Sputnik-V shots coming to India

RUSSIA TO SELL 100 MILLION DOSES OF THE VACCINE TO DR REDDY'S LAB

AGENCIES
Moscow, Sept 16: Russia's sovereign wealth fund has agreed to supply 100 million doses of its coronavirus vaccine, Sputnik-V, to Indian drug company Dr Reddy's Laboratories, the fund said Wednesday, as Moscow speeds up plans to distribute its shot abroad.
 The deal comes after the Russian Direct Investment Fund (RDIF) reached agreements with Indian manufacturers to produce 300 million doses of the vaccine in India, which is a major consumer of Russian oil and arms.
 Dr Reddy's, one of India's top pharmaceutical companies, will carry out Phase III clinical trials of the vaccine in India, pending regulatory approval, RDIF said in a statement. Deliveries to India could begin in late 2020, it said, adding this was subject to the completion of trials and the vaccine's registration by regulatory authorities in India.

Russia was the first country to license a novel coronavirus vaccine before large-scale Phase III trials were complete, stirring concern among scientists and doctors about the safety and efficacy of the shot. The Phase I and II results had shown promise, G V Prasad, co-chairman of Dr Reddy's, was cited in the RDIF statement as saying.
 "Sputnik V vaccine could provide a credible option in our fight against COVID-19 in India," he said. There was no detail about the price of the vaccine but RDIF has said previously it was not aiming at making a profit, just covering costs.
 The agreement comes as India's coronavirus cases surged past 5 million Wednesday, piling pressure on hospitals grappling with unreliable supplies of oxygen that they need to treat tens of thousands of critical patients.
 India is only the second country in the world to cross the grim milestone and said this week it is considering granting an emergency authorisation for a vaccine, particularly for the elderly and people in high-risk workplaces.
 The RDIF has already reached vaccine supply deals with Kazakhstan, Brazil and Mexico. It has also signed a memorandum with the Saudi Chemical company. Russia has billed Sputnik-V as the first vaccine against the coronavirus to be registered in the world. Phase III trials, involving at least 40,000 people, were launched in Russia Aug. 26 but have yet to be completed.

Govt slammed over closure of CCCs

POST NEWS NETWORK
Bhubaneswar, Sept 16: Opposition parties of the state Wednesday attacked the state government over their alleged move to close down several COVID Care Centres in light of the alarming rise in the number of cases.
 Congress legislator Taraprasad Bahinipati tried to corner the government on the issue. He said, "Does the government have any idea on how many people are dying due to COVID 19? Everyday hundreds of people are dying of COVID but the government is not accepting the real numbers. They are attributing this to other diseases like heart failure and kidney failure among others." He also added, "At a time when the number of COVID positive cases are skyrocketing, the government on the other hand is taking the decision to close down COVID Care Centres and Hospitals across the state."

 The Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) also attacked the government over the recent closure orders and took a dig at the government over denial of treatment of outside patients in the twin cities.
 Leader of Opposition in Odisha Assembly and BJP leader Pradipta Naik said, "It is highly illogical to ask people from other parts of the state to not visit the twin cities for treatment. A lot of people across the state are struggling to get treatment from the doctors and many health institutions are shunning them off due to which they are bound to visit other areas for better treatment." He also added, "The government denies them their right for treatment on the basis of their residence. We all saw how a COVID patient died on the floor of the hospital."

'NO BAN ON REFERRAL OF PATIENTS TO TWIN CITIES'
 Clearing misunderstandings on its order for transportation of Covid patients to Bhubaneswar and Cuttack, state government Wednesday said it has not banned referral of Covid patients to the twin city. Chief Secretary Asit Tripathy said that the state government has not banned movement of patients to Cuttack and Bhubaneswar. "Government has created advanced Covid hospital facilities in the twin city for people of the entire state. Government is only regulating to ensure that the patients travel safe and with proper medical advice arrangements and oxygen support etc," he said.

 As carelessness about these matters in past has affected the patients with proper medical support will be helpful in further management of the disease at referral points and will save their life, Tripathy clarified.

Yoshihide Suga named Japan's Prime Minister

AGENCIES
Tokyo, Sept 16: Yoshihide Suga was formally elected Wednesday as Japan's new prime minister in a parliamentary vote.
 Suga is replacing Shinzo Abe, who resigned earlier in the day because of ill health. Suga had been chosen as leader of the ruling party on Monday, virtually assuring his succession.
 Suga, who was chief Cabinet secretary and long seen as Abe's right-hand man, is to launch his own Cabinet later Wednesday.
 Suga has stressed his background as a farmer's son and a self-made politician in promising to serve the interests of ordinary people and rural communities.
 He has said he will pursue Abe's unfinished policies, and that his top priorities will be fighting the coronavirus and turning around an economy battered by the pandemic. Abe, Japan's longest-serving prime minister, announced last month that he was stepping down because of health problems.
 "I devoted my soul for the economic recovery and diplomacy to protect Japan's national interest every single day since we returned to power," Abe said.

Most Indian Americans back Biden but Trump gains ground

AGENCIES
Washington, Sept 16: US President Donald Trump has made inroads into the Indian-American vote bank, the biggest ever by a Republican president, according to a survey which has sent worrying signals to the Democrats that the support of this influential ethnic community can no longer be taken for granted.
 The survey by Indiaspora and Asian Americans & Pacific Islanders (AAP) Data showed that a majority of Indian-Americans still favour former vice president Biden, the Democratic Party's nominee in the November 3 US presidential election.
 It found that 74-year-old Trump, seeking re-election, is making a big

 According to the survey, 66 per cent Indian-Americans currently favour Biden and 28 per cent favour Trump while six per cent were undecided.
 Notably in the 2016 presidential election, 77 per cent voted for former US secretary Hillary Clinton, and 16 per cent for Trump. In 2012, as many as 84 per cent Indian-Americans voted for Barack Obama.
 Dr Karthick Ramakrishnan, professor of public policy and political science at University of California, Riverside and founder of AAP) Data who is author of the survey, said that the Indian-Americans' support to Trump, in case of a swing of the undecided Indian-Americans, would probably reach the 30 per cent mark.

 "Democrats absolutely should be concerned about making sure that they conduct sufficient outreach to the Indian-Americans, Indian-American Congressman Raja Krishnamoorthi said.
 The Democrats should conduct sufficient outreach to the different groups that comprise Indian-Americans, because every vote is going to count, especially in those battleground states as the survey result indicated," he said.
 There are a lot of Indian-Americans, for instance in key battleground states like Pennsylvania, Michigan, Florida and North Carolina, among others and they in conjunction with other Asian-Americans could certainly be a part of the tipping factor, he said, asserting that the Indian-Americans would finally come home to the Democratic Party.

 Seema Nanda, visiting fellow, Harvard Law School Labour and Worklife Programme and former CEO, Democratic National Committee, said "It is a vote (of Indian-Americans) that this research shows, absolutely, cannot be taken for granted".
 While the support for Biden has dropped as compared to Clinton in 2016, the support for the Republican Party has dropped from 19 per cent to 16 per cent in these four years.

GIVE STATES THEIR DUES, ACHARYA TELLS CENTRE

POST NEWS NETWORK

New Delhi, Sept 16: Biju Janata Dal (BJD) MP Prasanna Acharya Wednesday urged the Centre to release funds to the states as the financial condition of the latter is not sound.

The Rajya Sabha MP urged the Centre to issue fresh guidelines for workers returning to their workplaces Participating in a discussion on COVID-19 in Rajya Sabha, the BJD Parliamentary party leader said that as per the current growth trend, India will become No 1 in terms of coronavirus infections. He also said that the country's GDP growth rate is the worst.

Demanding release of pending funds, Acharya said, "The financial position of the State Governments is not sound. The Centre is not coming forward to provide whatever is due with the Centre. This is crucial time."

Mahtab bats for revision of royalty on major minerals

NEW DELHI: Cuttack MP Bhartruhari Mahtab Wednesday urged the Centre to enhance the royalty on chromite, iron ore and bauxite.

Mahtab expressed unhappiness over non-revision of royalty on these minerals and said that despite the provision permitting revision of royalty in every three years, the Centre didn't revise it since September 2014.

"The royalty on these minerals was last revised five years back, September 1, 2014, even though there is a provision permitting revision of royalty every three years," Mahtab said.

Mahtab apprised the House that Odisha is producing about half of the country's iron ore, besides substantial quantities of bauxite, chromite, limestone and manganese. However, he said that the state is being deprived of its reasonable expectation of revenue from such mining.

"The premiums offered by bidders in case of mining leases granted through auction are indicative of the jurisdiction for raising the royalty rates in order to improve the revenue shares of state governments. The state is being deprived of legitimate shares of revenues from such mining due to non-revision of royalty," Mahtab added.

He requested the government to take steps to control police brutality in the name of social distancing violations. Acharya said that in many parts of the country people faced police brutality during lockdown. "It is not a Taliban state. It is a democracy. We have seen on the small screen how the police were beating people. Though police is a state subject, I think, the Central Government should come out with a broader guideline about this," said Acharya.

Cong flays changes in varsities Act

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Sept 16: Odisha Congress Wednesday said that they are opposed to the changes in the legislation relating to functioning of universities in the state and would oppose it in the Assembly.

Congress MLA Taraprasad Bahinipati Wednesday said, "The decision taken by the government on amending the Odisha Universities Act is not at all in favour of students and academics at large. Educational institutions like universities are sacred places and should be free from interference."

He also said that the government wanted to control universities and termed it as a 'political move'.

"This is a political move to interfere in the university administration. We demand that the bill should be withdrawn and whatever process was happening earlier should continue. The IAS officers in the state government have now eyed universities where they are exerting their power and interfere through such a bill."

He said that such reasons are behind the amendments to the earlier legislation and bring a new system which can allow the government more teeth.

"We will definitely take up the matter in the Assembly and question the government on the issue. We cannot allow this. We are strongly opposing this move of amendment of the earlier legislation. This can heavily impact the autonomy of the universities in the state."

Earlier the State Cabinet had passed the proposal of doing away with multiple legislations of un-iversities and decided to use a single legislation to government and administer the universities in the state. It also talked about other aspects of administration like recruitment, service period of Vice Chancellors and others.

Jumbo rehab centre in Chandaka soon

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Bhubaneswar, Sept 16: Odisha will soon have an elephant rehabilitation centre for conservation and protection of the jumbos, a senior official said.

The rehabilitation centre will help injured elephants and those who got separated from the herd, the official said.

State Forest and Environment Minister Bikram Keshari Arukha has laid the foundation stone for the Elephant Rehabilitation Centre at Kumarkhunti in Chandaka-Dampada sanctuary close to the Capital city Monday.

The project will become a milestone in conservation and protection of elephants, the minister said, adding that arrangements have been made to complete the centre within three months.

The rehabilitation centre will be built in 10 hectare of land at an estimated expenditure of Rs 6 crore. The project has already been cleared by the Centre, the minister said.

"Elephants and their calves rescued from different places of the state will be kept in the rehabilitation centre and will be treated by experts and veterinary doctors,"

the minister said. The Forest department will make arrangements for adequate food, water and lodging facilities for the elephants, said a senior Forest and Environment department official, adding that a laboratory facility will also be set up in the rehabilitation centre.

The rehabilitation centre is part of the Centre's Project Elephant, said additional chief secretary, Forest and Environment Mona Sharma.

The rehabilitation centre is likely to help in reducing man-elephant conflict in the state, said Chief Wildlife Warden H S Upadhyaya. He said around 70 jumbos die due to different reasons in the state every year while nearly 100 people lost their lives in jumbo attack.

Hopes brighten for 72,000 depositors

HC orders Baripada Urban Cooperative Bank management to disburse money within 8 weeks

POST NEWS NETWORK

Baripada, Sept 16: Over 72,000 depositors of Baripada Urban Cooperative Bank (BUCB) have long been waiting to get back their money. They through the BUCB every day ever since the High Court issued an interim court order directing the management to disburse the money of the depositors within eight weeks.

It may be noted here that RBI had cancelled the cooperative bank's license as its financial condition was not sound in October 2014. Since then thousands of depositors were in trouble as their money got stuck in the bank.

Stakeholders of Baripada Urban Cooperative Bank (BUCB) have long been demanding their deposited money back, but their efforts have proved futile.

The recent HC order has rekindled hopes for return of their long-stuck deposits.

According to some depositors, they had appealed to the RBI April 24, 2018, to allow the bank to return their money, but their appeal was rejected.

Under pressure, the bank management had moved the High Court against the RBI directive for closure of operations. In its interim order, the HC had directed return of money to depositors June 25, 2020. Then, the RBI filed a writ petition at the HC against its order.

However, the HC ordered return of deposits.

Meanwhile, a liquidator has been appointed for the bank management. But a case has been filed at the court over appointment of a liquidator.

Manoj Sendha, a cloth store owner of Baripada town, said, "The amount of profits I was making from this business was deposited in the bank. But all the deposits are stuck in the bank at this time of crisis."

Explaining her miseries, Swagatika Nayak, a service holder of Baripada, said, "I have a fixed deposit with monthly savings. The money has got stuck over years. I am tired of running from pillar to post. Following the HC order, I have submitted all necessary documents."

The depositors alleged that though RBI fixed guidelines for refund of depositors' money, no steps have been taken by the bank in the interest of the beneficiaries.

Many depositors frustrated with the apathetic attitude of the bank authorities had drawn the attention of the cooperation minister and Chief Minister to their plight earlier.

NABARD LAUNCHES 'WADI' IN MAOIST HEARTLAND

POST NEWS NETWORK

Malkangiri, Sept 16: In a bid to provide sustainable income to members of tribal communities and curb their migration to neighbouring states, the National Bank for Agriculture and Rural Development (NABARD) launched 'Wadi' programme, Tuesday.

'Wadi' means a small orchard of one or two-acre having multiple crops. The programme has been launched in Manyamkunda panchayat under Kalimela block in Malkangiri district - which was once a Maoist heartland.

Under this programme, nearly 500 tribal families of Kusumput, Potteru, Dokunda, Rajgiri and Manyamkunda villages under Manyamkunda panchayat have planted mango and cashew saplings on high land belonging to them.

"Following demand from several quarters, NABARD started Wadi programme in Manyamkunda panchayat from this year," said each family. Forty cashew saplings and 37 mango saplings will be planted." "Since cashew and mango will give good returns 4-5 years after planting, we estimate that each family will have a minimum income of Rs 1 lakh per year," the DDM asserted.

On being contacted, Kalimela block chairman Mala Madi said, "I believe, through these activities there will be socio-economic development of people".

"Officials of NABARD and Netaji Development Society approached us to plant fruit trees in our land so that we can eke out a living. After we agreed, NABARD planted saplings in the district. We are now growing moong and millets as inter-crop," said a local beneficiary.

Ch'garh jumbo calves trapped in Keonjhar canal rescued

POST NEWS NETWORK

Keonjhar, Sept 16: Two 11-month-old baby elephants, who migrated from Chhattisgarh forest, fell into the Kanpur dam's canal under Champura range in Keonjhar district. Forest officials rescued the calves after a two-hour operation Wednesday.

According to forest officials, the incident occurred near Champura range Tuesday night while an elephant herd comprising 22 elephants was crossing the Jamudalak canal of Kanpur dam. The two elephants were suspected to have been trapped while crossing the canal.

When the other elephants of the herd climbed up from the canal to the other side, the two calves, owing to their tiny stature, were unable to do so as the canal is more than 4ft deep. The locals identified the two elephant calves Wednesday morning. They informed forest officials about the incident. On being informed, a team, aided by an earth remover, came to the rescue of the baby elephants. The operation took more than two hours but the team was successful in rescuing the baby elephants.

Forest officials said when the herd of elephants was unsuccessful to rescue the calves, they left them at the place and went away.

Notably, these jumbos from Chhattisgarh had entered Odisha and were returning to their original habitat.

4 killed, 10 hurt in separate mishaps

POST NEWS NETWORK

Deogarh/Baripada, Sept 16: In two separate road mishaps, four people died and 10 were wounded in Deogarh and Mayurbhanj districts.

Reports from Deogarh said, two youngsters were killed after a motorbike they were travelling in ramed into a parked truck on NH-53 near Karadapala village under Tilebani police limits in the district, Tuesday night.

The deceased were identified as Shruvan Nanda and his friend Rikan Pradhan. Reports said, both were working in a mobile network company. Sources said, Nanda and Pradhan were returning home Tuesday night after completing their night duty in a mobile network company.

However, due the darkness, Nanda failed to detect the road and lost control over the vehicle, which crashed into the stationed truck from rear. The duo succumbed to their injuries on the spot, police said. Police started a probe into the matter and sent the bodies for post-mortem. Police seized both the truck and the motorbike.

A case was registered in Tilebani police station. Police said that there are truck bays, highway hotels and space around the toll gate, but parked lorries often pose risk to other drivers on the NH, pointed out a police official.

Reports from Baripada said, a school student including a parent died after a speeding truck hit an auto-rickshaw in which they were travelling at Bangiriposi Ghat road on national highway (NH-49) in Mayurbhanj district Wednesday.

The tragedy took place in the afternoon when four school students along with their parents were on their way to Sulipada from Dopatta village by an auto-rickshaw for collecting rice allocated under the mid-day meal (MDM) scheme.

"The auto toppled after it was hit by the truck while on the hilly road. The deceased had suffered grievous injuries as they were thrown out of the

Chhatar Yatra to be celebrated sans devotees

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhawanipatna, Sept 16: Even as Covid-19 cases are spiraling in various parts of Kalahandi district, the district administration has decided to impose restrictions on celebration of the famous Chhatar Yatra this year to prevent congregations and gatherings that can further spread the infections.

Chhatar Yatra will be celebrated October 24. Meanwhile, the administration had decided to seal all entry points of the Bhawanipatana town from October 22 to October 24. All routes connecting to Jenakhal Chhak and Manikeswar temple and Stebu Chhak will also be sealed.

Curfew will be imposed in the town for two days - October 23 and 24. Only cultural troupes of drums and Ghumura will be allowed during the celebration.

It was decided at a meeting Wednesday that the festival of Goddess

Manikeswari will be conducted without devotees this year due to Covid-19 pandemic.

According to the decision, no devotee will be allowed to enter the temple nor will they be allowed to take part in rituals. Moreover, the animal sacrifice was banned at the Manikeswari temple on the occasion of Chhatar Yatra, which will be celebrated October 24 this year.

It is to be mentioned that the district administration bans animal sacrifice during Chhatar Yatra of Goddess Manikeswari every year. However, devotees sacrifice hundreds of innocent animals to fulfill their wishes despite the ban.

As part of the celebration, a ceremonial Chhatar of Goddess Manikeswari is taken out to a location on the outskirts of Bhawanipatna from the temple in the morning following performance of secret rituals. The return journey of the Chhatar to the temple is known as Chhatar Yatra.

During immersion ceremony, only five to seven people will be present. The preparatory meeting was presided over by Collector D Gavali Parag Harshad in the presence of ADM Saratchandra Srichandan, Kalahandi Maharaj Ananta Pratap Deo, assistant collector Shubhadipta Mohanty, BDO Prita Kumari, SDPO and several members of the Chhatar Yatra Committee.

ABENOMICS AFTER ABE

Although Abe's policies helped end Japan's deflationary stagnation, the overall record of Abenomics is not very impressive

Yoshihide Suga has been selected as the new prime minister of Japan. He will replace Shinzo Abe, who announced his resignation last month for health reasons after almost eight years in office. Japanese and international observers are now asking whether the Abe government's economic-policy course (dubbed 'Abenomics') will change significantly under Suga; and if so, how.

The answer will have important geopolitical implications. Japan, after all, is still struggling to overcome the negative shock from Covid-19, and its economic health is becoming ever more pivotal in view of the deepening confrontation between the United States and China. Many outside Japan might assume that Suga will change little, and he presented himself to the ruling Liberal Democratic Party (LDP) as the 'continuity' candidate to replace Abe. That was, perhaps, the best card that he could have played, having served as cabinet secretary, the second most powerful position in Japan, for the entirety of Abe's eight-year tenure.

On this view, Suga will remain safe by sticking closely to Abenomics. The massive quantitative easing undertaken since 2013 by Bank of Japan (BOJ) Governor Haruhiko Kuroda – an Abe appointee – will continue. Similarly, Suga will avoid vigorous and hasty fiscal tightening, even though the Abe government's pandemic-response measures have further increased Japan's net public debt, which, at around 150 per cent of the GDP, was already the highest among developed countries.

But if Japan is to sustain its global position, Suga must make a clear break from his predecessor and patron, and pursue a broad range of structural reforms. Indeed, productivity-enhancing labour-market and regulatory reforms are almost certainly the only way to increase Japan's economic growth. Although Abe's policies helped end Japan's deflationary stagnation, the overall record of Abenomics is not very impressive. Between 2013 and 2019, annual GDP growth averaged just 1 per cent, and exceeded 2 per cent in only two of the eight years of Abe's premiership. Moreover, BOJ data show that growth under Abenomics resulted mostly from increases in capital and labour inputs, rather than from productivity gains. Contrary to the conventional view that the Japanese economy faces strong headwinds owing to its aging population and shrinking workforce, the number of people in employment continued to grow throughout the Abe years, because more women joined the labour force. But with Japan's female labour-force participation rate now higher than that of the US, this trend may not continue for much longer.

Stalled productivity growth strongly indicates that the Abe administration's structural reforms (often called the 'third arrow' of Abenomics) fell far short of what Japan required. True, Japan's rescue of the 12-country Trans-Pacific Partnership trade pact following the withdrawal of the US by President Trump, and its recent free-trade agreement with the EU, are substantial and praiseworthy achievements, particularly given the increase in protectionist sentiment that Trump has fostered. The Abe administration also made strong progress on corporate governance. But the aggregate impact of Abenomics was simply too small. Given his consistently high approval ratings and savvy economic advisers, why did Abe fail to pursue bolder structural reforms? One answer is he did not have to, because of lack of effective opposition parties offering alternatives.

Another answer is that Abe had a big, non-economic policy priority – revising Japan's pacifist 1947 constitution – and always intended to spend his political capital on that issue. But he ultimately failed to achieve that goal, too, because there was never a moment when constitutional reform could command anywhere near majority support among the electorate.

Promoting wide-ranging structural reforms of the type that his predecessor largely avoided will require Suga to face down powerful lobbies and vested interests – many of them in his own ruling Liberal Democratic Party – and mobilise public opinion skillfully. But some of Suga's remarks during his recent LDP leadership campaign offer hope that he may be a more daring and courageous prime minister than many expect. For example, Suga explicitly welcomed the idea of allowing new competitors to enter heavily regulated sectors such as mobile telecommunications and agriculture. He also announced his intention to establish a new agency tasked with overhauling the government's digital infrastructure. Other clues come from Suga's tenure as cabinet secretary, when he prodded Japan's bureaucrats to change policies hitherto regarded as untouchable. Easing restrictions on visa issuance paved the way for a vast increase in the number of foreign tourists visiting Japan in recent years.

Nonetheless, much uncertainty lies ahead, and Suga will face two immediate hurdles. First, he must visibly establish his own leadership style. Whereas many of Suga's predecessors as prime minister – including Abe and Taro Aso – hailed from well-known political (even aristocratic) families, Suga comes from a solid middle-class background. Although Suga proved himself an extremely capable manager as Abe's cabinet secretary, his new role will require him not only to administer, but also to lead. Rather than pulling strings behind the scenes with elite bureaucrats, Suga must inspire the country. His first test will be to lead the government's response to the pandemic, because the Abe administration's confusing signals as to whether more restrictions are preferable to more economic activity – or, indeed, the reverse – have often bewildered the Japanese public. Suga's second hurdle will be to consolidate power within his party. He was elected LDP leader with the support of the party's major factions, but does not belong to any of them. Once he has appointed his cabinet, the LDP's internal rivalries and fissures will likely re-emerge.

Suga's best strategy might well be to go to the voters soon. Winning a general election, rather than just an internal party contest, would give him the popular mandate he needs to chart a bolder economic-policy course.

THE MOTHER

When eating is an act of cruelty

I cannot make up my mind: is the meat eater, who eats dead animals killed in slaughterhouses, worse than the meat eater who kills the animal himself while eating it?

There is a certain type of person who goes to a restaurant, chooses a live fish, octopus shrimp or snake in a transparent aquarium tank, has it taken out of the glass and killed and cooked in front of him. His only reason for this to himself is that the meat should be 'fresh'. In fact some people truly enjoy suffering. That, for them, is as important as the taste.

What can I say about people who enjoy eating such food? The Chinese Ying Yang fish is fried but kept alive. You can see videos of diners prodding at the face and eyes with their chopsticks while the fish struggles to breathe with its mouth and gills. It is prepared extremely quickly, with care not to damage the internal organs, so that the fish can remain alive for thirty minutes. Fish are the most sensitive of all to pain. Imagine yourself being fried and then eaten bit by bit.

In Japan, Sashimi, which means pierced body, is a common dish consisting of fresh raw fish or meat sliced into thin pieces and eaten with soy sauce. One kind of Sashimi is Ikizukuri (prepared alive) made with live sea beings. Fish and octopus are common ingredients that move on the plate as you eat them. Sashimi could also include live frogs. The frog is stripped of its skin while alive and stabbed delicately with a fork and eaten. One restaurant in Shinjuku serves the frog's fresh, still beating heart, as starters. Lobsters are not always boiled alive and dead by the time they reach your plate. Restaurants in New York serve lobsters while they're still alive. They are upturned and diners pick out 'belly sashimi' from the lobster which flails in pain for all the time you take to slash and take out his stomach meat.

In South Korea, Sannakji is a dish that involves hacking the tentacles off a baby octopus and serving them still wriggling. Sannakji connoisseurs enjoy the sensation of the still-active suction cups on the octopus' arms as they stick to the mouth.

The Chinese cannot be bested for their addiction to cruelty. Live shrimp are put into a liquor called Baijiu and diners bite their heads off while drinking it. This can give you lung fluke disease, but what is more important than proving your manhood by killing a shrimp. In China there is a dish called 'three squeaks' in which live baby mice are dunked in sauce and eaten alive. The reason why it is called 'three squeaks' is due to the sounds the mice make when grabbed with chopsticks, dunked in the sauce and bitten through.

Raw live baby monkey brain is an expensive dish eaten by rich people in China and Hong Kong. The chef puts a live monkey beneath a table with its head poking up through a hole. The chef slices the top of the head off and the customers eat its brains while it screams. The animal has its legs tied and its body held down, while the chef cuts its body and serves the meat immediately to customers.

Live baby duck embryos, just a day from being hatched, are a famous Chinese specialty which is now common in the Philippines as well. In the latter country it is called Balut. The Filipinos eat the egg boiled. The Chinese eat it raw to get the full taste of the egg white, the little yolk left, and the live squirming chick. No wonder the Chinese make such dangerous enemies. They love violence and gore.

Consuming the beating heart and blood of live snakes is common in Vietnam. In China people eat live baby snakes.

Sea urchins are the porcupines of the sea; globular animals with long spines to defend themselves. They live on the seabed. But their spines cannot protect them from human greed. They are caught and served live. Their testicles are a delicacy across the world, especially Europe. The live animal is cut on the plate with scissors and its salty gonads are taken out and eaten raw.

The most common animal to be eaten alive is the oyster which is served alive. Its spine is broken, and its insides are slurped up raw. This was originally a French dish but is now eaten all over.

A famous chain of restaurants in Copenhagen serves salads crawling with live ants supposedly to add a zesty taste. These move slowly because they have been kept in the fridge previously. Wicketty grubs are chewed live in parts of Australia. They are said to taste like nutty fried eggs.

Television game shows that I have repeatedly complained about to the Ministry over the years are Fear Factor and Primal Survivor where contestants eat live insects, spiders, cockroaches and worms. But by the time they take action, the series are already over. Then we start the cycle again with the next series. Man vs Wild is another show in which Bear Grylls shows his manhood by eating live insects.

What is the word for people who demand food that is so full of pain? Monsters? Ugly terrifying evil beings who are probably a menace to human society as well.

Tontine

The tontine is a system of annuities in which the benefits pass to the surviving subscribers until only one is left. It's named after Lorenzo Tonti, a Neapolitan banker who started such a scheme in France in 1653, though it has been said that they were known in Italy earlier. Each subscriber paid a sum into the fund, and in return received dividends from the capital invested; as each person died his share was divided among all the others until only one was left, reaping all the benefits.

Flying without a parachute

A man jumps out of an airplane with a parachute on his back. As he's falling, he realises his chute is broken. He doesn't know anything about parachutes, but as the earth rapidly approaches, he realises his options are limited; he takes off the parachute and tries to fix it himself on the way down. The wind is ripping past his face, he's dropping like a rock, and at 5000 feet, another man goes shooting up past him. In desperation, the man with the chute looks up and yells, "Hey do you know anything about parachutes?" The guy flying up looks down and yells, "No, do you know anything about gas stoves?"

SPECTRUM SOCIETY

Trial by media, a misnomer

The Pros and Cons of Media Trial' was the topic for the first Ram Jethmalani Memorial Lecture organised in Delhi the other day, in which renowned lawyers participated. At a time when media activism is going strong, it has become necessary to define its place in the rule of law, as the Supreme Court too has stressed this week.

One of the latest additions to most common journalist language is "Trial by Media". It is generally used as a derogatory term by sections of the society affected by concerned reports, while the neutral public is game with it. Authors, reporters, and performers do not call their product as media trial. Trial by Media is indeed a misnomer for findings of investigative journalism that has grown as a special branch of journalism practised by bold journalists who research on real-life stories. Their task requires absolute commitment to truth and unbiased coverage. The more complicated the crime, the greater is the scope for investigation.

As the general public is curious to follow criminal cases handled by the public and private entities, media picks up such incidents to satisfy their audience. Many of the high-level crimes reflect political divisions. Media trial entered journalism in India in a big way with the Bijal Joshi rape case (2005), followed by the Priyadarshini Mattoo case (2006), the Jessica Lal case (2010) and more recently, the Aarushi murder case.

Investigative journalism is allowed in India. Readers and viewers are by and large thrilled with real life crime stories. The investigator, the facilitator, the publisher, and the sponsor are duty-bound to search and find out the truth. They are accountable for errors, biased reporting, partial coverage, and distorted disclosure. The task calls for a high level of moral responsibility and professional integrity.

Journals and television channels are no longer passive recipients and communicators of incoming newsroom reports. They are not post offices. Today, they are active explorers of truth hidden beneath the visible surface. In this transformation, journalists have become 'creators' of news revealing the inside of events and incidents and do not remain mere reporters of what is visible to the naked eye.

Washington-based International Consortium of Investigative Journalists (ICIJ) launched in 1997 is a global network of reporters and organisations of about 267 investigative journalists probing serious cases of international crimes, corruption, and abuse of power. The most-stunning piece of investigative journalism so far is the Watergate revelations by Woodward and Bernstein (1974) that led to the resignation of the American President, Richard Nixon.

Popular kings in olden days adopted the practice of sending trusted secret agents to mix with people and ascertain what their subjects think and do. Some rulers used to go round their kingdom incognito. In modern free democracies, media's professed role is to act as people's agents and take upon the onerous job of unraveling the truth behind complicated crimes.

UN's basic principles on the Independence of the Judiciary states in Article 6 that the judiciary is required "to ensure that judicial proceedings are conducted fairly and that the right of the parties is respected." This principle is also in the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR) which provides that "everyone shall be entitled to fair and public hearing by a competent, independent, and impartial tribunal in the determination of any criminal charge or a suit at law." ICCPR acknowledges that right to public trial is not absolute and that certain limitations on public access are necessary.

ICCPR also confirms freedom of expression as a fundamental feature of democratic society and includes under it freedom of press. European Convention on Human Rights also admits freedom of press as paramount. However, freedom-loving USA's Supreme Court has confirmed the potential danger the impact of media could have on trials. This must be due to the continuance of jury system. The increasing tendency to use media when a matter is sub-judice is a subject of discussion among lawyers and laymen in India. In England, the court held that it is important to understand that any other authority cannot usurp the function of the court in a civilized society.

On the other hand, it is a debatable point whether media exposure before court trial can prejudice a case. Courts and judges go by written documents and evidence and, if so, cannot be influenced by media or public reaction. If media investigations expose evidence relevant for a case, it has to be welcomed. Therefore, adherence to truth must be the foundation of media investigation.

Drugs & film industry

Sir, The recent storm in the film industry on use of drugs was waiting to happen. But why speak of only the film industry? It's a known fact that drugs are smuggled around and the law enforcement agencies are not bothered. They are looking the other way. Like the Narcotics Control Bureau of India, every country has an anti-narco agency. In the United States, it is the Drug Enforcement Administration. These agencies never get near the big fish because the law-breakers have huge money to shell out to silence the investigating agencies, or enjoy political patronage. Furthermore, the enforcement agencies are corrupt to the core. Earlier, it was the underworld mafia; now the world is facing the menace of narco-terrorism. In the film industry, actors and actresses are getting into such influences due to the excess money they have. Besides, they use drugs and other such substances to overcome the tension in their creative pursuits. There is the existence of a carefree culture in the film world. Strict vigil is the only way to curb such tendencies, but the question is who is serious about it. Only small fries are put behind the bars to prove that the law has teeth.

Digital or deadly

Sir, When I went to take the challan and pay my taxes this week, it was found that I have to pay a late fee of ₹500 for each month, for the delay in payment. This, even after the Union government has given relaxation for payment till November due to the pandemic. Regarding late fee, nobody had any knowledge. Collecting huge taxes and making people pay late-fee during this pandemic is painful indeed. Are the slogans like Atmanirbhar Bharat meant for the government or the public? Banks are doing their own looting spree by using the term moratorium. Prices are spiraling more than four times for essential items. The government has completely failed to control Covid. In the present situation, everything is out of control except the digital mechanism which the government uses to best effect to extract the maximum from the public by way of taxes. The money thus going into the exchequer is looted right and left by those wielding power at all levels. Also, those who do not pay taxes will find their GST is blocked. This is how India will emerge as Digital India!

Tirupati temple awash with ₹50 cr demonetised cash offerings

Though the Central government had demonetised ₹1,000 and ₹500 notes November 8, 2016, devotees continued to offer demonetised notes

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Tirupati, Sept 16: The world famous Tirupati temple in Andhra Pradesh is awash with ₹50 crore demonetised cash offerings, which it continued to receive from the devotees, but could not utilise.

"Though the Central government had demonetised ₹1,000 and ₹500 notes November 8, 2016, devotees continued to offer demonetised notes," said a TTD official.

As a result, the temple in the southern state received 1.8 lakh notes of ₹1,000, amounting to ₹18 crore, and 6.34 lakh notes of ₹500, amounting to ₹31.7 crore. All the offered demonetised notes amounted to a total of around ₹50 crore.

Though replete with old cash, Tirupati, one of the richest temples in the world, could not make use of it as scrapped notes have stopped being a legal tender for four years already.

Unable to monetise the huge amount of devalued cash, Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams (TTD) Chairman, YV Subba Reddy, has requested Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman to enable the temple to deposit the old money with the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) or any other commercial entity to monetise that amount.

"Once monetised, TTD will use it to fund several spiritual and welfare activities," the official said. Regarding the old notes, TTD had already written to the Union Finance Ministry and the RBI in 2017 but did not receive a favourable response. "As this issue is linked to the faith and sentiments of the devotees, Reddy requested Sitharaman for a favourable outcome, enabling the temple to deposit the money with the RBI or any other bank," the official said.

Reddy has asked the Finance Minister for favourable instructions in this direction.

The TTD chairman said that the temple could not stop the devotees from offering old notes as it is linked with their faith and religious sentiments.

TTD is a conglomeration of 12 temples and their sub-shrines. It employs 14,000 people. Spread over 16.2 acres, the main Tirumala temple is dedicated to Lord Sri Venkateswara, also known as Srinivasa, Balaji and Venkatchalapati.

'Bleeding Heart' was to replace Hurriyat in Valley

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

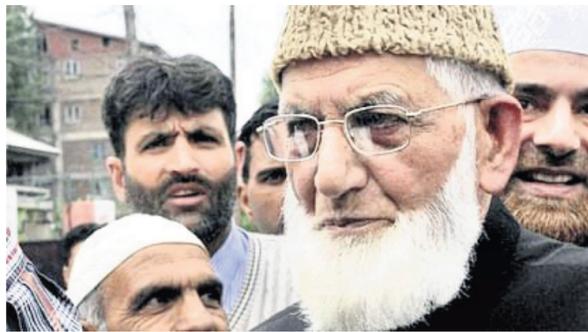

Srinagar, Sept 16: After tightening of terror funds by the National Investigation Agency (NIA), Pakistan had approved a proposal by Irfan Shafi Mir, who was arrested along with Deputy SP Davender Singh, to set up a new outfit called 'Bleeding Heart' as it had realised in 2018 that Hurriyat Conference, the separatist conglomerate created by ISI, won't be able to deliver any more.

During a visit to Pakistan in 2018, Mir held an extensive discussion with ISI officials as well as terrorist top brass to set up an NGO by the name 'Bleeding Heart' which would replace the role of Hurriyat Conference, says the NIA chargesheet filed in a designated court of Jammu.

Mir was arrested along with Jammu and Kashmir Deputy Superintendent of Police Davender Singh and Hizbul Mujahideen terrorist Syed Naveed Mushtaq alias Naveed Babu and accomplice Rafi Ahmad Rather.

The details of the 3,064-page chargesheet, accessed by PTI, show that Mir alias 'Advocate' made this proposal of the NGO and had started working for it after receiving a go ahead from his mentors across the border.

The NIA filed the chargesheet under the Unlawful Activities

ISI and terror groups were rattled by the case of May 2017 registered by the NIA against members of Jamaat-ud-Dawa, Dukhtar-e-Millat, Lashkar-e-Taiba, Hizbul Mujahideen and other separatist groups and leaders in the state for allegedly raising, receiving and collecting funds to fuel separatist and terrorist activities, conspiracy to cause disruption in the Valley, and waging war against India (Prevention) Act and various sections of the Indian Penal Code against Mir, Singh, Naveed, his brother Syed Irfan Ahmad, Rather and businessman Tanveer Ahmad Wani, former president of the Line of Control Traders Association.

According to the NIA, the accused were part of a deep-rooted conspiracy hatched by Pakistan-based terrorist organisation Hizbul Mujahideen and Pakistani State agencies "to commit violent acts and to wage war against the Union of India."

During his extensive questioning, the NIA said Mir had met banned terror group Hizbul Mujahideen chief Syed Salauddin, his deputy Amir Khan, the so-called operational chief Khurshed Alam and the terror group's financial head Nazir Mehmood where the broad concept of 'Bleeding Heart' was discussed.

Later during his stay in Pakistan, Mir had a meeting with ISI officers like Umar Cheema, Ashkan Chaudhary and Sohail Abbas who also tasked him to work on a new 'Hawala (non-banking) channel' for transfer of money for sustaining terrorist activities in the Kashmir valley. The investigation into the case

NIA CRACKDOWN

Irfan Shafi Mir, who has emerged as a 'double agent', made frequent visits to Pakistan during which he came in contact with ISI officials as well as top terror leadership that had complained that separatist groups in the Kashmir valley had become defunct after the NIA cracked its whip on their anti-national activities in 2017 following registering of a terror funding case led by Inspector General Anil Shukla and his team has listed 3,017 oral and documentary evidences along with the chargesheet.

The chargesheet also gives instances of his connection with officials of Pakistan High Commission in India with whom he was in constant touch and also received monetary assistance.

Visa applications from Kashmir recommended by Mir were also given top most priority at the Pakistan High Commission, the chargesheet said.

Mir was sitting in the car driven by Singh January 11 this year along with Naveed and Rather when their car was intercepted by Jammu and Kashmir police near Qazigund on the national highway connecting the Valley with the rest of the country.

A search of the vehicle led to the recovery of an AK-47 rifle, three pistols and a cache of ammunition and explosives. The NIA took over the case January 17 this year.

After thorough investigation into the case, the NIA arrested many people including influential businessman Zahoor Ahem Watali and prominent politician Sheikh Abdul Rashid alias 'Rashid Engineer'.

Two chargesheets were filed in the case which also included Altaf Ahmad Shah alias Altaf Fantoosh, the son-in-law of firebrand separatist Syed Ali Shah Geelani; spokesman of moderate Hurriyat Conference led by Mirwaiz Umer Farooq, Shahid-ul-Islam; spokesman of the Geelani-led faction of Hurriyat Ayaz Akbar; and separatists Nayeem Khan, Bashir Bhat alias Peer Saifullah and Raja Mehrajuddin Kalwal.

The NIA has also recorded confessional statements on the flow of money, especially from Pakistan, from four people accused in a case related to the funding of "terror activities" in Kashmir. The case led to a decrease in stone pelting incidents in the Valley.

Andhra asks NSO to explain literacy survey methodology

In the 2011 Census, Andhra's literacy rate stood at 67 per cent while the NSO survey claimed the literacy rate was 64 per cent, pointing at a decline

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Amaravati, Sept 16: Andhra Pradesh Commissioner of School Education, V Chinaveerabhadhrudu, has written to the National Statistical Office (NSO) to understand more about the intricacies of an NSO survey after the state was rated worst in literacy in a certain category.

"Prima facie, there are grounds to reexamine the report. I would like to get into the sample methodology and questionnaire to understand the report better," Chinaveerabhadhrudu told IANS while pointing out that it was important to understand how the NSO had carried out the survey.

For 2017-18, the NSO rated the southern state lower than Bihar, Rajasthan, Jharkhand, Odisha, Chhattisgarh, and Madhya Pradesh in literacy rate for individuals above seven years of age.

The NSO allegedly surveyed 5,000 persons in some districts and even less in some others to arrive at this conclusion.

"I had asked the people concerned (NSO surveyors) to come and discuss the survey with me. They asked me to contact the NSO head, which I have done, and am waiting to hear from the organisation," he said.

The Commissioner said that prima facie, there appears to be some issues with the survey and the report needed a reexamination. According to sources, the Andhra Pradesh government does not agree with the worst literacy billing the NSO gave to the state.

"No, we don't agree with that report. We want to know what parameters the NSO has followed," said a source.

"The state would like to contest it because (NSO) literacy rating is different from the Census literacy rate also done by the government of India in 2011," said the source. In the 2011 Census, Andhra's literacy rate stood at 67 per cent while the NSO survey claimed the literacy rate was 64 per cent, pointing at a decline.

"Since we are almost 10 years from the last Census, in any way, the literacy rate should only be increasing and not decreasing," the source pointed out.

According to the source, the NSO rating is only based on a sample survey, unlike the census which touches every family in the state.

"This is only a sample study - its main objective is not to find out the literacy rate, but about the consumption patterns. So, the data or observations of the NSO study about literacy are tangential or a byproduct of the research. The main objective is not to study literacy. So you need not give it more importance than what is required," the source added.

Irrespective of the NSO adjudicating Andhra Pradesh as the lowest literate state, several towns and a few cities in the state are major educational hubs, drawing thousands of students for studies.

Vijayawada, Guntur, Nellore, Bhimavaram, Kakinada, Vishakhapatnam, Rajamahendravaram, Kurunool and others are known for famous schools, intermediate junior colleges and several engineering colleges.

Some of the private schools such as Sri Chaitanya and Narayana have expanded their branches all over the country, originating from the state.

Andhra Pradesh and Telangana, both the Telugu states, send a sizeable number of students every year to the Indian Institutes of Technology (IITs), premier technical schools in India.

AP is also known for a high number of students who migrate to the US for higher studies.

Andhra govt seeks CBI investigation into Amaravati land deals

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Amaravati, Sept 16: Andhra Pradesh's ruling party YSRCP has urged the Centre to order a CBI investigation into the alleged land scam in the Amaravati capital region and irregularities in the Andhra Pradesh State FiberNet Limited (APSFL) during the previous TDP regime.

The YSRCP, which had already made a request in this regard a couple of months ago, decided to once again raise the issue during the ongoing Parliament session. The YSRCP alleged that the then TDP government resorted to insider trading, benefitting Chandrababu Naidu, his family members and those close to them.

The party reiterated that the information about choosing Amaravati as the location for building the new state capital was leaked by those in power and they through their aides purchased land in and around Amaravati at throwaway prices.

The investigations conducted so far including by the Cabinet Sub-Committee revealed that before the announcement of Amaravati as the state capital, 4,069.94 acres of land was purchased in Krishna and Guntur districts by those involved in insider trading.

The YSRCP Parliamentary Party has decided to highlight the 'nepotism, manipulation, corruption and breaking the oath of secrecy by the people in high office who were privy to information leaking it to their close circles and the insider trading arising out of such malpractice.' People in the know of cabinet decisions including cabinet ministers, legislators, party associates, and their benamis reaped undue benefits by buying land ahead of the actual announcement, it said.

According to YSRCP leaders, the beneficiaries included Chandrababu Naidu, his son and then cabinet minister Nara Lokesh, his close associate and NRI, Vemuri Ravi Kumar Prasad, then minister Paritala Sunita, Public Accounts Committee chairman and MLA Payyavula Keshav, former MLAs G V S Anjaneyulu and Dhulipalla Narendra, Kambampati Rammohan Rao and several other TDP leaders.

The benami transactions that took place in the land deals allegedly involved Ministers and TDP leaders. The boundaries of the capital area were redrawn to suit their favoured few to keep their landholding at an advantageous place. The YSRCP also alleged that assigned and government land was grabbed and surrendered for land pooling to get the benefits announced by the government. Unwilling farmers were intimidated to acquire their land. The land pooling scheme rules also do not comply with the Land Acquisition Act. The YSRCP also decided to highlight the irregularities in APSFL involving then chief minister Chandrababu Naidu, his son Nara Lokesh and then technical advisor to the government, Vemuri Hari Krishna Prasad.

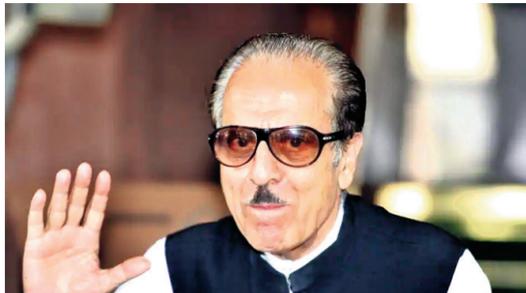

'Kashmiris fear domicile certificates exercise can change demographics'

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Srinagar, Sept 16: Congress leader and former Union minister Saifuddin Soz has said the issuance of a large number of domicile certificates in J&K has led to apprehensions of demographic changes among Kashmiris.

In a statement Wednesday he said it is alarming that the Union Territory administration has issued over 17 lakh Domicile Certificates, of these, 12.44 lakh certificates have been issued in Jammu, while 4.16 lakh certificates have been issued in Kashmir.

"The most worrying aspect of this hot-haste exercise is that these certificates have been issued to those persons also who do not possess Permanent Resident Certificates and this is what makes this whole exercise reckless," he said. He said Kashmiris apprehend that this exercise is a clear attempt to change the demographic profile of Kashmir, which the people of Kashmir will resist, exercising their constitutional and democratic rights. "The least that J&K UT government can do is to issue a White Paper on the intention of issuing the enormous number of Permanent Resident Certificates and how best it can allay the apprehensions of the people of Kashmir," he said. "If J&K UT government is of the view that it has no concern and duty for the feelings of Kashmir's masses, then, it must take that position, categorically," he said.

The new domicile law is one of the many new laws the government has in unseemly haste introduced or altered many existing ones in J-K in the past one year, the enterprise to the dismay of vast sections of its population. While the government authorities insist the enactments are legally sanctioned and follow the pattern set by the abrogation of Articles 370 and 35A ending the special status of the erstwhile state, people here in and also in Jammu ask why not a single such or similar law has been introduced in Ladakh carved out of J-K as a separate Union Territory (UT) in August last year.

The matter was reported to police by a man who had approached the TRC for a trip outside the valley with his family. The man asked the drivers about the travel norms and told them that he had not undergone a COVID-19 test. "The drivers asked the complainant to provide Aadhar cards of the passengers so that they will arrange COVID tests for them," a police spokesperson said.

AFTER 45-YEAR LULL, 3 FIRING INCIDENTS

AGENCIES

New Delhi, Sept 16: Indian and Chinese border troops had an exchange of gunfire last week just days before a meeting of their foreign ministers, Indian officials said Wednesday, in a further breach of a decades-old restraint at the frontier.

The two sides have had a long-standing agreement for troops not to use firearms at the poorly defined Line of Actual Control or the informal border and for 45 years no shot has been fired.

But since late last month, there have been three incidents of warning shots fired in the western Himalayas where troops are locked in a faceoff over competing territorial claims, often in close proximity, officials aware of the situation said.

"In all these cases shots were fired in the air and not at each other thankfully," said one of the officials.

One of them occurred on the north bank of the bitterly contested Pangong Tso lake in the run-up to a meeting between Indian Foreign Minister Subrahmanyan Jaishankar and Chinese counterpart Wang Yi in Moscow last Thursday. The shooting which neither side has made public was the most intense, a second official said. The two sides are jockeying for advantageous positions on the undemarcated mountain border in the Ladakh sector which adjoins Tibet. Last Monday, troops had fired in the air on the southern bank of the lake, the two sides said.

'Fully geared to fight full-fledged war'

JAMMU: Asserting that it is fully prepared to fight a full-fledged war even in winters in eastern Ladakh, the Indian Army Wednesday said if China created conditions for war, they will face a better trained, better prepared, fully rested and psychologically hardened Indian troops. In a statement, it said compared to physically and psychologically battle-hardened Indian troops, Chinese troops mostly are from urban areas and not used to hardships or prolonged deployment under field conditions. The Army's Northern Command headquarters made these assertions reacting to China's official media Global Times reports that India's operational logistics is not geared up adequately and it will not be able to fight through winters effectively.

Jaishankar and Wang agreed to dial down tensions and since then the situation has calmed, the Indian officials said. But there is no pulling back of troops yet. Former Indian military commander lieutenant general D. S. Hooda said distrust was so large now it would be difficult to get back to the agreement under which troops carried few firearms at the contested border during their patrols. "We should no longer be talking about peace and tranquility along the LAC, but conflict prevention," he said.

LJP mulls fielding candidates against JD-U

New Delhi, Sept 16: In what could lead to a major crack in the National Democratic Alliance (NDA) in Bihar ahead of the crucial state Assembly polls scheduled later this year, Lok Janshakti Party (LJP) leaders have demanded to field candidates on the seats contested by the ruling Janata Dal-United (JD-U).

The LJP also asked the BJP to contest on more seats than the ruling JD-U in the state. According to a highly-placed LJP source, the demands were raised during the meeting of all the MPs and former MPs of the party at the residence of LJP supremo Chirag Paswan here.

A party source present in the meeting said that all the MPs and former MPs of the LJP demanded that the BJP should contest more seats than the JD-U in Bihar. "Former MP Kali Pandey demanded that the LJP should announce candidates on seats which are being contested by the JD-U in the upcoming Bihar Assembly elections," the source said.

The LJP and the JD-U have been trading barbs at each other over last few months. Chirag Paswan has openly criticised Nitish Kumar over the handling of the migrant workers' crisis, the Covid-19 pandemic and the floods in the state, besides writing to the Bihar Chief Minister on several occasions. However, Nitish Kumar has not responded to any of his letters.

During the September 7 meeting of the LJP parliamentary board, the party decided to draw up the candidates' list for 143 out of 243 seats in the state. Its leaders reportedly demanded that the party must not contest the elections under Nitish Kumar's leadership.

The party source said that during the meeting, the party leaders also hailed the projects launched by Prime Minister Narendra Modi in Bihar in the last one week. The LJP leaders also slammed the Bihar government over the rise of 'officialism' in the state, the party source said.

During the meeting, Chirag Paswan and all the other party members opposed the works being done by Nitish Kumar in Bihar and accused him of not fulfilling his poll promise of providing three decimal land to the poor in the state. The party leaders also passed a resolution condemning the statement of JD-U MP Lalan Singh's on the Prime Minister.

They also welcomed the statement of JD-U General Secretary KC Tyagi that LJP did not have an alliance with his party. The LJP source further said that Chirag Paswan had held a meeting with BJP President JP Nadda on Tuesday night, where both the leaders discussed the projects inaugurated by Narendra Modi in the poll-bound state.

The party source close to the LJP chief said that during the meeting, Chirag Paswan had asked Nadda to contest more seats than the JD-U. The source also claimed that the meeting of the two leaders ahead of the announcement of the poll dates was a positive sign.

The LJP, which fought the 2015 Assembly elections with the BJP as an ally partner, had contested 55 seats and managed to win just two.

The Election Commission had said earlier this month that the elections for the 243-member Bihar Assembly will be completed by November 29.

Batting for Bollywood that has been under a cloud since the death of actor Sushant Singh Rajput in June on the floor of the Rajya Sabha, Jaya Bachchan Tuesday argued for government support to the entertainment industry and slammed those tarnishing its image.

In her speech, she had used a Hindi proverb to say those defaming the industry were biting the hands that fed them. Though Jaya Bachchan did not take any names, her speech came a day after BJP's Lok Sabha MP and Bhojpuri actor Ravi Kishan said there was a problem of drug addiction in the film industry. She had also said she completely disagrees with those who term the entertainment industry a "gutter", a term used by actor Kangana Ranaut to describe Bollywood in a tweet last month.

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Kota (Raj), Sept 16: At least 11 people, including women and children, were killed after a boat carrying over 30 devotees to a temple in Rajasthan's Bundi district capsized in the Chambal river here Wednesday morning, officials said.

Three people are still missing while 20 devotees were rescued, they added. Belonging to the Khatoli-Itawa area of Kota, they were going to the Kamleshwar temple in Indergarh of Bundi to offer prayers.

The accident took place around 8.45 am near Gotra village, about 110 kilometres from Kota district headquarters.

The depth of the river where the boat overturned is around 40-45 feet, an official said, adding a rescue operation was launched by the SDRF and the NDRF. "At least 11 people have been killed in the mishap in Khatoli while the search for three others is under way," District Collector Ujval Rathore said, adding that 20 people were rescued. According to local residents, 35-50 people were on board with 14 to 15 motorbikes when the accident took place, he added. The district collector said prima facie, a weak structure of the boat caused the mishap.

Area DSP Shubhkaran said the bodies were handed over to families after autopsy and they have lodged a case against the boat's Sailor and owner. Describing the incident as "sorrowful and unfortunate", Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot on his Twitter handle expressed condolences to the aggrieved families. The Chief Minister announced a compensation of Rs 1 lakh to the kin of each deceased.

Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla, who is an MP from the Kota-Bundi constituency of Rajasthan, too expressed grief over the incident. Local Congress MLA Ramnarayan Meena expressed sorrow over the tragedy and demanded that the relief amount be increased.

DELHI RIOTS COPS FILE CHARGESHEET

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Sept 16: Delhi police Wednesday filed a chargesheet before a city court under the stringent law UAPA and various sections of the IPC against 15 persons for larger conspiracy in northeast Delhi riots in February.

According to the sources, those named in the chargesheet are Taahir Hussain, Mohd Parvez Ahmed, Mohd Ilyas, Saifi Khalid, Ishrat Jahan, Miran Haider, Safoora Zargar, Asif Iqbal Tanha, Shahdab Ahmed, Natasha Narwal, Devangana Kalita, Tasleem Khan and Athar Khan.

Special cell of Delhi Police told Additional Sessions Judge Amitabh Rawat that it has relied upon CD-R and Whatsapp chats. In the chargesheet running into 10,000 pages, the police has listed 747 witnesses and of them 51 have recorded their statements under CRPC 164

(before the magistrate).

The final report has been filed under stringent Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA), various sections of Indian Penal Codes and Arms Act. The police said it has given chronology of conspiracy and relevant events in its chargesheet which is likely to be taken up for consideration in the coming days.

"The evidence includes WhatsApp chats of February 24, the time when riots were happening. At that point, key conspirators were guiding their foot soldiers about violence in the area. The key conspirators were directly in touch with their foot soldiers," police said.

"WhatsApp groups were used by conspirators for 'violence in Seelampur-Jafarabad area. There were 25 protest sites in 25 cities. 25 WhatsApp groups were especially created for each city. The impression was given that they were anti-CAA protest group but through these sites conspirators were being guided," it said.

Mitra helps COVID patients speak to their loved ones

REUTERS

New Delhi, Sept 16: A hospital in India has deployed a customer-service robot to patrol its wards, connecting coronavirus patients to friends and relatives.

Mitra, meaning "friend" in Hindi, is best known for interacting with Prime Minister Narendra Modi at an event in 2017. Its piercing eyes are equipped with facial recognition technology to help it recall people it has previously interacted with. A tablet attached to Mitra's chest allows patients to see loved ones, as well as medical staff unable to access the wards.

"It takes a lot of time to recover, and during this time, when patients need their families the most, they are unable to visit," said Dr Arun Lakhnani, a doctor at the Yatharth Super Speciality Hospital in Noida Extension, a satellite city of the capital New Delhi. Mitra is mainly used by patients who are not able to communicate using their phones. "We mainly discuss my health," said Makhnani Qazi, a retired government bureaucrat and coronavirus patient who has used the robot to communicate with relatives. "I came here Friday and now I have started feeling better. I am feeling very happy now." The robot, developed by Bengaluru-based start-up Invento Robotics, cost the hospital 1 million rupees ($13,600), according to Yatharth Tyagi, director of the company that runs the hospital.

Vulture-toxic drug still being sold in India: Researchers

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, Sept 16: More than a decade after being banned, a vulture-toxic drug is still being prescribed in pharmacies across India, according to an undercover investigation led by a group of environmental organisations and universities.

In 2003, the widespread veterinary use of a non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drug diclofenac in cattle was discovered to be decimating the most iconic birds in South Asia - Asian vultures - after entering the vultures' food chain.

This environmental disaster caused 99.9 per cent of white-rumped vultures and 97 per cent of long and slender-billed vultures to be wiped out - a staggering 40 million birds - pushing these birds to the brink of extinction.

Governments were quick to react, with India, Pakistan, Nepal and Bangladesh banning the drug from veterinary practice. Yet cattle carcasses in India continue to be found containing potentially lethal concentrations of diclofenac along with contaminated, dead vultures.

Worryingly, populations of these critically endangered birds were not showing significant signs of recovery. The new study, published recently in the journal Bird Conservation International, set out to identify what non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs were being offered for sale for veterinary use.

From 2012 to 2017, members of the research team visited pharmacies and asked for drugs to treat their injured cow, buying the first drug that was offered. This research was undertaken by the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds

Centre for Conservation Science, the Bombay Natural History Society, Bird Conservation Nepal, IUCN Bangladesh and the University of Cambridge.

John Mallord, the lead author of the study, said: "As the sale of diclofenac for veterinary use is illegal, if we were open about the reasons for the survey, and that we were vulture conservationists, pharmacists would be unlikely to offer us diclofenac." "We had to pretend to be livestock owners so we could get an unbiased picture of its availability." In India, trends in sales of different non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs varied between the different regions surveyed.

In the first year, diclofenac was still the most commonly offered non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drug. Whilst sales of diclofenac declined in some states, elsewhere there were actually increases. In the five Indian states surveyed in the final year, 2017, diclofenac was still being offered by 10 to 46 per cent of pharmacists.

Chris Bowden, Programme Manager of Saving Asia's Vultures from Extinction (SAVE), said: "The importance of these results is emphasised by the most recent published nationwide population surveys of vultures in India and Nepal." "In Nepal, there is evidence that vulture populations have begun to recover, but in India they either continue to decline or, at best, are stable but at low levels and not yet showing signs of a recovery." However, the study had some positive findings. Sales of diclofenac declined in all three countries over the course of the survey, although there was variation depending on the region.

Hospitals scramble for oxygen as Covid cases top five million

REUTERS

Mumbai, Sept 16: India's coronavirus infections surged past 5 million Wednesday, piling pressure on hospitals grappling with unreliable supplies of oxygen that they need to treat tens of thousands of critical patients.

In the big states of Maharashtra, Gujarat and Uttar Pradesh, that are also some of the worst-affected by the virus, demand for oxygen has more than tripled, doctors and government officials said, prompting urgent calls for help.

"Desperate patients have been calling me through the night but I don't know when I will get stock," Rishikesh Patil, an oxygen supplier in the western city of Nashik, said. The health ministry reported 90,123 new infections Wednesday, taking the total caseload to 5.02 million.

The death toll from COVID-19 is now at 82,066, the ministry said, with 1,290 fatalities recorded in the previous 24 hours. India has the world's fastest growing novel coronavirus epidemic and added its last million infections in just 12 days. It is only the second country in the world to have more than 5 million cases, after the United States.

"At least 6% of India's nearly 1 million active cases need oxygen support," health ministry official Rajesh Bhushan said. "Supplies were adequate but state governments should monitor usage and flag shortages," he said.

"The problem happens when at a facility level, if there is no inventory management. Every state should ensure this," Bhushan said. In the capital of India's most populous state of Uttar Pradesh, the total requirement of oxygen cylinders stood at 5,000 cylinders compared with 1,000 cylinders in normal times, a government official said. The worst-affected state of Maharashtra has decided to reduce supply to neighbouring states to meet its growing demand, a state government official said. Vehicles carrying oxygen will get right of way and can use sirens to ensure they reach hospitals faster.

Ravindra Khade Patil, a doctor who manages two private hospitals on the outskirts of Mumbai, spoke of the stress he faces trying to ensure he can supply his patients with oxygen. Two days ago, the supplier of oxygen to his hospitals did not turn up at his usual time.

Patil made frantic calls to the supplier and then to nearby hospitals and lawmakers, knowing that if the oxygen didn't arrive on time, it would be too late for some of his most critical patients. Finally, past midnight, thanks to pressure from a government official, the oxygen tanks arrived. "If they had arrived even a couple of hours late, we could have lost five or six patients. Every day, we are worried if we will be able to meet our requirements, if the oxygen will arrive or not," Patil said.

Serum to resume Oxford vax trials

The Serum Institute paused its trials after the DCGI issued a show-cause notice to them asking for an explanation as to why it decided to go ahead with the clinical trial of Covid vaccine candidate while doubts about patient safety are yet unclear

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, Sept 16: The Serum Institute of India has received approval from the Drugs Controller General of India (DCGI) to resume the clinical trial of the Oxford Covid-19 vaccine candidate, officials from the drug manufacturing company confirmed Wednesday.

India is the manufacturing partner of the vaccine candidate named Covishield, developed jointly by the University of Oxford's Jenner Institute's and AstraZeneca. The Pune-based firm is looking after the trials at 17 trial sites across India.

The permission to resume comes three days after AstraZeneca announced that it has resumed trials in the UK. On September 9, the trials were halted after one of the participants in the UK reported a suspected severe adverse reaction when administered a booster dose of the vaccine candidate.

On September 10, the Serum

Institute of India also paused its trials after the DCGI issued a show-cause notice to them asking for an explanation as to why the institute decided to go ahead with the clinical trial of Covid-19 vaccine candidate while doubts about patient safety are yet unclear.

The next day, the DCGI had further directed Serum Institute of India to suspend any new recruitment in the phase two and three clinical trial of the Oxford COVID-19 vaccine candidate till further orders in the backdrop of pharma giant AstraZeneca pausing the clinical trials in other countries because of "an unexplained illness" in a participant in the study.

Bengalis settled abroad learn puja rituals online

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Kolkata, Sept 16: Bengalis settled in various countries are taking online lessons to perform Durga Puja rituals themselves as the COVID-19 outbreak has forced priests from West Bengal to cancel their international travel plans.

Several priests from the state used to make annual journeys to countries from the United States to Japan to perform Durga Puja rituals for Bengalis settled there. However, the coronavirus outbreak has changed the situation.

On being requested by several Bengalis settled abroad, an organisation, Sarva Bharatiya Prachya Vidya Academy, has decided to conduct online training sessions for Brahmins on September 27 and October 4, its founder Jayanta Kushari said Wednesday. "They will be trained to perform

'yagna', 'ghot puja' (worshipping an urn symbolising the Goddess) and other rituals of Durga Puja," he said.

"The COVID-19 outbreak has restricted our movement but Durga Puja cannot wait. After being requested by friends in India and abroad, we decided to conduct digital workshops where all puja rituals will be taught," Kushari said.

The workshops will be held at a time convenient for all participants across different time zones, he said. The organisation has been conducting workshops for people willing to work as priests apart from their regular jobs. It had last month conducted a similar online session for 175 people in front of the semi-finished Durga idol at Shobhabazar Rajbari in north Kolkata.

"More people can attend online sessions than in physical workshops in the present scenario. This might be the norm even in post-COVID times," Kushari said. Kolkata-based priest Srikanto Chakraborty said he is looking for offers from puja committees across the state after his regular London-based client informed him they are not organising Durga Puja this year.

Centre to SC: Will welcome speedy trial

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, Sept 16: The Centre Wednesday told the Supreme Court that it would welcome any order for the speedy trial of sitting and former MPs/MLAs facing criminal and corruption charges.

Solicitor General, representing the Centre, submitted before a bench headed by Justice N. V. Ramana that the apex court can fix time frame for the completion of trials in pending cases against Legislators, sitting and former.

Senior advocate Vijay Hansaria, who is a court appointed amicus curiae, has suggested that trials in these matters should be completed within one year. The apex court will pass an order on the report submitted by the amicus suggesting expeditious disposal of criminal trials pending against legislators across the country.

After revealing that 4,442 cases are pending against sitting and former MPs and MLAs in different courts, amicus curiae have informed the Supreme Court that there is no uniformity in setting up of Special Courts for MPs/MLAs across the country.

The High Courts may be directed to prepare a blueprint for expeditious disposal of the cases not later than one year for conclusion of trial, suggested the amicus. In the supplementary submission, Hansaria had said the analysis of the pending cases show that there is no uniformity as to the setting up of Special Courts for MPs/MLAs.

The report said: "In the states of Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka, Madhya Pradesh, Telangana and West Bengal, there is one Special Court for all cases against MPs/MLAs. In the State of Telangana apart from the Special Court for MPs/MLAs cases are also pending before the Special Court, CBI. In all other states, these cases are pending in respective jurisdictional courts".

The report was filed on an order passed by the top court on a PIL by BJP leader and advocate Ashwini Upadhyay, who urged the court to give directions for speedy trial of criminal cases against sitting and former lawmakers.

Islamic State most active in 12 states, says Govt

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, Sept 16: With Islamic State and its various manifestations spreading base in 12 Indian states in recent years, the Sunni jihadists' group is now "most active" in these states across the country.

Apart from southern states like Telangana, Kerala, Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka and Tamil Nadu - where the Iran and Syria-based terrorist outfit penetrated years ago - investigating agencies have found their links in states like Maharashtra, West Bengal, Rajasthan, Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, and Jammu and Kashmir as well. The Islamic State or ISIS, which has taken control over much of Syria and Iraq since 2014 and has branches in countries like Bangladesh, Mali, Somalia, and Egypt and links with other terrorist outfits like Lashkar-e-Taiba and Al-Qaeda, is using various social media platforms to propagate its ideology in India.

Many instances of individuals from different states joining the group have come to the notice of the central and state security agencies.

The information on IS was provided by Minister of State of Home G Kishan Reddy in the Rajya Sabha in a written reply to Bharatiya Janata Party MP Vinay P Sahasrabudde's Unstarred Question. The Minister said: "The cyberspace is being closely watched by Indian agencies and action taken as per the law".

Reddy said that probes by the National Investigation Agency (NIA) have revealed that the IS is most active in Kerala, Karnataka, Andhra Pradesh, Telangana, Maharashtra, Tamil Nadu, West Bengal, Rajasthan, Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, and Jammu and Kashmir.

The NIA - India's anti-terror agency - has registered 17 cases related to the presence of IS in Telangana, Kerala, Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka and Tamil Nadu. It has arrested 122 accused, Reddy replied.

"Islamic State, or Islamic State of Iraq and Levant (ISIL), or Islamic State of Iraq and Syria (ISIS), or Daesh, or Islamic State in Khorasan Province (ISKP), ISIS Wilayat Khorasan, or Islamic State of Iraq and the Sham-Khorasan (ISIS-K) and its manifestations have been notified as terrorist organisations and included in the First Schedule to the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act, 1967 by the central government," the minister said. Asked whether the government has any information on how these group members are funded and whether they are getting any foreign funding for terror activities, the minister replied in the positive.

However, Reddy did not explain what information the Ministry of Home Affairs - which is responsible for internal security and law and order in the country - has on the IS and which foreign country is funding for their terror activities.

India slams OIC, Turkey, Pak over Kashmir in Geneva

Indian representative Pawan Badhe said it has become habitual for Pakistan to make false and fabricated narratives for its self-serving malicious purposes

Thousands of Sikh, Hindu and Christian minority women and girls have been subjected to abductions, forced marriages and conversions in Pakistan, he pointed out

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Geneva/New Delhi, Sept 16: India Tuesday slammed Turkey and the Organisation of Islamic Cooperation (OIC) at the UN Human Rights Council in Geneva, while shaming Pakistan for funding cross-border terrorism and ethnic cleansing of its minorities.

In response to the statements made by Pakistan, Turkey and the OIC at the Council, Indian representative Pawan Badhe, First Secretary at the Permanent Mission of India in Geneva, rejected their comments on India's internal matters, specifically Jammu and Kashmir, which was reorganised last year and bifurcated into two Union Territories.

In an unprecedented takedown of the OIC, Turkey and Pakistan, Badhe said, "The Union Territory of Jammu and Kashmir is an integral part of India. The OIC has no locus standi to comment on international affairs of India. The OIC has allowed itself to be misused by Pakistan to subvert its own agenda. It's for the members of the OIC to decide if it is in their interest to allow Pakistan to do so."

He also advised Turkey to refrain from commenting on the internal affairs of India.

Using strong words against Islamabad, Badhe said it has become a habit for Pakistan to malign India with false and fabricated narratives for its self-serving malicious purposes.

"Neither India nor others deserve this unsolicited lecture on human rights from a country that has consistently persecuted its ethnic and religious minorities, is an epicentre of terrorism, has the distinction of providing pensions to individuals on UN Sanctions list and has a Prime Minister who proudly admits training tens of thousands of terrorists to fight in Jammu and Kashmir," he said.

The Indian diplomat said that it is not surprising that other relevant multilateral institutions have been raising serious concerns on Pakistan's failure to stop terror financing and lack of effective actions against all terror entities in Pakistan.

The nefarious designs of Pakistan continue in Pakistan occupied parts of the Union Territories of Jammu and Kashmir and Ladakh, he said. Badhe argued that in its zeal to reassert its theocratic ideology, Pakistan has ensured that ethnic and religious minorities have no future because of systematic persecution, blasphemy laws, forced conversions, targeted killings, sectarian violence and faith-based discrimination.

The plight of the people under its subjugation is well represented by the state of affairs in Balochistan, Khyber Pakhtunkhwa and Sindh.

In a scathing attack, the Indian diplomat used sarcasm to describe what Pakistan excels in.

"Pakistan does well when it comes to intimidation and attacks against journalists, human rights defenders and political dissidents, in particular by its state machinery. It is not without a reason that Pakistan has been highlighted by international organisations as a country where journalists are slain and their killers go scot free.

"Pakistan has been abusing various HRC mechanisms and platforms for raising issues, which are extraneous to the mandate of the HRC and which ref the international community from serious human rights violations committed by it against its own people, including in Indian territories occupied by it," Badhe concluded.

ByteDance to place TikTok's global headquarters in US

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Beijing, Sept 16: China's ByteDance has decided to place the headquarters of its popular video platform app TikTok in the US in order to escape President Donald Trump's ban, official media here reported Wednesday.

As per the plan presented to the US officials by ByteDance, TikTok will remain the majority shareholder of the new US headquartered company, and tech firm Oracle will be a minority shareholder, state-run CGTN TV reported. People familiar with the negotiation process emphasised that specific details of the plan may change. Independent third parties will serve as directors of the new company, and ByteDance will continue to control TikTok and its core algorithms.

In order to allay US concerns about "national security," TikTok's data from America will be stored in the US and Oracle will serve as the data service provider, the report said. Other potential US investors such as the world's largest retailer Walmart, which had launched a joint bid with Microsoft, would own a minority stake, the report said. On August 6, Trump issued an executive order stating that TikTok's US business must be sold before September 20, and threatened to block the video app in the US.

US pushes arms sales surge to Taiwan, needling China: Sources

REUTERS

Washington, Sept 16: The United States plans to sell as many as seven major weapons systems, including mines, cruise missiles and drones to Taiwan, four people familiar with the discussions said, as the Trump administration ramps up pressure on China.

Pursuing seven sales at once is a rare departure from years of precedent in which US military sales to the island were spaced out and carefully calibrated to minimise tensions with Beijing.

But the Trump administration has become more aggressive with China in 2020 and the sales would land as relations between Beijing and Washington are at their lowest point in decades over accusations of spying, a lingering trade war and disputes about the spread of the novel coronavirus. At the same time Taiwan's desire to buy weapons increased after President Tsai Ing-wen was re-elected here in January and has made strengthening Taiwan's defenses a top priority.

Taiwan is China's most sensitive territorial issue. Beijing says it is a Chinese province, and has denounced the Trump administration's support for the island.

Washington has been eager to create a military counterbalance to Chinese forces, building on an effort known within the Pentagon as "Fortress Taiwan", as Beijing's military makes increasingly aggressive moves in the region.

The Taipei Economic and Cultural Representative Office in the United States did not respond to a request for comment. Taiwan's military is well-trained and well-equipped with mostly US-made hardware, but China has a huge numerical superiority and is adding advanced equipment of its own.

The weapons packages from Lockheed Martin Co, Boeing and General Atomics are moving their way through the export process, three people familiar with the status of the deals on Capitol Hill said, and a notification to Congress is expected within weeks.

One industry source said President Donald Trump was slated to be briefed on the packages this week by Secretary of State Mike Pompeo.

Some of the deals had been requested by Taiwan more than a year ago, but are only now being moved through the approval process. A State Department spokesman declined comment.

MASS MURDERER BREIVIK TO APPLY FOR PAROLE

REUTERS

Oslo, Sept 16: Norwegian mass murderer Anders Behring Breivik will seek to apply for parole, his lawyer told daily VG Wednesday.

The far-right extremist killed eight people with a bomb in Oslo and shot dead 69 others on an island nearby, many of them teenagers attending a Labour Party youth camp in July 2011, in what is Norway's worst peacetime atrocity. He is serving Norway's maximum sentence of 21 years, which can be extended indefinitely. While Breivik is eligible to seek parole after serving the first ten years of his term, a date he will reach in July 2021, it is up to the courts to determine whether a release is appropriate. "I have at his demand sent a request for parole," Breivik's lawyer, Oeystein Storrvik, told VG. "This is a right that all prisoners (who can be detained indefinitely) have and that he wants to use," he said. Storrvik was not immediately available for comment. Reactions to the news were immediate and negative.

'Social distancing globally won't help combat Covid'

GIVING A CLARION CALL FOR STRENGTHENING MULTILATERALISM TO COMBAT THE PANDEMIC, BOZKIR SAID, "NO STATE CAN COMBAT THIS PANDEMIC ALONE. SOCIAL DISTANCING WILL NOT HELP AT THE INTERNATIONAL LEVEL. UNILATERALISM WILL ONLY STRENGTHEN THE PANDEMIC"

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

United Nations, Sept 16: Social distancing at the global level will not help as no country could combat COVID-19 alone, President of the UN General Assembly's 75th session Volkan Bozkir has said, asserting that multilateralism is the "panacea" to all the problems in the world.

Bozkir, addressing the UN ambassadors and delegates, said that since the beginning of the crisis earlier this year, critics of multilateralism have become more vocal and the pandemic has been used to justify unilateral steps and weaken the rules-based international system.

"In the past six months, our plans for the 75th year of the United Nations have changed. Today, we have other urgent priorities. Our masks remind us of the very serious threat we face. They remind us we are in this together," Bozkir said as the 75th session of the General Assembly commenced on

Volkan Bozkir holds aloft the chamber's gavel, which was handed over to him by Tijjani Muhammad-Bande, the president of the previous session

Tuesday. Wearing masks, UN diplomats and envoys sat socially distanced in the iconic General Assembly Hall as the high-level annual session begins in a largely virtual format this year due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

"International organisations have been reproached and the need for international cooperation has been questioned. These criticisms are not baseless but their conclusions are misguided," the veteran Turkish diplomat told the 193-member General Assembly.

Giving a clarion call for strengthening multilateralism to combat the pandemic, Bozkir said, "Make no mistake: No state can combat this pandemic alone. Social distancing will not help at the international level. Unilateralism will only strengthen the pandemic. "It will move us further away from our shared goal. At this time of crisis, it is our responsibility to strengthen people's faith in multilateral cooperation and international institutions, with the UN at their center." Later, addressing the UN correspondents at a press briefing, Bozkir said that multilateralism is the "panacea" to all the problems of the world.

Responding to a question on whether he thinks the UN can survive a second term of US President Donald Trump, who has been very critical of its agencies and withdrawn from the UN entities and agreements like the World Health Organization and the Paris climate accord, he said if the UN shows to the world that it is doing its job in a strong manner and "the wind is blowing from all the world behind to the UN, then I don't think any country or any person can think of abolishing this institution or lessening its strength."

UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres, addressing the opening of the 75th session of the General Assembly, said in the landmark year of the world organisation, "it is clear that the world has high expectations of us, as the main platform for multilateralism and cooperation on a rules-based international system."

For the first time in the 75-year history of the United Nations, state heads and government, ministers and diplomats from 193-UN member states will not be gathering in New York for the high-level UNGA week due to the coronavirus pandemic.

World leaders will send pre-recorded video statements in advance to the UN for the largely virtual General Debate as well as other virtual summits planned during the session, including the high-level meetings to commemorate the 75th anniversary of the UN.

Hurricane Sally hits US Gulf coast

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pensacola (US), Sept 16: Hurricane Sally made landfall Wednesday near Gulf Shores, Alabama, as a Category 2 storm, pushing a surge of ocean water onto the coast and dumping torrential rain that forecasters said would cause dangerous flooding from the Florida Panhandle to Mississippi and well inland in the days ahead.

Moving at an agonisingly slow 3 mph, Sally finally came ashore at 4:45 a.m. local time with top winds of 105 mph (165 kmh), the National Hurricane Center said. Sally's northern eyewall had raked the Gulf Coast with hurricane-force winds and rain from Pensacola Beach, Florida, westward to Dauphin Island, Alabama, for hours before its center finally hit land. Some 150,000 homes and businesses had lost electricity by early Wednesday, according to the poweroutage.us site. A curfew was called in the coastal Alabama city of Gulf Shores due to life-threatening conditions. In the Panhandle's Escambia County, Chief Sheriff's Deputy Chip Simmons vowed to keep deputies out with residents as long as physically possible. The county includes Pensacola, one of the largest cities on the Gulf Coast. Sally was a rare storm that could make history, said Ed Rappaport, deputy director of the hurricane center. Energy companies also shut more than a quarter of US Gulf of Mexico offshore oil and gas production, and some refiners halted or slowed operations.

LS clears Banking Regulation (Amend) Bill

AGENCIES

New Delhi, Sept 16: The government has brought amendments to the Banking Regulation Act, 1949 in order to protect the interests of the depositors, Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman said in Parliament Wednesday.

The Finance Minister said the government is trying to bring amendments in order to protect the interest of depositors who in the last two years have been put to hardships.

The depositors in some unfortunate situations in the banks or co-operative societies, which are also operating as banks, are put to hardship, the Minister said while moving the Banking Regulation (Amendment) Bill, 2020 to amend the Banking Regulation Act, 1949 in the Lok Sabha.

She said the government had introduced the Bill so that the depositors' interests will be taken care of. But, the Minister said, unfortunately, during the Budget session the government could not have this Bill passed and had to bring in an ordinance. Sitharaman said the ordinance was brought in only because the financial health of many of these cooperatives, which were also performing as banks, was becoming very bad.

IN DETAILS

SECTION 45 IS BEING AMENDED BECAUSE IT WILL ENABLE THE RBI TO MAKE A THEME OF RECONSTRUCTION AND AMALGAMATION, GOVT SAYS

She informed the Lower House that the financial condition of 277 urban cooperative banks was very delicate and they were reporting losses, while 105 such banks were unable to fulfil their minimum regulatory capital requirement.

She said a total of 47 urban co-operative societies had a negative net worth and 328 urban cooperative banks were having more than 15 per cent gross NPA (Non Performing Assets).

Despite the Covid-19 pandemic, Sitharaman said the gross NPA ratio of urban cooperative banks increased from 7.27 in March 2019 to over 10 per cent in March 2020.

The Centre has brought in amendments in Section 3, Section 45 and Section 56

By amending Section 3 and 56, the govt is making provisions applicable to banking companies applicable to co-op banks

Therefore, the Minister said, the government had to bring an ordinance in the interest of the depositors and now that ordinance has to be replaced.

She said her Ministry has brought in amendments in Section 3, Section 45 and Section 56. By amending Section 3 and 56, the government is making provisions applicable to banking companies applicable to co-operative banks also so that cooperative banks are equally subject to better governance and sound banking regulations through the Reserve Bank of India (RBI). Section 45 is being amended because it will enable the RBI to make a theme of reconstruction and amalgamation, she said.

Giving the example of the recent Yes Bank reconstitution scheme, she said it is to protect the interest of the public depositors without making the bank undergo a moratorium period. She also gave an example of BMC bank in which the depositors could not get a resolution till now.

The minister clarified that the Bill will not be applicable to the Primary Agricultural Credit Society and will also not be applicable to the cooperative society whose primary business is providing long term finance for agricultural development. "This will be applicable only on those who bank, banker and banking business in cooperative society."

Mentioning that her government is not doing anything new, the Minister said Section 3 and 56 have also been amended earlier in 1965, 1984, 1987, 1989 and 2012. On the first day of the session, Sitharaman had withdrawn the Bill saying "it is being withdrawn to add a few new things giving the Reserve Bank of India a chance to be able to restructure distressed cooperative banks, which are in serious need". The Bill was not passed by Parliament during the Budget Session and subsequently an ordinance was issued.

Fraud-hit PMC approached many for merger: Reuters

THOUSANDS OF PMC DEPOSITORS HAVE BEEN UNABLE TO ACCESS THEIR DEPOSITS FOR A YEAR AS THE RBI HAS CAPPED WITHDRAWALS AT ₹1,00,000

AGENCIES

New Delhi, Sept 16: Fraud-hit PMC Bank has approached other banks over a possible merger even as its efforts to recover funds from a big borrower have been disrupted by the coronavirus pandemic, the bank's administrator said in a court filing seen by Reuters.

Authorities started investigating Punjab and Maharashtra Co-operative Bank (PMC) for fraud last year and the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) took control of it after detecting financial irregularities. Thousands of PMC depositors have been unable to access their deposits for a year as the RBI has capped withdrawals at 1,00,000 rupees.

PMC has "tried to engage with the major banks of the country to request for a merger", the bank's administrator said in a Sept. 10 filing at the Delhi High Court, without identifying the banks or giving other details.

The bulk of PMC's loan book was found to be disbursed to one Indian real estate company, HDIL, and an RBI-appointed administrator, Jai Bhagwan Bhorja, has been trying to recover the dues in a bid to rescue the lender. Authorities have been investigating officials of both PMC and HDIL.

HDIL and its associates owe 69.81 billion rupees ($949 million) to PMC, but at 11.6 billion rupees ($157.56 million), the realisable value of its securities was "grossly insufficient", Bhorja said in the filing of the case brought forward by two aggrieved PMC depositors.

Other legal processes to sell certain securities have also been hit as courts have not been fully operational during the novel coronavirus pandemic, the filing said.

Bhorja and the RBI did not immediately respond to a request for comment. HDIL, which has denied any wrongdoing, also did not respond.

Set up in 1984, PMC is a regional co-operative lender with 137 branches across six states in India, and its sudden downfall in late September 2019, has left thousands of its depositors struggling.

In his filing, Bhorja said a push to sell an HDIL yacht had also been hit as it was anchored in Sri Lanka and interested bidders had not been able to inspect it due to COVID-19 travel curbs.

Separately, two of HDIL's aircraft could not be auctioned swiftly as the Mumbai International Airport - where they have been parked - was closed to visitors, the filing said.

Pending GST, MEIS dues hurt exporters

AGENCIES

New Delhi, Sept 16: Engineering export body EEPIC India Wednesday said that pending GST refunds along with MEIS dues are hurting exporters.

According to EEPIC India, besides fighting a battle for survival in the Covid-19 hit global market, exporters are facing a tedious and tiring process of getting GST refunds and the MEIS entitlements due for the period much before a ₹2 crore limit was fixed under the government's flagship scheme.

"We are receiving grievances from our members that the shipping bills are not receiving validation in time for processing of GST refunds. The July bills, submitted within due dates have not been validated so far," EEPIC India Chairman Mahesh Desai said.

Accordingly, he pointed out that while the government has imposed a ₹2 crore reward limit per IEC under the Merchandise Exports from India (MEIS) scheme from September 1, 2020, exporters have not received the entitlements even for April-August.

"Greater clarity is required and dues as per the old norms should be paid for the period when there was no limit on the rewards," Desai was quoted as saying in a statement.

Indo-China trade deficit sees a dip

New Delhi, Sept 16: The trade deficit between India and China in April-June this fiscal year fell to USD 5.48 billion as compared to USD 13.1 billion in the same period last year, Parliament was informed Wednesday.

In a written reply, Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal said the bilateral trade between the countries too dipped to USD 16.55 billion during the first three months of 2020-21 as against USD 21.42 billion in the same period last year. "Government has consistently taken steps to balance our trade with China by increasing our exports to China and reducing our dependence on imports from China," he said.

In a separate reply, the minister said at present, about 550 tariff lines (or products) are under the restricted/prohibited category for imports under the Foreign Trade Policy. Imports of these products are restricted from all countries, including China.

Replying to a separate question, he said merchandise exports from special economic zones (SEZs) dipped to ₹81,481 crore during April-August, 2020 as against ₹1,30,129 crore in the same period of 2019-20. "However, services exports have shown a growth of 9 per cent during April to August 2020 in comparison to corresponding period of previous year," he added.

'THINGS WILL GO WELL' FOR PANDYA

INJURY LAY-OFF MOTIVATED ALL-ROUNDER TO WORK HARDER AS THE MUMBAI INDIANS STAR ADMITS TO BE IN BEST SHAPE AND MENTAL STATE AHEAD OF IPL

No matter how far I go from the game, no matter how long I stay out, when I come back, it has to be worth it. I have prepared very well and I think, great things are coming ahead

HARDIK PANDYA

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Abu Dhabi, Sept 16: Back from a lengthy injury layoff, Mumbai Indians' star all-rounder Hardik Pandya said the setback motivated him to work harder and he is now in good shape both physically and mentally for the IPL starting September 19.

Pandya's form will be crucial for defending champions Mumbai Indians, who will take on Chennai Super Kings in the lung-opener of the cash-rich T20 league September 19. "The way I'm hitting the ball right now, the shape I'm in, the mental space I'm in, it is just a matter of time that I go and spend some time on the ground and I think things will come out pretty well," Pandya said in a video posted by Mumbai Indians' official Twitter handle.

"No matter how far I go from the game, no matter how long I stay out, when I come back, it has to be worth it. I have prepared very well and I think, great things are coming ahead," the 26-year-old flamboyant all-rounder added.

Last year in November, Pandya had undergone a back surgery in London. He came back in the DY Patil T20 tournament held in early March.

He was even selected for the ODI series against South Africa, but the COVID-19 pandemic, which forced the rubber to be abandoned, delayed his return. He is now looking forward to the IPL.

"IPL is something that I have enjoyed a lot and I would like to make a comeback very strong and I'm just looking forward to it," said Pandya.

He also conceded that injuries would be a part of his cricketing journey and motivate him to do better. "In my life I have realised one thing that injuries would be with me. No one wants to get injured, but I accept the fact that what I do, injuries would be a part of it.

"Injuries have always kept me going, always kept me motivated. Actually taught me how much I have to put in the hard yards and the hard work has always increased, never decreased," said the Baroda all-rounder.

Pandya also threw light on how he maintained his fitness during the lockdown. "Luckily, me and (my brother) Krunal (Pandya) had the privilege to have a gym in our house. So because of that portion, we were able to work on our fitness," he said.

"And I always feel that if you go one step ahead in your fitness, there are much more magical moments in your life (that) are waiting," the right-hander emphasised.

Looking back at the DY Patil T20 Cup, which was his comeback tournament, Pandya, who has 1,068 runs from 66 IPL games, said it gave him confidence to implement his plans.

"Luckily, I got one tournament before, which was DY Patil, which I played for Reliance. And as a player, it gave me immense confidence to implement the hard work which I have done over a period of time and it just felt good," he signed off.

Adjust to heat biggest test: AB

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Dubai, Sept 16: South African star AB de Villiers believes the biggest challenge for all teams in the upcoming IPL will be adjusting to the prevailing hot and humid conditions in the UAE. Most games will be played in the night but the conditions would still be challenging.

"I am not really used to these kind of conditions to be honest. It's very hot, it reminds me of a Test match we played in July in Chennai once where Viru (Virender Sehwag) scored 300. It was one of the hottest weather conditions I have experience in my life," he said in an interview posted on RCB's twitter handle.

"The humidity is similar to that, even at 10 at night. When I arrived here I checked the weather conditions of a few months and it seems to be getting better. It is definitely going to play a part and you have to make sure you have the energy for the backend of the innings or last 5 overs of your bowling spell."

De Villiers said he would also miss playing in front of packed crowds in India with the event to be played behind closed doors in UAE due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

"I think obviously all are used to playing in front of crowds in big stage, there is certainly an amount of adrenaline that pumped into you when it gets really loud, especially in Chinnaswamy when the RCB crowd gets going, it's difficult to stop the RCB team. So, we'll miss that there is no doubt about it."

"But I won't say I am not used to it, I have played a lot of cricket in empty stadiums. I grew up like that. It's only in my international career that I have played in front of crowd," he said.

Djoko behaves better in 1st match since US Open default

Rome: Novak Djokovic behaved better Wednesday in his first match since being defaulted from the US Open. The top-ranked Serb was mostly courteous with the chair umpire during a 6-3, 6-2 win over local wild-card entry Salvatore Caruso in his opening match at the Italian Open. When the umpire came down to inspect a ball mark on the red clay early in the first set and made an overrule in Caruso's favor, Djokovic just replied, "Yup," and rubbed out the mark with his red sneaker. When Caruso impressed him — the Italian hit 13 winners to Djokovic's 12 — Djokovic said, "Bravo." Djokovic's only testy moment came during the third game of the second set, which went to deuce seven times before Djokovic finally broke Caruso's serve. As the game wore on, Djokovic appeared bothered by crowd noise, even though the Campo Centrale is empty of fans this year because of the pandemic.

Italian teenager Musetti stuns Wawrinka in Rome

Rome: Local teenager Lorenzo Musetti stunned Stan Wawrinka 6-0, 7-6(7-2) in the first round of the Italian Open for a memorable first win on tour. Out-hitting Wawrinka's famed backhand with a one-handed version of his own, the 18-year-old qualifier moved the three-time Grand Slam champion from corner to corner and displayed an all-court game that belied his years. Musetti became the first player born in 2002 to win on the ATP tour — after fellow Italian Jannik Sinner achieved the feat last year for players born in 2001. Wawrinka, who chose not to travel to the US Open, appeared rusty and committed a series of errors early on. Musetti, who came through qualifying, was the runner-up in the 2018 US Open junior final then won the Australian Open junior title in 2019.

Germany to take on Belgium on FIH Pro League's return

Lausanne: Following a long COVID-19 hiatus, the second season of the FIH Hockey Pro League will return next week in Dusseldorf where Germany will entertain the national women's and men's teams of Belgium September 22 and 23. The fixtures — which take place at Dusseldorfer Hockey Club 1905, located less than 90 kilometres from the Belgian border — will see the teams face each other twice over the two days. The International Hockey Federation had in April extended the second season of the Pro League through to June 2021 because of the global health crisis. Season 2 of the league was initially set to run from January to June 2020. Around one third of the planned matches were completed between January and early March, before the crisis brought the competition to a standstill.

East Bengal place bid to participate in ISL 2020-21

New Delhi: Kolkata football giant East Bengal have submitted the Invitation to Bid (ITB) documents to Football Sports Development Limited (FSDL) to participate in the upcoming edition of the Indian Super League (ISL). East Bengal had recently announced that they had sold a majority stake to city-based Shree Cement Ltd and would appeal to the ISL organisers in a bid to make a dramatic late entry into the country's top-tier club competition. "We are extremely happy to announce that the consortium of Shree Cement Ltd and East Bengal club have placed the bid to participate in this year's ISL," the club announced on Twitter late Tuesday. The red-and-gold brigade's new investors were slated to pick up the bid proposal for a spot in the ISL in the name of 'Shree Cement Foundation', a new company it has registered with the Ministry of Corporate Affairs.

Former Newcastle star Taylor joins OFC

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Sept 16: Former Newcastle defender Steven Taylor has joined Odisha FC Wednesday on a one-year deal with an option to extend for a second year.

Making his senior club debut with high-profile English club Newcastle United in 2003-04 football season, the 34-year-old centre-back played for more than a decade in the Premier League, becoming a Toon darling in the process before making a move to American professional club Portland Timbers in 2016.

The London-born footballer had also represented England B and other English clubs Wycombe Wanderers FC, Ipswich Town FC and Peterborough United FC and played age-group tournaments for England's U-16, U-17, U-20 and U-21 teams.

Before joining the Bhubaneswar-based ISL team, Taylor was the captain of New Zealand's Wellington Phoenix FC which competes in the Australian A-League. His towering presence in the defence helped the Wellington side to the third position finish in the last season.

"I am extremely delighted to join OFC and I'm hopeful that my experience and leadership qualities will be helpful for the team. I am very happy to be working under (coach) Stuart (Baxter) once again and can't wait to meet all the young Indian lads. I hope I can help the lads push on and in turn egg the team on towards the play-off spots. I am looking forward to create something special at Odisha, make no mistake about it."

Bernal opts out of Tour de France

Grenoble (France), Sept 16: Defending Tour de France champion Egan Bernal has pulled out of the race ahead of a mammoth stage in the Alps, his Ineos Grenadiers team said Wednesday.

Bernal had been struggling since last weekend's stage in the Jura mountains, where he dropped more than seven minutes on the main contenders and slipped out of contention. Hampered by back pain, the 23-year-old rider lost more time during Tuesday's first Alpine stage.

Bernal was in 16th place overall, 19 minutes and four seconds behind race leader Primoz Roglic. "This is obviously not how I wanted my Tour de France to end, but I agree that it is the right decision for me in the circumstances," Bernal said. "I have the greatest respect for this race and I'm already looking forward to coming back in the years ahead."

Last year, Bernal became the first Colombian to win the Tour, and the youngest champion of the post-World War II era. His team said Bernal will try to recover as quickly as possible and redefine his goals for the rest of the season.

"We have taken this decision with Egan's best interests at heart," Ineos manager Dave Brailsford said. "Egan is a true champion who loves to race, but he is also a young rider, with many Tours ahead of him."

Bernal's withdrawal marked the end of Ineos' dominance at cycling's biggest event. The successful period started in 2012 with Bradley Wiggins' victory when the team was called Team Sky.

The squad won seven of the last eight editions with four different riders, but its best-placed rider this year is Richard Carapaz, who stood 14th ahead of Wednesday's Stage 17.

Arguably the toughest, the trek features the Col de La Madeleine and the Col de La Loze, the Tour's highest point this year at 2,304 meters. The traffic-free pass between the ski resorts of Meribel and Courchevel was opened to cyclists this year after a forest track was paved by local authorities. The last six kilometers of the climb are particularly difficult, with very steep sections and sharp turns.

Harikrishna in joint lead after 3 rounds

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Chennai, Sept 16: Indian Grandmaster P Harikrishna claimed a share of the top position with Armenian GM Levon Aronian after posting two wins and a draw in three rounds of rapid competition in the St Louis Rapid and Blitz online chess tournament.

The India No.2 started with a win over US Grandmaster Leinier Dominguez, before settling for a draw with Iranian prodigy Alireza Firouzja in games played late Tuesday. In the third round, Harikrishna pulled off a victory over experienced Russian Alexander Grischuk in 41 moves.

World champion Magnus Carlsen, the favourite to win the title, was fifth with three points. After a win over Hikaru Nakamura in his opener, the Norwegian went down to Russia's Ian Nepomniachtchi in the second round. A draw with Wesley So in the third left the World No.1 in fifth spot.

Harikrishna, coming from a good showing in FIDE Online Olympiad, outwitted the American in 51 moves with black pieces, to begin his campaign in the elite 10-player event.

The Indian ace will face Nepomniachtchi in the fourth round, followed by games against Aronian and Carlsen late Wednesday.

Bairstow ton, Woakes flourish prop England

Manchester, Sept 16: Jonny Bairstow's (112, 126b, 12x4, 2x6) wonderful century and a late flourish from Chris Woakes (53 n o, 39b, 6x4) helped England post 302/7 in their 50 overs in the third and final ODI against Australia here, Wednesday. The series is locked at 1-1.

Bairstow played a superb innings on a track where most of the English batsmen struggled to get going. Bairstow was ably supported by Sam Billings (57, 58b, 4x4, 2x6), who had scored his maiden ODI century in the first ODI.

Earlier, England won the toss and opted to bat first, which was backfired in a most unexpected way. Mitchell Starc (3/74) struck twice in the first two balls of the innings pegging back Jason Roy and Joe Root.

However, England skipper Eoin Morgan (23) and Bairstow made amends adding 67 runs for the third wicket before leg-spinner Adam Zampa (3/51) struck twice. He first broke the dangerous-looking stand removing Morgan, before getting rid of Jos Buttler to reduce the hosts to 96/4.

It proved to be the Aussies' last laugh in the innings as Bairstow and Billings joined hands to add 114 runs for the fifth wicket. It was Zampa, yet again, who broke the stand dismissing Billings. Pat Cummins (1/53) then came to attack and he accounted for the dismissal of Bairstow.

With the scoreboard reading 220/6, Woakes had the opportunity to take England to a competitive total. He was ably supported by Tom Curran (19) as the duo put together 46 runs. Then, Woakes changed gears to find some quick runs as he and Adil Rashid (11 n o) guided the hosts past 300.

BRIEF SCORES: England 302/7 (Jonny Bairstow 112, Sam Billings 57, Chris Woakes 53 n o, Adam Zampa 3/51, Mitchell Starc 3/74) vs Australia. Match to continue.
