through. You've got to have a sticker on the windshield." The general said, "Drive on!" The sentry said, "Hold it! You really can't come through. I have orders to shoot if you try driving in without a sticker." The general repeated, "I'm telling you, son, drive on!" The sentry walked up to the rear window and said, "General, I'm new at this. Do I shoot you or the driver?"

Healthy habits

Sir, The COVID-19 pandemic has taught human beings the biggest lesson of their lives - how to stay clean and keep their surroundings clean. Until the pandemic arrived, personal hygiene was limited to a countable few, especially those in the healthcare profession. For instance, washing and sanitising hands was diligently practiced by doctors and attendants after each and every check-up. However, everyone around now-a-days is seen routinely doing this. This could be tagged by critics as an act of compulsion done under unavoidable circumstances. Nevertheless, it's a healthy practice. There are examples of countries where it has always been a healthier practice to wear face-masks by an individual, even when he/she is mildly unwell. So using masks during the pandemic is pretty agreeable to them. However, in places where wearing masks and sanitising hands often looked to be an alien task, practicing these healthier habits seems more of a challenge. People are averse to practicing them regularly. But who is the beneficiary at end of the day? It's we, the people. It's we who want to survive. So let's resolve to maintain healthy habits, to put-on face-masks whenever needed, to maintain social distance during the pandemic and spread positivity everywhere.

Essential commodities

Sir, Like other essential commodities hand wash and sanitisers have become essential in our daily lives which might be a gift of the coronavirus. We are going to be habituated to keep these products at our homes and workplaces. But strangely the government has imposed 18 per cent Goods and Services Tax (GST) on these products. This I think is not justified in the current scenario. This will lead the products to become costlier and will gradually discourage the common people from using them. The state government must discuss this issue with the central government and try to make the product affordable to the public in this critical time. At the same time, the government must check the quality of sanitisers as manufacturers of the product have mushroomed in the city and customers are purchasing the products hurriedly without judging their quality. The state quality control and drug control department should be more vigilant about the marketing of hand wash and sanitiser and it should assure that the products are safe.

Who's next in Kerala gold smuggling case?

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Thiruvananthapuram, July 18: As the four-year-old Pinarayi Vijayan government in Kerala was winning applause in the management of COVID-19, out of the blue came a gold smuggling case and a week later, two top officials in the Chief Minister's Office were booted out. The million dollar question now is who will be the next to fall?

The gold smuggling case which has large scale ramifications first surfaced when PS Sarith, a former employee of the UAE Consulate, here was arrested by the Customs July 5. He was facilitating the smuggling of 30 kg gold in diplomatic baggage to Thiruvananthapuram from Dubai. It turned murkier when the name of Swapna Suresh, a former employee of the UAE Consulate here and now employed with the state IT Department, surfaced. The case turned full circle when their links with the second most powerful person in Vijayan's office - his principal secretary M. Sivasankar, got revealed.

After dilly dallying, despite the Congress and the BJP up in arms demanding Vijayan to suspend Sivasankar, Thursday the Chief Minister finally did it.

'NO CONFIDENCE' DAGGER HANGS ON GOVT

Two top officials in the Chief Minister's Office -- his principal secretary M. Sivasankar and his IT man Arun Balachandran -- were booted out

With both Congress and BJP demanding Vijayan to quit over the way he has been managing affairs in his office and by now two of his close aides have been removed, it remains to be seen as to how Vijayan will manage in the coming days

LEADER OF OPPOSITION RAMESH CHENNITHALA HAS ANNOUNCED THEY WILL MOVE A NO CONFIDENCE MOTION AGAINST THE VIJAYAN GOVERNMENT

Also to fall was his IT man -- Arun Balachandran - a popular face in all the IT related events in the state.

Both of them were booted out by Vijayan, after several visuals and telephone call records surfaced which showed that Swapna was in frequent touch with the two.

Now on the radar of suspicion is State Minister of Higher Education KT Jaleel. He has on record said that he interacted with Swapna with regards to accepting sponsorship from the UAE Consulate worth Rs 5 lakh for distribution of Ramzan kits in the Malappuram district, from where he hails.

According to the code of conduct for State Ministers, they cannot accept gifts which are valued more than Rs 5,000. Besides, rules are very clear that all such things should be routed only through the Ministry of External Affairs and not directly to either the state or Union Ministers.

Kerala Assembly speaker P. Sreeramakrishnan is also facing the heat as he himself has gone on record stating that he knew Swapna for a while now.

What has landed him in trouble is that last year he had inaugurated a business venture of Sandip, here, who has been arrested by the NIA. At the inauguration function, visuals have come out where he is seen patting the shoulder of Swapna.

"I knew her as a functionary of the UAE Consulate, as she was a key personnel in dealing with officials and others in the state government for them," said Sreeramakrishnan.

With both Congress and BJP demanding Vijayan to quit over the way he has been managing affairs in his office and by now two of his close aides have been removed, it remains to be seen as to how Vijayan will manage in the coming days.

Already the Congress led opposition Thursday served a notice to remove Sreeramakrishnan from the Speaker's post. The State Assembly is to meet on July 27 to pass the Finance Bill.

But, as per the rules, this notice requires a period of 14 days. Hence, it remains to be seen if it will be taken up during the session.

Meanwhile, Leader of Opposition Ramesh Chennithala has announced they will move a no confidence motion against the Vijayan government.

CPI-M state secretary Kodiyeri Balakrishnan wrote in the party organ, which came out Friday, that Kerala has a history when a Chief Minister (K. Karunakaran) had to resign over the ISRO Spy case in 1995.

"The opposition and a section of the media is busy weaving out baseless stories in the gold smuggling case, but they will not be able to dislodge the present government. The colour of 'gold' here is not 'red' but it is 'green' and 'safron'. The opposition is trying to rake up this issue as the main election campaign, but it won't be of any help. The CPI-M and the Left front is strongly behind the Vijayan government," said Balakrishnan.

Tirupati temple to remain open even as priests test +ve

AGENCIES

Tirupati, July 18: Senior pontiff of the Shree Pedda Jeeyar Swamy Mutt of Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams (TTD) that governs the shrine of Lord Venkateswara at Tirumala, near here, has tested positive for coronavirus.

Speaking to PTI Friday, chairman of the TTD Board Y V Subba Reddy said the 63-year-old seer was to be shifted to a corporate hospital in Chennai but he declined and expressed his wish to take treatment at the mutt itself.

As per a centuries-old custom, the seer has been observing a four-month-long 'Chaturmasya Deeksha' since Sunday last, so he preferred to remain here and get treatment, Reddy said.

The pontiff's health condition is, however, stable, the chairman said.

Since the temple was re-opened for devotees June 11, about 160 TTD staff members, including 16 'archakas' (priests) were infected by the virus so far, he said.

Nevertheless, the devotees can still visit the shrine, he added.

A row erupted over the temple's honorary chief priest AV Ramana Dikshitulu raising concern over the temple remaining open despite the growing number of Covid-19 cases among priests. He even warned of "a disaster".

He had tweeted Thursday that 15 out of 50 archakas (priests) tested positive while results of 25 others are awaited. Tagging Chief Minister Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy, he wrote that the TTD Executive Officer and Additional Executive Officer refused to stop 'darshan' and alleged that they are following "anti hereditary archaka and anti-Brahmin policy" of Telugu Desam Party (TDP) and its chief Chandrababu Naidu. "Disaster if this continues. Please take action," he wrote.

TTD chairman Y.V. Subba Reddy, however, differed with the honorary chief priest and claimed that the situation does not warrant closure of the temple for darshan.

Subba Reddy told reporters after a meeting with priests that Ramana Dikshitulu should have conveyed his opinion to the TTD board instead of making a comment in social media.

He said it was not proper to give political colour to priests testing positive. "Making such comments before the media is not good. After our government came to power, the honorary chief priest was appointed and he is being paid the honorarium," said Subba Reddy, who is the maternal uncle of the Chief Minister.

The TTD Chairman said 60 of those tested positive are the security personnel who were drawn from the Andhra Pradesh Special Police (APSP) battalion. Those who contracted the virus also include 16 employees who prepare 'prasadam'. Subba Reddy said 70 of the affected employees have recovered, living a normal life and have even resumed duties. He claimed that none of the pilgrims visiting the temple was infected by the virus.

He also said the state government and the health department was trying to "break the chain" of transmission from one cluster to another by "thoroughly locking the clusters." "We need to give more attention to coastal areas. Inside the clusters, local transmission is more than 50 per cent, but outside the clusters it is below 10 per cent.

We should prevent clusters forming and the community spread of the infection," Shailaja said.

She was speaking to reporters after inspecting the over 700-bed COVID-19 first line treatment centre set up at the International Convention Centre inside the Greenfield stadium here. The health department said that when a cluster is formed, a rapid response team will be set up which will engage in contact tracing and conduct testing on the basis of primary, secondary contacts. A region will be declassified as a cluster only if it is confirmed that there is no new case within 7 days after the last positive case in that area was detected.

Kerala Saturday reported 593 fresh COVID-19, of which 364 cases were through contacts.

AP records all time daily high of 3,963 new cases

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Amaravati, July 18: Andhra Pradesh Saturday reported the highest single day spike in COVID-19 infections with 3,963 new cases, taking the overall tally to 44,609 in the state, health officials said.

Also, the state reported 52 fatalities, the highest single day toll so far, pushing the death toll to 586. This is the fourth successive day that Andhra Pradesh has reported record Covid numbers.

The officials said that all the thirteen districts returned Covid cases in triple figures. Almost a quarter of the new cases reported Saturday morning are from East Godavari district which reported the highest tally of 994 positive cases. Kurnool followed with 550 cases, while West Godavari with 407 cases, Chittoor with 343 cases were the other districts that reported high numbers. Some of the other districts that reported high Covid numbers in the last 24 hours include Nellore with 278 cases, Prakasam with 266 cases, Anantapur with 220 cases, and Guntur with 214 cases.

Srikakulam on the other hand reported 182 cases, Kadapa 145 cases, Krishna 130 cases, Vizianagaram 118 cases, and Visakhapatnam 116 cases, the districts with low incidence in the last 24 hours.

As per the latest update, Covid deaths were reported in 11 of the 13 districts in the state. The day's high of 12 deaths were reported from East Godavari district, while eight deaths each were reported from Guntur and Krishna districts.

On the other hand, Anantapur reported seven, West Godavari reported four, Nellore reported three deaths and Visakhapatnam reported two deaths.

At the bottom of the list, Chittoor, Kadapa and Vizianagaram districts reported one death. With 1,411 persons discharged from hospitals and covid treatment centres over 24 hours, there are 22,260 active cases while 21,763 persons have been declared as cured and discharged in Andhra Pradesh. On the brighter side, not a single positive case was detected among returnees from other states to Andhra Pradesh.

Till date, 2,461 cases have been identified as covid positive among persons who returned from other states. The active cases tally in this

State doubles mobile testing infrastructure

Amaravati: With the stakes continuously rising in the war against Covid-19, the Andhra Pradesh government has deployed 52 new buses to supplement the present vehicles for testing samples positioned across all high risk areas in the state. A total of 102 buses are now stationed in various districts, collecting samples from across 95 locations.

The intelligent monitoring analysis services quarantine (IMASQ) system provides a contactless digitised swab sample collection system, and tracking and tracing in all containment zones. Health Commissioner Katamaneni Bhaskar said: "102 special buses have been deployed only for mass testing purposes which they survey 10-12 people at the same time, to avoid a crowd gathering." Bhaskar added that multiple testing counters in the buses will facilitate a zero contact procedure. Each bus has 10 counters, with three officials deployed at each counter. "The swab samples will be collected and sent to the ICMR laboratories for further testing. Officials at the border check posts verify the details of people entering the state by road with the help of Aadhaar numbers. Each person's swab sample is collected and he/she is either directed to undergo institutional or home quarantine. Those at quarantine camps are tracked to ensure that no procedure is skipped." Apart from deploying the modified buses, the state government has also issued notifications for recruiting more medical professionals to be assigned to different districts in the state. Bhaskar stated that to improve the health system from the primary to the tertiary level, a total number of 9,700 medical staff will be hired for further requirement.

category currently stands 311, while 2,150 persons have been declared as recovered till Saturday (Friday). Similarly, there were no new cases detected among overseas returnees. The cumulative tally of covid patients in this category stands at 434, while 390 persons have been discharged after getting cured. As of Friday, 44 cases are receiving treatment for Covid infection in the state.

BILLS FOR AP's 3 CAPITALS SENT TO GUV FOR ASSENT

Official sources said the Governor might refer the two Bills, which were intended to facilitate setting up of three different capitals for the state, to the President of India after the legal examination

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Amaravati, July 18: The Andhra Pradesh government Saturday sent the AP Decentralisation and Inclusive Development of All Regions Bill, 2020, and the AP Capital Region Development Authority (Repeal) Bill, 2020, to Governor Biswabhusan Harichandan for his assent but he is sending the two contentious Bills to the Law Department for advice.

Highly-placed official sources said the Governor might refer the two Bills, which were intended to facilitate setting up of three different capitals for the state, to the President of India after the legal examination. The opposition Telugu Desam Party has requested the Governor not to give assent to the two Bills as the Legislative Council had disapproved the state government policy in this regard.

The ruling YSR Congress cried foul saying the TDP was only seeking to block the development of the backward Rayalaseema and north coastal Andhra regions by opposing the two Bills. When the two Bills were first introduced in the Legislature in January this year, the Assembly passed them without any hitch owing to the brute majority of the ruling party but they faced a blockade in the Council as the opposition TDP was in majority.

The Council referred the two Bills to Select Committees for deeper examination, effectively scuttling Chief Minister YS Jagan Mohan Reddy's plans to have three capitals for the state in Amaravati (Legislative), Visakhapatnam (Executive) and Kurnool (Judicial).

'Cluster care' method to contain virus spread

KK SHAILAJA | HEALTH MINISTER

AGENCIES

Thiruvananthapuram, July 18: As the number of COVID-19 cases in Kerala is on the rise, the state government has decided to implement a "cluster care" method to mitigate the spread of coronavirus, state health minister KK Shailaja said Saturday.

The minister said testing, treatment and quarantining will be strengthened inside the "clusters" in order to stop the spread of the virus beyond a particular area.

"Those in the clusters must strictly follow the health protocol including wearing of masks, social distancing, handwash, use of sanitisers. We must keep in mind that the clusters are formed just before the community transmission," Shailaja said in a release. A cluster is formed when there is an "unexpected surge in COVID-19 cases" at a particular area or a region.

Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan had Friday said that community spread had occurred in Poonthura and Pulluvilla in Thiruvananthapuram and its nearby places have seen a rapid increase in the number of contact cases.

The health minister said that there are 87 clusters in the state of which 70 are active clusters and 17 contained clusters.

"Two of such clusters have reported community transmission and the people there need to cooperate with the health department to bring those regions from the cluster classification," she said.

Contact tracing of the cluster is started based on the fact that there is at least one case where the source is unknown and more than two unrelated cases in an area. "It can be a market, hospital, coastal area, an institution, a ward, panchayat or a tribal area.

Andhra police's Covid drive reunites mom with son

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Amaravati, July 18: A state-wide drive launched to screen orphans and street kids for Covid-19 has united a grieving mother with her son who was missing for four years. The authorities also rescued 10 children hailing from Bihar who were forced to live as bonded labourers.

The good turn of events took place barely a couple of days after 'Operation Muskaan Covid-19' was launched by the Andhra Pradesh Police.

Bobba Sri Lalitha, a resident of Palakollu in the West Godavari district, lost her husband soon after the birth of her second son, Srinivas. Struggling to make ends meet, Lalitha was forced to take up menial jobs, including working as a rag picker to feed her sons.

In 2016, Srinivas fled home and reached the Vijayawada railway station. From there, the railway police rescued Srinivas and shifted him to a child care centre in Vijayawada and he has been there ever since. During the course of Operation Muskaan, Srinivas finally revealed that he is a native of Palakollu in the West Godavari district. The authorities then sprung into action and facilitated the reunion of Srinivas with his mother.

DGP Gautam Sawang said, "It is very heartwarming to be able to facilitate the reunion of a mother-son duo after almost four years. Things like these give us immense satisfaction and keep us going. Each kid who has been rescued has a heart wrenching story. It is to make this kind of difference in the lives of the vulnerable that this initiative was launched."

Police officials said that the 'Muskaan Covid-19' initiative has led to the rescue of 2,739 kids within 72 hours of its launch. During the drive, the police have also rescued 10 children employed as 'bonded labourers' in Percherla. All the kids hailing from Bihar have now been rescued and shifted to child care homes while a case has been registered against the management under relevant sections of the law. The drive will continue till July 20.

Centre identifies Chinese firms with PLA links operating in India

New Delhi, July 18: The Union government has identified a number of China-based companies having links to the People's Liberation Army (PLA) and operating in India soon after it banned 59 Chinese mobile applications, including TikTok. The government believes that the Chinese firms operating in India have been involved in intelligence activities overseas.

As per the China's 2017 Intelligence law, the Communist government in the country has power to monitor suspects, raid premises and seize vehicles as well as devices. The US Secretary of Defence, Mark Esper's annual report to the American Congress titled 'Military and Security Developments Involving the People's Republic of China 2019' has put this on record. Chinese firms like Huawei, ZTE, TikTok and others have been entrusted with the job to support, provide assistance, and cooperate with China's national intelligence undertakings, wherever they operate according to this law. Article 7 of the law states "Any organisation or citizen shall support, assist and cooperate with the state intelligence work in accordance with the law. The state protects individuals and organisations that support, assist and cooperate with national intelligence work."

It is worth mentioning here that this law has direct security implications for all overseas FDI that originate from China. Some of the Chinese companies identified by the Indian government having direct/indirect links with the PLA and operating in India include Xindia Steels Ltd, Xinxing Cathay International Group, China total cost of over Rs 250 crore. The primary investor in Xindia Steels Ltd is Xinxing Cathay International Group Co Ltd (China). According to the latter's website, it is reorganized, reconstructed and unhooked from previous Production Department and subordinate enterprises and institutions of the General Logistics Department of the PLA. Xinxing Cathay International Group: This group set up a manufacturing facility in Chhattisgarh with an investment of Rs 1,000 crore on the invitation of the Chhattisgarh government to physically examine the state and position of iron ore in the state. With a turnover of almost Rs 3,000 crore, so far Xinxing has supplied close to 30,000 tonnes of ductile iron pipes to India. China Electronics Technology Group Corporation (CETC): In 2018, the CETC announced a $46 million investment in a 200 MW PV manufacturing facility in Andhra Pradesh's Sri City. A leading military electronics manufacturer, CETC also produces Hikvision CCTV cameras. The US government has added several CETC research institutes and subsidiaries to its entity list and restricted exports on national security grounds. Huawei: Founded by Ren Zhengfei, a former deputy director of the PLA engineering corps, in 1987 in Shenzhen, Huawei is a popular brand in India.

PLA troops non-committal about retreat

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, July 18: Chinese troops have not moved back from the Line of Control (LoC) in eastern Ladakh in line with the consensus arrived at during the disengagement talks between India and China, sources said Saturday. Seeing the "non-committal approach" of the People's Liberation Army troops, India maintains that the process of disengagement is "intricate and requires constant verification".

The sources in the Indian security establishments said that the Chinese retreat a bit and then return; so there is a need for "constant verification" of the consensus achieved during the meetings between Indian and Chinese military delegates.

It has been found that Indian and Chinese troops have pulled back at Pangong Lake by 2 km and Finger 4 is empty. However, the Chinese are still camping on the ridge line. This clearly indicates that the Chinese had camped at Finger 4 that had traditionally been under Indian control.

The Chinese are still camping on the ridge line indicating that the Chinese had camped at Finger 4 that had traditionally been under Indian control way till Finger 4 from Finger 8. India maintains that the LoC runs through Finger 8. Mountain spurs jutting into the lake are referred to as fingers.

In Galwan Valley, which is called Patrolling Point 14, distance between Indian and Chinese troops is three km. At Patrolling Point 15, the distance between troops is around eight km.

But in Hot Springs, that is Patrolling Point 17, 40-50 troops on both sides are just 600-800 meters apart. The Chinese Army had retreated as per the consensus but again returned.

Indian Defence Minister Rajnath Singh Friday, during his visit to Ladakh, said that India wants peace but there is no guarantee of the final outcome of talks with China. Singh also reviewed the ground situation in the hostile border areas.

India and China are engaged in military and diplomatic deliberations to de-escalate the tense situation in the border areas in Ladakh. The countries are locked in a 10-week-long stand-off at multiple points, hitherto unprecedented along the border. The Indian Army said on July 16 that the disengagement process on the LoC with China is "intricate and requires constant verification". The armed force said that India is taking the de-escalation process forward through "regular meetings at the diplomatic and military level".

During 15-hour-long deliberations spread over July 14 and July 15, India and China military delegates reviewed the progress on "implementation of the first phase of disengagement and also discussed further steps to ensure complete disengagement" in eastern Ladakh. The Indian delegation's main agenda at the meet was the complete PLA pullback from the Pangong Lake, Depsang and other areas in eastern Ladakh.

China had started to change the status quo on the LoC at various places, moving inside the Indian territories. India has objected to it and is taking up the matter with China at all levels.

Centre issues notice to Twitter over hacking

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, July 18: India's cybersecurity nodal agency CERT-In has issued a notice to Twitter asking the micro-blogging platform for full details of a recent global hacking incident targeting high-profile users, as it sought information on the number of Indian users affected, as well as impact on data, a source said.

The source privy to the development told this news agency that CERT-In has also asked Twitter for information on number of users from India who have visited the malicious tweets and links, and whether the affected users have been informed by the platform about unauthorised access to their Twitter accounts.

Twitter did not comment on an email query by PTI. The government has also demanded information on vulnerability exploited by attackers and modus operandi of the attack, and sought details of remedial measures taken by Twitter to mitigate the impact of the hacking incident.

CERT-In has asked Twitter to respond to multiple queries, including details about the incident, and number of Indian users affected along with impact on data of those users, the source said.

Indian Computer Emergency Response Team (CERT-In) swung into action after reports that hackers gained access to Twitter's systems to hack accounts of many global corporate leaders, politicians, celebrities, and businesses.

The source said that move by CERT-In was aimed at protecting the interests of Indian users.

Questions were asked by CERT-In from Twitter under stipulated sections of the Information Technology Act, 2000 and CERT-In Rules 2003, the source pointed out.

Cyber attackers had hacked into the Twitter accounts of global high profile users - including former President Barack Obama.

KANPUR AMBUSH

Dubey aide's wife may turn approver

AGENCIES

Lucknow, July 18: The special investigation team (SIT) probing the Kanpur ambush and encounter of gangster Vikas Dubey, let off the mafia's wife Richa after a five-hour interrogation, Manu - wife of an arrested henchman Sashikant Pandey, seems to be in the spotlight in police investigations.

Manu has gained importance after back-to-back audio clips wherein she was supposedly heard mobilizing men folk to take sniper position on rooftops and convincing with the don and misleading cops came to the surface.

Manu was released after two days of rigorous interrogation in detention and sent home in Bikru under heavy police protection. The police have revealed that she may turn an approver in the case.

She is supposed to have confided to investigators that she and her husband were ready to provide details on the ambush. According to the police, their statements would be taken under Section 164 CrPC for recording confessions and statements by a magistrate during investigation. "Though, she did not make a formal request for protection, two constables have been deployed round-the-clock outside her house after analyzing threat perception," said a police official.

"During preliminary interrogation, Manu revealed details on aides who reached the Dubey's residence on the fateful night and the sequence of events leading to the carnage and what happened next. Besides Manu, her mother-in-law was another witness. Manu's statements will give police crucial leads to investigate and verify multiple murders on the night of July 3," said a police official.

Manu's husband Sashikant, who was arrested late Monday, had accused the gangster of orchestrating the ambush while talking to reporters. To a query by media persons on what happened on the fateful night, Sashikant had stated,

IS member Sadiya was planning lone wolf attack

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, July 18: Sadiya Anwar Sheikh, a second year mass communication student from Maharashtra's Pune who was arrested by the NIA for her alleged links with the Islamic State Khorasan Province (ISKAP) module, a banned terror organisation that is part of the IS, was in touch with several key leaders on secure messaging platforms. She was also part of their channels to build up a cadre to carry out terrorist activities in the country, sources said Saturday.

According to top NIA sources, Sheikh was arrested on July 12 along with a gym operator Nabeel Khatri from Pune for trying to build up a cadre of ISKP in India, which is also a part of the IS-JK module.

The source said that the IS has made several such groups in different parts of the world. The NIA source said that Sheikh, 22, was a highly radicalised extremist, who had undergone de-radicalisation twice before and was allegedly in constant touch with the Kashmiri couple - Jahanazaib Sami Wani and his wife Hina Bashir Beigh.

The Kashmiri couple was arrested in the ISKP module case initially registered with the Delhi Police's Special Cell on March 8 this year from Delhi.

The source claimed that Sheikh was in touch with Abdullah Basith, who is already in Delhi's Tihar jail.

BTP SUPPORTS GEHLOT GOVT IN RAJ: MLAs

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Jaipur, July 18: The Bhartiya Tribal Party (BTP) supports the Ashok Gehlot government in Rajasthan, the two MLAs of the regional party said in a joint press conference with state Congress chief Govind Singh Dotasara Saturday.

BTP legislators Rajkumar Roat and Ramprasad asserted that their party's president and other leaders have agreed on extending support to the Gehlot government on the condition that demands related to development of the state are fulfilled.

The party had Monday issued a whip asking Roat and Ramprasad to be neutral and neither support the Congress nor the BJP. It had also told them to neither support Chief Minister Gehlot nor Sachin Pilot in case of a floor test in the Assembly.

"BTP MLAs and their party leaders held discussions with the chief minister. They were already with us and have reassured their support to the Ashok Gehlot government," Dotasara said at the press conference outside a hotel on the Delhi highway where the Congress has kept MLAs amid the political crisis.

The MLAs were shifted to Hotel Fairmont Monday soon after a Congress legislature party meeting, where Congress lawmakers expressed support for Gehlot and only indirectly referred to Pilot, whose rebellion threatens the state government. Pilot was stripped of the posts of Rajasthan's deputy chief minister and the party's state unit president Tuesday.

Chief Minister Gehlot tweeted informing about the support by the BTP.

'Parliament's Central Hall poses evacuation challenges'

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, July 18: The Central Public Works Department (CPWD) has informed the Supreme Court that the Central Hall of Parliament poses a challenge for rescue and evacuation operations in certain conditions during an emergency.

The CPWD pointed out that the hall has a seating capacity for only 440 persons and during joint sessions a large number of seats have to be arranged in the aisles. "This arrangement undermines the dignity of the institution and poses challenges for evacuation during emergent conditions, as movements are highly restricted," said the CPWD in a counter-affidavit in the apex court in reply to a petition against the Central Vista Project.

The CPWD said that the new Parliament building will be constructed with enhanced structural life, which will last for centuries, and will become a symbol of national pride as well as inspire citizens to participate in the democratic traditions of India.

Citing the expansion of the Lok Sabha in future, the CPWD said it is likely to increase substantially after 2026, as the freeze on the total number of seats is only till that year. "The Lok Sabha and Rajya Sabha are packed to capacity and have no space for addition of seats if Parliament is expanded. The seating arrangements are cramped and cumbersome, there are no desks beyond the second row, and movement is extremely constrained," the department said.

It also pointed out that there are six plots in the Central Vista, where temporary barracks or stables during the Second World War were built. "These structures occupy an area of over 90 acres near the North Block, South Block, Jammagar House, and Jodhpur House. This precious land on the Vista is highly under-utilised," the CPWD contended.

Detailing the Common Central Secretariat, the CPWD said: "The development of Common Secretariat will lead to major increase in office spaces which will offset the huge gap in present and future demand and existing availability."

Centre asks 4 states to strengthen efforts to combat nCoV

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, July 18: With a surge in coronavirus cases in Bihar, West Bengal, Assam and Odisha, the Union Health Ministry has asked these states to make renewed efforts to contain transmission of the virus and keep case fatality rate below one per cent.

With these states imposing lockdown anew, the Health Ministry emphasised that the restrictions should be utilised to focus on containment, surveillance and testing in containment and buffer zones as the key strategy for early detection of cases and fatality management.

In a letter to Principal Secretaries (Health) and Secretary (Health) of these states, Joint Secretary in the Ministry of Health Lav Agarwal asked them to ensure that at least 80 per cent of the new cases have their close contacts traced and are in quarantine within 72 hours of case confirmation.

The letter underlined that containment and buffer zones should be suitably delineated based on the mapping of cases and contacts, and

According to active case load, Odisha is the tenth most-affected state in the country with Ganjam reporting approximately 37 per cent of the state's active caseload

The Union Health Ministry has asked four states to make renewed efforts to contain transmission of the virus and keep case fatality rate below one per cent

With these states imposing lockdown anew, the ministry emphasised that the restrictions should be utilised to focus on containment, surveillance and testing in containment and buffer zones as the key strategy a list of NCC volunteers along with other workforce is available on Covid warriors' portal which can be optimally utilised in containment and surveillance effort.

"In terms of testing the state should aim to achieve a minimum of 14 tests per one lakh (140 tests per million) per day, while ensuring a positivity rate of less than 10 per cent," the letter to the states read.

The Centre has also decided to depute a multi-disciplinary team to Bihar to review and coordinate with the state in managing the pandemic there, according to an office memorandum issued by the health ministry. The team, comprising Agarwal, Dr SK Singh, Director, National Centre for Disease Control, and Dr Neeraj Nischal, Associate Professor, Medicine at AIIMS New Delhi, will undertake the visit immediately and coordinate with state health authorities to review the existing situation and provide necessary support and guidance.

According to the letter to the Principal Secretary (Health & Family Welfare), Bihar, cases in the state are rising with almost 450-500 cases being reported daily and 80 per cent of the total active cases in the state were reported in the last seven days.

Districts like Patna, Bhagalpur, Muzaffarpur, Nalanda, Begusarai and Munger are reporting higher number of cases while Saharsa, Gaya, Paschim Champaran, Jamui, Arwal, Saran and Khagaria are the emerging hotspots.

The overall testing is very low in the state vis-à-vis national average and an increasing trend in case positivity rate on weekly basis is also a cause of concern, the letter said.

In the letter to the Secretary

(Health and Family Welfare), West Bengal, Agarwal said the state is reporting almost 1,600 cases daily and 93 per cent of the total active cases in state were reported in the last four days.

"Kolkata, Howrah, North 24 Parganas and South 24 Parganas as well as emerging hotspots in Jhargram, Purulia, Nadia, Midnapur East, Hooghly and Nadia need immediate attention."

Further, Odisha is reporting an average of more than 500 cases every day since the past four weeks, the letter to the state's Principal Secretary (Health and Family Welfare) said.

"According to active case load, Odisha is the tenth most-affected state in the country with Ganjam reporting approximately 37 per cent of the state's active caseload," the letter said, adding, there is need to focus on emerging hotspots such as Nabarangpur, Sambalpur and Kendujhar.

"The increase in weekly fatality trend with almost 29 pc of cases above 45 years, is also a cause of concern," the letter said.

BJP demands CBI probe into Raj 'tapes'

AGENCIES

New Delhi, July 18: The BJP Saturday hit back on the Ashok Gehlot government when it not only denied charges of alleged bid to break the Congress party but also alleged that the desert state is witnessing an "indirect emergency".

The BJP was referring to the purported phone conversations that were leaked by Gehlot camp.

This attack comes in the wake of an FIR filed by the SOG in Rajasthan against Union Minister and BJP leader Gajendra Singh Shekhawat and two others

"Is the phone of every person in Rajasthan, who has any concern with politics, is being tapped? Is Emergency not being imposed indirectly in Rajasthan?" asked BJP spokesperson Sambit Patra in a press conference here Saturday. Calling the Rajasthan political crisis a "drama", Patra alleged it is a brazen cocktail of conspiracy, lies, fraud and defiance of law.

"The whole conspiracy is being hatched in their house and through some audio tapes it is being alleged that the BJP is trying to sabotage the Congress party," said Patra. He demanded a CBI probe into this matter, to ascertain whether phone tapping was done or SOPs were followed. He also questioned if the voice in the leaks are authentic, why the FIR states it as "purported".

This attack comes in the wake of an FIR filed by the SOG in Rajasthan against Union Minister and BJP leader Gajendra Singh Shekhawat and two others on the basis of a complaint by Congress whip Mahesh Joshi soon after three audio clips with alleged conversations on toppling the Ashok Gehlot government were released by Rajasthan's ruling party.

However, Shekhawat has denied any of the tapes has his voice while another BJP leader said the tapes were doctored.

Conducting Bihar polls would be costly, thanks to COVID-19

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Patna, July 18: Conducting the upcoming Assembly elections in Bihar is likely to be a 'more than usual' expensive affair due to certain challenges and difficulties that have emerged following the coronavirus-triggered crisis across the globe.

To ensure social distancing and other necessary precautionary measures, over one lakh personnel would be pressed into election duties – mainly to look out for physical distancing among the people that would turn up to exercise franchise.

The term of the Bihar Legislative Assembly expires in November and it is believed that elections will be held on time if everything goes well. Sources said the Election Commission (EC) is considering all the challenges, and poll preparations are being constantly reviewed.

The EC has made it clear that this time, only 1,000 voters will vote at a particular polling station. Therefore, it has been decided to set up additional polling booths.

Sources in the Election Commission said that due to the proposed formula of allowing 1,000 voters at a polling centre, preparations are underway to come up with around 34,000 additional polling centres.

Woman, daughter self-immolate near UP CM's office, 3 cops suspended

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Amethi/Lucknow, July 18: The Amethi police suspended three policemen after a woman from the district and her daughter set themselves on fire outside the Chief Minister's office in Lucknow alleging inaction in a land dispute case, officials said Saturday.

The Lucknow police, however, said the women were instigated by Congress leader Anoop Patel to set themselves on fire as part of a "criminal conspiracy" and a case has been filed against him and three others.

Meanwhile, the BSP and the SP attacked the UP government over the immolation bid, saying it should take the incident seriously and act against the officers responsible for it.

According to Lucknow civil hospital authorities, the woman suffered 90 per cent burns and is on life support, while her daughter is stable.

"Three policemen including the in-charge SHO of Jamo police station in Amethi have been suspended. The matter is being probed by the additional superintendent of police and action will be taken once the report comes," Amethi Superintendent of Police Khyati Garg said.

No suicide note was recovered from Safia or her daughter Gudia, she said. Garg and Amethi District Magistrate Arun Kumar said Safia (55) had a dispute with her neighbour over a drain and the two had even exchanged blows in the past.

Safia and her daughter set themselves on fire outside Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath's office in the state capital Friday evening, police said.

The police personnel posted there swung into action when they saw the women engulfed in flames and rescued them. The two were taken to the civil hospital for treatment, they said.

A video of the incident has gone viral on social media.

Dr Ashutosh Dubey, medical superintendent of Shyama Prasad Mookerji Civil Hospital, Lucknow, told this news agency, "The mother has suffered 90 per cent burns and is in a serious condition. Her daughter suffered 15 per cent burns and is stable. The mother has been put on life support."

Lucknow Police Commissioner Sujeet Pandey said prima facie it appears that the incident was part of a conspiracy.

"It is a criminal conspiracy as part of which some people instigated them (Safia and her daughter). A case has been registered against four people – Aasma, Sultan, Kadir Khan (Amethi district president of AIMIM) and Anoop Patel (former Congress spokesperson) – in this regard," he said.

The women were told to come to Lucknow and try to set themselves on fire so that their grievances can be highlighted and the dispute resolved, he said.

Pandey said, "We have evidence to show that these women went to the UP Congress office and met Anoop Patel."

Man approaches police against tailor for 'too short' underpants

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Bhopal, July 18: A 46-year-old man has approached the Bhopal police with a complaint that a tailor has stitched his underpants "too short".

The police, however, asked the man Krishna Kumar Dubey to move the court to get the issue resolved.

Dubey, who was earlier employed as a security guard and used to earn Rs 9,000 per month, lost his job due to the coronavirus-induced lockdown two months ago. "I am from Sidhi district of Madhya Pradesh and I came to Bhopal for a job in October.

Recently, I borrowed Rs 1,000 from a friend and bought different things, including a two metre-long cloth to get two underpants stitched," Dubey, who lives in Bhim Nagar here, said.

He paid Rs 190 to the tailor for the job. However, according to him, when he wore the underpants, he found them too short.

"I complained to the tailor, who told me that the cloth was inadequate. I went back to the shop owner, who told me that he had given two metres of cloth," he added. The man then approached the police a couple of days back, who asked him to take up the matter to court.

From machines to N-95 masks, cartels use all to smuggle gold, drugs

A confidential note of the Indian Customs suggested all preventive teams deployed at the airports and sea ports to keep an eye on all types of gadgets and hi-tech tools

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi July 18: From automatic iron presses to hand held drilling machines and from COVID-19 protective suits to N-95 masks, smuggling cartels are using every possible item under the sun to secretly peddle contraband drugs and gold into India.

A confidential note of the Indian Customs suggested all preventive teams deployed at the airports and sea ports to keep an eye on all types of gadgets and hi-tech tools even if they have minimum cavity space.

While the gold smuggling cartel of Kerala, recently busted by the Customs, used diplomatic consignments to smuggle large quantities of gold, other syndicates preferred to use home appliances to push drugs and yellow metal through green channels.

An alert Customs superintendent at the Amritsar airport got suspicious when four passengers, carrying juicers-grinders and automatic iron presses, tried to skip through the green channel on the night of July 16. The official also noted a set of hand held drilling machines brought by the passengers who landed from flight IX 1192 from Dubai. The reports of the Amritsar Customs reviewed by the this news agency said that once the drilling machines were unscrewed and all its parts were knocked down, the officials discovered gold concealed in small packing.

Two sets of Sanford auto-irons were also dismantled. In the base plates, concealed yellow metal was found. Juicer-grinders, a common home appliance item brought in from flights arriving from Dubai, were also unboxed. The report said that more than 8 kg gold, concealed in these appliances, was recovered from the passengers who were later arrested. The drug cartels are eyeing COVID care materials to smuggle cocaine, marijuana and other contraband drugs. Early this week, Delhi Customs had seized a large quantity of marijuana being smuggled from the US. The marijuana was concealed in a packing declared as consignment for N-95 face masks.

On June 17, Delhi Customs had recovered contraband narcotics worth over Rs 30 lakh brought from the US. This time the drugs were concealed inside computer servers.

In Kerala, a gang of gold smugglers peddling gold paste was unearthed at the Kannur Airport, which used to conceal the precious metal in paste form in clothes, mostly jackets and jeans.

Smuggling gold in "paste form" is a new way adopted by the crime syndicates to clear X-ray machines installed at various international airports and seaports in India, a Customs Commissioner said.

According to him, smugglers first convert gold into powder and then produce its compound in paste form. Around 700 gm gold can be retrieved from 1 kg of paste through a chemical procedure. The smuggled gold in pure form is later sold in the market.

Trump says no US mandate for masks

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Washington, July 18: President Donald Trump has said he would not order Americans to wear masks to contain the spread of the coronavirus, saying people should have a "certain freedom."

His comments came after Dr Anthony Fauci, the top US infectious diseases expert, appealed to state and local leaders to be "as forceful as possible" in getting people to wear masks in public places.

In a 'Fox News Sunday' interview, Trump said, "I don't agree with the statement that if everybody wears a mask, everything disappears."

Commenting on the initial comments from top health officials, Trump said: "Hey, Dr Fauci said don't wear a mask. Our Surgeon General - terrific guy - said don't wear a mask. Everybody who is saying don't wear a mask - all of sudden everybody's got to wear a mask, and as you know masks cause problems, too."

Trump, who has been wearing a face mask only once, said, "I'm a believer in masks. I think masks are good." But Fauci, the director of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, said social distancing, an important factor in blunting the spread of the coronavirus, can be difficult with more people going out.

Floods kill 14 in southern China

RESCUE WORKERS USED INFLATABLE RAFTS TO RESCUE MORE THAN 1,900 PEOPLE TRAPPED IN THEIR HOMES AND OTHER BUILDINGS

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Beijing, July 18: At least 14 people have died in the latest round of seasonal rains and flooding in southern China, as soldiers and workers built makeshift barriers with sandbags and rocks Saturday to keep the Yangtze River and its tributaries at bay.

Three floodgates of the Three Gorges Dam that spans the Yangtze river need to focus on right now, as opposed to looking at what's going to happen in September or October," he said. There were 77,255 new cases reported on Thursday, crossing a previous record set two days ago, according to Johns Hopkins University.

ple died in neighbouring Hubei province, the emergency management department said in a social media post.

State broadcaster CCTV showed people cleaning up still wet, muddy streets and shops in the city of Enshi after severe flooding Friday. Rescue workers used inflatable rafts to rescue more than 1,900 people trapped in their homes and other buildings.

Downriver, firefighters and others finished filling in a 188-meter (620-foot) break in a dike on Poyang Lake, China's largest freshwater lake, Xinhua said. The dike gave way nine days ago, flooding 15 villages and agricultural fields in Jiangxi province, the news agency said. More than 14,000 people were evacuated.

The incoming waters were expected to peak Saturday behind the Three Gorges Dam, but more water is forecast to arrive around Tuesday, Xinhua said.

The hydropower dam is used to mitigate catastrophic flooding. Seasonal flooding strikes large parts of China annually, especially in its central and southern regions, but the rainfall has been unusually high this year.

About 1.8 million people have been evacuated and direct losses attributed to flooding are estimated at more than 49 billion yuan ($7 billion), according to the Ministry of Emergency Management.

US civil rights icon Lewis dies

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Washington, July 18: US civil rights icon and Democratic Congressman John Lewis has passed away, House Speaker Nancy Pelosi confirmed in a statement. He was 80.

In the statement posted on her website and social media on late Friday confirming Lewis's death, Pelosi said he "was a titan of the civil rights movement whose goodness, faith and bravery transformed our nation", and that as a Congressman he was "revered and beloved on both sides of the aisle and both sides of the Capitol", the BBC reported.

"Every day of John Lewis's life was dedicated to bringing freedom and justice to all," she said. "As he declared 57 years ago during the March on Washington, standing in the shadow of the Lincoln Memorial: 'Our minds, souls, and hearts cannot rest until freedom and justice exist for all the people.' How fitting it is that even in the last weeks of his battle with cancer, John summoned the strength to visit the peaceful protests where the newest generation of Americans had poured into the streets to take up the unfinished work of racial justice," Pelosi added. Lewis was one of the "Big Six" civil rights leaders, which included Martin Luther King Jr, and helped organise the historic 1963 March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom at which the latter delivered his historic "I Have a Dream" speech. Lewis was the last surviving speaker from the March. As a Congressman he was a Georgia Democrat, and represented an area which covered most of its capital Atlanta.

Arson suspected in Nantes cathedral fire

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nantes, July 18: French officials launched an arson inquiry Saturday after a fire broke out in the Gothic cathedral of the western French city of Nantes, shattering stained glass windows and sending black smoke spewing from between its towers.

Residents and tourists watched aghast, and emergency workers cordoned off the area around the St Peter and St Paul Cathedral, in the historical center of this city on the Loire River. A City Hall official said the fire broke out Saturday morning inside the cathedral, and the cause is unclear. The official is not authorized to be publicly named. No injuries have been reported. The local firefighter service said the roof is not affected by the fire and was "under control." They brushed aside comparisons with Notre Dame cathedral in Paris whose lead roof and spire burned down in April 2019. The Nantes fire for many will bring back memories of that devastating blaze that threatened to topple the medieval monument.

Police officer suspended for kneeling on Black man's neck

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

London, July 18: A Scotland Yard officer has been suspended after an "extremely disturbing" footage emerged that appears to show him kneeling on the head and neck of a Black man during an arrest here.

The video recorded in Islington area of the UK capital shows two officers holding the handcuffed suspect on the pavement. A second Metropolitan Police officer has been removed from operational duty following the arrest on Thursday evening.

The UK has seen widespread Black Lives Matter protests following the death of 46-year-old African American George Floyd in Minneapolis in the US on May 25 while he was in police custody. Deputy Met Police commissioner Sir Steve House said the footage was "extremely disturbing" and had been referred to the police watchdog -- the Independent Office for Police Conduct (IOPC).

The video recorded in Islington area of the UK capital shows two officers holding the handcuffed suspect on the pavement. A second Metropolitan Police officer has been removed from operational duty following the arrest on Thursday evening

"The video footage that I have seen today and is circulating on social media is extremely disturbing. Some of the techniques used cause me great concern -- they are not taught in police training," he said.

"One officer has been suspended and another officer has been removed from operational duty, but not suspended at this time. This decision will be kept under review," he added. The Met Police confirmed it had charged a 45-year-old man with possession of a knife in a public place. Marcus Coutain will appear in custody at Highbury Corner Magistrates' Court on Saturday.

London Mayor Sadiq Khan said: "I'm deeply concerned about this distressing incident and we have raised this with senior officers at the Met Police as a matter of urgency. I welcome the fact the incident has been reviewed quickly by the Met and it's right that they have referred it to the IOPC."

In the footage, one of the officers appears to be using his knee to control the suspect and has his hand on the man's head. He is eventually released from the ground and continues to talk to officers after they sit him up. Several police cars arrive at the scene after the arresting officers are confronted by onlookers, who drew parallels with the police custody death of Floyd that triggered Black Lives Matter protests.

Global virus numbers show normal life still far away

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Johannesburg, July 18: South Africa was poised on Saturday to join the top five countries most affected by the coronavirus, while breathing numbers around the world were a reminder a return to normal life is still far from sight.

Confirmed virus cases worldwide have topped 14 million and deaths have surpassed 600,000, according to Johns Hopkins University data, a day after the World Health Organisation reported a single-day record of new infections at over 237,000. Death tolls in the United States are reaching new highs, and India's infections are over 1 million.

Iran's president made the startling announcement that as many as 25 million Iranians could have been infected, the state-run IRNA news agency reported Saturday. Hassan Rouhani cited a new Health Ministry study that has not been made publicly available. Iran has seen the worst outbreak in the Middle East with more than 270,000 confirmed cases.

Experts believe the true numbers around the world are higher because of testing shortages. And as countries try to ease lockdowns, new ripples of cases follow. South Africa Saturday could join the US, Brazil, India and Russia as the most badly hit countries as its cases near 350,000. Current case trends show it will surpass Peru.

That comes as the world marks

Mandela Day remembering South Africa's first Black president and his legacy of fighting inequality. The country, however, remains the world's most unequal, and health officials have warned that the pandemic will lay that bare.

"The simple fact is that many South Africans are sitting ducks because they cannot comply with World Health Organisation protocols on improved hygiene and social distancing," the foundation of former South African archbishop and fellow Nobel Peace Prize winner Desmond Tutu and his wife, Leah, said in a statement. South Africa's new epicenter, Gauteng province, is home to one-quarter of the country's population, with many poor people living in crowded conditions.

The country's cases make up roughly half of all on the African continent. Its struggles are a sign of trouble to come for less-resourced nations there. In India, a surge of 34,884 new cases was reported as local governments continue to reimpose focused lockdowns in several parts of the country, only allowing essential food supplies and health services.

In the US, teams of military medics have been deployed in Texas and California to help hospitals deluged by coronavirus patients. The two most populous states each reported roughly 10,000 new cases and some of their highest death counts since the pandemic began. In China, the number of confirmed cases in a new COVID-19 outbreak in the far western region of Xinjiang has risen to 17. In Bangladesh, confirmed cases surpassed 200,000 but experts say the number is much higher as the country lacks adequate labs for testing. Most people in rural areas have stopped wearing masks and are thronging shopping centers ahead of the Islamic festival Eid al-Adha later this month.

Food exports up 27% amid economic turbulence

We exported almost ₹1,66,000 crore merchandise. It shows the Indian market has bounced back and the international market is responding well to Indian exports

MOHIT SINGLA | CHAIRMAN, TPCI

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, July 18: Despite economic turbulence due to COVID-19, India's overall food exports since March have increased 27%. According to the Trade Promotion Council of India (TPCI), the average growth of 27% during the lockdown and the unlock period came on the back of high demand for food-based items.

"The food sector has shown 27% growth. The major markets that have responded well are the US and Canada," TPCI Chairman Mohit Singla said at the Indo-Canadian virtual "buyer-seller meet (BSM) on food & beverages."

He said exports in June against year-ago month had declined by only 4%.

"We exported almost ₹1,66,000 crore merchandise. It shows the Indian market has bounced back and the international market is responding well to Indian exports," he said.

Recently, official data showed India emerged as a net exporter in June. The country recorded $0.79 billion trade surplus in June against $15.28 billion deficit during the same period of 2019.

On the Indo-Canadian food trade, Singla said, "Canada can be an important market for the Indian F&B industry as it has a large population (approx 2.4 million) of Indian diaspora. Outreach to the mainstream market is the biggest challenge for the Indian F&B industry."

With the support of fellow buyers and the High Commission we would be able to perform better, he added.

India's High Commissioner to Canada Ajay Bisaria said, "The Mission was part of a number of business conferences, but it's the first virtual BSM during the lockdown. It's a positive sign that we are looking beyond the pandemic to go into a recovery phase for business."

The demand for India's ethnic and organic products was rising, he added.

"Canada is projecting the worst economic contraction since the Great Depression of about 6.8 per cent in 2020 instead of 8 per cent or so projected by the IMF for Canada," he said and hoped, all economies, including India and Canada, would have a 'V' shaped recovery rather than 'W' or 'U' shaped recovery."

Things to look for while choosing apt Health Insurance plan

It is rightly said that, 'Let our advance worrying become advance thinking and planning'. With healthcare costs hitting double digit inflation year-on-year, planning for your healthcare needs is essential. It is about bringing the future into the present and taking actions now. Health insurance plays a critical role in having a healthy lifestyle with access to good quality treatment in case of a medical exigency. Below are few things I feel are important to consider while you decide on your health insurance cover.

- Age: Age plays a vital role in deciding your health insurance cover. Although it's never too late to buy insurance, it is advisable to buy health insurance at a younger age as it will come at a lower premium rate since you're less prone to health risks.
- Premium: While keeping an eye on the premium, one must also read through the features of bonus and discount along with the deductibles and co-payments under the policy. It is important to keep all these points in mind to ensure the right selection of plan and wise use of funds.
- Family history: If you have a family history of lifestyle dis-

If you opt for a health insurance cover that is not adequate or is restrictive you may have to shell money from your pocket

- Ability to pay: I feel that one must invest at least 2% of their yearly income to buy a health insurance policy that provides them with adequate coverage.

For instance, if a person earns ₹6 lakh a year, he might be able to pay an amount that is up to 2% of that the yearly income which comes down to ₹12,000.

Do your homework on the kind of products available and do it right before you buy your health insurance plan. Check if the coverage is enough for you and matches your requirement. After all, you are responsible for yours and your family's well-being. An appropriate health insurance cover will help you stay worry-free in terms of managing medical expenses in case of any exigency.

SPECTATORS ALLOWED BACK INTO SPORTS EVENTS IN ENGLAND FROM NEXT WEEK

FAN FEST SET TO RETURN

ASSOCIATED PRESS

London, July 18: Spectators will be allowed back into some sports events in England from next week as coronavirus prevention measures are tested ahead of a planned wider reopening of stadiums in October.

Domestic cricket July 26-27 is set to be the first sport that fans are allowed to watch in person since March. Some spectators will also be allowed into the world snooker championship in Sheffield from July 31, and the Glorious Goodwood horse racing festival August 1 is also part of a government scheme piloting the return of fans.

"From October we intend to bring back audiences in stadia ... in a COVID-secure way subject to the successful outcome of pilots," British Prime Minister Boris Johnson said in Downing Street Friday.

Prof. Susan Michie, who advises the government on the pandemic response, fears reopening sports to fans — particularly indoor venues — could lead to a rise in virus cases and another lockdown.

"We've gone too far, too fast already," Michie said in an interview. "I think the data will begin to show that. I don't think we should have opened indoor pubs, much as I like pubs. And I think to begin opening up mass sporting events is not a good idea."

Stadium capacities will still be restricted, and staggered entry times, social distancing measures and one-way systems will be required. Barriers or screens will have to be installed where social distancing cannot be maintained when buying food and merchandise or betting. Fans will be told not to attend if they could have been exposed to COVID-19.

"With the excitement of sport, where people are standing up," Michie said, "I don't think social distancing would happen."

Announcing a further easing of lockdown restrictions, Johnson said the measures could be reversed if coronavirus infection rates begin to climb again with concerns about a new coronavirus spike this winter.

The UK's official pandemic death toll, which stood at more than 45,000 as of Friday, has for several weeks been the highest in Europe and the third highest in the world behind the United States and Brazil.

Sports Minister Nigel Huddleston cautioned that it will "remain some time" before stadiums can be full again. The Premier League will finish the season without fans at games, and there will be no spectators at the 90,000-capacity Wembley Stadium for the FA Cup semifinals this weekend.

"For months millions of us have felt the void of being unable to go to the match to support our team or attend a top-class sporting event," Huddleston said.

"So I am pleased that we are now able to move forward with a plan to help venues safely reopen their doors to fans. I recognize that not every sport, team or club has the benefit of huge commercial revenue, and it is often their dedicated fans that are the lifeblood which helps keep them going. By working closely with sports and medical experts, these pilots will help ensure the safe return of fans to stadia."

The English Football Association last month announced it was cutting 82 jobs to cover an anticipated deficit of 300 million pounds (USD 370 million) due to the pandemic restricting crowds at games and more events being canceled, including NFL regular season games.

The Community Shield, contested by the Premier League and FA Cup winners, has been floated as a potential test event. "Supporters are the lifeblood of our national game, and that has been underlined by how much their absence has been felt at matches over the last month," the FA said.

"We will continue to work closely with the relevant authorities on how we can bring them back in a safe and secure manner, including any help we can provide to the proposed pilot events."

English Rugby Football Union chief executive Bill Sweeney said in May that 85 per cent of the governing body's revenue comes from hosting men's international games at Twickenham.

England has been working on the assumption its Six Nations campaign and quartet of autumn test matches can be played across October and November as the RFU seeks to avoid losses of more than USD 100 million caused by the pandemic.

Leeds back in EPL after 16-year exile

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Leeds, July 18: Setting off smoke bombs in the team's yellow and blue, Leeds United fans celebrated outside their Elland Road stadium after the northern English team's 16-year exile from the Premier League ended.

Marcelo Bielsa's side secured promotion from the second-tier Championship with two games to spare Friday after West Bromwich lost to Huddersfield 2-1. Bielsa was filmed in a tracksuit celebrating with fans near his home.

A return to the world's richest football league comes a year after a late collapse saw the northern English team drop to third place and have to go through the playoffs where it was beaten.

"Our club, our fans and our players have sacrificed so much — we've been in the doldrums for 16 years," captain Liam Cooper said. "To be part of this team and to lead this team to promotion back to where we know we've always belonged is unbelievable."

Seen as a sleeping giant of English soccer, Leeds won the last of its three English league titles in 1992 — the final season before the inception of the Premier League — and was a Champions League semi-finalist in 2001.

A financial implosion led to Leeds being relegated from the Premier League in 2004, with debts rising to more than 100 million pounds (now USD 125 million) and fears the club could go out of business.

Leeds was forced to sell all of its players and other assets, including the stadium academy, and stumbled from crisis to crisis under a succession of owners.

Leeds went into administration in 2007 under Ken Bates' ownership, which led to the team being relegated to the third tier where it spent three seasons. Leeds fared little better under the next set of owners, GFH Capital, before the arrival of controversial Italian Massimo Cellino. During Cellino's chaotic three-year ownership Leeds had seven different managers, but current owner Andrea Radrizzani bought a 50 per cent stake in Leeds in January 2017 to signal the dawning of a new era. Radrizzani purchased the remaining 50 per cent from Cellino the following May.

The 49ers Enterprises investment affiliate of the San Francisco NFL team also took a minority ownership stake in 2018. Leeds made a bold statement of intent by appointing Bielsa in the summer of 2018.

Bielsa spent seven years in charge of Argentina, guiding it to Olympic gold in 2004 and the runner-up spot in the Copa America the same year.

He also guided Chile to the 2010 World Cup, while Athletic Bilbao reached the Europa League final and Copa del Rey final under him in 2012. After spells at Marseille, Lazio and Lille, Bielsa was competing in the second-tier at Leeds. He proved an instant hit, transforming the same squad he inherited into genuine promotion challengers in his first season.

I'm not eligible for Khel Ratna, says Harbhajan

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, July 18: Veteran off-spinner Harbhajan Singh Saturday clarified the Punjab government's decision to withdraw his nomination for this year's Rajiv Gandhi Khel Ratna award as he doesn't fit in the eligibility criteria for country's highest sporting honour.

"I have been flooded with calls as to why Punjab Govt withdrew my name from Khel Ratna nominations. The truth is I am not eligible for Khel Ratna which primarily considers the international performances in last three years," the 40-year-old cricketer tweeted.

"The Punjab Govt is not at fault here as they have rightly withdrawn my name. Would urge my friends in media not to speculate."

Bhaji, who has 417 Test and 269 ODI wickets is an Arjuna Awardee and was also conferred with Padma Shri. Bhaji last represented India in Test and ODIs in 2015.

Kapil's advice 'helped' Dravid

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, July 18: Batting great Rahul Dravid says legendary all-rounder Kapil Dev's advice helped him to explore options after his retirement before eventually taking up the coaching job of India A and U-19 sides.

Dravid said he was also 'a little fortunate' that at the back end of his career, he was already in a captain-coach role of IPL side Rajasthan Royals.

"After I finished (playing), there were quite a few options and I was not sure what to do. It was Kapil Dev who gave me this advice actually when I was coming to the end of my career," Dravid told India women's team coach WV Raman on his YouTube channel 'Inside Out'.

"I bumped into him somewhere and he said 'Rahul, don't commit to doing anything straightaway, go out and spend a few years just exploring and doing different things and see what you really like'. I thought it was good advice."

The former captain said initially he liked doing commentary, but later found 'a little disconnect' from the game.

"...the thing that gave me the most satisfaction was really being involved in the game and being connected with the boys. I really liked the coaching side of things and I got sort of involved in that when the opportunity came up to do some coaching with India A and U-19," Dravid said.

"I thought it was a good place to start and took it up and I've really enjoyed it since. I just feel a lot more satisfying to be involved in the coaching side of things," said the legendary batsman, who piled up 13288 runs from 164 Tests between 1996 and 2012.

"Especially the developmental side of coaching, whether India A, U-19 or the NCA. It's really given me the opportunity to work with a lot of the players without having to worry about the immediate results which I think is a really nice space for me to work in."

He backed the BCCI's decision to restrict U-19 players to one World Cup only. "Instead of just 15-20 players, we were able to give 45 to 50 players exposure to the facilities at NCA, good coaches, good physios, good trainers, so it broadens the pool," said Dravid, who is Head of Cricket at the National Cricket Academy in Bangalore.

He said that India A players now felt secured as everyone gets a chance to play. Dravid also revealed that he doubted himself as an ODI player when he was dropped from the Indian team in 1998 mainly due to his strike rate.

"There have been phases in my international career (when I felt insecure). I was dropped from the ODI team in 1998. I had to fight my way back in, was away from the Indian team for a year," he said.

"There were certain insecurities that about whether I'm a good enough one-day player or not because I always wanted to be a Test player, was coached to be a Test player, hit the ball on the ground, don't hit the ball in the air, coaching like that. You sort of worry whether you had the skills to be able to do it (in an ODI)."

Dravid made a comeback to the ODI side ahead of the 1999 World Cup in England and ended up as the highest scorer (461) of the tournament though India failed to make it to the semifinals.

The right-hander later played in the 2003 World Cup and also captained the side in the 2007 World Cup. He scored 10,889 runs from 344 ODIs.

Talking about choosing cricket over academics, he said, "Growing up as a young cricketer in India is not easy. In the time that I grew up there was only Ranji Trophy and revenue was so poor. I had to forgo a CA or MBA to pursue cricket so there was insecurity."

Hamilton takes pole, Bottas 2nd

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Budapest, July 18: Lewis Hamilton beat Mercedes teammate Valtteri Bottas Saturday to take pole position for the Hungarian Grand Prix. It was Hamilton's second straight pole this season and record-extending 90th of his F1 career.

Hamilton has won seven times at the Hungaroring and the veteran British driver needs one more to equal F1 great Michael Schumacher's single-track record of eight wins, when the French GP was held at Magny-Cours.

He was .107 seconds quicker than Bottas and .93 faster than Racing Point driver Lance Stroll. Sergio Perez was fourth.

Four-time F1 champion Sebastian Vettel and his teammate Charles Leclerc finished fifth and sixth. Max Verstappen starts seventh on Sunday for Red Bull ahead of McLaren's Lando Norris.

Bottas won the season-opening Austrian GP and Hamilton clinched the Styrian GP the following week in Austria.

Vaughan backs Sibley despite criticism

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Manchester, July 18: Dominic Sibley maybe facing criticism for scoring one of the slowest Test centuries but former skipper Michael Vaughan says he is just the kind of player England needed.

The 24-year-old scored a 312-ball century in the second Test against West Indies. It was the slowest hundred in Test cricket since November 2014, when Bangladesh's Tamim Iqbal also required 312 balls to reach three-digit mark against Zimbabwe.

Sibley played 372 deliveries in his 120-run knock. "England is a funny team to follow because we criticise them when they play flamboyantly and there were so many on social media criticising the way that Dom Sibley was playing," Vaughan was quoted as saying by 'Wisden'.

"He is absolutely right for this England team. That is exactly what England have required for a long period of time. Someone that just wants to stay in, value their wicket, bat a period of time," he added.

Vaughan, who featured in 82 Tests and 86 ODIs for England, said Sibley should not change his game and the youngster deserves a lot of credit for setting the foundation for the side's flamboyant players to play their game.

"Give the likes of Ben Stokes, Jos Buttler, Ollie Pope, these flamboyant players the foundation to go and play their way. So Dom Sibley deserves a lot of credit for just sticking to his game, I don't think he should change.

"I don't think there is too much wrong with him, maybe he could bring in an off-side game or two just to try and put more pressure on the bowlers when he is set and he gets in," he added.

After losing the series opener by four wickets at Southampton, England took control of the second Test with Sibley (120) and vice-captain Ben Stokes (176) putting forth superb performances with the bat.

"England have played the right game here. They've played with patience, they have put up a score on the board, and now it is down to the West Indies. I believe there is a bit of rain around Saturday, the third day. 'The West Indies, to me, looks like they are going to have to bat two-and-a-half days to try and draw,' Vaughan said.
