State stops top up sops under PMKSY

BISWA BHUSAN MOHAPATRA, OP

Bhubaneswar, Sept 14: Even as farmers are going through a hard time due to Covid-19, the state government has decided to stop providing additional 35 per cent subsidy for execution of micro irrigation projects under the Pradhan Mantri Krishi Sinchayee Yojana (PMKSY).

The directorate of horticulture has stopped providing additional subsidy to farmers which it did over and above the assistance provided by the Centre from the current financial year due to the Covid-19. Horticulture director has written a letter in this regard to all field level officials. However, the State Level Sanctioning Committee (SLSC) under the chairmanship of Chief Secretary will take a final call on this move.

"This is to apprise that the provision of top-up subsidy over and above the subsidy provided under the Central Sponsored Scheme PMKSY (per drop more crop) for installation of drip/sprinkler irrigation system has been decided by the government not to be entertained from the state 2020-21," the director said in his letter. Nonetheless, the provision of subsidy as entertained under the scheme will continue as such as per the provisions of the scheme, he said. The district level officials have also been asked to prepare their plan for the current financial year accordingly.

ANTI-FARMER MOVE

- Govt to end extra 35 pc sops for execution of micro irrigation projects
- Director, horticulture writes to field level officials to stop programme
- Chief Secretary, chairman of SLSC, will take a final call on this move

Yojana (PMKSY) was launched in 2015 with an aim to provide assistance to farmers to set up micro irrigation system drip/sprinkler in their crop fields.

As per the guidelines of the scheme, small and marginal farmers got 55 per cent subsidy for implementation of the micro irrigation project while the subsidy amount for other farmers was 45 per cent. The subsidy cost will be met by both the Centre and the state government in a ratio of 60:40 for all states except for the North Eastern and Himalayan states. In Odisha, the government was providing 35 per cent top up subsidy out of its own resources over and above the assistance mentioned above for all categories of farmers. Hence, the assistance payable to the beneficiary under micro irrigation scheme was 90 per cent for small and marginal farmers and 80 per cent for other farmers. The subsidy payable to the beneficiary is limited to an overall ceiling of 5 hectares per farmer. Small and marginal farmers in the state, especially those doing horticulture crops, will be hit hard by this move of the government.

"In view of Covid-19, the government has taken many austerity measures. This top up subsidy may be stopped for this year only," said an official of the horticulture directorate. Last year, the state government had sanctioned over 23,000 projects under the PMKSY and provided subsidy of over ₹23.58 crore to farmers. The Centre has earmarked ₹45 crore under the scheme for Odisha.

Kangana leaves Mumbai, calls PoK analogy 'bang on'

AGENCIES

Mumbai, Sept 14: Actor Kangana Ranaut Monday said she is leaving Mumbai with a heavy heart but the way she was "terrorized", faced abuses and saw attempts to break her house, her analogy comparing the city with PoK was "bang on".

The actor, whose comment likening Mumbai to Pakistan occupied Kashmir triggered a spat with Maharashtra's ruling Shiv Sena, arrived in the city from her home state Himachal Pradesh last week. On the same day her office here faced action for "illegal" alterations by Shiv Sena-led Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation following which she moved the Bombay High Court which stayed the demolition.

"With a heavy heart leaving Mumbai, the way I was terrorised all these days constant attacks and abuses hurled at me attempts to break my house after my work place, alert security with lethal weapons around me, must say my analogy about PoK was bang on(sic)," Ranaut wrote on Twitter.

Targetting the ruling party, she said the protectors had declared themselves to be "destroyers".

STATE SUPPLEMENTARY BUDGET

Odisha to rework budget priorities

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Sept 14: With the pandemic having ruined the state's as well as nation's economy, the government has started preparing for a supplementary budget to be presented in the Assembly during its winter session. Laying down details of the proposals, the finance department has asked administrative departments to submit their proposals by October 12.

"Covid-19 has posed challenges in every sphere of our life. The state is fighting the pandemic with all its resources with a 'life above rest' approach. The fight appears longer, which would require higher expenditure. However, the strategic lockdown and shutdown to contain the pandemic has adversely affected the economic activities and revenue realization. National and state economies are likely to contract during 2020-21. Thus, there would be a resource shortfall both on account of central transfer as well as own revenues," Finance Secretary AK Meena said in a letter to all departments.

SESSION FROM SEPT 29

The monsoon session of the State Assembly will begin from September 29 and continue till October 7. This session will have eight business days. The Assembly will remain closed on account of Gandhi Jayanti (October 2). However, it will hold business October 4 despite it being a Sunday.

Meena said that it would not be possible to make substantive provisions under any unit in absence of adequate resource back up except for priority sectors. Therefore, the supplementary budget will re-prioritize the annual budget in which departments would be allowed to augment the provision in one unit only by locating equivalent savings in some other units, he said.

All departments were asked to make realistic assessments of their requirements. Focus will be given to health sector. Besides, social security transfers, employment, creation of livelihood opportunities, protecting vulnerable sections, agriculture, MSMEs as well as industries would be given importance.

Covid vax for all not possible before 2024: Serum

AGENCIES

Mumbai, Sept 14: Dampening hopes of a Covid-19 vaccine by year-end, the chief executive of the world's largest manufacturer of vaccines has said that adequate coronavirus vaccine will not be available for everybody in the world to be immunised until the end of 2024. Adar Poonawalla, chief executive of the Serum Institute of India, said that pharma firms were not ramping up production capacity swiftly to be able to inoculate the world population in less duration.

"It's going to take four to five years until everyone gets the vaccine on this planet," Poonawalla was quoted as saying. Poonawalla had earlier predicted that if the coronavirus shot is a two-dose vaccine, as is the case with measles or rotavirus, then the world would require 15 billion doses. The family-operated Serum Institute, which is in Pune, has partnered with five international pharmaceutical companies, including AstraZeneca and Novavax, to develop a coronavirus vaccine and pledged to manufacture one billion doses, out of which it has promised 50% to India. The firm may also tie-up with Russia's Gamaleya Research Institute to produce the Sputnik vaccine.

Poonawalla's remarks on vaccine production and distribution are crucial, in view of the Serum Institute taking on the task of manufacturing shots for the majority of the developing world. Furthermore, his statements have increased scepticism on claims by political leaders who have committed to vaccines by next month amid concerns that huge pre-orders

DESPAIR TO FORE

Pharma firms were not ramping up production capacity swiftly to be able to inoculate the world population in less duration: Poonawalla

If the coronavirus shot is a two-dose vaccine, as is the case with measles or rotavirus, then the world would require 15bn doses from Europe and US will result in developing countries being bumped to the bottom of the list. Poonawalla added that the commitment had outdone the capacity of other vaccine manufacturers. "I know the world wants to be optimistic on it... [but] I have not heard of anyone coming even close to that [level] right now," he told the publication. As part of its agreement with AstraZeneca, the firm will seek to produce Covid-19 vaccine doses that cost closed $3 for 68 countries and under its deal with Novavax, for 92 countries. Poonawalla, who is the son of Cyrus Poonawalla, India's seventh-richest billionaire, minimised the risks over the halt in AstraZeneca trials last week after a participant fell saying, and described it as "very normal". "We're doing a... raise and diluting equity so that we have enough capital to manage the raw materials and equipment we need in the next one or two years to operate at this scale," he told FT.

Poonawalla had in April ordered 600m glass vials and other particulars to gear up for the mass manufacturing of the Covid-19 vaccine. However, he expressed worries over distribution in India, which is witnessing a rapid rise in the number of coronavirus infections, and said that the process would be difficult as there is an absence of a sophisticated cold chain system to transport the vaccine safely to its 1.4 billion people.

Idealism is oxygen to her soul, says Nayantara Sahgal

POST NEWS NETWORK

BHUBANESWAR: Ideals of freedom movement fused with Gandhian principle of non-violence struggle still offer oxygen to her soul which is why she does not fear to criticise any government for their flawed policies and ideologies, said legendary novelist Nayantara Sahgal (93) while participating in an online event Sunday.

The feisty nonagenarian, a member of Nehru-Gandhi family, was at the KLF Bhava Samvad to discuss her journey as a child of the freedom struggle, her upbringing in the Nehruvian era and as a writer reflecting on the contemporary times.

The Kalinga Literary Festival (KLF) has launched KLF Bhava Samvad, an online dialogue platform to bring poets, writers, thinkers, philosophers, spiritual masters, researchers, performers, and common citizens to reflect upon the lives and emotions around the society during this lockdown and beyond.

Sahgal was in conversation with popular poet and art critic Kedar Mishra of Odisha. The discussion covered the author's early days of education and how she got inspired by Gandhi Ji. She lost her father Ranjit Sitaram Pandit in her teens and her mother Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit was a strong force of support.

Talking about how the transition in politics has inspired her writings, she highlighted that the characters from her novels continue to reflect the contemporary times. She stressed that writers have moral obligation to reflect the social reality. She cited how she wrote against the policies of Indira Gandhi and criticised the emergency and for that she was denied a posting to Italy as an ambassador.

KLF, a premier literary festival of India has initiated an online literary webinar series as the entire nation has come to a standstill because of Covid19 lockdown and has witnessed precarious scenarios touching all strata of life. The platform has successfully conducted 51 sessions so far garnering over nine lakhs views.

CB BEGINS PROBE INTO JOB FRAUD

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Sept 14: The state Crime Branch (CB) has initiated a probe into alleged job fraud following a complaint of the Odisha Staff Selection Commission (OSSC). The CB also reportedly found prima facie evidence against the miscreants, who allegedly tried to secure jobs under OSSC using fake documents.

As per sources, one of the accused identified as Debabrata Pradhan is a resident of Odatarabai village under Delang police station in Puri. Pradhan reached the OSSC office at Barrack No-1 in Unit-V area here in October 2019 and claimed that he had received appointment letter for the post of Sub-Inspector of Police under the Combine Police Service exam conducted by the OSSC in 2013.

The OSSC staff immediately suspected his claims as the result for the said exam held during 2013 had already been declared in December 7, 2016.

Meanwhile, the OSSC selected the required number of candidates out of the total 840 who cleared the test as per the number of vacant posts. Many candidates who failed to get the job had also later staged dharna and gheraoed the OSSC office.

When the suspecting OSSC staff asked Pradhan to show documents, he presented a notice downloaded on his cell phone from his personal email address.

The OSSC staffers found the notice to be fake and created by forging the original notice related to the viva voce test for the post of welfare extension officer.

Later, OSSC authorities lodged a complaint with CB which also found during probe that along with Pradhan other persons are involved in the crime. The crime branch requested the Google search engine authorities to find out others involved in the fraud as well as the victims who were cheated.

The CB sleuths found that along with Pradhan some others are also involved in the fraud

OTDC staff fume at 'privatisation' move

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Sept 14: Irked over a purported plan to lease out OTDC Panthaniwases in the state, Utkal Prayatn Nigam Employees' Association (UPNEA) Monday criticised the move and demanded regular salary to the employees.

The future of the employees working at various Panthaniwases would be pushed to uncertainty. OTDC hasn't received any equity share from state government yet despite the profits, said the association, which also demanded regular salary of employees and signing of an MoU with the lessees.

If the demands are not conceded, OTDC employees will opt for mass self-immolation in front of the Chief Minister's residence

BPIA passenger movement soars

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Sept 14: With the phase-wise resumption of services at Biju Patnaik International Airport (BPIA) being rolled out, the city airport showed gradual increase in passengers post lockdown.

Taking to Twitter, Airport Authority of India (AAI), Monday, stated that the BPIA recently witnessed passenger footfall of 95,500 in August 2020 against just 128 earlier in April. This tremendous jump in the number of people availing the service comes as a good sign due to "travellers' trust" in the services and its "safety precautions", it added.

It can be mentioned here that flight services to and from BPIA were affected when the central government ordered suspension of all domestic and international flights earlier in March owing to outbreak of COVID-19. However, a brief hia-

Moreover, as per sources, against 45 daily flights being functional from the BPIA the authorities have allowed service for 20 until now.

Cost escalation halts infra projects

Foundation stones for two high-level bridges in Jajpur were laid in 2013 and were to be completed by 2019, but a year has lapsed since then and amid Covid it looks that it might get delayed more

While the estimated ₹13.77 crore has already been spent, the only visible progress made is two under-construction pillars," said Niranjana Sahu, a local resident, looking at the three-kilometre-long Bahujanga-Dhaudipada high-level bridge on Birupa river

The three-kilometre-long Bahujanga-Dhaudipada high-level bridge on Birupa river and Sakutalapur NH-5 high-level bridge on Sanangenti river under Jaraka Rural Work Project-2 are some of the prime examples of this dilly-dallying. The deadline for completion of the bridges has long gone by. Yet the bridges are still not complete. The foundation stone for the two bridges were laid in 2013. HL Infrastructure, a construction company, has been awarded with the tender to construct the two bridges in 2013-14 financial year. It had promised to complete the construction of the two bridges by April, 2019. However, a year has gone by and the bridges are yet to be completed.

Similarly, the initial cost for construction of Sakutalapur NH-5 high level bridge was estimated at ₹5.55 crore. Now, it has been pegged at ₹5.70 crore. Locals alleged that the dilly-dallying attitude of the officials in the Works department is causing inordinate delays in the completion of the two projects. They have threatened to stage agitations before the District Collector's office soon unless the construction of the bridges was completed.

Admitting that fund constraint has been a hindrance for the second bridge, Chandikhole Rural Development department sub-divisional engineer Tulasi Patra said the work will start once the funds are released. "We are waiting for fund allotments," he said.

For this, the police intercepted a car going towards Raya district from Jalaput late night and found ganja packed in large polythene bags.

Two mobile phones, ₹1,70,000 cash and a car were seized from their possession.

It may be mentioned here that in a recent ganja seizure in Bangalore, the cops there hinted at a possible Odisha link. The seizure was one of the biggest catches with around 1.350 kg of ganja. Though the state police has been keeping an eye on the illegal smuggling of the contraband, the mafia has been able to hoodwink them.

Here, locals confused a butterfly with a snake

THE PATTERN ON THE WINGS OF THE BUTTERFLY WE ARE TALKING ABOUT HAS THE APPEARANCE OF A SNAKE

POST NEWS NETWORK

Koraput, Sept 14: You would have seen various amazing patterns and colour combinations on the wings of butterflies. Well, the pattern on the wings of this particular type of butterfly will top them all. The pattern on the wings of the butterfly we are talking about has the appearance of a snake.

The butterfly had perched on the wall of a house, owned by Soudamini Behera at Bhawaninagar area in this town.

"We first saw the butterfly Sunday. It was perched on the wall. Its wings bear such patterns that they look like two snakes raising their hoods on both sides. We have never ever seen such a pattern on any butterfly," claimed family members. "The butterfly has been in our house since Sunday. We are taking great care of it so that it can't be preyed on by lizards," they added.

The butterfly is eight inches in length and six inches in width with its wings stretched. Its colour is a beautiful combination of orange and golden. As the news spread of this particular butterfly started doing the rounds, people from nearby areas have been flocking to the house of Soudamini to have a glimpse.

Attacus atlas, the atlas moth, is a large saturniid moth endemic to the forests of Asia. The species was first described by Carl Linnaeus in his 1758 10th edition of Systema Naturae.

ETYMOLOGY

The atlas moth is one of the largest lepidopterans, with a wingspan measuring up to 24 cm and a wing surface area of about 160 sq cm.

The body is disproportionately small compared to the wings. The underside of the wings are reddish brown with a pattern of black, white, pink, and purple lines and triangular, scale-less windows bordered in black. The undersides of the wings are paler.

The atlas moth has no mouth, and they do not eat once they have emerged from the cocoon, relying on fat storage for energy. Every flight takes valuable energy and can take days off their already short lives, as it has a very short life span of only one to two weeks. They conserve energy by flying as little as possible. A female will wait for a male to come along and be fertilised, lay eggs and die.

Their habitat is primarily dry tropical forests, secondary forests, and shrublands across South Asia, East Asia, and Southeast Asia, including Borneo, though one specimen, an adult female, was found in 2012 in Ramsbottom, England after it landed on a windowsill, and presumed to have escaped from a private collection.

Atlas moths are named after either Atlas, the titan of Greek mythology (due to their size), or their map-like wing patterns.

Engineer meets watery grave at Palajhar dam

THE DECEASED HAS BEEN IDENTIFIED AS R MUKUNDAM (22), A NATIVE OF TAMIL NADU

POST NEWS NETWORK

Baghiapada, Sept 14: A young engineer drowned while taking selfies at Palajhar dam under Baghiapada outpost limits in Boudh district Sunday.

His body was fished out Monday. The deceased has been identified as R Mukundam (22), a native of Tamil Nadu. He was working at a mega lift irrigation project in the district.

According to a source, he along with his two associates had gone to Palajhar dam built across river Salunki to take a bath. The three were clicking selfies there when Mukundam's mobile phone accidentally slipped from his hand and fell into the water.

To retrieve the phone, Mukundam jumped into the water. His friends were waiting for him near the spot from where Mukundam dived into the water. It was when he did not come out of the water even after long hours that they immediately informed the Boudh fire station.

Fire personnel and an ODRAF team reached the spot and carried out a search operation. They continued searching till the evening but could not find him.

India is the world capital of selfie deaths, accounting for about half of the 259 reported fatalities between 2011 and 2017, according to a study by the US National Library of Medicine

They had to stop the operation due to darkness.

The operation was resumed Monday morning and they eventually stumbled upon the body of the deceased engineer at a place one kilometre from the spot of the occurrence and fished it out.

On being informed, police reached the spot and seized the body for post mortem.

THE MOTHER

Transforming Africa's Agriculture

Over the next 30 years, Sub-Saharan Africa's population will double to over two billion, and its economies will industrialize. Africa's development will therefore be critical to the world's future stability, prosperity, and health. Given this, the continent should be receiving much more international attention.

The COVID-19 crisis has highlighted a number of global vulnerabilities, including the uncoordinated nature of the world's pandemic response, its inability to support the poorest countries and their populations in managing the economic fallout, and of course the weakness of existing health-care infrastructure. Leaders must now urgently address these weaknesses, alongside other major global challenges, ranging from climate change and rising inequality to technological disruption and global terrorism.

Moreover, fragile agriculture and food systems, particularly in Africa and other low-income regions, have exacerbated the pandemic's impact. Unless addressed, these systems' shortcomings could deepen any crisis in the decades ahead.

The argument for fundamental reforms is partly a moral one. The United Nations World Food Programme warns that the number of people suffering from acute hunger in low and middle-income countries – including in Africa – could almost double this year, to 265 million, as a result of the pandemic. Strengthening Africa's agriculture systems is vital to making the continent more self-reliant and resilient to future shocks. Otherwise, economies will remain stagnant, limiting tax revenues and leaving welfare systems unable to support people through crises such as COVID-19.

But it is also in the enlightened self-interest of all countries – including members of the G20 and OECD – to ensure well-functioning agriculture and food systems in Africa and other poor regions. This is because food and agriculture are central to making the world's health, economic, and security systems fit for the 21st and 22nd centuries.

For starters, vibrant food and agriculture sectors are essential for preventing malnutrition – one of the leading global causes of illness – and strengthening them is important in managing pandemics as well. COVID-19 lockdowns and social-distancing measures failed in less developed countries with large informal economies, mainly because of concerns that such regulations would severely harm people's ability to earn enough to feed their families.

Agriculture is also crucial to successful economic transformations. There can be no global economic stability, green economy, or eradication of mass poverty if African and other developing countries do not industrialize. And as the United States, Europe, and Asia have demonstrated, industrialization first requires an agricultural revolution, which Africa has yet to experience.

Bolstering global security, too, entails transforming agriculture and the food system. Terrorism feeds on the disenfranchisement of rural populations in regions like the Sahel, where people can gain more through illicit activity than through the lawful economy and public services.

Finally, revamping agriculture – particularly in Africa – is a precondition for sustainably feeding a global population that could increase to almost 11 billion by the end of this century. Many African leaders are focusing on reforming agriculture – and making progress. Senegal's development of rice and other subsectors, Ghana's Planting for Food and Jobs program, and the work of Ethiopia's Agricultural Transformation Agency are all excellent examples of strong government leadership in this field.

Given the right focus by governments, policymakers can identify agricultural sectors, which, with the deployment of technology and new practices, can attract investment, in turn spurring employment, economic growth, and tax revenues – thereby initiating a virtuous cycle of development. Investment and reform – both domestically and externally financed – can accelerate change.

A series of upcoming global events provide the world with excellent opportunities to advance this agenda – starting with the African Green Revolution Forum, which has been taking place this week, hosted by the government of Rwanda. This gathering is crucial in highlighting the need for Africa – backed by the international community – to step up its efforts to transform its agriculture and food systems in a way that will allow the world to achieve the targets established by the 2030 Sustainable Development Goals. This year's forum focuses on how to feed Africa's rapidly growing cities and urban centers – potentially the global economy's greatest source of future growth.

I have been taking part in the forum for the third consecutive year, though for the first time remotely. My teams and I have focused on how to scale up investment in Africa's agriculture and agro-processing to transform the sector; increase its resilience to crises like pandemics and climate change, and spur the continent's burgeoning industrialization and technological revolution. Next is the UN General Assembly later this month, the G20 summit in November, and the UN Food Systems Summit next year.

The COVID-19 pandemic is a stark reminder that the inability of many poorer countries' agricultural systems to meet their populations' most basic needs will have huge geopolitical consequences if not tackled urgently. Fortunately, the upcoming global gatherings will allow the world to debate the best way forward so that governments can take rapid and effective decisions. We all have a stake in seizing the opportunity.

BURDEN OF BAD LOANS

FOCUS BANKING

Ajit Ranade

AN ISSUE IS THAT BORROWERS WANT AN INTEREST WAIVER, AS WELL AS A WAIVER ON INTEREST ON DELAY IN REPAYMENTS. IT SEEMS UNFAIR TO LOAD THIS BURDEN ON BANK DEPOSITORS AND SHAREHOLDERS

The economy shrank by nearly one-fourth during the first three months of this fiscal year. Much of this was due to the harsh lockdown initiated in March. Roughly three-fourth of the economy was practically shut for a month, after which there were aseries of renewed lockdowns with partial relaxations. For this quarter, the economy suffered a triple shock, as demand, supply and finance collapsed. Unemployment rose close to 30 percent in April, rendering nearly 122 million people jobless. In cities, whose workforce consists of 40 percent migrants on an average, the toll on livelihoods was severe. With loss of jobs and income, it soon became a food crisis for many urban households, necessitating emergency measures from state governments. The Central government's initial relief package was to enhance food security by doubling the rations and extending this up to November.

The big 20-lakh-crore package announced by the Central government in May consisted largely of liquidity support. For instance, micro, small and medium enterprises are eligible to guaranteed loans up to ₹3 lakh crore. Of this amount, roughly half has been sanctioned and loans are being disbursed. It is no wonder that the demand for loans is muted, since small businesses already hit by zero demand are not keen to take on any additional debt burden. But those small businesses which have a cash management mismatch, i.e., they have pending invoices that have not been paid by their customers, are quite willing to take loan support to tide over their crisis. In effect, such small businesses face a problem of illiquidity; not of insolvency.

The situation is similar for all sectors of the economy. RBI has injected liquidity worth nearly ₹8 lakh crore, cumulatively. This is a combination of interest rate cuts, buying up of government bonds from banks (called "open market operations") and buying foreign exchange and releasing cash. The RBI has also given low-cost,

Most of the public sector banks will need a large infusion of equity from the treasury of the Central government, especially on account of rising bad loans. There is simply no easy way to dodge this fiscal bullet long-term funds to commercial banks as well as non-bank finance companies. This is called a long-term repo operation. Much of this excess liquidity, i.e., cash availability, has not resulted in a loan growth, but instead has probably gone into the stock market. The inflow of foreign funds plus excess liquidity in Indian banking is one reason that the stock market has recovered by more than 50 percent since the steep fall in March. To some extent, we have recovered from at least one of the three shocks in the triple shock, i.e., the financial shock.

While GDP shrinks and the supply and demand challenges remain, the second quarter GDP may show some improvement. But the growth numbers will still be negative. More than half the households, as per a survey, are reporting that their income this year will be lower than of last year. Businesses too are struggling to catch up to pre-Covid revenues. In such a situation, the bank credit to industry will be highly stressed.

The bi-annual financial stability report of the RBI had already warned in its July report that non-performing assets ratio could rise a full 4 percentage points from March 2020 to March 2021. That is nearly a write-off of ₹4 lakh crore of bank loans. If there was a 'severely stressed scenario', the NPA ratio could be 2 percent higher at 14.7 percent, which means a write-off of an additional ₹2 lakh crore. The banks' risk adjusted capital ratio is adequate to meet these write-offs in the aggregate. Under severe stress, this required capital buffer ratio could decline all the way to 9.4 percent, which is not enough as per Basel norms. With rising bad loans, the banks can make profit, and give a decent return to depositors and shareholders by charging a profitable interest rate on the good quality loans. Hence, despite rate cuts by the RBI, the banks are unable to pass on lower interest costs to "good" borrowers, since the burden of NPAs is rising.

To add to these woes of banks, there has been the loan moratorium to tide over the severe stress caused by the pandemic, the RBI announced a three-month moratorium on 'good' loans starting from March. This moratorium was then extended by another three months to the end of August. As of now, the moratorium matter is in the Supreme Court, and has been effectively extended till September 28, the date of the next hearing.

The issue is that borrowers want an interest waiver, as well as a waiver on interest on interest, caused by the delay in repayments. It seems unfair to load this burden on bank depositors and shareholders. If indeed the borrowers deserve relief, then it should be given as explicit fiscal relief, i.e. from the Central government's treasury. But, such a partial waiver to borrowers who opted for the moratorium and not others who did not is also problematic.

The larger issue is what to be done about banking health in times of the pandemic. The RBI-constituted KV Kamath committee has submitted a report identifying 26 sectors to which loans will need to be restructured, so that they are not counted as NPAs. The committee has carefully identified sectors affected directly by the pandemic which hence need relief. But those that were already doing badly pre-pandemic need to be dealt with differently. Nearly 72 percent of the banking sector debt has been affected by Covid and will need some restructuring. The recommendations are based on clearly defined parameters and banks have been split into mild, moderate and severely stressed.

Meanwhile, data from August shows that industrial credit demand is not increasing. In fact, in the first quarter, the demand for 13 out of 19 major industry groups had negative growth as per a CARE Ratings report. The other six were barely positive or zero. Banks need healthy growth in credit demand to remain viable, if not profitable. Most of the public sector banks will need a large infusion of equity from the treasury of the Central government, especially on account of rising bad loans. There is simply no easy way to dodge this fiscal bullet.

More of liquidity, cash flow for migrants

It is globalisation across the globe. The world has applied the brakes on the economy due to an unprecedented civilizational lockdown. India, termed as the engine of global growth, has taken a big hit and it may take quite a few years for it to regain its strength. All economies in intense relationships having lost over 30 percent of their GDP are now getting more local and regional. Never before has civilization panicked before an epidemic as it has unwisely done now. Let there be a probe whether or not this is a conspiracy to kill Indian economy.

The supposed disease is not lethal, in the Indian context, but the panicky closure of all activities, travel and business has ruined the economy. Rightly, former RBI governor Raghuram Rajan says India's GDP contraction must alarm everyone. He is correct because India, the global growth leader, had started slowing down since August 2019 amid the Sino-US trade war, the thaw in EU economy and fall in global demand. Even with some resumption of activities, the fall in GDP by minus 23.9 percent in June quarter so far may also mean an average contraction of 14.8 percent (Goldman Sachs) or 11.8 percent (India Ratings) or 10.5 percent (Fitch Ratings) for 2020-21. Most of these estimates indicate a looming deterioration in asset quality in the financial sector. The agencies are expecting positive growth not before 2022. Fitch says India records the sharpest GDP contraction but expects a rebound.

The world stock markets are in tizzy except for tech giants like Apple, Microsoft, Amazon, Facebook and Google which have added $1 trillion to their market capitalisation. Cornerstone Macro says 100 of the 500 on Standard & Poor's index, are trading at more than 50 percent below their peak. Indian situation is similar as we find that Reliance has added $10 million.

Some other tech companies have done well. But most others in mid and small segments particularly airlines, real estate, hotels, restaurants are not in demand.

Through 2019, initial public offerings (IPO) dried up as volatility grips the market. Till August 2019, only 11 companies launched IPOs raising ₹10,049 crore compared to 24 public issues raising ₹20,559 crore in 2018. There is an 'X' factor that is being discussed since August 2019 amid the then global growth slowing down, affecting the Indian economy. It is a twin balance sheet problem of high non-performing assets and credit stress in companies.

The job creation growth fell alarmingly since 2018-19, according to CARE Ratings study of 960 large companies, in farming, crude oil, telecom, iron and steel, mining and hospitality. In the large firms, the job growth was 4.2 percent (5.78 million) against 6.2 percent in 2017-18. The Centre for Monitoring Indian Economy estimated in 2018 that 11 million people lost their jobs – of this, 9.1 million in rural and 1.8 million in urban areas.

Rating agency ICRA has calculated that actual deficit for states would be ₹2.9 lakh crore, ₹57,000 crore more than estimated in 2021. The Centre's shareable taxes at ₹13.4 lakh crore for the current financial year, ICRA says, is 30 percent lower than the budgeted amount of ₹19.1 lakh crore.

The present developments reveal that 68 percent of companies will see hurdle in recovery. The remedy suggested is simple – additional cash transfers to migrant workers, poor and farmers and a temporary halt in GST collection. The companies also want financial liquidity, managing costs, manpower availability and supply chain issue solutions. Though unlock has a positive impact, if the liquidity and transactions in cash do not improve, the hiring and expansions may not happen. INFA

Sir, In the initial four months, Odisha successfully controlled the spread of coronavirus, but now the spread is more than that of other states. The arrival of migrant labourers from other states might be one reason why the number of infections have seen a sharp rise in recent weeks. Notably, the all India CAGR is 2.09 per cent per day, but for Odisha it's 2.84 per cent. The daily cases per million population is 67 for India, 82 for Odisha and 242 for Khordha (Bhubaneswar included). However, due to better health services in Odisha, daily deaths per million population is at the rate of 0.25 against 0.83 for India. This is time to maintain the maximum alert and see that the spread is halted to the minimum. There is need to observe social distancing norms in more serious ways.

Ladakh standoff

Sir, China never practises what it preaches in relation to agreements on border disputes. Still, there is talk of maintaining and enhancing peace in border areas, as mentioned in the joint statement issued after the meeting between External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar and his Chinese counterpart Wang Yi. In order to restore peace and tranquility along the LAC, China's words will have to turn into action on the ground, and that will mean progress in resolving border tensions. Even as the Chinese talk about peace, large numbers of PLA soldiers continue to stand in different positions carrying rifles and iron rods. As they talk about peace, the build-up too is constantly increasing. A large number of Chinese tanks and armoured vehicles have been deployed in different areas. Even though both the countries have officially reached a 5-point consensus to attempt de-escalation, neither side is ready to take the first step. The PLA that has strengthened its positions in the areas it has infiltrated is not likely to retreat in the near future. The huge build-up of troops on the ground suggests that there may be localised conflicts between the two troops. Both the countries are sitting on a tinderbox and any misunderstanding can spark conflicts that will prove costly to both. In this context, it is imperative that both Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chinese President Xi Jinping initiate total de-escalation and disengagement. There must be a broader understanding and agreement on border issues. It must be a give-and-take kind of deal.

Eye on polls, TMC woos Hindi-speaking populace

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Kolkata, Sept 14: With an eye on the votes of the Hindi speaking populace in the 2021 West Bengal Assembly polls, the ruling Trinamool Congress Monday formalised the structure of its Hindi cell and appointed party MP Dinesh Trivedi as its chairman.

The Hindi speaking population holds sway in some of the areas of the state.

West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee Monday appointed Trivedi, former Railway minister and one of the prominent non-Bengali faces of the party as the chairman of the West Bengal Trinamool Congress Hindi cell.

Vivek Gupta, editor of a Hindi daily and a former TMC MP appointed as its president. Earlier in the day, Banerjee wished the people on Hindi Diwas and said the state government has taken various initiatives to strengthen Hindi education, besides the culture and welfare of the community in Bengal.

“Warm wishes on #HindiDiwas. Bengal is a land of inclusivity, and through our persistent efforts, we have proudly inculcated Tagore’s val-

CULTURAL SUB-NATIONALISM

After the electoral reverses in the Lok Sabha poll, last year and the rise of the BJP as a prime contender, Banerjee has often invoked the ‘Bengali pride’ and labelled BJP a party of ‘outsiders’

Narratives themed around ‘Bengali pride’ and ‘natives versus outsiders’ are slowly gaining momentum, with various outfits raising the pitch for reservation for domicile Bengalis in jobs and education in the state, where until a few years ago cultural sub-nationalism was an alien concept

The latest to add fuel to the fire was the alleged online vilification of Bengali women with many fans of deceased actor Sushant Singh Rajput calling his rumoured girlfriend Rhea Chakraborty and others from the community ‘gold diggers’ and ‘witches’ ues of ‘Unity in Diversity’. GoWB has taken various initiatives to strengthen Hindi Education, Culture and Welfare of the community in Bengal,” Banerjee said in a tweet.

She took the opportunity to remind the Centre to include Bengali as a classical language in the new National Education Policy (NEP). “GoWB has constantly persevered to undertake inclusive development for all by giving recognition to Hindi, Urdu, Gurmukhi, Ol Chiki, Rajbanshi, Kamtapuri, Kurukh languages. I urge the Centre to follow suit by also including Bengali as a classical language in NEP 2020,” she tweeted.

According to TMC sources, the formation of the Hindi cell and appointment of Trivedi as its chairman is aimed at wooing the Hindi-speaking voters of the state, who had shifted their allegiance to BJP during the 2019 Lok Sabha polls.

“In some of the areas of North 24 Parganas, Siliguri, central Kolkata, Asansol, Durgapur and some other parts of the state the Hindi-speaking population is a determining factor in some of the assembly seats. Although they had voted for us all these years, during 2019 polls they had voted for BJP. We need to win them back,” a senior TMC leader said.

The development comes in the backdrop of Bengali sub-nationalism emerging as a rallying cry in West Bengal ahead of the assembly elections.

Speaking at an online news conference, Trivedi said the Hindi cell, which has been functioning informally since 2011, was given a formal structure to create “an open platform for bringing together all Hindi speaking people of the state.”

He said Mamata Banerjee sees all languages as a bouquet and the state has kept its doors open to people speaking different languages.

Reacting to the development, West Bengal BJP president Dilip Ghosh said the cell had been created with an eye on Hindi-speaking voters.

“It is good that those who have been saying that outsiders will not rule Bengal have understood the importance of Hindi. But the fact is this cell has been created with an eye on elections and TMC is not at all serious about it,” Ghosh said.

Bengal BJP aims at inducting 20 lakh Muslims

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Kolkata, Sept 14: The Minority Morcha of the West Bengal BJP has set an ambitious target of inducting 20 lakh Muslims by the end of the year, as part of its efforts to dent the vote share of the ruling TMC in the state, ahead of 2021 Assembly elections.

According to the Minority Morcha’s state president, Ali Hossain, around 4.5 lakh people from the community have already joined the saffron party.

“We have set a target of inducting 20 lakh minorities by December. Of that, four lakh have already been inducted. In the next four months, the target will be achieved,” he said.

Muslims constitute 28-30 per cent of the state’s total vote share, and play a deciding factor in more than 120 of the 294 Assembly segments in the state

Muslims constitute 28-30 per cent of the state’s total vote share, and play a deciding factor in more than 120 of the 294 Assembly segments in the state.

According to Hossain, opposition parties, for several years, have ‘misguided’ the community members about BJP’s intentions and generated a ‘fear psychosis’.

“Many intellectuals and educated youths from the minority community have now joined the BJP as they have realised that the party believes in ‘development for all’. Opposition camps have been misleading the Muslims about the Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA). Now people have come to realise that it has nothing to do with their citizenship,” he said.

According to sources in the morcha, the saffron party plans to woo around 10 lakh Muslims from 120 minority-dominated

TMC mocks ‘game plan’

The TMC mocked the BJP’s ‘game plan’ and said minorities stand firmly behind the Mamata Banerjee-led party, as it is the most ‘credible secular force’ in Bengal. “The minorities would never trust a communal force like the BJP. The TMC is the most secular force in the state, which has worked relentlessly for the development of all communities,” the ruling party’s secretary-general, Partha Chatterjee, said.

Assembly constituencies in the state, and the rest from the remaining 174 segments.

State BJP sources said the party had been trying to woo the minorities for quite some time, but its efforts received a setback following last year’s vehement protests over the CAA and the proposed exercise to prepare the National Register of Citizens (NRC) in Bengal.

“To win elections in West Bengal, it is necessary to secure a section of the minority votes or ensure that the minority votes of the TMC get divided. En bloc minority votes for a particular party can swing the elections. Over the last few years, the minorities have got disillusioned with the TMC government and restored their faith on the development agenda of the BJP,” a senior saffron party leader here said.

The BJP, over the last few years, has made deep inroads and emerged as a prime challenger of the ruling TMC in Bengal, by pushing the traditional opposition parties the CPI (M) and the Congress to distant third and fourth positions.

The saffron camp reached its all-time high in Bengal politics last year, when it stunned political pundits by bagging 18 of the 42 Lok Sabha seats in the state, four less than the ruling TMC, and with a staggering vote share of 41 per cent votes.

Kolkata Metro resumes services after 5 months

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Kolkata, Sept 14: Metro rail services in Kolkata resumed Monday after a gap of more than five months, a senior official said.

The regular services were suspended March 23 due to the COVID-19 outbreak. Special trains, however, were run for NEET aspirants and their guardians Sunday.

“Services resumed at 8 am and around 12,900 people commuted till 4 pm,” Kolkata Metro Railway General Manager Manoj Joshi told PTI. “The last trains from the originating stations on both sides will commence their journey at 7 pm and complete it by 8 pm,” he said.

Joshi said all safety protocols including social distancing are being followed.

A train is halting at a station for 30 seconds instead of the previous duration of 20 seconds to avoid rush during boarding and deboarding, a Metro Railway spokesperson said.

A total of 110 services are being run on the Noapara-Kavi Subhash line at an interval of 10 minutes during peak hours, she said.

Also, 72 services are being run on the East-West line between Sector V and Salt Lake Stadium stations, the spokesperson said.

The services will remain suspended Sundays for the sanitisation of rakes and stations, she said.

Commuters can book their tickets online and download the e-passes or use smart cards, the spokesperson said.

The e-passes mention the departure and destination points along with time slots.

Sandeep Tewary, a middle-aged commuter, said he faced difficulty in downloading the e-pass to board a train at Sovabazar metro station.

Young executives like Aparna Maity, however, felt that the no contact ticketing system is ideal in the present situation. Another commuter, Kinshuk Basu, said, “This is a welcome change. Everything was so smooth and the staff was cooperative. I hope this continues in the future. We cannot do without Metro services.”

AASU-AJYCP’s proposed party to be named ‘Asom Jatiyo Parishad’

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Guwahati, Sept 14: The political outfit to be floated by Assam’s powerful students’ organisations AASU and the AJYCP will be named the ‘Asom Jatiyo Parishad’.

Convenors of the Assam Advisory Committee (AAC) formed by the All Assam Students’ Union (AASU) and the Asom Jatiyatibadi Yuba Chatra Parishad (AJYCP) made the announcement Monday.

“The name was selected from three suggestions made during a meeting of the committee Sunday,” former Gauhati University professor Dr Krishna Gopal Bhattacharjya, one of the two convenors of the 16-member AAC, told reporters. The new political entity will be guided by the slogan ‘ghore ghore aami’ (we are in each household) to establish relations with each family in the state and not just seek votes during the elections, he said.

Elections to the 126-member Assam Assembly are due early next year. Veteran politician Jagadish Bhuyan has been appointed as the coordinator of the party, he said.

The formation of the party till the booth-level will be completed by October 30, the committee’s other convenor, former professor of Handique Girls’ College, Basanta Deka, said. The party’s constitution has almost been prepared and its state-level committee will be formed by the first week of November, he said.

The logo and the flag of the Asom Jatiyo Parishad, however, will be decided later, Deka said. The AASU and the AJYCP had

The new party will focus on clean governance and work for the development of various communities, Bhattacharjya said.

The outfit will welcome like-minded individuals and organisations from various communities that share similar interests and objectives, he said.

Many people from various political parties, including the Asom Gana Parishad (AGP), which is part of the ruling coalition in the state, have expressed willingness to join the new party, Bhattacharjya said. However, caution will be exercised in letting in members by examining their motives to join the new political entity, he said.

AASU president Dipanka Kumar Nath, during a joint press conference with the AJYCP September 12, had said the two organisations will remain students’ bodies and will not be directly involved in the functioning of any political party.

WB police’s core groups to deal with fake news

The police department has recently posted two additional sub-inspectors, having knowledge in computer science, at each of the cyber crime units.

The teams will be working 24X7 to address the problem. They will try to identify the origin of ‘fake news’ and stop the spread of the misinformation

West Bengal Police had tweeted, “A rumour regarding Durga Puja is being spread through WhatsApp. No such decision has been taken. Please do not forward this message. It’s fake. Action is being taken.”

Baghjan oil well blowout singes fields, fish & livelihood

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Baghjan (Assam), Sept 14: For more than 100 days, the fire raged, a tall blaze of angry orange that killed the fish in ponds and streams, destroyed homes and turned to ash the green farmlands around the Baghjan oil field in Assam’s Tinsukia district.

The fire at an Oil India Ltd well that started with oil and natural gas gushing out uncontrollably May 27 and went up in flames June 9 was controlled Sunday, said reports. But the trauma will take much longer to subside, said residents of the area around the oil field that has 17 oil and five gas wells.

The sight of the flames that coloured the skies saffron and the sound of the blaze have led to people in Baghjan village complaining of disorientation, sleepless nights and confusion.

“It was like hearing 100 helicopters constantly over my head,” said Manoj Hazarika who hasn’t slept properly in weeks.

The tales find wide echo in the village of nearly 500 residents, many who earned their living fishing, tilling their fields, some with betel nut trees, and working in the tea gardens close by. It is a village ruined, said locals, estimating that several homes have been completely burnt and about 500 hectares of land destroyed. Kajoli Hazarika, whose home is just about 200 metres from well no 5 which caught fire, added that the area has also been experiencing frequent tremors since the blowout in June.

“When the massive fire burnt a huge amount of oxygen in the periphery, an air vacuum was created. This resulted in sudden air movement and created minor local tremors,” an OIL official explained.

The scientific explanation does little to comfort Kajoli Saikia, who recounts in vivid detail the day it all began. It was 10:30 am May 27, she was going about her usual household chores when a series of “earthquakes” and a strange, viscous rain began. A massive sound followed, forcing the villagers to step out of their homes to figure out what was happening.

“The tin roof of my house, the windows and doors began to shake,” Saikia said.

In a couple of days, the fish in ponds and streams were dead and ashen white, added Prakash Hazarika. He said he has seen cows and goats giving birth to dead calves and kids, fish dying and birds struggling to take flight.

A carcass of a cow at the edge of a wooded area is a sign of the ravages the fire has wrought. The “strange rain” described by locals was oil and natural gas pouring down on the houses, fields and water bodies around the oil field. Thirteen

For more than two weeks, they have been staging a sit-in to demand better shelter and future of their children, and justice for those who have lost their lives. Kajoli Hazarika, for instance, said she has received compensation of ₹20 lakh plus ₹30,000 along with 11 other families whose properties were completely ravaged in the fire.

But that is just not enough for the more than six acres of farmland that has been reduced to ashes. She said she doesn’t know what to do with the money – buy land, make a house or find an alternative livelihood.

The Assam Pollution Control Board had issued a closure notice to the Baghjan Oil field in June on the grounds that OIL had been operating without obtaining prior consent to establish and operate from the Assam Pollution Control Board. Arnab Kishore Bordoloi, an OIL engineer, lost his life due to high voltage electric shock September 9, 2020. Two OIL officials were suspended for alleged negligence of duty at the gas well site, while a show cause notice was sent to John Energy Pvt Ltd, the outsourced private operator of the well.

days later, it turned into an inferno. Dilip Mala, a labourer who was working at a construction site rushed to attend to his pregnant wife Sumitra, when he saw fire engulf the surrounding areas. There was chaos and panic, he said.

Villagers rushed to get hold of whatever belongings they could from their homes and fled. He said he did not think the fire could be controlled but firefighters were able to douse the flames before they could spread further. Two firefighters died in the process due to burns and injuries while on duty.

But the gas well fire continued to spew flames into the air, a tall, narrow blaze that contaminated the waters and fields and changed the micro climate of the area.

“The damage to the ecosystem has been grave and largely irreparable, the ultimate impact of which will be felt in terms of ecological imbalances and lost livelihood opportunities,” said a statement by Wetlands International South Asia, an NGO dedicated to the conservation and sustainable management of wetlands in South Asia region. RJD questions Raghuvansh's letters to Nitish

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Patna, Sept 14: The Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD) Monday cast doubts over letters written by its founding member Raghuvansh Prasad Singh, from his hospital bed, barely a couple of days before breathing his last, drawing angry reactions from the ruling NDA in Bihar.

Singh, who died at AIIMS, New Delhi Sunday, had Thursday announced his resignation from the party vide a hand-written addressed to jailed RJD supremo Lalu Prasad and followed it up with a series of communications, the next day, drawing the attention of Chief Minister Nitish Kumar towards a number of issues.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi while paying rich tributes to the departed leader Sunday had also referred to Singh's letter to the Bihar Chief Minister where he raised the issue of development of his erstwhile Lok Sabha seat Vaishali. "I will request Nitish Kumar to execute the development projects he wrote about in the letter. Let's together—the state and the Centre—fulfill his wishes," Modi said.

Nitish Kumar, who is Prasad's arch rival and heads the Janata Dal (United), had Sunday night said at the assembly premises, where Singh's mortal remains were brought on way to his native village for cremation, "we have started acting on the requests of late Raghuvansh babu. Some issues raised by him fall in the ambit of the Centre and we have referred these to the Union government for appropriate action". Among other things, Singh had sought extension of MGNREGA benefits to the farm sector.

A screenshot of Nitish Kumar's written reply to Singh, penned while the latter was still alive, was also shared on the official twitter handle of the Chief Minister's Office. RJD MLA Bhai Virendra and MLC Subodh Rai smelt a rat and asserted "no person, admitted to a hospital's Intensive Care Unit, can write a letter". Singh had been admitted to the ICU of AIIMS about a week ago for treatment of complications he had developed after recovering from COVID-19. He was put on ventilator late Friday and died less than 48 hours later.

Bhushan files review plea against conviction

September 12, Bhushan had moved a plea filed in the apex court seeking a right of appeal against his conviction, to be heard by a larger and a different bench

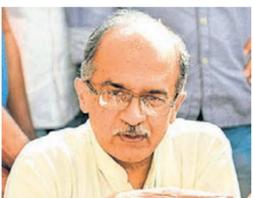

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Sept 14: Advocate Prashant Bhushan Monday filed a review petition in the Supreme Court, challenging its verdict convicting him for criminal contempt of court by making derogatory statements against the judiciary through tweets.

September 12, Bhushan had moved a plea filed in the apex court seeking a right of appeal against his conviction, to be heard by a larger and a different bench. The top court had imposed a token penalty of Re 1 on Bhushan, which he deposited in the court Monday. Addressing the media, Bhushan said that paying the fine does not mean he had accepted the verdict and he would file a review plea to contest his conviction. Bhushan has, in his plea, argued that tweet number 2 tends to convey an impression that "the judges who have presided in the Supreme Court in the period of last six years have a particular role in the destruction of Indian democracy and the last four CJs had a more particular role in it."

"This might well be the impression that the tweet in question seeks to convey, but the Court doesn't, in fact, show, or even attempt to show, how the holding of this opinion constitutes contempt of court. This is an error apparent on the face of the judgment," said Bhushan in the 444-page review petition.

August 31, a bench headed by Justice Arun Mishra, who retired September 2, had said: "We, therefore, sentence the contemnor (Bhushan) with a fine of Re 1 to be deposited with the Registry of this Court by September 15, failing which he shall undergo a simple imprisonment for a period of three months and further be debarred from practising in this Court for a period of three years."

Bhushan insisted the court erroneously held him guilty of contempt, as the fair criticism of a judge and the judiciary is protected by Article 19 (1)(a) of the Constitution. He argued that contempt proceedings should not have been heard by a bench comprising Justice Mishra. "That on several occasions, Justice Arun Mishra has orally accused the review petitioner of committing contempt of court when he had merely mentioned that it may be inappropriate for a particular judge to hear a particular case in circumstances where conflict of interest was involved," said the review plea. Bhushan urged the apex court to rehear the verdict which held him guilty of contempt and also grant an oral hearing in the open court, as the facts and circumstances of the case so necessitated.

Man digs 5-km canal to bring water to his village

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Patna, Sept 14: Reminding once again what a lone determined person can do if he sets out to achieve what he has aimed for, a man in Bihar's Gaya district has dug up a 5-km-long canal in 20 years to bring irrigation water to the fields in his village. The feat of Loungi Bhuiyan, a resident of Kolithwa village on the border of Imanganj and Bankebazar blocks, makes one recall the toil of 'Mountain Man' Dashrath Manjhi, another native of Bihar who cut a road through a hill near his village in 22 years.

Loungi was pained by the migration of youths from his drought-hit Kolithwa village, which was drought-prone as it did not get to retain sufficient rainwater for irrigation due to its geographical location. The village is around 80 km from Gaya city, surrounded by forest area. Since there were no job avenues except agriculture, a large number of village's youths migrated to bigger cities in search of livelihood. Bhuiya was unhappy that mostly women and children were left behind in his village. Village headman Vishnupat Bhokta said: "In August 2001, he decided to dig a canal (Paain in local language) from a natural water source in Bagetha Sahwasi forest to the village. The villagers took their cattle generally to that source for watering, which also provided sustenance to the animals living in the forest area. Loungi knew that the water source was enough to irrigate the agricultural land of the villagers. However, it was a great challenge to bring water into the village." "Loungi did a survey of the land and earmarked the canal route. After working relentlessly for 20 years, he managed to dig the canal that is four feet wide and three feet deep," Bhokta said.

105-year-old woman beats Covid

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Bangalore, Sept 14: The 105-year-old Kamalamma Lingangouda Hiregoudra has become the centre of attraction in Karnataka's Koppal district after her grandson reportedly cured her of Covid-19 with his Ayurvedic formulas.

Koppal is one of the backward districts of the state and has been a hotspot for coronavirus. Hiregoudra's grandson Srinivas Hyati is an Ayurvedic doctor practising in the state. As the elderly woman had fever, she had undergone a corona test which came positive but she was reluctant to be hospitalised. "It was a challenge to treat her at home. However, she had no other health issues and that was a great advantage for us to treat her like any other Covid-19 patient. She was not worried about the virus and cooperated for the treatment in home isolation," Hyati said.

Her family members said she had stopped taking food saying her life was about to end. "But we forced her to consume at least 'ganji' (porridge) and water along with the prescribed medicines that helped her to recover," a family member claimed.

Rough patch for restaurants likely to continue

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, Sept 14: Only 28 per cent citizens say they have consumed restaurant food in the last 60 days, and most did it by ordering the food at home, according to a survey by Local Circles.

Only 34 per cent citizens are likely to consume restaurant food in the next two months and most of them will order food at home instead of going for a dine out. The survey findings show that the struggle for restaurants will likely continue for longer than initially expected.

There have been reports that many restaurants and cafes have shut down shops as they were unable to recover even their operational costs due to lack of customers. Many others have said that they are barely hanging on. Restaurants are also seeking permissions from the government to start 'al fresco' or open air dining to ensure social distancing and minimise the risk of the virus spread. It has been three months since restaurants became operational and although the industry was quite happy with the decision, consumers have largely stayed away from eating out due to the Covid-19 fear.

A recent study by the Centre for Disease Control, USA has said that adults who tested positive for Covid-19 in July in America were twice as likely to have visited a restaurant or a coffee shop in the last 14 days.

On consuming restaurant food, in response, two per cent said they visited restaurants several times to eat out and three per cent said they visited restaurants just a few times. Another two per cent said they didn't visit a restaurant, but did home delivery of restaurant food several times while 21 per cent said they didn't visit a restaurant, but did home delivery of restaurant food a few times. Sixty-four per cent said they have no plans to visit a restaurant nor do home delivery of restaurant food.

Bills for homeopathy, medicine system passed in Parliament

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Sept 14: Parliament has given its nod to two bills that propose a medical education system that improve access to quality and affordable medical education by ensuring availability of adequate and high quality homeopathy and Indian system of medicine professionals across the country.

Lok Sabha Monday passed the National Commission for Homeopathy Bill and the National Commission for Indian System of Medicine Bill. Rajya Sabha had passed them earlier, and the lower house nod to the two proposed legislations mean that they are set to become laws after getting formal approval from President Ram Nath Kovind. Some opposition members protested against the bill, saying the Centre needed to undertake wider consultation. Health Minister Harsh Vardhan said the proposed laws will help in better administration of homeopathy and Indian system of medicines.

The proposed legislations promote equitable and universal healthcare that encourages community health perspective and make services of such medical professionals accessible to all citizens, the Union government has said.

'OUR LAWS, VALUES DON'T RECOGNISE SAME-SEX MARRIAGE'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Sept 14: The Centre Monday told the Delhi High Court that marriage between same sex couples was "not permissible" as it is not recognised by "our laws, legal system, society and our values".

The submission was made before a bench of Chief Justice D N Patel and Justice Prateek Jalan by Solicitor General (SG) Tushar Mehta during hearing of a PIL seeking a declaration that same sex marriages be recognised under the Hindu Marriage Act (HMA) and Special Marriage Act.

Mehta opposed the relief sought in the petition saying "our laws, our legal system, our society and our values do not recognise a marriage, which is a sacrament, between same sex couples".

He said the plea to grant recognition to or permit registration of such marriages was "not permissible" for two reasons -- firstly, the petition was asking the court to legislate and secondly, any relief granted "would run contrary to various statutory provisions".

"Unless court does violence to various laws, this cannot be done," he added. Mehta also said that under the HMA, the various provisions regulating marriages or prohibited relationships talk of husband and wife and therefore, who would be assigned these roles where a same sex couple was concerned. The bench observed that the world over things were changing, but it may or may not be applicable to India.

It, however, questioned the need for a PIL in the instant case, saying the people who claim to be affected are well educated and can themselves approach the court. "Why should we entertain the PIL," it added.

DELHI RIOTS

KHALID IN 10-DAY POLICE CUSTODY

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, Sept 14: A Delhi court Monday sent former Jawaharlal Nehru University student Umar Khalid to 10 days police custody in connection with a case related to the violence which broke out in Delhi's northeast area in February this year.

Delhi Police's Special Cell had arrested Khalid on Sunday night under the stringent Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act, after questioning him for over ten hours. He was produced before Additional Session Judge Amitabh Rawat of Karkardooma court via video-conferencing Monday afternoon.

During the course of proceedings, Special Public Prosecutor Amit Prasad sought 10 days police custody to confront Khalid with huge technical data running into 11 lakh pages, "as well as other evidence collected during investigation of present case and also to examine at length about other suspects and various other aspects".

According to the remand application, names of some more suspects have also cropped up during the investigation of riots and Khalid is required to be questioned at length about those suspects to obtain their exact particulars for further investigation. "Since technical data and other material are substantial which needs to be confronted, it is necessary that 10 days police custody remand be granted," the remand application said. Advocate Trideep Pais, representing Khalid in the case, opposed the remand application and claimed that his client was not in Delhi during the riots. Pais said that no reason has been mentioned in the remand application as to why such drawn-out police custody is required. "Application has no base. Why has the police not mentioned which speech of Umar was problematic. What do they want for him in 10 days?" he asked. Khalid is accused of hatching a criminal conspiracy to cause communal unrest by inciting people protesting against the Citizenship Amendment Act and the National Register of Citizens. On March 6, an FIR was registered against Khalid and Danish based on information provided by an informer to Crime Branch Sub Inspector Arvind Kumar. According to FIR number 59/2020, complainant Arvind Kumar said that riots are a premeditated conspiracy.

MPs use 'Attendance Register' App

The move is a step forward in digitalising operations at the Parliament

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, Sept 14: In a first-of-its-kind initiative, all Members of Parliament (MPs) registered their attendance through a mobile application when Lok Sabha assembled Monday for the first day of the Monsoon Session.

The 'Attendance Register' App initiative was adopted by the Parliament this year in view of spurt in coronavirus or Covid-19 cases so that the spread of the disease could be contained during the Session.

"The digitalisation of operations at the Parliament demonstrates India's capable and efficient response to the current pandemic," Lok Sabha Speaker

Om Birla said in a tweet while commenting on use of 'Attendance Register' App. To minimise COVID-19 transmission risks due to multiple handling of papers, the Lok Sabha as well as the Rajya Sabha secretariat this time came up with the App.

The initiative is among various first time measures adopted in the Parliament in this Monsoon Session.

Besides, all parliamentary papers will be available electronically through 'Today's Papers' tab on Members' portal during the session. Members may download and take printouts for their use. Parliamentary papers, not exclusive to the MPs, will also be available on the Lok Sabha website under the tab 'Today's Papers in the Business of the House.' The Monsoon Session will continue till October 1.

Is Bikru village haunted by Vikas Dubey's ghost?

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Kanpur, Sept 14: As soon as the Sun sets, people scurry back into their homes and lock their houses in Uttar Pradesh's Bikru village that witnessed one of the worst blood-bath in recent history.

There are no informal get-togethers where people sit together and discuss everyday things under the sun, moon or stars.

An eerie silence engulfs Bikru once the Sun goes down.

It has been almost two and a half months since the Bikru massacre took place in which eight policemen were killed. People in the Bikru village though swear they still hear gunshots in the night. "Aaj bhi goliyon ki awaaz sunai deti hai.

Sab jante hain par bolta koi nahin. Kuchh logon ne to Vikas bhaiyya (Vikas Dubey) ko dekha bhi hain (Even today we hear gunshots.

Everyone knows this but no one talks about it. Some people have even seen Vikas Dubey's ghost," says a young man in the village who does not wish to be named. The locals claim in hushed tones that they have often 'seen' Vikas Dubey sitting on the ruins of his house that was bulldozed by the government soon after the Bikru massacre on the intervening night of July 2 and 3.

A family living near Vikas Dubey's demolished house, claims to have even heard multiple voices.

"On more than one occasions, we have heard people discussing something though it was not very clear. There was even some laughter in between -- very much like what used to happen in the house when Vikas was alive," said a woman.

There are four policemen -- two men and two women -- posted in Bikru village after the massacre. None of them, on record, admit to having heard gunshots or 'seen' Vikas Dubey. "We have no problem in doing our duty," said one of them and refused to talk further. A local priest says that the claims of local people cannot be dismissed.

"In cases where unnatural deaths have taken place, such incidents happen. In the case of Vikas Dubey, the cremation was not performed properly and the post death rituals were also not done. The same has happened with his five accomplices who were killed in encounters," he explains. The villagers have asked a local priest to hold a puja during the on-going 'Pitra Paksh' period to appease the 'disturbed souls' but the priest has backed off saying that he does not want to get on to the police radar.

Indian troops displaying newfound boldness: Report

AN OPINION ARTICLE IN NEWSWEEK SAYS THE CHINESE PRESIDENT HAS RISKED HIS FUTURE WITH THE FAILED HIGH-PROFILE INCURSIONS OF THE PLA INTO MORE AREAS OF THE LAC

AGENCIES

Washington, Sept 14: China's failure to push around the Indian troops in the Line of Actual Control (LAC) means that the ability of Chinese President Xi Jinping to intimidate anyone has reduced.

In an opinion article for Newsweek written by Gordon G Chang, a lawyer and commentator, the Chinese President has risked his future with the failed high-profile incursions of the People's Liberation Army (PLA) into more areas of the LAC, the border between India and China.

The writer says that Xi is the "architect" of these aggressive moves into India and the Chinese troops have unexpectedly flopped.

The failures of the Chinese Army at the LAC will have consequences and will give Xi an excuse to pick up the pace of replacing adversaries in the armed forces with loyal elements.

However, these failures motivate Xi, who as chairman of the Chinese

SINO-INDIAN BORDER ROW

Communist Party's Central Military Commission, is the leader of the PLA, to renew his bid to launch another offensive against Indian positions. In early May, Chinese troops advanced south of the LAC in three separate areas in Ladakh. With the boundary poorly demarcated, Chinese forces have trespassed into Indian positions for years, especially after Xi was appointed the party's general secretary in 2012.

Cleo Paskal of the Foundation for Defense of Democracies told Newsweek that large-scale manoeuvres in Tibet were not preparations for such a move.

In June, China and India were engaged in a violent face-off in Galwan Valley. Chinese troops killed 20 Indian soldiers in a premeditated move and the clash was the first deadly confrontation between the two countries in 45 years.

While the Chinese side is thought to have suffered 43 casualties in the Galwan face-off, the number could exceed 60, according to Paskal.

Late last month, for the first time in a half-century, India launched an offensive against China, taking back strategic points the Chinese recently grabbed. The offensive took the Chinese forces aback and they retreated. Chang, the writer, says that China's subsequent efforts to counter India have proved ineffective. For now, Indian troops, in the southernmost of the three areas of Ladakh, are under its control, which was once in Chinese hands.

"India is not giving the invaders the opportunity to improve. Both sides have just accused the other of violating decades-old rules of engagement by firing warning shots. It appears, however, the Chinese are the ones closer to the truth: India's troops are displaying newfound boldness," the author says.

"The game has changed. You can say the Indians are more aggressive or more aggressively defensive, but they are in fact bolder and better," Paskal told Newsweek.

WEST COAST FIRES

Winds a worry as death toll reaches 35

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oregon (US), Sept 14: Nearly all the dozens of people reported missing after a devastating blaze in southern Oregon have been accounted for, authorities said over the weekend as crews battled wildfires that have killed at least 35 from California to Washington state.

The flames up and down the West Coast have destroyed neighbourhoods, leaving nothing but charred rubble and burned-out cars, forced tens of thousands to flee and cast a shroud of smoke that has given Seattle, San Francisco and Portland, Oregon, some of the worst air quality in the world.

The smoke filled the air with an acrid metallic smell like pennies and spread to nearby states. While making it difficult to breathe, it helped firefighters by blocking the sun and turning the weather cooler as they tried to get a handle on the blazes, which were slowing in some places.

But warnings of low moisture and strong winds that could fan the flames added urgency to the battle. The so-called red flag warnings stretched from hard-hit southern Oregon to Northern California and extended through Monday evening.

Lexi Soulios, her husband and son were afraid they would have to evacuate for a second time because of the weather. They left their small southern Oregon town of Talent last week when they saw a "big, huge flow of dark smoke coming up," then went past roadblocks Friday to pick through the charred ruins of their home. While they are staying farther south in Ashland, known for the Oregon Shakespeare Festival, she said by text message that the forecast may mean they could be on the move again.

"So this isn't over yet but we just had the car checked so we feel prepared," Lexi Soulios wrote.

Authorities last week reported as many as 50 people could be missing after a wildfire in the Ashland area. But the Jackson County sheriff's office said late Saturday that four people had died in the blaze and that the number of missing was down to one. At least 10 people have been killed in the past week throughout Oregon. Officials have said more people are missing from other fires, and the number of fatalities is likely to rise, though they have not said how high the toll could go as they search. In California, 24 people have died, and one in Washington state. Thousands of homes and other buildings have burned.

Barbara Rose Bettison, 25, left her farm among the trees and fields of Eagle Creek, outside Portland, when a sheriff's deputy knocked on her door Tuesday. They drove away on a road that became an ominous dividing line, with blue skies on one side and the other filled with black and brown smoke.

Johnson faces rebellion over plan to break Brexit treaty

REUTERS

London, Sept 14: British Prime Minister Boris Johnson will try to persuade rebellious lawmakers in his party to vote Monday for a bill that will break international law by breaching parts of the Brexit divorce deal and which has enraged Brussels.

The House of Commons will debate the Internal Market Bill, which the EU has demanded Johnson scrap by the end of September in the latest brinkmanship of a four-year saga since Britain voted narrowly to leave the bloc.

After the debate, in a vote that may come late, lawmakers will decide if the bill should go to the next stage. Johnson's plan to explicitly break international law has plunged Brexit back into crisis less than four months before Britain is finally due to leave the EU's orbit at the end of a transition period, and put trade talks with the bloc in peril.

EU diplomats and officials said the bloc could take legal action against Britain, though there would be no resolution before the end-of-year deadline for Britain's full exit.

The EU has ramped up preparations for a no-deal Brexit, which would be chaotic for business, markets and nearly $1 trillion in annual trade. The government has dismissed an ultimatum from Brussels to scrap the main parts of the bill by the end of this month.

Johnson, who has a majority of 80 in the lower house of parliament, faces a growing revolt from some of his own lawmakers. All of Britain's living former prime ministers have expressed concern about his plan as have many senior figures in his Conservative Party.

"When the queen's minister gives his word, on her behalf, it should be axiomatic that he will keep it, even if the consequences are unpalatable," Johnson's former Attorney General Geoffrey Cox said in The Times newspaper.

Trump's Mideast deals tout 'peace' where there was never war

THE OPTICS OF TUESDAY'S EVENT WILL EVOKE THE GROUNDBREAKING AGREEMENTS THAT ENDED DECADES OF WAR BETWEEN ISRAEL AND NEIGHBOURING EGYPT AND JORDAN, THE REALITY IS QUITE DIFFERENT

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jerusalem, Sept 14: For the first time in more than a quarter-century, a US President will host a signing ceremony between Israelis and Arabs at the White House, billing it as an "historic breakthrough" in a region long known for its stubborn conflicts.

But while the optics of Tuesday's event will evoke the groundbreaking agreements that ended decades of war between Israel and neighbouring Egypt and Jordan, and that launched the peace process with the Palestinians, the reality is quite different.

The United Arab Emirates will establish diplomatic relations with Israel, a fellow US ally it has never gone to war with, formalising ties that go back several years.

The agreement cements an informal alliance against Iran and could pave the way for the UAE to acquire advanced US weapons, while leaving the far more contentious Israeli-Palestinian conflict as intractable as ever.

That hasn't stopped President Donald Trump from referring to the UAE deal, which was announced last month, as heralding a "previously unthinkable regional transformation."

A similar agreement announced Friday with Bahrain, which welcomed a visiting Israeli Cabinet minister as early as 1994, also formalises longstanding ties.

The agreement with Bahrain has raised the possibility that Saudi Arabia - the ultimate prize in Israel's normalisation drive - could follow suit.

Bahrain's Sunni monarchy is closely allied with Saudi Arabia, which helped quash a popular uprising among the island nation's Shiite majority in 2011.

Saudi Arabia has quietly acquiesced to the UAE deal, opening its airspace to commercial flights between Israel and the Emirates.

But it's debatable whether agreements like these, among already friendly countries, do much to advance regional peace.

The region's main conflict pits Israel and the Gulf Arab countries against Iran and its proxies.

In the long term, many believe the biggest threat to Israel's survival as a Jewish-majority and democratic state is the conflict with the Palestinians, who may soon outnumber Jews in the territory between the Mediterranean Sea and the Jordan River.

The Trump administration hopes that as more Arab countries normalise ties with Israel, it will pressure the Palestinians to return to peace negotiations, which ground to a halt more than a decade ago.

Over the last three years, Trump has cut off aid to the Palestinians, recognised contested Jerusalem as Israel's capital, dropped the longstanding US opposition to Israeli settlements and released a Mideast plan that overwhelmingly favours Israel.

The breakdown of the longstanding Arab consensus that recognition only be granted in return for territorial concessions has meanwhile left the Palestinians arguably more weak, isolated and demoralised than at any point in their history.

But rather than cowering Palestinian leaders into submission, those moves have only made them more defiant.

Foreign labs confirm Navalny poisoned with Novichok

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Berlin, Sept 14: Specialist labs in France and Sweden have confirmed Russian opposition leader Alexei Navalny was poisoned with the Soviet-era nerve agent Novichok, the German government said Monday.

A German military laboratory previously confirmed the substance in his samples. German government spokesman Steffen Seibert said that the Hague-based Organization for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons has also received samples and is taking steps to have those tested at its reference laboratories.

"Independently of the ongoing examinations by the OPCW, three laboratories have now confirmed independently of one another the proof of a nerve agent of the Novichok group as the cause of Mr. Navalny's poisoning," Seibert said in a statement.

He said Germany had asked France and Sweden for an "independent review" of the German findings using new samples from Navalny.

Navalny, the most visible opponent of Russian President Vladimir Putin, was flown to Germany two days after falling ill August 20 on a domestic flight in Russia. Berlin has demanded that Russia investigate the case.

Seibert Monday renewed Germany's demand that "Russia explain itself" on the matter.

FARM SECTOR BILLS

MSP will stay, farmers to get investment, tech

AGENCIES

New Delhi, Sept 14: The Centre Monday introduced three bill in Lok Sabha on farm sector with Union minister Narendra Singh Tomar asserting that they will help farmers get a remunerative price for their produce as well as private investments and technology.

Agriculture Minister Narendra Singh Tomar introduced The Farmers' Produce Trade And Commerce (Promotion And Facilitation) Bill, The Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price Assurance and Farm Services Bill and The Essential Commodities (Amendment) Bill, which will replace ordinances promulgated by the government earlier.

He said the proposed laws will enable barrier-free trade in agricultural produce, and also empower farmers to engage with investors of their choice. The minister said that these steps are only the latest in a series of measures taken by the government as part of its continuous commitment to championing the cause of welfare of the farmers of India.

Tomar said that almost 86 per cent of farmers have agricultural land of less than two hectares and they are often unable to benefit from minimum support price (MSPs).

He, however, assured the House that the MSP will stay. The Congress and other parties have been opposing the legislations, alleging it will undermine the safety net provided to the farmers by the MSP system and will lead to their exploitation by big companies.

Tomar said the bill will help the farmers as they are unable to invest much in their farm and do not attract investments from others.

He also rejected the criticism that it was beyond the remit of the union government to legislate on these issues, saying opposition members should trust the Centre. The Opposition has alleged that the Centre brought in the legislations without consulting the states under whose domain 'agriculture' and 'mandis' come.

The minister asked the opposition members to study the content of the bills deeply before running to oppose them. He stressed that farmers will get a lot of benefit from these laws as they can enter into an agreement with private traders for selling their produce.

These agreements will be about the produce and not the farmland, he asserted, rebutting suggestions that farmers may lose ownership of their land. Opposing the bills, the leader of the Congress in Lok Sabha Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury said constitutional provisions are very clear that agriculture is a subject on the State List.

Such a law can only be brought by state governments... Through this bill, the centre will nullify Agricultural Produce Market Committee (APMC) law enacted by various state governments, Chowdhury said.

FDI inflow from China decreases

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Sept 14: There has been decline in foreign direct inflow from China in the last three years with FDI coming down to USD 163.77 million in 2019-20, Minister of State for Finance Anurag Singh Thakur informed Lok Sabha Monday.

Giving details of the total foreign direct investment (FDI) inflow from Chinese companies in India, he said, it was USD 350.22 million in 2017-18, while it declined to USD 229 million in the following year.

During 2019-20, FDI further came down to USD 163.77 million, he said in a written reply on the first day of the monsoon session.

With regard to outflow from India, he said, it was USD 20.63 million in calendar year 2020 as against USD 27.57 million in the corresponding period last year.

To curb opportunistic takeovers or acquisitions of Indian companies due to the current COVID-19 pandemic, the government issued Press Note 3 earlier this year, he said.

A non-resident entity can invest in India, subject to the FDI policy except in those sectors/activities which are prohibited.

"However, an entity of a country, which shares land border with India or where the beneficial owner of an investment into India is situated in or is a citizen of any such country, can invest only under the government route, he said quoting the Press Note 3.

Further, he said, a citizen of Pakistan or an entity incorporated in Pakistan can invest, only under the government route, in sectors/activities other than defence, space, atomic energy and sectors/activities prohibited for foreign investment.

Replying to another question, Thakur said, the Department of Expenditure has released the central share of State Disaster Response Fund (SDRF) to the states including Maharashtra in the first week of April 2020 in the view of the pandemic.

Further, to provide additional resources to states to fight against COVID-19 and considering the request of the states for relaxation of the existing Fiscal Responsibility and Budget Management Act (FRBM) limit of 3 per cent of gross state domestic product (GSDP), additional borrowing limit of up to 2 per cent of GSDP has been allowed to states for the year 2020-21, he said.

Govt may pump ₹20K cr into PSBs

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Sept 14: The government Monday sought Parliament's approval for infusing ₹20,000 crore in public sector banks in the current financial year to meet regulatory requirements.

This is part of the first batch of Supplementary Demands for Grants for 2020-21 moved by Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman in the Lok Sabha. In all, the government has sought Parliament's nod for additional spending of ₹2.35 lakh crore, which includes a cash outflow of ₹1.66 lakh crore, primarily to meet expenses for combating the COVID-19 pandemic. For meeting expenditure towards recapitalisation of Public Sector Banks through issue of Government Securities the government has asked for Parliament's authorisation of ₹20,000 crore, as per a document. In 2019-20, the government proposed to make ₹70,000 crore capital infusion into the Public Sector Banks (PSBs) to boost credit for a strong impetus to the economy.

However, the government refrained from committing any capital in the Budget 2020-21 for the PSBs, hoping that the lenders will raise funds from the market depending on the requirements.

ByteDance picks Oracle as partner to save TikTok US

REUTERS

New York, Sept 14: Oracle beat Microsoft in the battle for the U.S. arm of TikTok with a deal structured as a partnership rather than an outright sale to try to navigate geopolitical tensions between Beijing and Washington, people familiar with the matter said.

ByteDance, TikTok's Chinese owner, had been in talks to divest the U.S. business of its hugely popular short-video app to Oracle or a consortium led by Microsoft Corp after U.S. President Donald Trump ordered the sale last month and said he might otherwise shut it down.

While TikTok is best known for dancing videos that go viral among teenagers, U.S. officials are concerned user information could be passed to China's communist government. TikTok, which has as many as 100 million U.S. users, has said it would never share such data with Chinese authorities.

Sale negotiations were upended when China updated its export control rules last month, giving it a say over the transfer of TikTok's algorithm to a foreign buyer. Reuters reported last week that China would rather see TikTok shut down in the United States than allow a forced sale. On Monday, China's state-run English television channel CGTN cited sources as saying ByteDance would not sell TikTok's U.S. operations to Oracle or Microsoft, and

It is unclear whether Trump, who wants a U.S. technology firm to own most of TikTok in the United States, will approve the deal.

The Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States (CFIUS), which reviews deals for national security risk, is overseeing the ByteDance-Oracle talks. "User data protection and assurances around how the company's algorithms push content to U.S. users are thoughtful components of a substantive solution," said regulatory lawyer John Kabealo.

Mnuchin says Trump administration will review Oracle's TikTok proposal this week. ByteDance plans to argue that CFIUS' approval two years ago of China Oceanwide Holdings Group Co Ltd's purchase of U.S. insurer Genworth Financial Inc offers a precedent for its proposal with Oracle, the sources said.

AUSTRIAN SUPERSTAR FIRST PLAYER SINCE 1949 TO WIN US OPEN CROWN AFTER CONCEDEING FIRST TWO SETS IN THE FINAL AS HE EDGES PAST FIRST-TIME GRAND SLAM FINALIST ZVEREV

his first major triumph. "I wish we could have two winners today," Thiem said. "I think we both deserved it."

He is the first man to win the American Grand Slam tournament after trailing 2-0 in sets in the final since Pancho Gonzalez did it against Ted Schroeder in 1949 at an event then known as the US Championships and held in Forest Hills.

The event never had been settled by a fifth-set tie-breaker; no major tournament ever had until Novak Djokovic edged Roger Federer that way at Wimbledon in 2019.

"I was a few games away, a few points away," said Zverev, who was trying to give Germany its first male Grand Slam champion since Boris Becker in the 1990s. "I'm 23 years old. I don't think it's my last chance."

Zverev choked up when he mentioned that his parents hadn't been able to travel to New York because they tested positive for COVID-19, although he said they are now healthy.

As Thiem stepped forward to pose for pictures with his shiny new bit of hardware, Zverev remained a few feet behind, one hand clutching his less-impressive silver tray, the other hand on a hip.

The proceedings took four hours and two minutes. And to think: After just one and half hours, Zverev was up by two sets and a break in the third at 2-1.

"The match turned when he broke me for the first time in the third set," Zverev said. "He started playing much better, and I started playing much worse."

Zverev, of all people, should have known what might have seemed like an impossible hill to climb for Thiem was, indeed, achievable. After all, in Thursday's semifinals, it was Zverev who trailed 2-0 in sets against Pablo Carreno Busta before coming back to win.

Thiem began the day 0-3 in Grand Slam finals, but always faced a member of the Big Three - Federer, Djokovic and Rafa Nadal - of men's tennis in those others.

This time, he was the favorite and came out jittery, but eventually worked his way out of that, while Zverev went from cool and confident to passive and pushed around.

The fifth set was just as back-and-forth as the other four, the mistakes rising with the tension and the history in the offing.

Thiem broke in the opening game when Zverev shanked a pair of forehands. Zverev broke right back - and pierced the silence with a rare cry of "Come on!" - when Thiem double-faulted.

Then it was Zverev's turn to nose ahead, breaking for a 5-3 lead when Thiem sent a down-the-line backhand wide and leaned over, gasping for air.

But with a chance to serve out the biggest win of his nascent career, Zverev faltered, getting broken right back when he pushed a volley into the net.

That began a three-game run for Thiem, who broke to lead 6-5, earning his own chance to serve for it when Zverev netted a backhand, followed by a long forehand.

After having a trainer check on his right leg during the ensuing changeover, Thiem couldn't seal the deal, either, and on they went to the tie-breaker. Zverev double-faulted twice and offered up one second serve at 68 mph, about half the speed he's capable of.

While this was the No.7-ranked Zverev's first Slam final, this was the first one the No.3-ranked Thiem was supposed to win, following losses to 12-time French Open champion Nadal at Roland Garros in 2018 and 2019, then to eight-time Australian Open champion Djokovic at Melbourne Park this February - back before the pandemic upended the world and put tennis on a five-month hiatus.

Instead of wild applause and loud shouts greeting great exchanges, the soundtrack Sunday mainly came from outside the largest court in tennis, courtesy of roaring airplanes, rumbling trains, revving car engines, honking horns and wailing sirens.

There was the occasional polite applause from the dozens of tournament workers allowed in the stands - and, deep into the match, yells from the players' entourages.

But the louder crowd noise heard by TV viewers was fake, added by the broadcaster:

England turn tides on unfortunate Oz

Manchester, Sept 14: Australia battered themselves into a winning position before dramatically collapsing as England won the second ODI by 24 runs to stay alive in the series.

England's decision to bat first at Old Trafford had appeared to backfire with the World Champions limited to 231/9 and Australia reaching 143/2 with 20 overs left Sunday. Australia were making the run chase look easy thanks to a 107-run stand for the third wicket between captain Aaron Finch (73) and Marnus Labuschagne (48). But the tourists then collapsed to 147/6, and 166/8, here before finishing 207 all out in 48.4 overs.

A trio of England pacers - Chris Woakes (3/32), Jofra Archer (3/34) and Sam Curran (3/35) - did the damage. In what has become an unwanted tour tradition for Australia, Archer again claimed opener David Warner (6).

Earlier, no England batsman reached 50, with Morgan (42) and Joe Root (39) leading the scoring. Both men were dismissed by leg-spinner Adam Zampa (3/36). Morgan was dismissed lbw after Finch opted to review the original not out decision, leaving England on 117/5 in the 29th over.

No.9 Tom Curran (37) and No.10 Adil Rashid (35) came to England's rescue, sharing 76 for the ninth wicket in what would prove to be a decisive partnership.

Australia were aiming to wrap up a series victory after beating England by 19 runs in the first ODI last Friday, also in Manchester.

The series finale is at the same venue Wednesday, when England will be hoping to avoid their first ODI series defeat at home since 2015.

There were times in both innings when Morgan's lineup was struggling - reduced to 149/8 in the first innings, then seemingly batted out of contention by Finch and Labuschagne.

The defeat a real punch in the guts of Aussies: Warne

Manchester: The 24-run loss to England in the low-scoring second ODI here must have been a 'real punch in the guts' for Australia, says spin legend Shane Warne. "Australia hadn't played cricket for quite a long time so you sort of excuse them (that collapse) in the first T20, even though it cost them that series," Warne told 'Sky Sports', referring to the first T20 where Australia slumped from 124/2 to 148/6 to lose the game by two runs. "They have been pretty good since then but this will be a real punch in the guts for Australia. They pride themselves on getting over the line in those sorts of games and doing the basics well. 'They didn't do that - they weren't good enough, with Aaron Finch the only batsman to really show any touch. It's 1-1 ahead of the last day of the international summer. Who writes these scripts?' From 149/8, England went on to make 231/9. 'Australia got it a bit wrong. They tried to go for wickets and didn't sum up conditions and think 'hard length at the stumps is tough for the batsmen so it should be the same for the tail'. They got a bit greedy trying to knock them over,' Warne said.

challenging victory target of 232, that was still well within Australia's grasp before Woakes and Archer flipped the game with a spell of four wickets for three runs.

Sam Curran, recalled in place of the unfit Mark Wood, stepped into an unfamiliar role at the death with aplomb as he scooped up three lower-order wickets, with Rashid wrapping up the chase when Alex Carey was stumped with eight balls left.

New York, Sept 14: A US Open unlike any other finished unlike any other - with an unprecedented fifth-set tie-breaker as Dominic Thiem became the first man in 71 years to win the final after dropping the opening two sets.

So close to defeat in a nearly empty Arthur Ashe Stadium - fans were banned because of the coronavirus pandemic - Thiem slowly but surely turned things around against a faltering Alexander Zverev and pulled out a 2-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 7-6(8-6) victory at Flushing Meadows for his first Grand Slam title.

The match ended with both men fighting leg cramps and, clearly, nerves. "Somehow," said Thiem, a 27-year-old from Austria, "the belief today was stronger than the body, and I'm super happy about that."

When a backhand from Zverev landed wide on the third championship point, a weary Thiem dropped to his back way behind the baseline and covered his face with his hands.

When he arose, he was met by Zverev, who walked around the net to clasp hands, then embrace his friend and foe, two sights rarely seen in this era of social distancing.

Thiem then rested his head on the shoulder of the taller Zverev, who himself came within two points of what would have been

Ligue 1 game witnesses 5 added-on-time red cards Neymar sent off as Marseille beat PSG

Paris, Sept 14: Neymar was among five players sent off in stoppage time as Marseille beat bitter rival Paris Saint-Germain for the first time in nine years. PSG star Neymar got a straight red in Marseille's 1-0 win following an altercation with center half Alvaro Gonzalez Sunday.

Neymar was sent off following a video replay showing he aimed a jab to the back of Gonzalez's head. As he went off, Neymar told officials that he had been racially abused.

With apparent reference to Gonzalez, Neymar later tweeted: "The only regret I have is not hitting the face of this idiot." In a later tweet, Neymar said "It is easy for the VAR (video review) to see my 'aggression'" and added he was subjected to offensive insults of a racist nature.

Winger Florian Thauvin scored in the 31st minute of a tense game featuring more than a dozen yellow cards and which descended into chaos deep into stoppage time as punches and kicks were exchanged.

It was Marseille's first victory over PSG since a 3-0 home win in November 2011. PSG have now lost three straight games 1-0, including the Champions League final against Bayern Munich August 23 and away to promoted Lens last Thursday.

PSG lost their opening two league games for the first time since the 1984-85 season and Tuchel may find himself under early pressure.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Everton stun Tottenham

London: Everton justified the pre-season optimism as Dominic Calvert-Lewin's header earned them an impressive 1-0 win at Tottenham Hotspur in their Premier League opener Sunday - the Merseyside club's first win over Spurs since 2012. After an even first half in which Richarlison wasted a great chance for Everton and keeper Jordan Pickford denied Tottenham's debutant Matt Doherty, Everton bossed the second period. Once Calvert-Lewin sent an unstoppable header past Hugo Lloris in the 55th minute, meeting Lucas Digne's free-kick to perfection, Tottenham huffed and puffed but offered little.

Hamilton claims crash-marred Tuscan GP

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mugello, Sept 13: Lewis Hamilton won a hectic Tuscan Grand Prix Sunday to clinch his 90th Formula One win and move one behind Michael Schumacher's record.

The first F1 race on a Mugello track with super-fast corners usually used by MotoGP riders was incident-packed throughout. Two crashes on the first seven laps saw six drivers go out, and a red flag suspended the race for the first time after the second one.

A second red flag late on following Lance Stroll's heavy crash meant another grid restart - on Lap 46 of 59 - and gave Valtteri Bottas another chance to beat race leader Hamilton if he made a strong start from second.

Hamilton held firm and Renault's Daniel Ricciardo overtook Bottas, who passed him back to finish second but is now 55 points behind Hamilton in the title race.

Bottas pushed hard and got to within 1.1 seconds of Hamilton on the penultimate lap but the British driver clocked a fastest lap on the last one to take a bonus point. Red Bull driver Alexander Albon drove well to finish third and clinch a first career podium that will boost his chances of keeping his seat alongside team star Max Verstappen next year. Hamilton can equal Schumacher's record for wins at the Russian GP in two weeks and take a step closer to matching Schumacher's record of seven world titles.

LEWIS FACES FIA INVESTIGATION

Mugello: Lewis Hamilton faces an FIA investigation for wearing a 'political' T-shirt at Sunday's Tuscan Grand Prix. The World Champion sported the slogan, 'Arrest the cops who killed Breonna Taylor', referring to a 26-year-old medical technician in Louisville, Kentucky, who was fatally shot after her boyfriend opened fire on police during a drugs search at their house March 13. Hamilton wore the shirt during the 'taking a knee' ceremony and on the podium as God Save the Queen played to celebrate his 90th career win. The Kentucky Attorney General is still investigating the killing, which has led to riots in America, so Hamilton's intervention is seen by several senior F1 figures as being potentially 'political'. FIA statutes forbid political statements of any kind.

OFC rope in Onwu for a 1-year deal

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Sept 14: Odisha FC, Sunday, announced the signing of Spanish striker Manuel Onwu ahead of the seventh edition of Indian Super League (ISL). The forward joined the Bhubaneswar-based side on a one-year deal.

The 32-year-old Onwu, who had joined Bengaluru FC before the start of the ISL season in 2019, was on fire while he represented Odisha FC on loan till the end of the tournament. He managed to score seven goals last season including a hat-trick against Kerala Blasters at the Kalinga Stadium.

Onwu had made his La Liga debut in March 2012 for Osasuna after playing for their B team. Prior to his association with Bengaluru FC, he was a part of another Spanish club UCAM Murcia CF in the 2018-19 season of Segunda Division B.

"I am delighted to be back at Odisha FC for another season. I felt good things with the squad and the fans last year which left me with no doubt when coach Stuart (Baxter) spoke to me.

"I had kept in touch with the Indian boys after the season was over and can't wait to see them again. This year, we will try to take a step further and achieve the best possible standing for Odisha FC and the loyal fans."
