₹693 crore Kalia money transferred to 34 lakh farmers

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, April 1: Celebrating Utkal Divas and the new financial year, Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik transferred Thursday ₹693.94 crore to the bank accounts of over 34 lakh farmers under the 'Kalia' scheme.

Greeting the farmers on Odisha Statehood Day, Naveen said, "It is heartening to note that the Kalia scheme is having an impact in the lives of 37 lakh farmers as well as 17 lakh poor landless persons. It is the only scheme in the entire country which also helps the landless poor along with farmers."

The CM added, "It is the sacrifices and self-respect of the farmers that have enhanced the self-esteem of Odisha today. Farmers in Odisha are supplying food to other states. They have made Odisha proud. It is because of them the state has received the 'Krishi Karman Award'."

Patnaik further said that schemes such as loans with zero per cent interest and new agriculture policy have encouraged farmers. He reiterated that the state will continue its fight to implement MS Swaminathan Committee recommendations. "The MSP hike is not anyone's charity, but is a right of the farmers. We are with the farmers always," asserted Patnaik.

The CM said farmers are the force behind the economic development of Odisha. He reiterated that he has always stood with the farmers.

HUGE FAUX PAS OVER INTEREST RATE CUTS

Govt rectifies 'oversight'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 1: Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman said Thursday the government will rollback the steep interest rate cut on small saving schemes such as Public Provident Fund (PPF) and National Savings Certificate (NSC). She said it was an 'oversight', a move being seen as an attempt by the BJP to contain the fallout of a decision hitting the common man in the ongoing elections in West Bengal, Assam and three other states.

Wednesday's decision to cut interest rate by up to 1.1 per cent across various small savings schemes, including the NSC and PPF came a day before polling in West Bengal and Assam. The decision to rollback citing 'oversight' was taken hours after announcing the steep cuts.

"Interest rates of small savings schemes of government of India (GoI) shall continue to be at the rates which existed in the last quarter of 2020-2021, i.e. rates that prevailed as of March 2021. Orders issued by oversight shall be withdrawn," Sitharaman said in an early morning tweet Thursday.

Interest rate on PPF was reduced by 0.7 per cent to 6.4 per cent while NSC was to earn 0.9 per cent less at 5.9 per cent. The highest cut of 1.1 per cent was effected in the one-year term deposit. The new rate was brought down to 4.4 per cent as compared to 5.5 per cent.

However, once restored, PPF and NSC will carry an annual interest rate of 7.1 per cent and 6.8 per cent, respectively. Accordingly, the interest rate for the five-year senior citizens savings scheme would be retained at 7.4 per cent.

The Congress meanwhile hit out Sitharaman after she ordered withdrawal of the interest rate slashing order. It asked whether the U-turn was an 'oversight' or an 'election-driven hindsight'.

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi alleged that the small saving rates would be reduced soon after elections.

"There was already loot on petrol and diesel. After the elections end, the small saving rates will be reduced and there will be loot on the savings of the middle-class. This government is of jumbas (rhetoric) and the loot of common people," Rahul said in a tweet.

Nandigram (West Bengal), April 1: When was the last time one heard a chief minister raising allegations of rigging against the opposition? When was the last time when a chief minister said that legal recourse will have to be taken against the Union Home Ministry and Election Commission (EC)?

Well, West Bengal Chief Minister and Trinamool Congress supreme Mamata Banerjee made these allegations and many more as battleground Nandigram became the cynosure of all eyes in the second phase of Assembly polls in West Bengal. There were a number of skirmishes and clashes in some other constituencies Thursday, but it was the Mamata versus former protégé Suvendu Adhikari contest that attracted national limelight.

Both Adhikari and Banerjee appeared confident of winning, but while the former remained cool, Banerjee rattled off one allegation after the other. It was as if she was the underdog and not Adhikari. The CM alleged that the central forces deployed in her constituency were helping the BJP under instructions of Union Home Minister Amit Shah. She also alleged that the EC was following the instructions of Shah and not acting on complaints of alleged irregularities lodged by her party. "We have so far filed 63 complaints, but no action has been taken," Banerjee told mediapersons in the afternoon. She added, she was 'worried about the future of democracy'.

On the other hand, Adhikari's car was attacked, and stones were pelted while he was visiting booths. "I am used to such protests by TMC goons. Let them do whatever they want till the results are out May 2," Adhikari told reporters. MORE ON P9

Natyadhara restarts with Odia play Nistabdha Sahanai

A scene from the play Nistabdha Sahanai staged at Bhanja Kala Mandap, Thursday

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar: After a gap of nearly one year Natyadhara resumed here at Bhanja Kala Mandap, Thursday.

It is a three-day drama programme featuring select plays by the theatre troupes from across the state which is organised every month by the Department of Odia Language, Literature and Culture in collaboration with Odisha Sangeet Natak Akademi (OSNA) and Odisha Natya Sangh (ONS).

However, the event was postponed for about a year after a spike in Covid-19 cases in the state.

Expressions, a city-based theatre troupe, presented the play Nistabdha Sahanai on the first day of the programme.

Written by Bhaskar Chandra Mahapatra, the play was directed by Debanand Nayak (Soni).

The main protagonist of the play is Sana, a Dalit shehnai player who lost his profession. Despite losing his livelihood, he is one of the most sought after persons in his village because he is a good human being. He always comes forward for a social cause and loves to sacrifice for others. Moreover, he wants to fight for justice and for those who are at the bottom rung of the ladder in an unequal society. The rebel in Sana lands him in trouble and he finds no one at his side. But he continues to fight and returns to his profession of playing shehnai.

It's a metaphorical play with Sana representing a poor common man of the society, said the play director, adding, the tunes of shehnai is the voice of the Dalits which will never be suppressed.

Actors Jaga, Biswa, Sharda, Jasmine, Soumyaranjan, Surya, Akash, Ashis and Bapi performed on the stage while OSNA Secretary Prabodh Kumar Rath, ONS president Haren Sahoo, secretary LB Roy and theatre director Abhinna Routray were the guests on the occasion.

Kirti parts ways with hubby

Mumbai: Actress Kirti Kulhari Thursday took to Instagram to announce her separation with husband Saahil Sehgal.

In a note she put out, Kirti wrote that they were parting ways "not on paper, but in life".

"A simple note to let everyone know that my husband Saahil and I have decided to separate. Not on papers, but in life. A decision that's probably harder than the decision of "being with somebody", because coming together is celebrated by everyone you love and care about," she wrote. She added: "And the decision of "not being with somebody" brings along pain and hurt to the same people. It's not easy. Guess it's not meant to be easy but IT IS WHAT IT IS."

The couple was together for a period of four years. Her contemporaries posted supportive messages on her post. IAN S

Storehouse of Jain sculptures

The Jain Heritage Museum at Pratapanagari has several sculptures recovered from the locality

PRIYARANJAN SWAIN, OP

Jainism was once a popular religion in ancient Kalinga or modern-day Odisha. It is believed that Parsvanath, the 23rd Tirthankar (religious leader) of Jainism and Mahavira, the 24th Tirthankar, had preached at several places in Kalinga.

Many historians are of the view that King Kharavela, one of the powerful rulers of Kalinga, had also patronised Jainism during his reign around 1st century BC. Over the years, many Jain heritage sites have been identified in several districts of Odisha, including in Khurda, Cuttack, Puri, Mayurbhanj, Balasore, Jajpur and Kendrapara. The sculptures and inscriptions of Khandagiri-Udayagiri hills in Bhubaneswar also vindicate Odisha's link with Jainism.

Even, a Jain heritage museum has been set up at Pratapanagari near Cuttack to preserve ancient Jain sculptures recovered from the locality. According to villagers, at least seven Jain sculptures were found during the digging of Kakatpur branch canal in the 1970s.

Subsequently, another nine sculptures related to Jainism were recovered from the agricultural fields in the locality. Initially, all these sculptures were placed under a banyan tree near Goddess Dhakulei temple, located close to Kuakhai river. Later, the sculptures were taken to a few community halls of the village, locals said.

"Somehow, members of the Jain community came to know about the sculptures. The Jains urged the villagers to hand over the figures to them. However, the locals refused to part with the ancient figures. The tussle over the sculptures led to the establishment of a Jain heritage museum at Pratapanagari," narrated several villagers including Mihir Kumar Rout.

The museum was set up with allocation from both the Centre and the state government. Members of the Jain community in Cuttack have been looking after the museum since its inauguration in 2005, sources said.

The museum has 12 sculptures of Rishabhanatha, the 1st among the 24 Jain Tirthankaras, Parsvanatha, Mahavira, Ambika and Gomeda. Most of these sculptures date back to 9th and 10th century AD.

"Perhaps, there was a Jain temple on the bank of Kuakhai river. The temple might have been demolished by natural calamities or attack from hostile forces. The sculptures or idols found from the locality had been carved from Muguni pathara (black stone)," said retired teacher Basudeb Rout.

It is learnt that Jain people from across Odisha and other states like Maharashtra, Gujarat, Bengal and Bihar often visit the museum to have a look at the ancient sculptures. "We used to get around 10-15 visitors daily. The footfall has come down drastically due to the Covid-19 pandemic," said Sridhar Biswal who has been engaged to look after the museum.

Despite being the storehouse of several Jain sculptures, the museum has been deprived of proper maintenance and infrastructure. "The museum is yet to have drinking water, toilet and other facilities for the visitors. The authorities concerned should take appropriate steps to attract more visitors to the museum," said a shopkeeper of the locality.

Cash, jewellery stolen from temple in Puri

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Puri, April 1: Unidentified miscreants broke into a centuries-old shrine here and fled with valuables and cash, a police officer said Thursday.

The burglars cut through the padlock at the main gate of Mausi Maa temple Wednesday night and entered the sanctum sanctorum, where they managed to open the iron chest that had jewellery and saris.

The miscreants decamped with the valuables as well as the money from the donation box, the officer said, adding that authorities at the shrine are yet to give an estimate of the loss incurred due to the theft.

Local residents in the Pilgrim town have blamed poor security measures for the incident.

"The burglars have looted around ₹3,000 in cash. We have detained some suspects and they are being interrogated," Puri SP Kanwar Vishal Singh said.

The chief priest of the temple, Biswanath Mishra, however, said that he had taken home the major chunk of jewellery with him, and the thieves could lay their hands only on semi-precious ornaments.

Expressing deep concern over the theft at Mausi Maa temple located barely 500 metres from the 12th century Srimandir, Gajapati Maharaja Dibyasingha Deb said the district administration must take necessary steps to nab the culprits at the earliest.

"The administration should work out a comprehensive and effective strategy to ensure safety and security of places of worship in the pilgrim town," he said in a statement.

BJP wants removal of Lohani from CEO post

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, April 1: The state BJP Thursday attacked Chief Electoral Officer (CEO) Sushil Kumar Lohani for holding the office of profit under the state government.

The saffron party alleged that Lohani, who has been working as the secretary of the Excise department, is also holding the Constitutional post of CEO. BJP leader Lekhashree Samantsinghar claimed that the case was a conflict of interest.

"The present CEO has also been working as the Excise secretary of the state government. The post of CEO should be independent and without any conflict of interest. I don't know how the state government is allowing this," she said.

The spokesperson of the saffron party added, "Recently an amendment has been made to introduce lottery system for giving licence for liquor shops. This was done without the approval of the Cabinet and the Assembly. The person, who is acting as the CEO, was behind this executive order."

The BJP leader claimed that liquor is often used to woo a section of the voters during elections. The CEO's dual role could interfere with the free and fair elections in state, she said.

She urged the state government to remove the current CEO for a fair bypoll for Pipli constituency.

Fires spread in Kuldiha; forest department frets

POST NEWS NETWORK

Sajanagad, April 1: Fire has again broken out in Kuldiha sanctuary in Balasore. Fires are raging in several hills inside the forest where trees and plants have been reduced to ashes, a report said.

About two weeks ago, fires had already destroyed flora and fauna. After a lot of effort by the forest department and fire fighters, the blaze had been contained.

Now, fires are spreading in many hills with the forest department trying to douse the blaze. Locals said, fires are raging at some places over last three days.

As the fire spreads in Debagiri hill near Panchalingeswar peetha, people living in the foothill areas are panicked. Amid sweltering heat, forest fires have added to the woes of the people in the area.

Some local youths got together and tried to douse fires in the area Wednesday evening.

The fire has become a cause of concern for the forest department, which is struggling to bring it down.

Balasore DFO Sarat Chandra Behera said, "The condition is dry now. Temperatures are high. Dousing fires during the day time has been really tough. After 4 pm, forest officials are sent to different areas. They are trying to extinguish the fires with the help of locals."

Though the exact reason of the current fires is not known, it is said that some people who collect Mahua flowers to make country liquor

On the other hand, poachers are on the prowl inside the sanctuary. Scared by fires, wild animals wander about in the forests and face the danger of being killed by the hunters.

Forest officials arrested a hunter, seized body of a sambar, a country gun and live cartridges. Two other poachers however managed to escape. To save the forest from fires and humans from wild animals, the forest department has been trying to sensitise people about dangers of fires.

a bit less commercial. Haats have been a part of rural India since centuries. There are weekly, bi-weekly and some places even host monthly 'haats'. Before 'haats' came into being, the barter system was the most popular system of procuring goods.

weapons and spices. Salt was the most popular item which used to be exchanged the most. When money was invented, bartering did not end, it become more organised. Due to lack of money, bartering became popular in the 1900s during the 'Great Depression'.

EXPERT SPEAK

History teacher Urmila Parida has interesting information to offer regarding 'haat' and 'barter'. "There is no such evidence which can prove that 'haat' as a system existed since a particular period. However, there are old records that prove that the barter system existed. This system has been used for centuries and long before currency was invented. Bartering still exists among people in remote areas that have no access to cash. In these places, bartering is a necessary means for survival. However, during excavations, archeologists have found many commercial sites. Aborigines used to depend on these sites for their livelihood. Thus we can say that 'haat' system was very much present since civilisation came into existence," said Parida.

'Haats' are traditional open-air markets that serve as a trading space for locals all across India. Even though online shopping has become the order of the day, the charm of 'haats' or markets still exist. It is not just that people go the 'haats' for shopping, it is also an opportunity for them to mix socially. Like many other places in the country, Odisha too has its share of iconic 'haats'. Orissa POST takes a look at some of the iconic 'haats' in the state later in this article.

'Haats' are a traditional form of modern-day supermarkets that are

The latter bartered goods in various cities and towns spread across the world. The Babylonians also developed an improved bartering system. Goods were exchanged for food, tea,

Allow 'encroachments'

Reports about our neighbours encroaching on our territories by offering blandishments to people of border villages are dime a dozen in our state media. Every day, newspapers carry such stories. West Bengal, Andhra Pradesh and even Chhattisgarh governments are accused of indulging in such overreach. Even people from Bangladesh come to districts like Kendrapara through sea and manage to secure official testimonials to show their permanent residency. Such stories of illegal entry into our state are common. In this sordid saga of encroachments, our southern neighbour Andhra Pradesh is the most active. Andhra has been trying hard to intrude into border villages in Koraput and Gajapati districts. Some villages in Kotia panchayat of Koraput have been reportedly renamed by the Andhra government. Their officials have been carrying out programmes in these villages and offering government sops to these people. No wonder, beneficiaries are showing a clear tilt to AP. A few days ago, reports came in that West Bengal was carrying out electioneering in some border villages of Balasore. Such attempts by neighbouring states to geographically encroach on our land call for condemnation. This is against the rule of the land. Our government has not shown enough character to withstand such aggression. The state government should take it up at the highest level. Cases are sub judice in the Supreme Court and the apex court is likely to give its ruling soon.

While such geographical overreach by the neighbouring states must end, there is no reason why we should stop trading or having business ties with these states. Reports of some dairy firms of Andhra Pradesh having transaction with local dairy farmers of Gajapati are a case in point. Last week, it was reported that Andhra dairy companies are buying milk from farmers in some pockets of Gajapati at higher prices. Vehicles with Andhra registration numbers are seen transporting milk from various parts of Kashinagar block. Hundreds of litres of milk are sent to the neighbouring state every day. OMFED, our state-owned dairy company, has formed a milk farmers' cooperative society and buys milk from farmers in Khandabam Budura, Hariipur, Goribandha, Bathaba, Kashinagar, Tata Kashinagar, BN Pur, Kidigam, Kaithapadar, Ranipetha, Minigram and Hatapada areas of Gajapati district. But, these farmers prefer Andhra companies to OMFED to do business with. Dairy companies from AP sell cattle feed to farmers at cheaper rates. Against ₹1200 per quintal of cattle feed that OMFED charges, Andhra dairy firms supply the same feed at ₹1000 per quintal. They also promise loans and bonus to dairy farmers. As a result of such aggressive marketing by Andhra companies, OMFED's daily milk collection has come down. The Gajapati administration has warned local dairy farmers of tough action if they do not stop doing business with Andhra company and resume selling milk to OMFED. OMFED officials have been asked to look into this and submit a report based on which farmers will be taken to task for doing business with AP companies. Such vindictive measures by the local administration will do more harm than good. While geographical encroachments of our territories should be condemned and appropriately dealt with, preventing local dairy farmers from selling milk to AP firms at higher prices is not meat and proper and may turn counter-productive. The administration has no business to stop dairy farmers from deciding whosoever they want to sell milk to. It is purely their business interests. If the state government cannot assure or protect their business interests, it cannot stop them. Instead, the government should endeavour to find out where and why our farmers are turning away from OMFED and turning to Andhra companies. OMFED should try to plug its loopholes and try to compete with AP dairy firms and the administration on its part should allow such 'encroachments' in the interest of our farmers.

Butterscotch

Don't look to me for culinary advice - I can burn boiled eggs. My books say that butterscotch is indeed a form of caramel, but made with butter and brown sugar, as you describe, plus a touch of vanilla. That's the limit of my expertise. Unfortunately, I can't do that much better with your second query. Nobody seems to know. Some argue that the second part is actually scorch, from the manner of its making. The Collins Dictionary says that it may have been called that because it was first made in Scotland. Neither suggestion is supported by evidence, though the Scottish link seems plausible because Keillers of Dundee was one firm that made butterscotch commercially. The Oxford English Dictionary's first citation (indeed, its only citation) is from 1865. It's not hard to take that back a while: the first example I can find is from The Boy's Autumn Book of 1847. Although that was published in New York it quotes a British itinerant seller of sweets. Wikipedia states that the first maker of butterscotch was Samuel Parkinson of Doncaster, in 1817. The firm did make it during the nineteenth century and Doncaster became famous for it. The Parkinson papers are deposited at the Doncaster Archives, from where Dr Charles Kelham tells me they begin only in 1848, although an article published in The Doncaster Review in September 1896 asserts that "It was on the 11th of May 1817, that the late Mr. Samuel Parkinson commenced the manufacture of butter-scotch." If he did so, it may be unlikely, from the lack of written evidence before 1847, that he called it by that name. Other writers argue that the sweetmeat has no link with Scotland. Charles Earl Funk noted in Horsefeathers in 1958: "All directions for the preparation of this candy after it is properly cooked close with some such statement as: Pour upon oiled paper or well-buttered pan and when slightly cool score with a knife into squares."

LOL SMUGGLING BICYCLES

Juan was a Mexican man riding his bike to go across the American border. He was holding two bags full of sand on his back. As soon as he got to the border, the guard stopped him and asked what was in the bags. Juan replies "sand" The guard told him that they would see about that and took the bags in to inspect them. He looked through to see if there were drugs, or if they were actually sand, but it was 100 percent sand. The guard was confused, but knew he had no proof that Juan was doing anything wrong, so he put the sand in him cross. This same thing happened every day for a few months, until one day, 6 months later, Juan didn't come. After a few weeks, the guard had a day off so he went to a local bar. He saw Juan sitting on a table on his own drinking beer, so he went over to him. "Hey man, I know you're smuggling something in, I just want to know, between you and me, I promise I won't get you into trouble, what are you smuggling?" Juan looked at him for a second, drank his beer then said "bicycles".

FOOD A CLIMATE CHALLENGE

FOCUS FOOD SAFETY

Climate-policy discussions often focus on who will pay the cost of achieving a zero-carbon economy, with a particular focus on industrial sectors such as steel and cement. But the overall costs are strikingly low, and our biggest challenge lies in the food system, not industrial products.

The latest report by the United Kingdom's Climate Change Committee, for example, shows that cutting UK greenhouse-gas emissions to net zero by 2050 would reduce British GDP by only 0.5%. The Energy Transitions Commission's "Making Mission Possible" report estimates a similar total cost of 0.5% of global GDP to reduce emissions from the world's energy, building, industrial, and transport systems to zero by mid-century.

These estimates are well below those produced by older studies. The seminal Stern Review on the Economics of Climate Change, published in 2006, suggested costs of 1-1.5% of GDP to achieve only an 80% reduction in emissions.

This welcome change reflects the dramatic and unanticipated decline in costs for key technologies - with onshore wind electricity costs down 60% in just ten years, solar photovoltaic cells down over 80%, and batteries 85%. These costs are now so low that using zero-carbon products and services in many sectors will make consumers better off.

For example, future "total system costs" to run near-zero-carbon electricity systems - including all the storage and flexibility needed with unpredictable sources such as wind and solar - will often be below those for today's fossil fuel-based systems. And within ten years, consumers around the world will be better off buying electric autos, paying slightly less for the vehicles and far less for the electricity that powers them than they do for the diesel and petrol they buy today.

In some hard-to-abate sectors such as steel, cement, and shipping, however, decarbonization is likely to impose a significant cost. Well before 2050, zero-carbon steel could be produced by using hydrogen as the reduction agent rather than coking coal, or by adding carbon capture and storage to traditional blast furnaces. But doing so might increase costs by 25%, or about $100 per ton of steel. Long-distance ships could be powered by ammonia or methanol, but fuel costs might increase by over 100%, and freight rates by 50%. As Bill Gates puts it in his new book How to Avoid a Climate Disaster, in some sectors, we face a "green cost premium" versus today's carbon-emitting technology.

Within ten years, consumers around the world will be better off buying electric autos, paying slightly less for the vehicles and far less for the electricity that powers them than they do for the diesel and petrol they buy today

So it is vital to focus research and development and venture-capital investment on breakthrough technologies that might reduce this premium. But it is also important to recognize that even if the "green premium" lingers, the cost of decarbonizing these sectors will be so small that consumers will hardly notice.

Ask yourself how much steel you bought last year. Unless you are a purchasing manager, the answer is probably none directly. Instead, consumers indirectly purchase steel embedded in the products and services they consume - in autos, in washing machines, or in health services delivered at a hospital built with steel. World Steel Association figures indicate that "true steel use per capita" is 300-400 kilograms (661-882 pounds) annually in Europe and the United States. So, if the steel price rose by $100 per ton, consumers would be just $30-40 worse off.

That trivial cost reflects the crucial difference between the green premium on intermediate goods and the "green consumer premium" on final products. An increase in the steel price of even 25% will add less than 1% to automobile prices. Shipping freight rates might rise by 50%, but that would increase the price of imported clothes or food by a similarly trivial amount.

But higher costs for intermediate products still pose a major policy challenge. A steel company that commits to a zero-carbon target will find itself at a crushing disadvantage if its competitors do not. Imposing a carbon price on heavy industrial sectors could overcome this problem, but only if the price is applied worldwide or combined with border carbon tariffs against countries unwilling to impose it.

In shipping, regulation by the International Maritime Organization could ensure that all companies move in step, and the impact on consumer costs would be trivial.

By contrast, food prices and consumer food preferences are non-trivial issues. Few of us buy steel directly, but everyone buys food, which even in rich countries accounts for 6-13% of total household expenditure and much more for lower-income groups. For consumers, a 10% green premium for food would matter more than even a 100% premium for steel.

Within the food sector, moreover, meat production is highly emissions-intensive. Methane emissions from livestock and manure have a global warming effect greater than the three gigatons of carbon dioxide from steel production, and an additional five gigatons of CO2 results from land-use changes, such as when forest is converted to soybean production for cattle feed.

Here, too, technological solutions may be possible, but major challenges remain. Consumers do not care about the specific character of the steel they indirectly consume, but beef eaters have strong opinions about the texture and taste of steak, which synthetic meat production cannot yet replicate. And while the green premium for synthetic meat over animal meat is falling, it must get close to nil to avoid material impact on consumer budgets.

This could change, however, if people decided that they would be happy with less meat and more vegetable-intensive diets, which also cost less. In that case, food could become like road transport, with consumers gaining from the shift to zero carbon rather than facing a cost burden.

SPECTRUM ENVIRONMENT

A decarbonisation roadmap

Our climate challenge is an energy challenge. But solving our energy challenge requires action that goes well beyond power generation.

Solar and wind have revolutionized our energy system. But with the power sector currently supplying only 20% of our energy, simply producing more green electricity cannot get us to net-zero carbon dioxide emissions by mid-century. Nor will converting renewable power into large-scale supplies of green hydrogen be a silver bullet. Our ships, planes, and trains are not configured for it, and the economic incentives are not yet moving in the right direction.

Our energy challenge is also an energy demand problem. Achieving our collective climate ambitions requires rapid and deep transitions in each of the sectors that contribute to global energy demand, including not only power, but also transport, manufacturing, and steel, and chemicals. Getting these transitions on track at the required pace implies the complete transformation of our energy infrastructure. To that end, three priorities in particular will be crucial. First, we need to accelerate the pace of innovation. Recent analysis by the International Energy Agency shows that nearly half of the emission reductions needed to reach net zero by 2050 may have to come from technologies that aren't yet on the market. Clean-energy technologies such as solar panels, wind turbines, electric cars, light-emitting diodes, and lithium-ion batteries have made it possible for us to envision a net-zero world in the coming decades. But we need giant leaps in innovation in other clean technologies - some of which are still in the lab - to get us all the way there. This is especially urgent in sectors like steel, cement, chemicals, shipping, and aviation, where emissions are the hardest to reduce and technological solutions are lagging.

The second priority is closer collaboration between government and industry. The private sector is an unparalleled engine of change. It's where the lion's share of inventors, entrepreneurs, and investors are, and their contributions will be crucial if the world is to devise and deploy green technologies at the rate required.

At the same time, government action is essential to unleash the full power of business. Left to their own devices, markets won't bring about the rapid transformation of our global energy system that we need. In many sectors, businesses need strong government policy to enable lower-carbon technologies to flourish. They need government to support early innovation in new technologies, create niche markets that allow them to develop, and then implement effective policies that enable their diffusion - sector by sector.

Lastly, we need greatly enhanced international coordination. In a global system centered on national action, orchestrating the kind of systemic change required in many energy-consuming sectors is a major challenge. National approaches can be highly effective in some areas, especially where governments can pursue decisive policies without hurting domestic producers in sectors like power. But a rigid national approach works less well in internationally traded industries, and particularly in harder-to-abate sectors. Here, coordinated cross-border action is essential to drive the rapid adoption of new technologies.

The IEA facilitates collaboration on key energy transition technologies - an effort that involves more than 6,000 experts worldwide, representing nearly 300 public and private organizations located in 55 countries, including many from IEA association countries such as China, India, and Brazil. But with an ever-growing consensus on the need to move toward net-zero emissions, we can and should do more.

Later this year, the IEA will set out the first comprehensive roadmap for the global energy sector, spanning power, transport, industry, and buildings - each of which we need to transform in order to reach net-zero emissions by 2050. By setting out exactly what is needed in each sector, and when, the plan will enable governments and firms to benchmark their progress, making it clear where greater focus is needed.

The next step is turning plans into action. That is why the IEA recently formed a strategic partnership with Mission Possible, a global coalition of more than 400 companies seeking to accelerate the large-scale decarbonisation of heavy industry and transport.

Hazards of sanitary napkins

Sir, The Centre's launching of a scheme for the promotion of menstrual hygiene among girls in the age group of 10-19 years old in rural areas to increase the use of high quality sanitary napkins and ensure their safe disposal is indeed a good move. Funds are given to states and Union Territories for obtaining sanitary napkin packs for rural girls at a rate of Re 1 for a pad. Given that less than 50% of women in the target group are using sanitary napkins, the government must be commended for putting in efforts to promote the use of sanitary napkins. Statistics show that of the 336 million menstruating women in India only 121 million use napkins. It is a fact that the sanitary napkins commonly used by women contain super-absorbent polymers which is non-biodegradable. They change into micro plastic which pollute soil, water and air. They contaminate the food that humans and animals consume. Consequently, toxins enter the bodies of humans and animals through food and cause health hazards. Two ingredients used in the non-biodegradable sanitary napkins cause serious health problems to women. Improper disposal of sanitary napkins which contain plastic has adverse consequences. Awareness programmes must be conducted to dispel such misconceptions. The government must take corrective measures for the provision of plastic-free sanitary napkins. Through continuous dialogue and consultations with experts and social organisations the government could find alternatives to sanitary napkins containing plastic. Further, it must inform the public about the importance of getting rid of pads which contain plastic.

Draconian circular

Sir, The draconian circular slashing interest rates on small saving schemes was withdrawn with as much alacrity as it was issued in the first place. The timing of its issuance was understandably wrong with the ongoing state elections in progress, particularly West Bengal and Tamil Nadu which are the highest contributors to the National Small Savings kitty. But what cannot be digested is the Finance Minister's explanation that the circular was issued through an "oversight". Aren't due deliberations and requisite approvals needed before issuing such circulars? While retired people and senior citizens are the usual soft targets for bearing the cross of the Centre's financial and economic misgovernance, they may rest assured that this retrograde measure will hit them with a vengeance once the state elections are over.

Researchers bring nanozymes that block HIV reactivation

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Bangalore, April 1: Researchers at Indian Institute of Science (IISc) here have developed artificial enzymes that can successfully block reactivation and replication of the Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV) in the host's immune cells.

"Made from vanadium pentoxide nanosheets, these 'nanozymes' work by mimicking a natural enzyme called glutathione peroxidase that helps reduce oxidative stress level in the host's cells, which is required to keep the virus in check," an IISc statement said on Thursday.

The study, published in 'EMBO Molecular Medicine', was led by Amit Singh, Associate Professor and Wellcome Trust-DBT India Alliance Senior Fellow at the Department of Microbiology & Cell Biology and Centre for Infectious Diseases Research (CIDR), and Govindasamy Mugesh, Professor at the Department of Inorganic and Physical Chemistry.

"The advantage is that the nanozymes are stable inside biological systems and do not mediate any unwanted reactions inside the cells," Mugesh said, "They are also quite easy to prepare in the lab."

According to the statement, there is currently no way to eliminate HIV from a patient's body completely.

When the levels of toxic molecules such as hydrogen peroxide increase in host's cells, leading to a state of increased oxidative stress, the virus gets 'reactivated' - it emerges from hiding and begins replicating again

Anti-HIV drugs are only successful in suppressing the virus as they fail at eradicating HIV from infected cells. The virus hides inside the host's immune cells in a 'latent' state and stably maintains its reservoir.

"When the levels of toxic molecules such as hydrogen peroxide increase in host's cells, leading to a state of increased oxidative stress, the virus gets 'reactivated' - it emerges from hiding and begins replicating again," it said.

A few years ago, Singh's team had developed a biosensor to measure oxidative stress levels in HIV-infected immune cells in real-time.

"We found that to come out of latency and reactivate, HIV needs very little oxidative stress," he said.

One way to prevent reactivation is to keep the oxidative stress constantly low, which would 'lock' the virus in a permanent state of latency.

Enzymes such as glutathione peroxidase are essential for this process; they convert toxic hydrogen peroxide to water and oxygen. However, inducing the host cells to produce more quantities of these enzymes could disrupt the tightly regulated cellular redox machinery.

Around the same time, Mugesh's group had published a study showing that nanowires made of vanadium pentoxide can efficiently mimic the activity of glutathione peroxidase. Singh's lab, therefore, decided to collaborate with them.

The researchers prepared ultrathin nanosheets of vanadium pentoxide in the lab and treated HIV-infected cells with them. The sheets were found to be reducing hydrogen peroxide just as effectively as the natural enzyme and preventing the virus from reactivation.

"We found that these nanosheets were having some sort of direct effect where the expression of the host genes essential for virus reactivation is reduced," said Shalini Singh, first author and Research Associate at CIDR.

"When the team treated immune cells from HIV-infected patients undergoing antiretroviral therapy (ART) with the nanozymes, latency was induced faster and subsequent reactivation was suppressed when therapy was stopped, indicating that combining the two was more effective," she added.

Combining ART with the nanozymes also has other advantages. According to Singh, some ART drugs can cause oxidative stress as a side effect, which can damage heart or kidney cells.

"Adding a nanozyme like this can help in reducing the side effects caused by such ART drugs." This can improve the quality of life of HIV patients undergoing treatment.

Although the nanozymes were found to be harmless to normal cells in lab tests, Mugesh said that further studies are needed to understand if they can have other effects once they are introduced inside the body.

"Where will they go? Which organs will they enter? How long will they stay in the body? We need to look at all these aspects," he added.

Tipplers helped the state by surpassing excise revenue target

AGENCIES

Bangalore, April 1: Amid the gloomy economic scenario throughout the lockdown in the previous fiscal, tipplers of Karnataka assiduously held the fort on the revenue front and helped the state surpass the targeted excise revenue.

Data shared by State Excise department showed that the targeted revenue of state excise in 2020-21 was Rs 22,700 crore, which was 1,116.04 crore above the excise revenue collection during 2019-20.

The target set by the state government seemed extremely difficult, if not impossible. However, by the end of March 31, 2021, the revenue collection was Rs 23,131.28 crore.

"The increase in revenue in 2020-21 compared to 2019-20 was Rs 1,547.33 crore," an excise official said.

The achievement was despite the fact that the entire April 2020 ran dry for the tipplers due to stringent lockdown and only Rs 1.06 crore worth liquor was sold in that month. As lockdown was lifted partially, boozers stormed liquor outlets generating a revenue of Rs 1,404.08 crore in May 2020, which was yet short of about Rs 650 crore of the monthly target. However, the situation changed from June with lockdown curbs being further relaxed.

In terms of India Made Foreign Liquor, 583.23 lakh carton boxes were sold in the previous fiscal, which was about 17.5 lakh cartons less compared to 2019-2020.

The beer sale in 2020-21 was 237.82 lakh cartons, which was about 42 lakh cartons less compared to 2019-2020. The dip in consumption of liquor did not result in the dip in revenue.

K'taka CM appeals for vaccination

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Bangalore, April 1: As the state geared up to vaccinate everyone above 45 years of age from Thursday, Karnataka Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa and Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar appealed to the eligible people to make use of this protective cover against coronavirus.

Cautioning people not to underestimate the danger posed by Covid, Yediyurappa tweeted, "Our protective cover is the vaccine against corona. Everyone over the age of 45 can get the vaccine today. Go to your nearest vaccination centre and get the vaccine. Together we can defeat coronavirus."

Health Minister Sudhakar too tweeted, "As we begin vaccinating all citizens aged above 45 years from today, 5,500 vaccination sites

■ 5,500 VACCINATION SITES WILL BE OPERATIONAL ACROSS THE STATE INCLUDING 650 PRIVATE AND 4,850 GOVERNMENT FACILITIES

■ KARNATAKA HAS IN STOCK 13.5 LAKH DOSES OF COVISHIELD VACCINE AND 1.5 LAKH DOSES OF COVAXIN VACCINE will be operational across the state including 650 private and 4,850 government facilities."

According to him, 1.5 lakh doses of vaccine are supplied to Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike, the civic body, which is distributed to about 600 sites across the state capital.

The Health Department said in a statement that Covid-19 vaccination will continue at all primary health centres, community health centres, taluk hospitals, district hospitals, medical colleges and private hospitals as already being done.

It added that Karnataka has in stock 13.5 lakh doses of Covishield vaccine and 1.5 lakh doses of Covaxin vaccine which have been supplied to all cold chain points across the districts as per their requirement.

"The government of India has assured the state that additional vaccine doses will be supplied regularly in the coming days as per daily coverage," the department added.

The vaccination drive covering everyone above 45 years of age started at a time when there is an alarming rise in cases in Karnataka.

The state reported 4,225 fresh cases including 26 deaths on a single day on Wednesday.

NIA raids hotel, club in Mumbai

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Mumbai, April 1: The NIA conducted searches at a hotel and a club in south Mumbai Thursday in connection with the case of an explosives-laden SUV found near Mukesh Ambani's residence and the murder of businessman Mansukh Hiran.

A team of the National Investigation Agency (NIA) reached the Soni building, where the hotel and the club are situated, at around 12.45 pm. Customers and staffers of the hotel were asked to vacate the premises, located near the Babulnath temple. "During the search, NIA sleuths also made enquiries with a few people at the club and the hotel," the official said.

The probe team left the place after over three hours. Some officials of Gamdevi police station, under "Suspended Mumbai police officer Sachin Waze, whom the NIA arrested last month in connection with the security scare outside Ambani's residence, was recently brought by the agency to the Babulnath area as part of its probe into the case," he said.

"The gelatin sticks found in the vehicle near Ambani's house last month were procured by Waze," NIA sources claimed on Wednesday.

The NIA recovered a laptop, a printer, two hard disks, two vehicle number plates, two digital video recorders (DVRs) and two CPUs from the Mithi river Sunday with the help of divers.

The agency is probing the alleged role of Waze in parking the explosives-laden SUV near Ambani's residence on February 25 and the murder of businessman Mansukh Hiran.

The body of Hiran, who was in possession of the SUV, was found in a creek in Mumbai town of neighbouring Thane district March 5.

DRDO develops light weight bullet-proof jacket

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Bangalore, April 1: The Defence Materials and Stores Research and Development Establishment (DM-SRDE), Kanpur has developed Light Weight Bullet Proof Jacket (BPJ). "The jacket weighs nine kg and meets the qualitative requirements of Indian Army," the Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO) said on Thursday.

According to the DRDO, the importance of this vital development lies in the fact that each gram of BPJ weight reduction is crucial in enhancing soldier comfort while ensuring survivability. The Front Hard Armour Panel (FHAP) jacket was tested at Terminal Ballistics Research Laboratory (TBRL), Chandigarh and met relevant BIS standards.

This technology reduces the weight of the medium sized BPJ from 10.4 kg to 9 kg.

Very specific materials and processing technologies have been developed in the laboratories for the purpose.

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh congratulated DRDO scientists and the industry for developing this light weight BPJ to make the soldiers more comfortable. The DRDO Chairman, Dr. G Satheesh Reddy congratulated the DMSRDE team for the development.

Poll results in 4 states to decide course of national politics: Raut

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Mumbai, April 1: Shiv Sena leader Sanjay Raut Thursday said the results of Assembly polls in four states, specially Assam and West Bengal, will decide the next course of national politics.

Talking to reporters here, Raut remarked that the BJP is in power in Assam, but the Congress has put up a tough fight.

In West Bengal, even though BJP has put all its might to defeat Chief Minister and Trinamool Congress head Mamata Banerjee, she has fought like a tigress and is "sure to emerge as the winner", he claimed.

"We can also gauge the mood in Kerala and Tamil Nadu," the Rajya Sabha member said.

Banerjee wrote a letter to non-BJP leaders Wednesday, including Congress chief Sonia Gandhi, saying that time has come for a "united

Mamata Banerjee has fought like a tigress and is sure to emerge as the winner and effective" struggle against BJP's alleged attacks on democracy and the Constitution, and that opposition leaders should try to present a "credible alternative" to the people of this country. When asked about the letter, Raut said, "The results of polls in four states, especially Assam and West Bengal, will decide the next course of national politics. After the elections, the nature of alliances will be discussed and clarity will be there."

"Even Maharashtra Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray has received a letter from her," he said.

Raut also said the "ongoing Mahabharat" in West Bengal is fiercer than the real Mahabharat.

"Prime Minister Narendra Modi had said the battle of Mahabharat was won in 21 days and we will fight the war against coronavirus in 18 days and win. But, we haven't," the Sena's chief spokesperson said.

Raut said the entire country is watching West Bengal polls and people are also intelligent. "No doubt the battle is tough, but Mamata Banerjee will win," he claimed.

Raut also said the 'attack' on democracy in the country is not new. "Whenever there is an attack, people and opposition parties have fought back. This is the strength of our democracy," he said.

On differences among political parties in Maharashtra over the need for a fresh lockdown in the state, as it has seen a huge surge in coronavirus cases, Raut said there should be no politics over the fight against Covid-19.

New biodiversity heritage site in Sindhudurg district

AGENCIES

Pune, April 1: The Maharashtra government Wednesday declared an area at Amboli of Western ghats in Sindhudurg district, where a rare freshwater fish species was discovered, as a biodiversity heritage site.

Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray's son Tejas Thackeray, who is a wildlife researcher, along with his team had discovered the new freshwater fish species 'Schistura Hiranyakeshi' near Amboli in Sawantwadi tehsil of Sindhudurg district.

Schistura Hiranyakeshi is a rare sub-species of Schistura, a freshwater loach. The fish was named after the Hiranyakeshi river near Amboli village.

The state government on Wednesday issued a notification declaring the area as a biodiversity heritage site.

Earlier, the state government had declared the Glory of Allappali in Gadchiroli district, Landor Khori Park in Jalgaon, Ganesh Khind in Pune, myristica swamp vegetation

The discoveries of the freshwater fish species were published qua the International Journal of Ichthyology in the October 2020 edition by Tejas Thackeray and co-authors.

SC stay on cutting of mangroves hailed

AGENCIES

Mumbai, April 1: "Bridges can be constructed without destroying mangroves," environment activists have said while hailing the Supreme Court's decision to stay cutting of mangroves for the construction of a bridge in Andheri suburb of Mumbai.

The activists are now hopeful that the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC) will redesign the project. BMC had planned to construct a bridge connecting the Yari Road junction and Lokhandwala backroad in Versova area of Andheri to reduce vehicular congestion and travel time for citizens. Some Versova residents had filed a Public Interest Litigation against the project in the Bombay High Court, which dismissed the PIL in December 2020, following which they moved the SC to challenge the order.

The SC recently stayed the cutting of mangroves in the area for construction of bridge. Mumbai-based environment activist Zoru Bhatena hailed the SC's judgement and said the BMC knows that bridges can be built without destroying mangroves or causing damage to the environment.

Another environment activist Godfrey Pimenta claimed that authorities adopt shortcuts without obtaining prior permission in majority of the cases involving the environment and that they feel they are above the law.

Sawant made Sena's chief spokesperson

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Mumbai, April 1: The Shiv Sena has appointed its Lok Sabha member Arvind Sawant as the party's chief spokesperson, in an apparent bid to keep in check its other chief spokesperson Sanjay Raut.

Sawant was earlier a spokesperson of the party. He was Shiv Sena's lone minister in the Narendra Modi-led central cabinet before he quit in 2019, after his party snapped ties with the BJP and joined hands with the NCP and Congress to form government in Maharashtra.

The Sena published a new list of its spokespersons in the party mouthpiece 'Saamana' on Wednesday.

The Rajya Sabha member also faced criticism from the ally

The United Progressive Alliance (UPA) is currently headed by senior Congress leader Sonia Gandhi.

Maharashtra Revenue Minister Balasaheb Thorat on Tuesday said Raut should be careful before making any comments.

Nuclear escalation between India, China unlikely: Report

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, April 1: Nuclear escalation between India and China was not only unlikely but also unthinkable, a Stockholm International Peace Research Institute (SIPRI) report on 'South Asia's Nuclear Challenges', released on Thursday, said. "Among Chinese and Indian experts, there was a prevailing view that they shared the same stance on no first use, and that nuclear escalation between the two countries was not only unlikely but also unthinkable," the Swedish think tank's report said.

Some experts, the SIPRI report said, cited nuances in India's approach towards no first use and an evolving discussion in the country on its future, while others pointed to some of the past debate in China on no first use. They, however, largely disregarded these caveats when it came to escalation.

In most cases, there was a steadfast view that both countries were on the same page when it came to nuclear posture, with no first use as just one example.

"While stabilising in the context of recent tensions at the China-India border, the assumption that both parties are operating from the same starting point merits greater attention - in relation not just to no first use but also a range of nuclear postures from de-mating to targeting," the report stated.

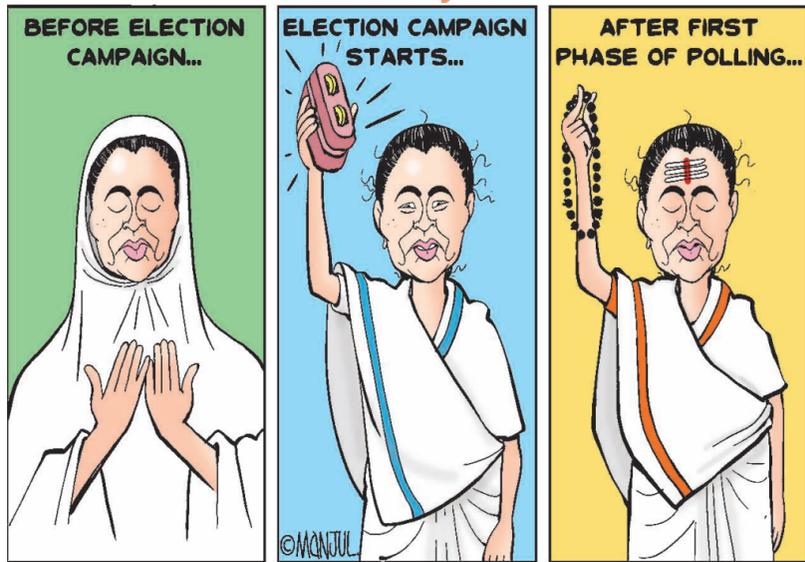

Assumptions of "postural parity" may bring stability in the short term, when altercations are largely limited to skirmishes at the border, but in the longer term -- as both China and India extend the ranges of their systems and deployments -- such assumptions may lead to misunderstandings and mis-signalling. Further, the continued dominance in Indian analyses of the concept of a "two-front" threat from China and Pakistan means that greater consideration of how deterrence operates among these three countries is needed, even if it requires more countries at the table, it said. Among Chinese and US experts, there was a strong tendency for experts from each to see the other country as playing a larger and more destabilising role in South Asia. While much of the commentary from Chinese experts centred on India-Pakistan dynamics, when it came to external influences, the USA's role was paramount. While citing past US weapon sales to the region and the 2005 India-US nuclear deal for their role in strengthening India and freeing up its nuclear material for military aims, Chinese experts also focused on forward-looking initiatives such as the US Indo-Pacific Strategy and the Quadrilateral Security Dialogue, which have a focus on China as well as India.

Among US experts, China's outreach to Pakistan in terms of conventional and nuclear assistance, military training, and more recently the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor under the Belt and Road Initiative (BRI) demonstrate China's far-reaching aspirations in the region, the report said.

While Chinese experts characterised China's role as stabilising, US experts were more cautious in evaluating its long-term implications. Nonetheless, they cited tensions generated by China's arms sales to South Asia and economic engagement under the BRI, combined with the most recent incidents along the China-India border, as presenting an opportunity for greater US collaboration with India. "For this very reason, however, some US experts expressed concern that the region could break into two camps, with the USA and India on one side and China and Pakistan on the other," the report stated.

Maoists' 'booby traps' for forces

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, April 1: At a time when the number of Maoists is reducing, guerrilla militants are increasingly preferring to use 'booby traps' to ensure maximum damage to the security forces without losing even a single comrade.

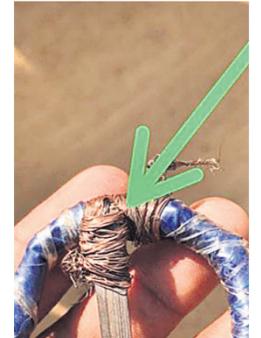

Booby trap, a mechanism often used during warfare, is a device or setup intended to kill or harm. It is triggered by the presence or actions of the victim and sometimes has some form of bait designed to draw the victim towards it. The trap may be a needle, a stone, branch of a tree lying on road or anything that cannot be expected. It can also be triggered by vehicles driving along a road, as in the case of Improvised Explosive Devices (IED). With just a touch to these traps, an IED explosion would happen and kill security personnel.

MAJOR THREAT

Intelligence units of different security wings, deployed in Maoist-hit regions, recently shared inputs regarding "frequent use of booby traps". The input was circulated among the top brass as well as in paramilitary forces and state police units deployed in these regions. The input asks them to be very "careful" about these traps.

The input also mentions about the use of remote control IEDs. "Remote control IEDs and booby traps are becoming a challenging threat for the agencies in the Left-Wing Extremism hit areas," an officer, requesting anonymity, told IANS while citing the inputs shared by intelligence wings of various security forces.

The officer, privy to the developments, said that there have been many instances when such lethal booby traps were recovered from important places through which security forces have to move: particular roads and bridges or near renowned weekly markets in far-flung Maoist areas. In Chhattisgarh's Rajnandgaon, the Indo-Tibetan Border Police (ITBP) averted a similar blast on Thursday afternoon with the recovery of twin IEDs: 15 kgs and 5 kgs. The personnel of the ITBP's 40th Battalion unearthed and destroyed these IEDs on the spot soon after they detected them near Bakarkatta village in Nawagaon in Rajnandgaon district during a search operation.

"The IEDs were planted probably to target the security forces," said the ITBP, adding "it is seen that in the recent times, many IED attacks have been the main modus operandi of the Naxals in Chhattisgarh".

Apart from regular IEDs, the 95,000-personnel-strong Central Armed Police Force (CAPF), also deployed in some Maoist-affected areas apart from its mandated role to secure 3,488 km India-China border, said "the remote control IEDs and booby traps are becoming a challenging threat for agencies in the LWE hit areas".

India, Bhutan, Lanka & B'desh to hold joint military exercise

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 1: The Indian Army will participate in a four-nation military exercise in Bangladesh from April 4 to 12 which is being organised to mark the birth centenary of Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujibur Rahman and 50 years of that country's liberation war, officials said Thursday.

A 30-member Indian Army team comprising officers, junior commissioned officers (JCOs) and soldiers from the Dogra regiment will participate in the exercise 'Shantir Ogroshena' (front runner of peace), they said.

Besides armies of Bangladesh and India, the exercise will be participated by Royal Bhutan Army and Sri Lankan Army, the defence ministry said.

"The theme of the exercise is 'Robust Peace Keeping Operations'. Military observers from the US, UK, Turkey, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Singapore will also be in attendance throughout the exercise," it said.

The year 2021 marks the 50th anniversary of the liberation of Bangladesh and the birth centenary of Rahman.

In reflection of close ties, India is also hosting a number of events to mark the 50th anniversary of the 1971 war that led to liberation of Bangladesh.

Around 93,000 Pakistani troops had surrendered before the joint forces of the Indian Army and the "Mukti Bahini" on December 16, 1971 that paved the way for the birth of Bangladesh.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi visited Bangladesh March 26 and 27 during which he attended the golden jubilee celebration of independence of that country.

Assaulted by humans & nature, Taj needs better care

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Agra, April 1: The 17th century monument of love, the iconic Taj Mahal in Agra, is feeling the heat of abruptly rising temperature, sand blasting by seasonal dust storms and human apathy.

"The temperature has gone up steeply in the last few days and there have been a series of sand storms," said Surendra Sharma, President of the Braj Mandal Heritage Conservation Society.

Despite a series of directions by the Supreme Court and the National Green Tribunal, successive governments have been dragging their feet to rejuvenate the Yamuna river by containing pollution and maintaining flow of water round the year, complained green activist Shrayan Kumar Singh.

After a brief respite during the 180-day lockdown triggered by the Covid-19 pandemic last year, the Taj is again looking pale, notwithstanding the mud therapy and other measures to beautify the monument.

Heritage conservationists in Agra say that if the monument looks pale to the visitors, the reason is the dry and heavily polluted Yamuna that once formed an integral part of the Taj Mahal complex.

Standing tall in the scorching summer sun, the monument of love is enveloped in yellowish sand from the neighbouring Rajasthan deserts. Any discernible visitor can tell that the summer heat is taking its toll on the Taj Mahal, blasted by sand from the dry Yamuna bed and the dust-laden winds from the Rajasthan deserts.

The gaps left by illegal mining in the Aravali ranges has raised the SPM (suspended particulate matter) in Agra. Against a standard of 100 microns per cubic metre, it remains as high as 300, touching 500 during the summer months. The problem is that sandy particles rub against the monument and leave pox marks, making the surface rough, as has been pointed out in many studies.

However, conservationists say that the crisis the Taj confronts comes not merely from nature and pollution, but also from the people -- with too many tourists and vehicles visiting Agra.

The number of vehicles in the city has shot up from around 40,000 in 1985 when Firozabad too was part of the Agra district, to more than a million now. The opening of the Yamuna Expressway has increased vehicular traffic. The pressure of heavy vehicles on the Delhi-Kolkata, Delhi-Mumbai and Lucknow-Agra National Highways passing through Agra has increased phenomenally.

Adding to its fatigue is the ever-increasing human load. From a few hundred tourists some decades ago, the Taj is now daily visited by thousands of people. The tourism industry that thrives on milking the Taj Mahal wants more sops for the visitors to attract them to Agra, but the conservationists want restrictions imposed to gradually reduce the human load.

Mamata cries foul from Nandigram, Guv responds

AGENCIES

Kolkata, April 1: Moments after West Bengal Chief Minister and Trinamool Congress supremo Mamata Banerjee Thursday dialled Governor Jagdeep Dhankar from Nandigram, from where she is contesting against BJP's Suwendu Adhikari, alleging that there is complete breakdown of law and order.

The Governor assured that the issues raised by her will be looked into by those concerned.

"Issues flagged Mamata Banerjee a while ago on phone have been imparted to the concerned. There is full assurance of the concerned to adherence to rule of law. Am confident all will act in right spirit and earnestness so that democracy flourishes," the West Bengal Governor said from his official Twitter handle.

His remarks came after Banerjee called Dhankar over phone from Nandigram and said that anything might happen at any moment.

She also informed the Governor that there is total breakdown of law and order in the key constituency from where she is up against her protegee-turned-rival Adhikari who dumped her for the BJP.

She also alleged: "People from other states are creating ruckus in Nandigram and I have lodged 63 poll-related complaints since morning, but no action has been taken by the Election Commission."

While on phone with Dhankar, the Trinamool Congress leader alleged that people who are raising slogans are outsiders and they have

PM MODI MAKES HINDUTVA PITCH

Making a strong Hindutva pitch at the hustings in West Bengal, Prime Minister Narendra Modi Thursday attacked TMC leaders for calling those wearing saffron, sporting tilak and choti as "rakshas", and declared he does not believe in "seasonal faith". He also asserted a BJP wave was blowing across West Bengal where the party will win over 200 of the state's 294 assembly seats. "Earlier, Mamata Didi had issues with chants of 'Jai Shri Ram', over immersion of Durga Idols. Now TMC has problems with people wearing saffron, sporting tilak and choti (tuft of hair), they are calling them 'rakshas' (demons)," Modi told an election rally in Joynagar.

came from Bihar and Uttar Pradesh.

Earlier in the day, Banerjee, who has been camping in Nandigram for last few days left from her residence around 1 p.m. and reached at a polling booth. Voting in Nandigram is underway amid multiple allegations of disruptions by the Trinamool Congress.

Earlier in the day, Trinamool Congress Rajya Sabha MP and party spokesperson Derek O'Brien said, "BJP and their mind games! Won't work. It is very obvious that they are sensing defeat. And all Trinamool Congress booth agents rock solid. "Rock solid in 354 booths in Nandigram. We have registered complaints for 10 booths. All attempts by CRPF to influence or intimidate voters not working. People determined to have Mamata Banerjee as their MLA will become Chief Minister for the third time."

Despite tight security in 30 assembly segments spread across Purba and Paschim Medinipur districts, Bankura and South 24 Parganas, rival TMC and BJP supporters fought pitched battles in several places in the four districts.

"Till 5 pm, 80.43 per cent polling has been recorded in the state," EC officials said.

Congress demands resignation of Yedi

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 1: The Congress on Thursday demanded that Karnataka Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa either resign or be sacked to ensure a fair investigation against him in a 2019 corruption case wherein he allegedly tried to lure a JD(S) MLA to the BJP by offering him money.

This comes a day after the Karnataka High Court vacated a stay on investigations into the case. Congress leader Rajeev Shukla said the BJP only talks of morality and cleanliness in politics but does not act against its people accused of corruption.

"Now that the high court has vacated the stay on the probe against the chief minister and ordered an investigation, we feel a fair and independent investigation can only take place if the chief minister tenders his resignation or is sacked from his position," he told reporters. Now the BJP should solicit the resignation of Yediyurappa and the governor should order an investigation against him, he said.

Shukla noted that the issue was "very serious" and a serious investigation should be conducted. In its order on Wednesday, the high court vacated the stay on the investigation into the case registered against Yediyurappa in February 2019, when the JD(S)-Congress coalition was in power in Karnataka.

Over 74 per cent turnout in Assam

AGENCIES

Guwahati, April 1: Over 74.69 per cent of 73.45 lakh voters exercised their franchise till 6 pm in the second phase of polling in Assam Thursday, election officials said, adding that no untoward incident was reported from the 39 constituencies.

Senior election officials and police officers said that no incident of violence was reported so far from the 13 districts where the voting was underway. In a few polling stations, voting was halted for some time due to technical snags in the Electronic Voting Machines (EVMs), which were soon rectified.

Men, women and first-time voters queued up in front of the polling stations in large numbers well before the voting began at 7 a.m. Polling time has been increased by an hour till 6 p.m. by the election officials in view of the Covid-19 situation.

According to the Chief Electoral Officer of Assam, Nitin Khade, 73,44,631 voters, including 36,09,959 women, are eligible to cast their votes across 10,592 polling stations in the second phase that will decide the fate of candidates in 39 Assembly constituencies. As many as 556 polling stations are being managed by women officials.

Around 31,000 Central Armed Police Force (CAPF) personnel, along with thousands of state security force personnel, have been deployed to maintain law and order during this phase in which 42,368 polling personnel are engaged.

In Thursday's polling, the electoral fate of 345 candidates, including 26 women aspirants, will be decided.

NIA PROBE IN MAOIST CASE

31 LOCATIONS IN TELANGANA, AP SEARCHED

AGENCIES

New Delhi, April 1: The National Investigation Agency (NIA) carried out searches at 31 locations in Andhra Pradesh and Telangana in connection with its probe into the Munchingput Maoist case and recovered cash to the tune of Rs 10 lakh and several other incriminating documents.

The NIA team seized 40 mobile phones, 44 SIM cards, 70 storage devices like hard discs, micro SD cards and flash cards, 184 CDs or DVDs, 19 pen drives, tab, audio recorder, Rs 10 lakhs in cash from one accused, sickles, axe, machetes besides CPI (Maoist) flags, as well as huge number of incriminating documents, handwritten letters of CPI(Maoist) party literature, CPI(Maoist) press notes etc, an NIA spokesperson here said.

The searches were spread across eight districts of Andhra Pradesh -- Visakhapatnam, Guntur, Prakasam, Srikakulam, Kurnool, Krishna, East Godavari and Kadapa and four districts of Telangana -- Ranga Reddy, Hyderabad, Medchal-Malkajgiri and Medak.

The case relates to furthering the activities of the proscribed organisation, CPI (Maoist) in Andhra Pradesh in the guise of frontal organisations. So far six people have been arrested in the case. The official said that the case was originally registered November 23 last year by Visakhapatnam Police and was re-registered by NIA March 7 this year.

The case pertains to seizure of revolutionary literature of CPI (Maoist) and explosives substances from accused Pangi Naganna, who worked as a journalist. Naganna was intercepted by Munchingput Police in Visakhapatnam Rural during vehicle checking.

During probe it was revealed that Naganna was passing information about the police movements to the leaders of CPI(Maoist) and has also been involved in instigating the villagers to obstruct combing operations of police and prevent them from entering into the villages, besides motivating the villagers to revolt against the police parties and hold rallies against the government.

India slips 28 ranks to 140 on gender gap index

THE COUNTRY HAD RANKED 112TH AMONG 153 COUNTRIES IN THE GLOBAL GENDER GAP INDEX 2020

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 1: India has slipped 28 places to rank 140th among 156 countries in the World Economic Forum's Global Gender Gap Report 2021, becoming the third-worst performer in South Asia. According to the report, India has closed 62.5 per cent of its gender gap till date.

Noting that the decline also took place on the economic participation and opportunity subindex, albeit to a lesser extent, the report said India's gender gap on this dimension widened by 3 per cent this year, leading to a 32.6 per cent gap closed till date.

Most of the decline occurred on the political empowerment subindex, where India regressed 13.5 percentage points, with a significant decline in the number of women ministers (from 23.1 per cent in 2019 to 9.1 per cent in 2021).

"Among the drivers of this decline is a decrease in women's labour force participation rate, which fell from 24.8 per cent to 22.3 per cent. In addition, the share of women in professional and technical roles declined further to 29.2 per cent. The share of women in senior and managerial positions also remains low: only 14.6 per cent of these positions are held by women and there are only 8.9 per cent firms with female top managers," the report said.

Further, the estimated earned income of women in India is only one-fifth of men's, which puts the country among the bottom 10 globally on this indicator, it said.

Discrimination against women is also reflected in the health and survival subindex statistics. With 93.7 per cent of this gap closed to date, India ranks among the bottom five countries in this subindex.

Wide gaps in sex ratio at birth are due to the high incidence of gender-based sex-selective practices. In addition, more than one in four women has faced intimate violence in her lifetime, the report said.

"Conversely, 96.2 per cent of the educational attainment subindex gender gap has been closed, with parity achieved in primary, secondary and tertiary education. Yet, gender gaps persist in terms of literacy: one third of women are illiterate (34.2 per cent) compared to 17.6 per cent of men," it added. Among India's neighbours, Bangladesh ranked 65, Nepal 106, Pakistan 153, Afghanistan 156, Bhutan 130 and Sri Lanka 116.

Among regions, South Asia is the second-lowest performer on the index, with 62.3 per cent of its overall gender gap closed. "Within the region, a wide gulf separates the best-performing country, Bangladesh, which has closed 71.9 per cent of its gender gap so far, from Afghanistan, which has only closed 44.4 per cent of its gap.

"India is the third-worst performer in the region, having closed 62.5 per cent of its gap. Because of its large population, India's performance has a substantial impact on the region's overall performance," the report said. In South Asia, only Pakistan and Afghanistan ranked below India.

The report stated that India, home to 0.65 billion women, has widened its gender gap from almost 66.8 per cent one year ago to 62.5 per cent this year. In Pakistan and Afghanistan, the income of an average woman is below 16 per cent of that of an average man, while in India it is 20.7 per cent, it said.

As the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic continues to be felt, the global gender gap has increased by a generation from 99.5 years to 135.6 years, the report noted.

Biden proposes largest infra plan since WWII

The Prez described his ambitious plan as a "once-in-a-generation" investment to rebuild the backbone of America

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Washington, April 1: President Joe Biden has unveiled a whopping USD 2 trillion investment proposal to upgrade America's crumbling infrastructure, address the challenge posed by climate change and boost the US' global competitive edge against China.

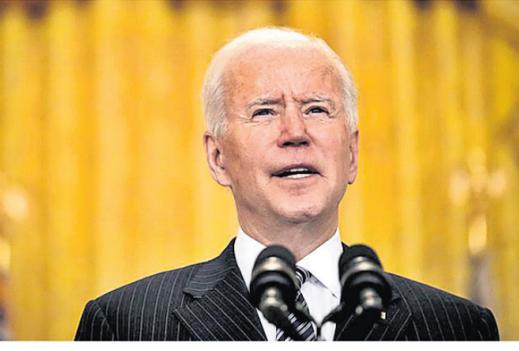

Touting his ambitious plan as a "once-in-a-generation" investment to rebuild the backbone of America, Biden said it would lead to generational progress that will generate good-paying jobs and economic growth.

"The rest of the world is closing in and closing in fast. We can't allow this to continue. American Jobs Plan is the biggest increase in our federal non-defence research and development spending on record," Biden said in his address to the nation from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania Wednesday.

"It's going to create the strongest, most resilient, innovative economy in the world," Biden said.

The plan is aimed to put the US in a position to out-compete China, which he said, along with other countries, "are eating our lunch." He said failing to make these investments will add "to our debt and effectively puts our children at a disadvantage relative to our competitors. That's what crumbling infrastructure does. And our infrastructure is crumbling. We're ranked 13th in the world," the president pointed out.

"Our adversaries are worried about us building this critical infrastructure," he said, noting that the decline in America's gross domestic product means "the rest of the world is closing in, and closing in fast." "What I'm proposing is a one-

Trump era H-1B visa bans expire

US President Joe Biden Thursday let the ban on foreign workers visa, in particular H-1B, lapse as the notification issued by his predecessor Donald Trump expired, a move which is likely to benefit thousands of Indian IT professionals. Amidst a national lockdown and the COVID-19 crisis, Trump in June last year issued a proclamation that suspended entry to the US of applicants for several temporary or "non-immigrant" visa categories, including H-1B, arguing that these visas presented a risk to the US labour market during the economic recovery. December 31, Trump extended the order to March 31, 2021, noting that an extension was warranted as the pandemic continued to disrupt American's lives, and high levels of unemployment and job loss were still presenting serious economic challenges to workers across the US. Biden did not issue a fresh proclamation for the ban on H-1B visas to continue after March 31.

spread largely over eight years," he said. The American Jobs Plan, he said will lead to a transformational progress in our effort to tackle climate change with American jobs and American ingenuity

It will protect the community from billions of dollars of damage from historic super storms, floods, wildfires, droughts, year after year, by making America's infrastructure more secure and resilient and seizing incredible opportunities for American workers and American farmers in a clean energy future. Biden said it will generate historic job growth, historic economic growth, help businesses to compete internationally, create more revenue as well.

In fact, it's the largest American jobs investment since World War Two. It will create millions of jobs, good-paying jobs. It will grow the economy, make us more competitive around the world, promote our national security interests, and put us in a position to win the global competition with China in the upcoming years.

14K accused in B'desh protests

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Dhaka, April 1: Around 14,000 people have been accused in numerous cases filed over the violent protests in Bangladesh organised by the Hefazat-e-Islam militant group since March 26 against Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi's visit to Dhaka.

A total of 14 people, 10 in Brahmanbaria and four in Chittagong, were killed in the ensuing violence when the militants staged attacks on police, government and law enforcement personnel officials. 'Pak Cabinet rejects import proposal'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Islamabad, April 1: In a volte-face, Pakistan's Cabinet Thursday rejected the proposal of a high-powered committee to import cotton and sugar from India, with Foreign Minister Shah Mahmood Qureshi asserting that there can be no normalisation of ties until New Delhi reverses its decision to revoke the special status of Jammu and Kashmir.

The somersault came a day after the Economic Coordination Committee (ECC) under newly appointed Finance Minister Hammad Azhar Wednesday decided to buy the two key items from India, lifting a nearly two-year long ban on their import from the neighbouring country.

Qureshi said the issue of import of cotton and sugar from India was discussed during the Cabinet meeting chaired by Prime Minister Imran Khan. "An impression is being created that relations with India have become normal and trade has been restored..." Qureshi said in a video message. "On this impression, the Prime Minister and the Cabinet had a consensus opinion that until India reviewed the unilateral actions of Aug 5, 2019, it would not be possible to normalise ties with India."

Talking to reporters after the Cabinet meeting, Minister for Science and Technology Fawad

Chaudhry said that the Cabinet discussed the issue of ties and trade with India and decided that things cannot progress until India revokes its August 5, 2019 move on Kashmir.

"We want to cooperate with India but the first condition is that it should go back to pre August 5, 2019 position in Kashmir," he said.

Finance Minister Azhar's announcement Wednesday to import cotton and sugar from India had raised hopes of a partial revival of bilateral trade relations, which were suspended after the August 5, 2019 decision of New Delhi to revoke the special status of Jammu and Kashmir: India is the world's biggest producer of cotton and the second biggest sugar manufacturer.

Azhar's decision became doubtful since afternoon but officials kept mum and finally the first confirmation came from Minister for Human Rights Shireen Mazari, who is known for her hawkish stand on Kashmir.

"Today Cabinet stated clearly NO trade with India," Mazari tweeted soon after the Cabinet meeting.

Mazari said that Prime Minister Khan, who chaired the first Cabinet meeting after testing COVID-19 positive March 20, "made it clear that there can be no normalisation of relations with India until they reverse" their actions viz Kashmir of August 5, 2019.

Europe's vax drive 'unacceptably slow'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

London, April 1: European nations' immunization campaigns against COVID-19 are "unacceptably slow" and risk prolonging the pandemic, a senior World Health Organization official said Thursday.

Dr Hans Kluge, WHO's regional director for Europe, said vaccines "present our best way out of this pandemic," but noted that to date, only 10% of Europe's population has received one dose and that only 4% have been fully protected with two doses. "As long as coverage remains low, we need to apply the same public health and social measures as we have in the past, to compensate for delayed schedules," Kluge said.

Even those numbers hide the true scope of the problems facing the European Union's 27 nations, where only about 5.6 per cent of its people have had a first vaccine shot, according to the bloc. In Britain, that figure is 46 per cent of its population. Kluge warned European governments against having "a false sense of security" for having started their immunization campaigns. He noted that Europe remains the second-most affected region in the world in terms of new coronavirus infections and deaths.

WHO said new COVID-19 infections are increasing in every age group except those over 80, in a sign that vaccination efforts are having an impact in slowing outbreaks. But the UN Health agency said "early action" to stop the virus' spread must be taken in the absence of high immunization rates.

Nepal to conduct census in pandemic

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Kathmandu, April 1: Nepal's statistical agency is preparing to conduct the national population census from May 9 despite the coronavirus pandemic, an official has said. The Central Bureau of Statistics (CBS), a government-owned body under the National Planning Commission, has already concluded training for the facilitators, supervisors and surveyors for the purpose and is mobilising around 55,000 volunteers and surveyors for the census that takes place every 10 years.

The agency is spending Rs 4 billion to conduct the census this time. The ongoing corona pandemic is not going to affect the national census, said a senior officer at the CBS. "Even if there is a lockdown, the census wouldn't be affected much since only one surveyor would reach a family and the interview can be conducted outside the home in an open space by maintaining social distancing," Hem Raj Regmi, Deputy Director-General of the CBS told.

Ancient coins may solve mystery of murderous pirate

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Warwick (Rhode Island), April 1: A handful of coins unearthed from a pick-your-own-fruit orchard in rural Rhode Island and other random corners of New England may help solve one of the planet's oldest cold cases.

The villain in this tale: a murderous English pirate who became the world's most-wanted criminal after plundering a ship carrying Muslim pilgrims home to India from Mecca, then eluded capture by posing as a slave trader.

"It's a new history of a nearly perfect crime," said Jim Bailey, an amateur historian and metal detectorist who found the first intact 17th-century Arabian coin in a meadow in Middletown.

That ancient pocket change — the oldest ever found in North America — could explain how pirate Capt. Henry Every vanished into the wind.

Sept 7, 1695, the pirate ship Fancy, commanded by Every, ambushed and captured the Ganj-i-Sawai, a royal vessel owned by Indian emperor Aurangzeb, then one of the world's most powerful men. Aboard were not only the worshippers returning from their pilgrimage, but tens of millions of dollars' worth of gold and silver. What followed was one of the most lucrative and heinous robberies of all time.

Historical accounts say his band tortured and killed the men aboard the Indian ship and raped the women before escaping to the Bahamas, a haven for pirates. But word quickly spread of their crimes, and English King William III — under enormous pressure from a scandalized India and the East India Company trading giant — put a large bounty on their heads.

"If you Google first worldwide manhunt, it comes up as everybody was looking for these guys," Bailey said. Until now, historians only knew that Every eventually sailed to Ireland in 1696, where the trail went cold. But Bailey says the coins he and others have found are evidence the notorious pirate first made his way to the American colonies, where he and his crew used the plunder for day-to-day expenses while on the run.

The first complete coin surfaced in 2014 at Sweet Berry Farm in Middletown, a spot that had piqued Bailey's curiosity two years earlier after he found old colonial coins, an 18th-century shoe buckle and some musket balls. Waving a metal detector over the soil, he got a signal, dug down and hit literal paydirt: a darkened, dime-sized silver coin he initially assumed was either Spanish or money minted by the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

Peering closer, the Arabic text on the coin got his pulse racing. "I thought, Oh my God," he said.

Research confirmed the exotic coin was minted in 1693 in Yemen. That immediately raised questions, Bailey said, since there's no evidence that American colonists struggling to eke out a living in the New World traveled to anywhere in the Middle East to trade until decades later.

GST mop-up at all-time high of ₹1.23L cr in March

THE CENTRAL GST STOOD AT ₹22,973 CRORE, STATE GST AT ₹29,329 CRORE, INTEGRATED GST AT ₹62,842 CRORE AND CESS AT ₹8,757 CRORE. GST REVENUE IN MARCH 2020 WAS ₹97,590 CRORE

AGENCIES

New Delhi, April 1: GST collections remained above the ₹1-lakh-crore mark for the sixth month in a row in March, rising 27% annually to record ₹1.23 lakh crore, the finance ministry said Thursday. The ministry said the steep increasing trend in goods and services tax is a clear indication of rapid economic recovery post pandemic.

Closer monitoring against fake-billing, deep data analytics using data from multiple sources including GST, income tax and customs IT systems and effective tax administration have also contributed to the steady increase in tax revenue over past few months, it added.

The gross GST revenue collected in March 2021 stood at ₹1,23,902 crore. Of this, central GST stood at ₹22,973 crore, state GST at ₹29,329 crore, integrated GST at ₹62,842 crore (including ₹31,097 crore collected on import of goods) and Cess at ₹8,757 crore (including ₹935 crore collected on import of goods). GST revenue in March 2020 was ₹97,590 crore.

"GST revenues during March 2021 are the highest since the introduction of GST.

"In line with the trend of recovery in the GST revenues over past five months, the revenues for the month of March 2021 are 27% higher than the GST revenues in the same month last year," the ministry said in a statement.

During the month, revenues from import of goods were 70% higher and the revenues from domestic transaction were 17% more than the revenues from these sources during the same month last year.

The GST revenues declined 41% and 8% in the June and September quarters, respectively. However, with economic recovery, the mop-up grew 8% and 14% in December and March quarters of this financial year.

GST collections, which directly reflect the state of economic activity, had plummeted to a record low of ₹32,172 crore in April 2020, after the government imposed a nationwide lockdown to curb the spread of coronavirus.

The lockdown, categorised by several agencies as one of the strictest in the world, pummelled the economy, as demand dried up and non-essential businesses were shuttered. In the April-June quarter, the economy contracted by the steepest ever 24.4%, and 7.3% in September quarter. However, in October-December it came back in positive territory with 0.4% growth.

As restrictions were gradually lifted, many sectors of the economy were able to spring back into action although output remains well below the pre-pandemic levels.

Deloitte India Senior Director MS Mani said, "In addition to the trend of higher overall GST collections over the past six months, all major states have shown a significant increase compared to the previous year."

The survey revealed that the roll-out of vaccines and pragmatic innovations across the travel chain seem to have contributed to this increase in consumer confidence as nearly 65% respondents showed intent to travel for leisure and adventure in 2021.

The survey is based on responses received from over 11,500 InterMiles across India in January 2021.

Hazlewood opts out of IPL to keep himself fresh

Miami, April 1: As Naomi Osaka's 23-match winning streak neared an end, she paused before serving to crane her neck and study the sky, as if seeking intervention from above.

Then she carried on, and so did No.23 seed Maria Sakkari, who upset Osaka 6-0, 6-4 in the quarter-finals of the Miami Open. "The more stuff like this happens, the more I'll learn from it," the No.2-ranked Osaka said.

The defeat was her first since February 2020, and it ended any chance of reclaiming the No.1 ranking this week from Ash Barty, who is in the semifinals.

Sakkari will next play No.8 seed Bianca Andreescu of Canada, who dropped serve eight times but still outlasted unseeded Sara Sorribes Tormo 6-4, 3-6, 6-3. The other women's semifinal Thursday will pit No.1-seeded Ash Barty against No.5 Elina Svitolina.

Osaka won her fourth Grand Slam title at the Australian Open in February, but in five Miami appearances she has never advanced beyond the quarterfinals. She said couldn't get comfortable on the tournament's hard-court surface. Against Sakkari, the only Greek woman ranked in the top 250, Osaka lost 15 consecutive points on her serve to fall behind and blew a 4-1 lead in the second set. She faced a break point on seven of her eight service games. Sakkari earned her sixth career win over a top-five opponent. She's still in the tournament only because she saved six match points in the previous round before beating American Jessica Pegula.

In men's play, 19-year-old Italian Jannik Sinner earned his first semifinal berth in an ATP Tour top-level event by beating No.32-seeded Alexander Bublik 7-6(7-5), 6-4.

Bublik smiled as he congratulated the No. 21-seeded Sinner at the net. "You're not a human, man," Bublik joked. "You're 15 years old and you play like this? Good job."

Osaka made just 41 per cent of her first serves and paid a price, because Sakkari aggressively attacked the second set. Sakkari also served well and would repeatedly extend rallies until Osaka made an error.

Osaka took a 40-0 lead in the opening game, but didn't win another point on her serve until the second set. When she ended the drought, she received a big ovation from the small crowd, which she followed up with her best stretch of tennis.

But Sakkari rallied. From 40-0 down she won five consecutive points, hitting one last thunderous return to break for a 5-4 lead. She then coolly served out the victory.

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Melbourne, April 1: Australia and Chennai Super Kings fast bowler Josh Hazlewood has pulled out of the upcoming edition of the IPL to take a small break from cricket and keep himself fresh for the Ashes and the T20 World Cup later this year.

Hazlewood was to depart with other Australia's IPL-bound players and join CSK but decided to skip the cash-rich league, which will start April 9 and go on till May 30, and spend time at home for the next two months.

The 30-year-old played three games for CSK in the IPL last season when the tournament was staged in the UAE in late 2020.

"It's been a long 10 months in bubbles and quarantine at different times, so I decided to have a rest from cricket and spend some time at home and in Australia in the next two months," Hazlewood was quoted as saying by cricket.com.au.

"We've got a big winter ahead. The West Indies is going to be a long tour, with Bangladesh (T20 tour) potentially thrown on the end of that. Then potentially the T20 World Cup leading into the Ashes, so it's a big 12 months. "As it always is with Australia, and I want to give myself the best chance to be mentally and physically ready for that," he added.

The right-arm fast bowler follows compatriots Josh Philippe (RCB) and Mitchell Marsh (SRH) in withdrawing from the IPL, while some other Australians may consider opting out also, according to the report.

Hazlewood has been under restrictions from July last year before leaving for England with Australia's limited-overs team where he was in strict bio-secure lockdown before heading to the UAE for the IPL where again safety protocols were tight.

His return to Australia in November started with two weeks in hotel isolation in Adelaide before moving into the men's international bubble along with the visiting Indians for the Test series.

The bubble with India ended in late January and Hazlewood was set to quarantine again having been named in Australia's Test squad to travel to South Africa. But that tour was postponed due to safety reasons and he has since been representing New South Wales at domestic level.

GERMANY HIT ANOTHER LOW UNDER LOEW

ASSOCIATED PRESS

London, April 1: Germany's first World Cup qualifying loss in 20 years added another blemish to the final months of coach Joachim Loew's 15-year reign in charge of the team.

Germany's 35-match unbeaten run in World Cup qualifying — a streak dating back to 2001 — ended with a stunning 1-2 home loss to North Macedonia Wednesday that left the team sitting third in its group after three games. It was only the country's third ever loss in qualifying for the World Cup since since 1934, the other two coming against Portugal in 1985, when it was West Germany, and the famous 5-1 thrashing by England 20 years ago.

Loew, who led Germany to the 2014 World Cup title, is stepping down as coach after the European Championship. After exiting the World Cup in the group stage in 2018, the Euros could cause the Germans more pain given they are in the same group as reigning champion Portugal and world champion France. In November, they lost 6-0 to Spain for their worst defeat since 1931.

The road to Qatar could be bumpy, too, for Loew's successor. In Group J, Germany has slumped to third place after three games — behind North Macedonia and 99th-ranked Armenia, which beat Romania 3-2 for a third straight win having trailed after 87 minutes in Yerevan.

Goran Pandev of North Macedonia scored the opener in first-half stoppage time. Ilkay Gundogan equalised from the penalty spot but after Timo Werner missed a golden chance to put Germany ahead and potentially earn the team a 19th straight World Cup qualifying victory, Eljif Elmas scored the winner for North Macedonia in the 85th at the end of a counterattack.

Spain's 3-1 victory at home to Kosovo attracted attention because of the host country's non-recognition of the visitors, with the Spanish national broadcaster disregarding normal protocol by not mentioning Kosovo as a country and using lowercase letters for 'kos' in its graphics. Spain does not recognize Kosovo's 2008 independence from Serbia.

John Stones made amends for an embarrassing defensive blunder by setting up a late winner for fellow center back Harry Maguire as England beat Poland 2-1 to stay perfect in Group I.

Stones' heavy touch at the edge of his own area saw him get dispossessed, leading to Jakub Moder equalizing for Poland to cancel out Harry Kane's penalty — his 34th goal for England.

Redemption came for the Manchester City defender when his header at the far post kept a corner in play and Maguire swept a finish high into the net in the 85th minute at Wembley Stadium.

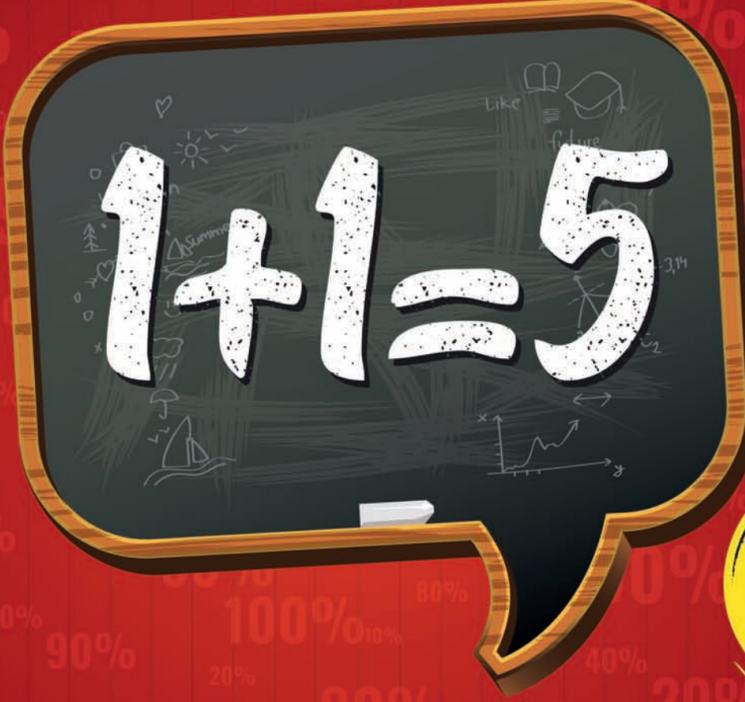

Italy's unbeaten run extended to 25 games with a 2-0 win in Lithuania as Roberto Mancini's halftime changes had an immediate impact. Substitute Stefano Sensi scored three minutes into the second half before Ciro Immobile converted a stoppage-time penalty.

France continued their recovery from an opening-round draw to Ukraine, beating Bosnia-Herzegovina 1-0 to follow up a 2-0 win over Kazakhstan Sunday.

Antoine Griezmann headed in the winner in the 60th for his 35th international goal, moving the Barcelona forward one clear of David Trezeguet and into fourth place on France's all-time scoring list.

France is four points clear in Group D, with Ukraine in second place on three points after a third straight draw, this time against Kazakhstan.

Denmark joined Italy, England and Armenia on maximum points and is the highest-scoring team in qualifying with 14 goals. That's after a 4-0 win at Austria in Group F, with the goals coming in a 16-minute spell in the second half.
