Open drain claims boy

Several people have lost their lives in the smart city after falling into open drains as the BMC authorities have done precious little to cover them or put up signages

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Sept 19: In a tragic incident, a 15-year-old boy was swept away after he accidentally fell into an open drain at Satabdi Nagar Bank Colony near Siripur area while he was on his way to tuition Sunday afternoon.

The Class X student has been identified as Jyoti Prakash Behera of Palamandap area at Barmunda in the city. The victim's family members informed the media that Jyoti left home around 2 pm Sunday for tuition saying that he was going to collect Sanskrit notes from his teacher, who resided at Saubhagya Nagar lane-7. While going through an open field near his teacher's house Jyoti lost balance of his bicycle due to heavy current of rain water and fell into a drain.

Soon, he was washed away by the heavy rain water gushing through the drain. Onlookers, who earlier tried in vain to stop Jyoti from going near the drain, rushed to the spot to rescue him, but could not trace him.

On being informed, Khandagiri police and fire services personnel reached the spot and launched an intensive search operation. However, they failed to trace the boy till last reports came in. His cycle and slippers were recovered by the locals.

The incident occurred despite the locals repeatedly requesting the Bhubaneswar Municipal Corporation (BMC) to cover the drain. Local residents claimed that last year a biker had slipped into the same drain but was immediately rescued. It is pertinent to mention here that the state government had issued a checklist to all Urban Local Bodies (ULBs) in June instructing them to properly install signages for any open drainage that could not be repaired, covered or closed.

In a similar in the smart city, a nine-year-old student, Tapan Biswal, of Nayapalli fell into a canal near the Passport Office August 25, 2015 while he was returning home from tuition with his mother. In separate incidents, a teacher and a minor were washed away in 2017 and 2018 respectively after they too fell into different drains in the city. An old lady also fell into an open drain and died in 2019.

Meanwhile, Opposition Congress and BJP condemned the state government and the Bhubaneswar Municipal Corporation authorities for the tragic incident. Members of the National Students' Union of India, the students' wing of the Indian National Congress, staged a dharna at the site where Jyoti went missing, while the BJP has threatened to initiate legal action against the BMC.

Charanjit Singh Channi to be next Punjab CM

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Chandigarh, Sept 19: The Congress picked Charanjit Singh Channi as the next Chief Minister of Punjab Sunday, a day after Amarinder Singh resigned following a bitter power tussle in the party. Channi, 58, will be the first Dalit to hold the post in the state.

AICC general secretary Harish Rawat said in a tweet, "It gives me immense pleasure to announce that Sh. Charanjit Singh Channi has been unanimously elected as the Leader of the Congress Legislature Party of Punjab."

A minister in the outgoing Amarinder Singh Cabinet, Channi's selection assumes significance as the disension-riven Congress faces the Assembly polls in less than five months.

The BJP had earlier announced that if voted to power in Punjab, it will make a Dalit the Chief Minister, while the SAD, which is fighting the coming polls in alliance with the BSP, had said that its Deputy Chief Minister would be from the Dalit community.

Channi met the Punjab Governor and staked claim to form government, sources said, adding that Rawat and the party's central observers Ajay Maken and Harish Chaudhary accompanied him. (More P9)

Engg studies in Odia in state from next year

AICTE has approved conducting engineering classes in four vernacular languages, including Odia, Assamese, Urdu and Punjabi

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Sept 19: From next academic year onwards the engineering colleges in the state will hold classes in Odia language. The All India Council for Technical Education (AICTE) has given its approval for this following a meeting between the state government and AICTE September 4.

As per reports, AICTE has approved holding engineering classes in four vernacular languages, including Odia, Assamese, Urdu and Punjabi. As per meeting the AICTE will take care of translation activities with help of Institute of Odia Studies and Research.

Earlier, the members of Institute of Odia Studies and Research met the Union Education Minister Dharmendra Pradhan requesting him to allow teaching engineering subjects in Odia. At present there are 88 private and eight government-run engineering colleges in the state. An estimated 30,000 to 35,000 students take admission in these engineering colleges every year, while more than 10,000 seats remain vacant. Talking to Orissa POST, Odisha Private Engineering College Association secretary Binod Dash said that the move will encourage many students to take up engineering studies. It will also help in filling up the large number of seats that lie vacant in the engineering colleges in the state every year, he said. "Students who are not very proficient in English will now opt for engineering courses. Students from rural areas especially of tribal area will benefit from this," said Dash.

According to Dash, many countries such as Japan, China, France and Russia impart higher education, including engineering and medical, in their native languages instead of English. Another meeting will be held between AICTE and Odisha government on the issue is scheduled for September 25, 2021. Earlier this year, engineering colleges affiliated to the All India Council for Technical Education (AICTE) were allowed to offer courses in regional languages from the 2021-22 academic session.

The move is part of the Modi government's push to facilitate education in one's mother tongue, and is being advocated under the new National Education Policy. In November 2020, the Ministry of Education (MoE) had cleared a proposal, allowing colleges to offer engineering education in mother tongue.

Belfast bags People's Choice Award at TIFF

OTHER NOTABLE FILMS WHICH WON THE TIFF TOP AWARD AND THEN WENT ON TO WIN THE OSCAR ARE SLUMDOG MILLIONAIRE, GREEN BOOK, 12 YEARS A SLAVE AND THE KING'S SPEECH AND LAST YEAR'S NOMADLAND

The Toronto International Film Festival (TIFF), which sets the tone for the Oscar season, picked British actor-director Kenneth Branagh's family drama Belfast for the People's Choice Award Saturday.

The road drama Nomadland, which won the best-picture Oscar this year, was also the winner of the People's Choice Award at the Toronto film festival last year.

Other notable films which won the TIFF top award and then went on to win the Oscar are Slumdog Millionaire, Green Book, 12 Years a Slave and The King's Speech.

Set in the late 1960s Northern Ireland wracked by sectarian violence, the black-and-white Belfast is Branagh's "most personal" film as he spent his childhood in the city of Belfast. This family drama captures the coming-of-age story of Buddy (played by Jude Hill), trying to escape the violence and his working-class life.

Accepting the award, Branagh said he was "deeply grateful" for the honour. "That so many film lovers connected with Belfast so profoundly was absolutely overwhelming to myself and Jamie Dornan, and we talked about it long into a memorable night of laughter and tears in your great city," he said.

The British filmmaker said, "Our first showing of Belfast at TIFF was one of the most memorable experiences of my entire career."

The Canadian family drama

Scarborough and Jane Campion's western The Power of the Dog, with Benedict Cumberbatch in the lead role were the two runners-up.

Nithin Lukose's Malayalam film Paka (River of Blood), Ritwik Pareek's Dud Dug and Payal Kapadia's A Night of Knowing Nothing also premiered at the 46th TIFF. The 10-day film festival ends Sunday.

Waterlogging, dengue plague City residents

According to sources in the BMC, though the civic authority de-silts the clogged drains ahead of monsoon every year, this year it cleaned only 383 km of the total 625 km drainage system in and around the City till August

Vehicles ply on the waterlogged Bomikhal-Rasulgarh road in Bhubaneswar soon after heavy rain lashed the City, Sunday disease. The carrier of dengue, Aedes Aegypti, breeds in places where there is stagnant water. This could be tyres, mud-pots, or any discarded item where water can accumulate. If proper sanitation is not maintained, and waterlogging is constant in any area, the risk of vector and water-borne diseases increases greatly," said Dr Smita Rao, a City-based entomologist.

According to sources in the BMC, though the civic authority de-silts the clogged drains ahead of the monsoon every year, this year it cleaned only 383 km of the total 625 km of drainage system in and around the City till August.

There are 10 major storm water channels extending to 65.82 km that carry rain water from the City to Gangula Nullah. A network of 560 km-long drains, spread in different wards of the capital, meet these stormwater channels. The BMC has identified 37 vulnerable areas, including Nayapalli, GGP Colony, Bhimtangi and Rasulgarh, which face flooding every year during monsoon.

"We had initiated the process of widening the drainage channels numbered 6, 7 and 8 earlier in July. This would have helped control the deluge in Laxmisagar, Mausima Temple and Shishu Bhawan. Similarly, we had planned to clean all the drains in City by September. However, our plans were delayed due certain official rigmaroles," said the BMC official.

Moreover, the slum areas, which reported 65 per cent of dengue cases in City this year, are constantly neglected by the BMC. While the garbage dumps are not cleared in these localities, waterlogging has compounded the residents' woes. "Water accumulates in our area every year and it doesn't recede for days," complained Anjan Nath, a social worker. "While pumps and jets are positioned in other areas, people in slums are left to fend for themselves," he added.

Garbage litters the Unit-1 vegetable market in the Capital City

BMC statistics suggest that the civic authority spends Rs 5 crore annually for sanitation. While earlier, it used to pay Rs 3,200 per tonne to three of agencies for waste collection, the amount has now been increased to over Rs 3,800 per tonne. Similarly, it spends more than Rs 2 crore every year to undertake desiltation of the internal drains. Still there has been no improvement in the situation.

Treasure hunt at Emar Mutt for lost hoard

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Puri, Sept 19: A treasure hunt has started at the Emar Mutt, located in the southeastern corner of Srimandir, with teams of archeologists armed with metal detectors searching for a lost hoard.

The search started Thursday following a request by Narayan Ramanuj Das, the Mahanta (pontiff) of Uttarparshwa Mutt, who is in charge of Emar Mutt. The mutt authorities as well as historians suspect that a hoard of valuables is buried inside the premises.

The belief that a stash is buried underground comes from discoveries of two earlier troves. In 2011, the police had stumbled upon a treasure trove of 522 silver ingots weighing around 18 tonne inside the mutt worth about Rs 90 crore. Earlier in April this year, 45 more silver ingots weighing about 35 kg each were found inside the mutt.

Apart from the silver ingots, a silver tree and silver flowers, about 16 antique swords, and a bronze cow sculpture were also recovered from the mutt, established by Ramanujacharya during his visit to Puri in 1050.

A special team of the state Archaeology department in presence of officials of Shree Jagannath Temple Administration (SJTA), Puri district Collector Samarth Verma, SP KV Singh and trust members of the Emar mutt, began the search inside the mutt premises Thursday to trace hidden valuables.

Puri Sub-Collector Bhabataram Sahu said, "As of now, no material was detected during the inspection. We will take appropriate action on the report of the technical team which scanned the premises."

The treasures recovered earlier from the mutt are now kept in the district treasury in Puri and guarded by armed police.

As many as 18 mutts belonging to Ramanuja sect was established in Puri by Ramanujacharya. All these mutts are closely linked to Srimandir and are involved in rituals associated with the Temple.

Govindacharya or Govinda Jeeyar was the first pontiff of this mutt. Govindacharya was given the name Emperumannar, which means 'My Lord' in Tamil. However, a section of disciples opposed the name and finally changed this to 'Emar'. Govindacharya was Ramanujacharya's cousin brother.

The mutt worships Lord Rama, Devi Sita and Laxman. The mutt's hidden treasure, came to the lime-light ten years back when two masons involved in its renovation work were caught by Dhenkanal Police while they were trying to dispose of two silver ingots weighing over 30 kg each. During interrogation, the duo revealed that they had stolen the valuables from Emar mutt. This confession led to the discovery of a room stashed with silver ingots.

Former pontiff of Emar mutt, Rajgopal Das, had claimed ownership over the property and filed a case in the High Court seeking direction to the police to hand it over to him.

The ingots were then shifted from Emar mutt to the armory of the district reserve police.

The Endowment Commissioner had constituted a trust to manage the affairs of the mutt.

Since Das did not cooperate with the trust, the administration forcefully entered the mutt and he was stripped of all his powers.

The metal detector search has indicated something. But, we cannot say whether they are valuable metals or iron or some other metals. As metal detectors could detect materials up to just 1.5 feet to 2 feet under the earth, we now need a better survey which could detect metals at a greater depth

NARAYAN RAMANUJ DAS | EMAR MUTT TRUST BOARD CHIEF

A four-member trust headed by Narayan Ramanuj Das, who is the pontiff of Utter Parsva Mutt, had taken over Emar mutt, and the inventory of all the valuables was made in the presence of a magistrate.

"The metal detector search has indicated something. But, we cannot say whether they are valuable metals or iron or some other metals. As metal detectors could detect materials up to just 1.5 feet to 2 feet under the earth, we now need a better survey which could detect metals at a greater depth," said Das.

However, Das expressed ignorance regarding a rumoured store of gold and diamonds in the mutt. "How can I make such claims? We have seen silver ingots so far. Who knows whether there is gold or diamond hidden in the mutt," he said.

About the existence of such huge volume of silver ingots in Emar mutt, historian Anil Dhir said "During my research on the Great Orissa Famine of 1866 (Na'Anka Durbhikshya), I had got conclusive evidence that the silver ingot was part of the payment made by the British authorities to various mutts for rice purchased from them during famine years."

Emar Mutt was among the biggest landowners of the period and had overflowing granaries, he said, adding that when the British administration wanted to buy the stocks for relief kitchens, the mutt heads had demanded payment in bullion.

"I have found various documents which confirm that the mutts were selling a major part of their stocks for the relief kitchens that had been set up by the authorities. This treasure is the legitimate property of the mutt," Dhir claimed.

The historian also claimed that Emar Mutt was the fountainhead of many smaller mutts.

Among the branches in different places, the Emar Mutts at Sakhigopal and in the Old Town area of Bhubaneswar stand apart due to their historical importance.

"There should be proper surveys in both these places for buried treasures. There is every chance that silver ingots may also be buried in Sakhigopal and Bhubaneswar mutts," Dhir said.

Meanwhile, the Emar Mutt in Puri including the famed Raghunandan Library, spread over five acre of land, has been demolished as part of the beautification drive of the Pilgrim City.

"We have been left with the sanctum sanctorum of the mutt and 10 rooms after demolition. There were 200 rooms in the mutt premises earlier. Many shops constructed on the Mutt property are encroached and there is no such source of income to run the daily affairs. We urge the government to restore mutt property," Das said.

Covid norms, vax key to fight pandemic

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Sept 19: The UNICEF Odisha in collaboration with the Health department and the Press Information Bureau (PIB), Bhubaneswar organised a virtual media sensitisation programme on Covid-19 pandemic and vaccination in Kalahandi and Nuapada districts recently.

The sensitisation programme emphasised on the need to create awareness on Covid appropriate behaviour and encourage more people to take the vaccination. The programme highlighted the role of media during the pandemic.

Additional Director General of PIB and Regional Outreach Bureau (ROB), Bhubaneswar, Rajinder Choudhry said, "In a diverse country like India particularly in Odisha, it is difficult to reach out to the grass root level due to network and transport issues. Therefore, we need to deploy a combination of mechanisms including mass communication and interpersonal communication to reach out the vulnerable masses."

Speaking on the importance of vaccine, he further said, "Many countries across the globe are now going through the third wave of the pandemic, but it should be noted that the hospitalisation and death rate is still minimal due to vast coverage of vaccination among the people. While the vaccination rates in India are commendable, we need to keep our focus on vaccinating more people to achieve herd immunity against the deadly virus."

Speaking on the impact of Covid-19, Anil Patnaik of UNICEF Odisha stated, "People with comorbidities and immunity deficiency and senior citizens are vulnerable to Covid infections. Only 5 per cent people are severely infected by the virus due to weak immune system."

Throwing light on the safety and efficacy of vaccine, Child Health Manager for routine immunisation of the Health department Sashi Bhusan Panda said, "No vaccine gets approval overnight. It takes many stages of examination before granting approval to a vaccine. The Covid vaccines available in India have also gone through all required process and testing."

Highlighting the success of vaccination drive in Nuapada, Assistant District Public Health Officer (ADPHO) Binod Bihari Rath said, "Till date, around 78 per cent of the total eligible population that is 2,00,231 people in Nuapada have been successfully vaccinated against the virus, out of which only two cases were found with adverse impact. We have successfully vaccinated 2,384 pregnant women out of the total 7,360 in the district. The vaccines are showing positive results."

Koraput ADPHO Nilamadhav Satpathy said, "All vaccines approved by the government have high efficacy rate. The average efficacy rate of all vaccines including Covaxin and Covishield and others is around 75 per cent. So, without hesitation people should come forward to take both doses of the vaccines."

Coffee cultivation transforming lives of Koraput tribals

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Bhubaneswar, Sept 19: Coffee farming is transforming the lives of the tribal population of Odisha's Koraput, which is considered as one of the most backward districts in India.

Koraput, which is located in the Eastern Ghats at a height of 3,000 feet above sea level, is ideal for coffee cultivation due to its cool climate and rainfall. Koraput coffee is a unique blend, consisting of 100 per cent Arabica coffee.

As opposed to the Robusta variety of the beverage which is acidic, Arabica coffee, growing in the shade of trees, has a host of salutary benefits, inducing people to switch to the latter. The coffee raised in Koraput is also of export quality.

Coffee plantation was first introduced in Koraput by the erstwhile Maharaja of Jeypore, Rajbahadur Rama Chandra Deo, in the 1930s. However, after the abolition of the zamindari system in 1951, the state soil conservation department undertook coffee plantation to prevent siltation in the Machkund basin in 1958.

Now, coffee cultivation, with the support of the state government and the Coffee Board of India under the Ministry of Commerce and Industry, has brought smiles to the faces of the tribal people of the district with the organic Koraput coffee emerging as a brand name. It is mostly cultivated by tribals in the district.

According to official sources, coffee cultivation has taken up over 2,000 hectare of land in eight blocks of the district and about 1,100 metric tonne (MT) of coffee has been produced in the last crop season (2020-21). The tribal population in Semiliguda, Dasmantpur, Laxmipur, Lamtaput, Nandapur, Koraput, Baipariguda and Pottangi blocks is engaged in the coffee farming.

Over a period of more than 15 years, Rajendra Hantal, a tribal man from Kasampadar village in Nandapur block, has become a successful coffee farmer of Koraput region.

"Before entering into coffee cultivation, I was doing traditional farming like paddy crop, green gram, and a few vegetable crops in my field. At that time, I was unable to meet the expectations of my family. But now, I am earning between ₹1.20 lakh to ₹1.60 lakh per annum from the coffee cultivation on nearly 2 acre of land," said Rajendra.

Rajendra not only grows coffee in his own land, but also enlists other tribal people of his community to do so.

Gajendra Dami, a tribal coffee farmer from Kendriguda village in Laxmipur block of the district, said his life has changed after engaging in coffee farming.

"I have been engaged in coffee farming for more than a decade. The government has provided land to us. I have a small coffee farm and earn around ₹30,000 a year as the trees are yet to fully grow," said Dami. Once the coffee trees have matured, the annual profit will touch nearly ₹1 lakh, he said.

Apart from coffee, Gajendra is also cultivating black pepper, which is suitable to grow in the same climate. "I am also getting a handsome amount of money from the black pepper crop," he said.

Not only Gajendra, but also about 40 other families of his village are now living happily after taking to coffee farming.

The state government had provided forest land rights of 46,000 acre of land to 30,000 families till June 2021. Many of the tribal families are using the FRA lands for cultivating coffee.

Through its Tribal Development Cooperative Corporation of Odisha Limited (TDCCOL) and Koraput Agro Products Producer Company Limited (KAPPCO), a producer company of the Odisha Rural Development and Marketing Society, the government is providing support to the coffee farmers, an official said.

TDCCOL alone has procured 28,790 kilogram of coffee beans from 193 tribal coffee growers in the district in 2020-21. The state is procuring the dry parchment at a rate of ₹35 per kilogram from the farmers. It has a processing unit at Sunabeda in the district where the final product is being prepared.

Green coffee beans procured from the farmers are subject to curing and roasting at this unit before they hit the markets. Aided by branding efforts and the buyback arrangement with the farmers, the TDCCOL is expected to contribute 500 tonne in coffee output this year, sources said.

In September 2019, the Odisha government had launched coffee beans under the brand 'Koraput Coffee', and it has already carved a niche for itself both within and outside the state for its taste and quality.

The TDCCOL is not only promoting the brand but also selling the product in Adisha stores in the state and through e-commerce websites Amazon and its own Adisha.in, said Mansi Nimal, managing director of the corporation.

The coffee is priced at ₹120 for a 100 gram packet and ₹299 for 250 gram. The quality of the coffee is so good that it has transformed into a very big brand.

"The state government is taking steps for the promotion of Koraput Coffee. We directly procure the coffee fruits/beans from farmers, so there is no role of any middleman. We pay the amount to the farmers through DBT," she said.

Recently, Tata has shown interest in buying Koraput Coffee and selling it under its brand name. TDCCOL will facilitate the company in this, Mansi said.

The Coffee Board of India also has a coffee farm and office in Koraput since 1978 and it is providing technical support like training, capacity building along with a few incentives to the coffee farmers, said Senior Liaison Officer (SLO) of the board, Upendra Kumar Saha.

He said the Coffee Board of India has 26 acre of coffee farm, where 6.5 MT of coffee, at an average, is being cultivated each year. Apart from providing necessary training to the farmers, the Coffee Board of India is distributing post-matric fellowship to the children of coffee farmers and workers, Saha said. The Coffee Board of India also promotes entrepreneurship in coffee farming in the region, he added.

Outmigration in Paradip owing to unemployment

POST NEWS NETWORK

Paradip, Sept 19: Absence of work opportunities has led to an exodus of people, mostly daily wagers, from the port town of Paradip, a report said.

The outmigration is stated to have started from March 2020 and continuing till now. The matter came to the fore after many people stopped taking their monthly quota of rice and wheat through ration cards under National Food Security Act. The number of ration card beneficiaries started declining after the start of Covid pandemic.

Both the Centre and state government have described Paradip as the economic gateway of the state time and again. Both have been drawing rosy pictures of employment and infrastructure development for people in the port town. However, the reality has been laid bare with the migration of people to other parts of the country from here.

Around 116 families have left Paradip within a year. Their names have been struck off from the ration card list after they stopped lifting their quota of rice and wheat.

Recently, the supplies department has started verifying the list of around 300 families that have stopped receiving rice and wheat through their ration cards. The name of these beneficiaries will be permanently struck off from the ration card list if they or their family members do not draw rations within a month.

Majority of the beneficiaries, whose names have been struck off from the ration card list, are outsiders and non-Odias. Lack of work opportunities for the daily wagers is stated to be the reason behind the migration of people from the port town.

Moreover, the Paradip fishing harbour, which is a major fish landing and business centre, is passing through a very bad phase. As a result, many fishermen too are shifting their base to Andhra Pradesh due to lack of work.

According to reports available from the Paradip Municipality and Civil Supplies department, the population of Paradip has declined during last three decades.

According to 1991 census, the population of the port town was 49,255, which later increased 73,625 in 2001. However, according to 2011 census, the population of the port town again got reduced to 68,310. Meanwhile no census has been carried out in 2021 in view of Covid pandemic. It is apprehended that there will be sharp drop in population figure when the census work takes place in the port town.

According to sources, there were 4,500 employees working earlier in Paradip Port. However, the number has reduced and is now limited to only 600 employees.

Similarly, the number of ration card holders in the town was 8,452 in March, 2021. Now, the list is left with only 540 beneficiaries under Antyodaya Anna Yojana who are drawing their food stocks under Central and state food security schemes.

As many as 25 dealers have been appointed to supply food stocks to the beneficiaries. According to rules of food supply department, if any beneficiary fails to take his/her food stocks for a consecutive period of three months then their names will be automatically struck off from the list.

When contacted, Bibek Mohanty, district civil supplies officer said if a beneficiary does not take his food stock then it can be known online.

According to information available from the dealers, many beneficiaries have sold off their houses and shifted elsewhere due to lack of work opportunities while many have been transferred.

Doctor records statement 'online' in Dhenkanal court

POST NEWS NETWORK

Dhenkanal, Sept 19: A doctor from Koraput appeared in the assistant sessions judge court and special women's court here through video conferencing and recorded his statement in a case relating to a brutal attack on a woman under Bhapur police limits, Saturday.

He was identified as Dr Sibasai Swaroop of Sahid Laxman Nayak Medical College and Hospital in Koraput. He was earlier posted at the government health centre at Bhapur and later transferred to Koraput district. This was stated here by additional public prosecutor (APP) Surya Narayan Tripathy to mediapersons.

Bargarh, Sept 19: An elderly woman who was left to die in the jungle by her family members was rescued Saturday by a few members of a social organisation 'Sankalp Pariwar'. She was rushed to the district headquarters hospital here in critical condition. Currently she is undergoing treatment at the hospital. Members of 'Sankalp Pariwar' however, refused to disclose her identity. They only said she belongs to Ghanghati village of Khamunda panchayat under Attabira police limits in this district.

It has been alleged that the family members, instead of providing medical assistance to the ailing woman, left her inside the forest in a half-broken shanty to rot and die.

Sources said that the woman was suffering from various age-related health issues. She also had a wound on her head and there were white patches on her hands. Her superstitious family members thought that she had been besieged by evil and so they left her in the Baraphada forest. The ramshackle hut, where she was residing, had only a polythene cover over it. All the other sides were virtually open and she had no protection from nature.

Since it was impossible to reach the spot where the woman was residing, members of 'Sankalp Pariwar' carried her on a stretcher to the place where the ambulance was stationed. Then she was taken to the hospital. The entire incident has become a hot topic of discussion in this town. People are asking how the family members of the ailing woman could be so cruel to leave her to die unattended inside a forest.

CANNABIS CULTIVATION

Total ban in Ganjam; farmers encouraged to grow cash crops

POST NEWS NETWORK

Chhatrapur, Sept 19: With illegal cultivation, storage and trade of ganja reaching an alarming level in the state, the Ganjam district administration has decided to fully ban illegal cannabis cultivation in the district.

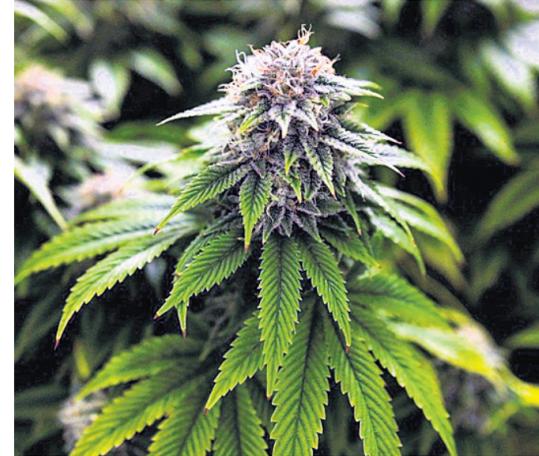

As part of this programme, the district administration has decided to wean people away from ganja cultivation and engage them in cultivation of other profitable cash crops. The matter came to the fore at a meeting of the district administration held in virtual mode, Saturday.

Presiding over the meeting, Collector Vijay Amruta Kulange urged officials to restrain people from taking up ganja cultivation and engage them in cultivation of cash crops which will help them earn a livelihood.

He informed officials that an action plan will soon be prepared to help people better their financial growth. He said that a farmer involved in ganja cultivation will withdraw only if he takes interest in growing some other crop and earns more from it. He also asked the agriculture department to provide training to people in cash crops so that they do not resort again to ganja cultivation.

He urged forest officials to keep a close watch so that illegal ganja farming does not take place in any of the forested areas. He directed all officials of line departments to form teams comprising police, excise, forest officials and magistrates and raid the places where ganja cultivation is taking place.

Reports said that illegal ganja cultivation on 157 acre including 112 acre by the district excise department and 45 acre by Berhampur excise department have been destroyed during last four years. ing Gajapati and Kandhamal districts.

Ganja cultivation is on the rise in several hilly areas of the state year by year. This is happening due to easy money earned from the trade. As a result, sale and purchase of weed is getting popular among the inter-state drug traffickers.

Mostly, Maoists are increasingly getting involved in ganja cultivation and trade to fund their subversive activities. They are patronising the gullible locals and peddlers in districts such as Malkangiri, Koraput, Kalahandi, Kandhamal, Rayagada, Boudh, Gajapati, Nabarangpur, Angul, Sambalpur and Deogarh to take up its cultivation and trade to earn easy money. The illegal cultivation is bleeding the state of vital revenue which is flowing into the wrong hands.

The hilly terrains and dense forests of these districts serve as ideal ground for ganja cultivators and peddlers. Lack of good roads and bridges are the barriers for excise officials who do not dare to venture into the ganja fields fearing backlashes from the Naxals during the raid.

The Collector asked the officials to intensify the awareness drive in all these concerned areas by involving the local representatives, block development officers (BDOs) and members of voluntary outfits.

Among others, Ganjam Excise Superintendent Rajesh Botra, his Berhampur counterpart Ramesh Nayak, ASP PK Dalei and horticulture dean Sarat Chandra Behera participated in the meeting.

LIMITS OF POWER

Is a phase of imperialism coming full circle? One cannot expect US President Joe Biden to say it in quite that language, but what else does one make of his promise to end "never ending" wars

US, Ron Dermer, has urged Israel to prioritise maintaining the support of the American evangelical Christian. It must be assiduously wooed. "People must understand that the backbone of support for Israel in the US is the evangelical Christian." The quote is from The Palestinian Policy Network, Al-Shabaka. Israel can breathe easy because there is no indication of Biden distancing himself from this line of thinking.

US thinning out from the region will accentuate popular perception of Israel's exclusive support base inside the US. As Israel rolls its eyes around to size up the neighbourhood for subtle adjustments, it will find to its chagrin, Iran undiminished. Houthis in Yemen, Hashd al Shaabi in Iraq, Hezbollah in Lebanon, groups supportive of President Assad in Syria and increasing reports of Iranian role in Afghanistan, initiated by the late Quds Commander, Qasem Soleimani - all of these enhance Iran's position in the region. The cookie in Afghanistan having crumbled the way it has, Iran's role in this theatre may in the future be of interest to the US.

The launch of AUKUS (Australia, UK and US), an idea borrowed conceptually from ANZUS (Australia, New Zealand and US) against the Soviet Union, shows the urgency Biden accords to what Barack Obama called 'pivot to Asia.' The pivot was of much greater saliency. West Asia, though still important, had placed a disproportionate demand on Washington's attention. The nuclear deal conferred on Tehran the kind of legitimacy that was to have enabled it to balance power in the region. This would be in concert with Saudi Arabia, Israel, Egypt, Turkey. The regional balance of power would then require less day-to-day attention, freeing Washington to pay greater attention to the pivot. That appears to be the route on Biden's GPS.

The writer is a senior commentator on political and diplomatic issues.

What could possibly be common between the Taliban brandishing their weapons in Kabul and Palestinians twirling their spoons (yes, teaspoons) with a flourish? Well, the latter were celebrating because six Palestinian prisoners had pulled off a seemingly impossible escape from the high security Gilboa prison in Northern Israel. Clearly, an embarrassment for a state which flaunts national security as a marketable commodity. The spoon has become an emblem because the six used it as an implement to dig a hole in the toilet attached to their cell.

The prisoners, according to Israeli authorities, were affiliated with the Palestinian Islamic Jihad. According to the Times of Israel, the leader of the group, Zakaria Zubeidi, was "a former commander in Fatah's Al-Aqsa Martyrs Brigade." That Zubeidi and three others (at the time of writing) have been arrested is a separate chapter: Kabul and Gilboa establish without any shadow of a doubt a reality all too common in history: limits to power. In this instance, the US globally and its ally Israel, regionally - particularly considering its stalemate with Arab militias like Hezbollah.

Massive intelligence failure attended both the events. True, a jailbreak cannot be compared with the re-conquest of a country but that is not the way Palestinians see it. The Times of Israel reports: "The escape is considered a highly symbolic success for the terror groups. It is being celebrated with 'euphoria' among Palestinians."

The Taliban, likewise, in the initial flush are folk heroes in Afghanistan and beyond having done a David on Goliath. To bring out the irony in sharp focus on the US debacle in Afghanistan, recall the January 29, 2002, State of the Union address by then President George W Bush. The President sketched in bold colours the 'Axis of Evil.' Ironies upon ironies attend that speech. Bush welcomes Hamid Karzai as "leader of liberated Afghanistan." Karzai is now under house arrest. Bush gloats "Terrorists who once occupied Afghanistan now occupy cells at Guantanamo Bay." There is a disconcerting update on this too. Not only have the Taliban returned to power in Kabul, at least five in the new Kabul power structure were released from Guantanamo Bay in 2015.

What does all this portend? Is a phase of imperialism coming full circle? One cannot expect US President Joe Biden to say it in quite that language, but what else does one make of his promise to end "never ending" wars. American youth, who are now 20 years of age, have never seen "America at peace." Suicide rate among military veterans as high as 18 per day? Biden clearly abhors this data.

The problem, of course is, that Biden is only the President, not the system. Even so he is proceeding with some sense of the consensus he has forged around him. For him to declassify the secret FBI report which reveals the connection of Saudi Nationals to 9/11, indicates a sharp departure from past practice. Remember the days of George W Bush and his buddy Saudi Ambassador Bandar bin Sultan, or Bandar Bush as he was called because of his chumminess with the President? Those days seem like ancient history, days when Israel and Saudi Arabia were equally sacrosanct. Both had to be protected from bad copy.

And now even military protection is being withdrawn. In recent weeks the US removed its most advanced missile defence system, and Patriot batteries from the Kingdom which faces attacks from, say, Houthis in Yemen. Troop reductions from Iraq, Kuwait, Jordan have also been confirmed by the Pentagon. Departure from Afghanistan will remain vivid in our minds for years. Despite these stories every American strategist will tell you "the Middle East is not being abandoned." There is that 'over the horizon' capability which includes updated drones. British premier Boris Johnson calls it "outside-in" ability.

Israel, which is busy adjusting to limits on its power as a concept, must place in its calculus the US distancing itself from the Arab theatre. Yes, support for Israel in the US remains durable - Jewish control of banks, media, institutes of learning, election, finance. What is not so well known is what Noam Chomsky describes as much the most powerful support for Israel - Christian Zionism. Former Israeli Ambassador in the

AUKUS Focus

A virtual diplomatic war has broken out between France on one hand and the AUKUS (Australia-UK-USA) combine on the other over the new alliance among the three latter countries September 16 and its fallout - a nuclear-powered submarine deal clinched between Australia and the USA. The alliance has been forged to checkmate China in the Indo-Pacific region giving far more power and confidence to the earlier Quad grouping comprising Australia, Japan, USA and India formed with the same intent to frustrate China's maritime designs in the region. Seemingly, India and Japan have been kept out of the new arrangement which adds a new dimension to the united efforts to thwart China's ambitions in the common sphere of activities. The initial reaction of China to the AUKUS was predictably belligerent and it issued an official statement terming the new grouping 'irresponsible' and an attempt to revive the 'Cold War' that would trigger an arms race threatening the stability of the region. This is only natural, since China will now have to confront nuclear-powered submarines and also a US nuclear power base in Australia. So long it has been pursuing its goal of controlling the Indo-Pacific region with its dominance over the South China Sea without any deterrence of the caliber of the AUKUS.

But when many countries of the region, including India, Japan and Australia, feeling threatened by China's unchallenged aggression in the Indo-Pacific region, were joyous following the new development, France fired September 18 a diplomatic missile on AUKUS that may well sound like music to China's ears. France has called the new alliance "a stab in the back." It accused Australia and the USA of lying over a contract Australia had entered into with France to buy French conventional submarines worth Aus$50 billion (US$36.5 billion, 31 billion euros) when signed in 2016. This makes it clear that the AUKUS grouping too, like all modern military operations, implies plain simple big business deals.

France has warned a grave crisis is going to engulf its allies and the NATO as a whole. The sudden cancellation of the Australia-French submarine deal and the inking of the Australia-US new deal is a huge setback for French President Emmanuel Macron not only because of its impact on business and job loss for France, but also on the fate of his electoral battle as he is soon going to face the French voter for a second term in office. His immediate reaction has been the symbolic protest by way of recalling French ambassadors from Canberra and Washington. The diplomatic row has also queered the pitch for a post-Donald Trump rapprochement between France and the USA.

In fact, French Foreign Minister Jean-Yves Le Drian used the most undiplomatic language towards Australia, the United States and Britain to term the deal an outcome of "lying, duplicity, a major breach of trust and contempt."

He simply brushed aside the Australian Prime Minister Scott Morrison's plea that he had informed France beforehand about the new arrangement. The "information," Le Drian insisted, was conveyed to France only an hour before the announcement was made about the formation of the alliance and the submarine deal with the USA. This, according to him, is very humiliating.

Le Drian described the withdrawal of the ambassadors for the first time in the history of relations with the countries as a "very symbolic" act that aimed "to show how unhappy we are and that there is a serious crisis between us." He reserved his invectives for the UK describing its role as that of a rank "opportunist." "We know their constant opportunism. So there is no need to bring our ambassador (from London) back," Le Drian said.

Immediately thereafter the USA and Australia have gone about mollifying France, but the wounds are too deep to heal any time soon. Biden sought to underscore the dire necessity of extending American nuclear submarine technology to Australia and cyber-defence, applied artificial intelligence and undersea capabilities to counter the rise of China. A White House official expressed "regret" over the French envoy's recall and exuded confidence that the USA would continue to be engaged with France in the coming days to resolve their differences.

To assuage France's feeling of betrayal Australia has fielded its Finance Minister Simon Birmingham who iterated Australia doesn't underestimate the importance of France as its ally in their ongoing engagement in the region.

The AUKUS alliance is also likely to have important implications for Southeast Asia and the role of the ASEAN. Obviously, some of the nations in South East Asia, concerned over China's growing military power in the South China Sea, will be quietly supportive of the move, which will impose higher costs on any military adventurism by the Chinese.

However, mere strategic alliances are not enough to contain China which has deep economic ties with many countries in the region. Significantly enough, two days after the AUKUS was formed, China filed an application to join the Comprehensive and Progressive Agreement for Trans-Pacific Partnership which had been signed by 11 countries including Australia, Canada, Chile, Japan and New Zealand in 2018. The move evinces Beijing's keenness to deepen its economic integration with the region so as to pull these nations to its orbit by sheer economic gravity.

The new alignment of AUKUS in the Indo-Pacific region has at least given a strong signal that the USA is not going to withdraw into a shell following its pullout from Afghanistan, leaving its allies and partners in Asia high and dry.

SPECTRUM CLIMATE ACTION

Norway's sovereign duty

Recent developments in Norway could have momentous implications for climate-related commitments at the UN climate-change conference (COP26) in Glasgow this November.

In August, a government-appointed committee recommended that Norway put its sovereign wealth fund (SWF) on track for net-zero greenhouse-gas (GHG) emissions by 2050, and that the fund's activities be made consistent with Norway's commitments under international climate agreements. Soon thereafter, the Norwegian Labour Party's candidate for prime minister, Jonas Gahr Støre, confirmed that, if elected, he would introduce a net-zero target for the fund. Now that Støre has emerged victorious in this month's parliamentary elections, his challenge is to form a coalition that will allow him to follow through on his conviction.

Norway's $1.4 trillion Government Pension Fund Global is the world's largest SWF. But the country has been hesitant to put the weight of its fund behind its own international climate commitments. It is not alone. Under existing international agreements, climate commitments are based on emissions originating within each country's physical borders. Emissions resulting from countries' foreign asset holdings are not counted in the domestic inventory. Thus, while governments have scrutinised their economies for emissions cuts, they have tended to leave their countries' SWFs on the sideline. As a result, only one sovereign fund, Germany's KENFO, has signed on to the United Nations-convened Net-Zero Asset Owner Alliance, which represents some $6.7 trillion in assets under management, and counts 46 pension funds and insurance companies among its members.

Given that Norway's massive SWF owns 1.4 per cent of all the world's listed companies, on average, the country's apparent change of heart is important both symbolically and as a practical matter. The new Norwegian government is backed up by the recent recommendation from Olivier Blanchard, a former chief economist at the International Monetary Fund, and others recommending it to sign up its SWF for the Net-Zero Alliance at COP26.

But Norway should not stop there. All told, sovereign funds represent some $10 trillion in assets under management, or about seven times that of Norway's SWF alone. As the country with the world's largest SWF, Norway should spearhead a diplomatic effort for a global movement of sovereign funds toward net-zero commitments at COP26.

Norway has a proud history of activist international diplomacy. Its highly capable foreign service has played a central role in mediating an end to armed conflicts around the world. Moreover, its sovereign-fund manager, Norges Bank Investment Management, is a sophisticated and globally respected investor. Together, these attributes place Norway in a strong position to mobilise others within a sovereign-fund coalition toward net-zero targets.

Fortunately, some SWFs have already demonstrated burgeoning climate ambitions. Norway can look to countries like France, Ireland, New Zealand, Singapore, and the United Arab Emirates for potential partners. These countries' sovereign funds have sophisticated investment teams that would be perfectly capable of implementing net-zero targets. And one hopes that when they do, SWFs at an earlier stage of their climate commitments, or that have more limited resources, will join the new global consensus.

As the most recent report from the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change reminds us, the window for averting catastrophic climate change is closing quickly. Under these fraught conditions, governments with large foreign asset holdings should look for ways to mitigate climate change not only within their borders but across all assets that they own and are able to influence. For Norway and several Gulf countries whose SWFs' asset holdings amount to multiples of their domestic economy's GDP, the largest potential climate gains can be found in SWF portfolios.

Countries with SWFs should recognise that accounting for climate risk and climate-related investment opportunities is no longer sufficient.

Norway, a star of international peace negotiations, should see the opportunity to lead a global sovereign-fund movement. Doing so would establish it as a champion of international climate diplomacy and leadership. For a country that built its wealth by pumping hydrocarbons out of the seabed and exporting them along with their inherent GHG emissions, it is the right thing to do.

Figures is former executive secretary of the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change. Halland is Senior Economist at OECD Development Centre. Mork is Professor at the Norwegian University of Science and Technology.

WORDSWORTH

Peradventure

The online Oxford English Dictionary has added a note to each entry showing how often it appears in current use. Peradventure appears in band 2, which the dictionary says contains "terms which are not part of normal discourse and would be unknown to most people." The Times mocked Labour MP Harriet Harman in April 2015 for using it on a BBC television discussion programme ("if I make it absolutely clear, beyond peradventure..."). The Times writer admitted he had to look it up. Peradventure means "uncertainty" or "chance". Beyond peradventure (sometimes as beyond a peradventure) is a fixed phrase that can pop up from the subconscious of a well-read but stressed person without allowing its owner time to think about whether it would be understood. It may be rendered in everyday English as "beyond question" or "without doubt". It may be adventurous to use it but where's the adventure in it? Historically, there is none. It comes to us from Old French per aventure, by chance. Adventure has had a mildly exotic history. We can trace it back to Latin aventura, a future form of the verb adventure, to happen - so something that may occur. By the time it reached Old French it could variously mean destiny or fate, a chance event, an accident, fortune or luck. The sense of adventure that was first taken into English was that of a chance event or accident. The French word also came to be used in English as adventure, also at first for some chance event, but then for a risk of danger or loss. (Marine insurers still sometimes use adventure to mean the time during which insured goods are at risk.) Its sense shifted to a hazardous undertaking or audacious exploit - especially the sort carried out by medieval knights - but much more recently softened to sometimes mean merely a novel or exciting experience.

Endemic COVID

Sir, As India gets ready to face a possible third wave of COVID-19, WHO chief scientist Dr Soumya Swaminathan has said: "India seems to be entering some stage of COVID-19 endemicity where there is low- to moderate-level transmission." Earlier this year, scientists had indicated in a survey carried out by the journal Nature that the SARS-CoV-2 virus is set to become endemic and would continue to circulate in pockets of the global population. So now we have to take precautionary measures against this virus. All healthcare facilities, from rural to urban, should be available at affordable prices. The availability of oxygen is still expected at all primary health centres and community health centres. Special attention is needed in rural areas, as thousands of people lost their lives in the second wave without access to healthcare. We have learned from the first and second waves of the pandemic that the lives of millions of people in the country have been lost due to the neglect of the health system.

Asit Mohanty, JAJPUR

Vaccine hesitancy

Sir, This refers to the news report "Many shy away from second jab," Orissa POST, September 19. It is disturbing that certain sections of the population have developed vaccine hesitancy. The latest data and pattern indicate that vaccination has been effective in slowing down the spread of the infection and has considerably brought down the need to hospitalise those that have been infected. As per a recent report of the Centres of Disease Control and Prevention in the US, unvaccinated people are 10 times more likely to be hospitalised with COVID-19 and 11 times more likely to die from the disease. As of now, India has fully vaccinated around 20 per cent of its eligible population, while 62 per cent have received at least one dose. This appears as a rosy picture, but the experiences of the United States and Britain tell us a different story as the infection spread virulently, mainly in unvaccinated regions. Given that the efficacy of the vaccine is only 70-90 per cent, and that breakthrough infections are reported among 10 to 25 per cent, the unvaccinated segment is also highly likely to be the trigger for, and victim of, the next wave. In this context, one can draw the inference that India is not out of woods yet, and inoculation of all with two doses is imperative.

Defunct LI systems add to farmers' woes

POST NEWS NETWORK

Chhendipada, Sept 19: Farmers in Angul district are already suffering due to scanty rainfall during the monsoon season this year. To add to their woes, more than half of the 81 Lift Irrigation (LI) points in this block have gone defunct. It has led to the farmland remaining uncultivated and farmers suffering huge losses. Farmers who had invested in paddy cultivation are now unsure as to what the returns will be. They have given up hope of earning substantially as most of the crops are set to rot.

According to official sources, Chhendipada block has a total of 35,806 hectares of farmland, of which paddy is cultivated on approximately 12,463 hectares, a senior official informed Sunday.

The target set for paddy cultivation fixed for Chhendipada block will not be met this year, due to lack of proper irrigation facilities, the official pointed out. He said out of the 41 defunct LI points, pipelines have run down in some and power supply has been disconnected in others, due to non-payment of electricity bill.

Sans bridge, villagers risk lives while crossing Gadapur river

However, it seems that all efforts have failed to connect villages like Rajkhama in the Garadama panchayat, 70km from Mohana block in Gajapati district. During the monsoons, the life of people in Rajkhama remains confined to the village only as they fail to go out as rivers and creeks are in full flow.

In case of emergency, people of seven villages have no way but to cross Gadapur river by clutching a wire they have tied to trees on both the banks of the river. Absence of a bridge and roads across a river is their major problem, they lamented.

A total of 35 families live at Rajkhama village. The other villages that have been suffering from commuting woes are Betaganda, Kuruma, Kutipadar, Gurupanga and Panisadhai. Most of these villages lack even the basic facilities and clean and hygienic drinking water remains a dream for them.

Locals say, a road had been laid till the Rajkhama village after repeated complaints from its resident. However, the road was washed away by recent floods. The villagers have been demanding for the construction of a bridge on the river for years. However, all their appeals seem to be falling on deaf ears as the authorities have not paid heed to their plight.

Thousands of villagers have to risk their lives while crossing the river to go to work or during medical emergencies.

"We have to wade through waist-deep water to cross the river which does not have a bridge over it for the commuters," they said. "Whenever a pregnant woman or patient needs to be hospitalised, the person is forced to cross the river clinging on to the rope," they added.

Locals say, they have urged the local leaders, the administration and the even ministers about the need for bridge, but no step has been taken till date. They said the situation is precarious for children to cross the river during the monsoons. So they stay away from schools.

Many people have expressed their displeasure over the lack of development in the region. They said, they would boycott the coming panchayat elections unless their demands are fulfilled.

Yogi releases report card

AGENCIES

Lucknow, Sept 19: Asserting that Uttar Pradesh has undergone a complete transformation under his government, Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath said Sunday that there have been no riots since 2017, strict action has been taken against the mafia and the state is in the frontline of implementing welfare schemes, ensuring the ease of doing business and fighting the Covid-19 pandemic.

Making public his government's report card months before facing the assembly polls, the chief minister also hit out at the opposition, saying they were busy building their houses when they were in power, indulged in corruption and nepotism, caused suffering to the sugarcane farmers and used to see centres of faith like Ayodhya from a communal point of view.

"In the 2022 Assembly elections, BJP will cross 350 seats (out of 403 seats), and there should be no doubt on this," the Chief Minister said at a press conference and stressed that his government has fulfilled every promise mentioned in the Lok Kalyan Sankalp Patra in 2017. "The opposition should read it. Had the opposition attended our training camps, they would have learnt something, and would have got wisdom," he remarked.

Uttar Pradesh is now number one in implementing 44 central schemes be it the PM Awas Yojna or construction of toilets in the households and its image is no longer liked with riots and lawlessness due to effective and transparent governance, Adityanath said. "Unlike them (previous governments), we did not make luxurious houses for ourselves. Our government focused on building houses for the poor," he said, taking a veiled dig at his predecessor

Report card is full of lies: Oppn

Poverty, unemployment and inflation have soared in the four-and-half-year rule of the BJP in Uttar Pradesh and the report card released by the government highlighting its achievements is all gas and full of lies, the opposition parties charged Sunday. The Samajwadi Party said, "The 16 page booklet published by the BJP government is 16 aane (hundred per cent) lies." The Bahujan Samaj Party said the advertisement of transformation of four-and-half years is "all gas and far from reality". Dismissing the claims as "rhetoric", SP chief Akhilesh Yadav tweeted, "Six months are left for this government, which has committed atrocities on farmers, poor, women and the youth through unemployment, inflation, hatred and slump in business." Attacking the BJP government, Rashtriya Kisan Manch president Shekhar Dixit said, "Four years ago, a promise was made that the sugarcane price will be paid to the farmers in 14 days. But this was conveniently forgotten, and till date, no statement from the government came on this. Corruption is rampant at the wheat and paddy purchase centres in the state."

Akhilesh Yadav.

"Government bungalows were demolished, and there was a competition to build houses for themselves as well as huge 'havelis' (mansions). But the four-and-half years were dedicated to good governance. And we did not build houses for ourselves, but for 42 lakh poor people of the state," he said. He said criminals were firmly dealt with irrespective of their caste, religion and social status to provide a safe and secure environment in the state. He also claimed the government displayed sensitivity at every level. Facing criticism over the handling of the Covid-19 pandemic, the chief minister pointed out that the state has the highest number of tests and vaccinations and is among those with the lowest positivity rates.

"After retirement, doctors open their private clinics, but it will be better that they give their services to us. Keeping this in view, we have prepared the proposal. Yogi Adityanath has also given his consent on this and soon it will be approved by the cabinet," he said.

The minister further said, "The Yogi Adityanath government has fulfilled every promise of the Lok Sankalp Patra so far in its tenure. Under the leadership of Yogi Adityanath, we have done those things which were difficult for the SP and BSP to even imagine. Right now, the situation in the other states is very bad regarding Corona, but today in UP, there are more than 35 such districts, which have become free from Corona."

"Even in the matter of vaccination, we have left the rest of the states far behind. Today, more than 50 per cent of the population in UP has taken the first dose of the vaccine. The number of medical colleges opened by this government has not been opened in any previous government," he added.

BJP breaks silence on Babul Supriyo joining TMC

AGENCIES

New Delhi, Sept 19: A day after former union minister Babul Supriyo joined Trinamool Congress (TMC), the BJP West Bengal unit claimed that it has no impact on the saffron party.

In the last few months, four BJP MLAs including Mukul Roy have joined the Trinamool. The saffron party believes that the Supriyo and other MLAs had no impact and presence at ground.

Supriyo, who was dropped from the Union Cabinet in July, joined the TMC Saturday

West Bengal BJP leaders termed Surpiyo an 'opportunist' who joined the party before 2014 Lok Sabha polls and left soon after being dropped from the union cabinet. Saffron party cadre in West Bengal believes he (Supriyo) was neither popular nor have influence among cadre.

BJP West Bengal president Dilip Ghosh said, "Supriyo lost his popularity among cadre and people in his Lok Sabha constituency Asansol. He was completely missing from his constituency for over eight months. He has lost his popularity in the state and that is one of the reasons behind Supriyo losing assembly polls five months ago."

Ghosh said that his only priority was to remain 'mantri' (minister) without working for people. "Soon after being dropped from the union cabinet, Babul announced to quit politics. Within two days he changed his mind and said he will remain an MP to serve the people of Asansol. Yesterday, he joined TMC. His only agenda is to get a position not service," Ghosh said. Supriyo, who was dropped from the union cabinet in July, Saturday joined the TMC. In a Facebook post in July, Supriyo had announced that he has decided to quit politics.

'No clinical trials of Covid jab on transgenders'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Kolkata, Sept 19: A sizeable number of transgenders in West Bengal are yet to get the Covid-19 jab, the primary reasons being fear and mistrust among them about its impact owing to lack of clinical trial on them till date, experts said.

Transgenders undergo several surgeries as well as hormonal treatments and there has been no trial so far to see whether Covid-19 vaccines have any adverse impact due to it, they said.

Even threats of social boycott, taking away benefits of social schemes and of even stopping monthly rations could not force them to take the vaccine, several transgenders from across West Bengal said.

"A big chunk of the transgender community is yet to take the vaccine. This is because they are confused and have medical mistrust since no clinical trial was conducted," clinical trial specialist and pharmacologist Subhrojyoti Bhowmick said.

Since the transgenders undergo treatments like hormonal therapy, breast implant, vaginoplasty (construction or reconstruction of the vagina), mastectomy (removal of one or both breasts), a trial is necessary before they are administered the vaccine, he said.

Incidentally, a proposal to study the factors hindering COVID-19 inoculation and immunological response post-vaccination on 500 transgenders in the city by a team of doctors led by Bhowmick to the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR) was rejected.

West Bengal's total transgender population is nearly 30500. Sukanta Das alias Chorki, a transgender from Mullickpur at Baruipur in the southern fringes of the city, said that she is yet to take the vaccine.

"Tell me why should I get inoculated. There was no clinical trial conducted on any of us to find out whether it has any adverse effect on our body system. Many of us have to take regular medicines and I am one of them." Debi Acharya, another transgender in Malda town, said that though she was initially reluctant to take the vaccine, she understood the need of it after attending a few awareness programmes.

A few transgenders in the state's Murshidabad district as well as in the city said that they are being "threatened" by the administration to take the vaccine or face social boycott. They claimed that they had also been told that their monthly rations would be stopped if they do not take the vaccine.

All UP schools, colleges to have Aarogya Vatika

Aarogya Vatika is a special health corner where herbs and plants with high medicinal value will be planted in various city parks in different areas to make citizens aware about their health benefits

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Lucknow, Sept 19: All educational institutions in Uttar Pradesh will now have an Aarogya Vatika to make students aware of the importance of medicinal plants.

According to deputy chief minister, Dinesh Sharma, "Every household in our country has been using plants with medicinal properties since centuries. Some even worship them. Though these age-old customs and usage of these plants had been forgotten by many. After Covid, people understood their importance again and have started using them in their daily life. Our aim is to make the students understand this too and begin Aarogya Vatika initiative in every school."

R.A. Ram, scientist at the Central Institute for Subtropical Horticulture (CISH), said that the public could grow plants at home through kitchen gardens and terrace gardens and waste could be converted into compost.

Central Institute of Medicinal and Aromatic Plants (CIMAP) scientist Rajesh Verma said the patients who have been suffering from fever should consume 'Kalmegh' (green chiretta).

Similarly, those who are suffering from Ulcer or Sciatica can use Sarpagandha (Indian Snakeroot), which can be easily planted and grown at home. Consuming the plants with medicinal properties also benefits in controlling diabetes and obesity, he added.

Charanjit Singh Channi

AGENCIES

New Delhi, Sept 19: The BJP Sunday took a swipe at the Congress leader and Punjab-CM designate Charanjit Singh Channi citing reported allegations that he had sent an inappropriate text to an IAS officer in 2018.

BJP leader Amit Malviya, who is its IT department head, tweeted, "Congress's CM pick Charanjit Channi faces action in a 3-year-old MeToo case. He had allegedly sent an inappropriate text to a woman IAS officer in 2018. It was covered up but the case resurfaced when Punjab Women's Commission sent notice. Well done, Rahul." The issue had resurfaced in May this year when Punjab women panel chief threatened to go on a hunger strike if the state government failed to apprise her within a week of its stand on the "inappropriate text" message allegedly sent by Channi, who was then a minister in the Amarinder Singh government.

Punjab Women Commission chairperson Manisha Gulati had said she had written to the chief secretary seeking the government's action taken report.

Malviya also posted a story reported in May this year that said that outgoing Chief Minister Amarinder Singh's rivals within the party had accused him of "hounding" them with old cases.

Following the 2018 allegation, the Punjab Women Commission had taken suo motu cognisance of the matter and had sought the government's stand even then.

At that time, Punjab Chief Minister Amarinder Singh had asked Channi to tender an apology to the woman officer and had said he believed the matter has been "resolved" to her satisfaction.

Channi was elected the leader of the Congress Legislature Party in Punjab Sunday and will be the next chief minister, succeeding Amarinder Singh who resigned a day ago following a bitter power tussle in the state unit.

Outgoing Punjab Chief Minister Amarinder Singh Sunday greeted Charanjit Singh Channi, who is going to be the next Chief Minister of the state.

"My best wishes to Charanjit Singh Channi. I hope he's able to keep the border state of Punjab safe and protect our people from the growing security threat from across the border," said Amarinder Singh in a tweet. Senior Congress leader Amarinder Singh Saturday resigned from his post as the Chief Minister of Punjab after months of political tussle, saying he stepped down as he felt 'humiliated'.

At the same time, he said that the "future politics option is always there and I will use that option".

'BJP uses Taliban, Pak issues to garner votes'

AGENCIES

Jammu, Sept 19: Accusing the BJP of playing politics over the issues of Taliban, Afghanistan and Pakistan to garner votes, PDP president Mehbooba Mufti Sunday alleged that the seven-year-rule of the saffron party has brought misery to the people of the country and left Jammu and Kashmir "destroyed".

She claimed that it is not Hindus but the democracy and India which are in danger under the BJP rule, which has undone all the "good work" of the past 70 years of the Congress and started selling national resources and raising the prices of essentials to fill its coffers to "buy or intimidate" opposition legislators.

The former Chief Minister

taunted her critics and said the mere mention of Taliban or the party's vision of self-rule makes her "anti-national" and triggers debates and discussions even as the focus should have been the ongoing agitation of the farmers, inflation and other issues of public importance.

"Jammu and Kashmir is in trouble and so is the entire country...they say Hindus are in danger but they are not in danger and in fact it is India and the democracy which are in danger because of them (BJP)," Mehbooba said addressing a rally organised by the youth wing of her party here.

Mehbooba reached Jammu late Saturday after a five-day tour of Poonch and Rajouri districts, facing a small protest by a group of Rashtriya Bajrang Dal activists whose attempt to stop her cavalcade near Dogra chowk in the city was foiled by police.

Pump action guns to shoot down low-flying drones

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Sept 19: Security forces that guard vital installations, airports and even their own camps have been directed to use rubber bullets bearing pump action guns to neutralise low-flying drones till an appropriate technology is found to thwart such aerial attacks, official sources said.

Also, forces like the Border Security Force (BSF) have recently installed an improvised iron pole mounted light machine gun (LMG) observation post at some of its border deployments against Pakistan to take a 360 degrees aim and shoot down drones or unmanned aerial vehicles (UAVs) flying at a high altitude, they said.

A latest blueprint prepared by central security agencies to counter the emerging drone threat has been reviewed by PTI and it directs security forces to use PAGs (pump action guns) that are already available in their armoury for "neutralising any low-flying UAV".

Following the directive, the central forces deployed for internal security have begun allocating PAGs to their units vulnerable to drone threats, including those deployed for anti-Naxal operations.

"Till a complete technology solution is found for effectively checking and neutralising a drone attack, the security forces have been asked to use what is available with them, like the PAGs. "Those who do not have adequate numbers of these non-lethal weapons have been asked to procure them," a senior Union home ministry officer said. He said the security units deployed for counter-terrorist duties in Kashmir and those guarding airport boundaries have also been asked to provide these arms to their sentries deployed for observation and protection of the campus.

PM trimming his beard

Prime Minister Narendra Modi had confessed to a journalist once that his favourite subject in school was dramatics. Perhaps, this might explain his habit of throwing surprises. During the lockdown Modi sported long hair and an unusually long beard; perhaps he didn't opt for a barber following Covid protocol. But many said Modi wants to project the image of an ascetic by donning the look of a 'fakir' while others said he wants to project himself as the saintly nation-head who helped pave the way for the Ram Mandir — a "true Ram bhakt". Others linked it to a vow not to trim his beard until the pandemic is over. A few felt the PM is going in for a huge image makeover while others said he is setting himself up for something big — to turn himself into a demigod, much like Gandhi and Rabindranath Tagore. A few even compared Modi's looks to that of Shivaji Maharaj. But the PM has proved all of them wrong as he has slowly started trimming his long hair and a long beard. After his August 15 speech from the Ramparts of the Red Fort, the trimming journey has rather been faster. A close look of his latest video released by the PMO while reviewing Covid pandemic September 11 clearly showed his trimmed beard and hairs. With Covid threat receding and restrictions easing, it seems that the PM's barber is back. During the pandemic, the PM kept the company of only four people including his cook, a masseur and a PMO officer (not Principal Secretary).

A PM without a coterie

Modi is perhaps the only Prime Minister of Independent India who doesn't have a coterie or a close circuit around him. Even those who are around cannot claim that they can get things done. No person; be a Minister, bureaucrat, friend, an industrialist or a family member can claim he can get things done. Even those having access to him dare not take liberties. Those who had free access to him in his first stint are not even around him. The usual refrain in the past was "I have spoken to the PM... it will be done." This word is unheard in the Modi dispensation. It is not as if the country didn't see honest and competent Prime Ministers who worked for 18 hours a day. There were Prime Ministers like Lal Bahadur Shastri or Morarji Desai who had no baggage either. But they didn't have long tenures in power like Modi. More than seven years as PM, understanding Modi is still very complex. He has no family, hates to mingle with the media and didn't address a single press conference in seven years. Modi has established complete sway over the government, party and even the mother organization, RSS. After the death of Arun Jaitley in August 2019, he is neither compelled nor obliged to consult anybody either. Many think this government is run by two people

PM Modi and Home Minister Amit Shah. But they are sadly mistaken. Modi is his own master. If Rajnath Singh as Home Minister was clueless about many key appointments despite being the only member of the Cabinet Committee of Appointments (ACC), the Home Ministry isn't in the know of all key appointments either. This remains an exclusive domain of the DoPT under the PM.

Mumbai, Sept 19: A total of 2,185 idols of Lord Ganesh and Goddess Gauri were immersed till Sunday afternoon in various water bodies in Mumbai as curtains came down on the 10-day Ganpati festival held amid various restrictions imposed for the second year in a row in the wake of the Covid-19 pandemic, a civic official said.

No untoward incident was reported till now during the immersions, he said. The festival, which in normal times used to witness large gatherings and long queues on streets outside public mandals which host the celebrations, began September 10.

This year, the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC) set up artificial lakes at 173 locations in the city, as well as idol collection centres and mobile immersion sites at various places to avoid crowding in the wake of the pandemic, the BMC official said.

Israel arrests 2 prison escapees

Jerusalem: Israeli forces Sunday arrested the last two of six Palestinian prisoners who escaped a maximum-security Israeli prison two weeks ago, closing an intense, embarrassing episode that exposed deep security flaws in Israel and turned the fugitives into Palestinian heroes. The Israeli military said the two men surrendered in Jenin, their hometown in the occupied West Bank, after they were surrounded at a hideout that had been located with the help of "accurate intelligence." It said the men, along with two others who allegedly assisted them, were taken for questioning. Palestinian media reported that clashes erupted in Jenin when Israeli troops entered the city. But a spokesman for Israeli police, said the two escapees, Munadil Nafayat and Iham Kamamji, were arrested without resistance.

Volcano erupts on Spanish island

Madrid: A volcano on Spain's Atlantic Ocean island of La Palma erupted Sunday after a week-long buildup of seismic activity, prompting authorities to speed up evacuations for some 1,000 people. The Canary Islands Volcanology Institute reported the eruption on Cumbre Vieja, which last erupted in 1971. Huge plumes of black-and-white smoke shot out from a point in the volcanic ridge where scientists had been closely following the accumulation of molten lava below the surface. Tinges of red could be seen at the bottom of the black jets that shot rocks into the air. La Palma, with a population of 85,000, is one of eight islands in Spain's Canary Islands archipelago. At their nearest point to Africa, they are 100 km (60 miles) from Morocco.

Voters choose new HK electors

Hong Kong: Select Hong Kong residents voted for members of the Election Committee that will choose the city's leader in the first polls Sunday following reforms meant to ensure candidates with Beijing loyalty. The Election Committee will select 40 of 90 lawmakers in the city's legislature during elections in December, as well as elect the Hong Kong leader during polls in March next year. In May, the legislature amended Hong Kong's electoral laws to ensure that only "patriots" — people who are loyal to China and the semi-autonomous territory — will rule the city. The committee also was expanded to 1,500 members, from 1,200, and the number of direct voters for committee seats was reduced from about 246,000 to less than 8,000.

Aus defends scrapping of French submarine deal

MACRON TO TALK TO BIDEN AMID DIPLOMATIC CRISIS OVER SUBMARINES

AGENCIES

Canberra, Sept 19: France would have known Australia had "deep and grave concerns" that a submarine fleet the French were building would not meet Australian needs, Prime Minister Scott Morrison said Sunday after the contract's cancellation set off a diplomatic crisis.

France accused Australia of concealing its intentions to back out of the 90 billion Australian dollar (USD 66 billion) contract for French majority state-owned Naval Group to build 12 conventional diesel-electric submarines.

President Joe Biden revealed last week a new alliance including Australia and Britain that would deliver an Australian fleet of at least eight nuclear-powered submarines.

Morrison blamed the switch on a deteriorating strategic environment in the Indo-Pacific. He has not specifically referred to China's massive military buildup, which has gained pace in recent years.

"The capability that the Attack class submarines were going to provide was not what Australia needed to protect our sovereign interests," Morrison said.

"They would have had every reason to know that we have deep and grave concerns that the capability being delivered by the Attack class submarine was not going to meet our strategic interests and we have made very clear that we would be making a decision based on our strategic national interest," he added, referring to the French government.

France responded to the contract cancellation, which Morrison has said will cost his government at least USD 1.7 billion, by recalling its ambassadors from Australia and the United States.

French Foreign Minister Jean-Yves Le Drian Saturday denounced what he called the "duplicitous, disdain and lies" surrounding the sudden end of the contract and said France was now questioning the strength of the alliance.

Meanwhile, French President Emmanuel Macron will speak in the coming days with President Joe Biden in what will be their first contact since a major diplomatic crisis erupted between France and the United States over a submarine deal with Australia, an official said Sunday.

The phone call is at the request of Biden, government spokesman Gabriel Attal said, adding that there was "shock" and "anger" at first. But now it's time to try to move forward, he said.

Gunmen kill cop protecting polio team in Pakistan

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Peshawar, Sept 19: Gunmen on a motorcycle Sunday shot dead a police constable guarding polio vaccination workers in rural northwest Pakistan, police said.

Senior officer Khalid Suhail said the attack happened in the village of Dhal Behzadi about 75 kilometers (47 miles) south of Peshawar, the capital of Khyber Pakhtunkhwa province. Members of the vaccination team were unhurt, he said. No one immediately claimed responsibility for the assault.

The attack came on the third day of a five-day polio vaccination drive across the province. It's part of a nationwide programme to eradicate the crippling disease by the end of 2021. So far this year, no new polio cases have been reported in Pakistan.

Pakistan and neighbouring Afghanistan are the only two remaining countries in the world where polio is endemic, after Nigeria last year was declared free of the virus. Aimal Khan, provincial spokesman for the anti-polio programme, said the goal of the five-day drive is to vaccinate 6.24 million children up to age 5 across the province. Nearly 30,340 teams of trained workers were going home to home to administer the vaccines, he said.

Pro-Putin party poised to win Russian election

REUTERS

Moscow, Sept 19: Russians voted Sunday in the final stretch of a three-day parliamentary election that the ruling party is expected to win after a sweeping crackdown that crushed Kremlin critic Alexei Navalny's movement and barred opponents from running. The expected win by the ruling United Russia party will be used by the Kremlin as proof of support for President Vladimir Putin despite malaise over years of faltering living standards.

The party that backs the 68-year-old leader faces a ratings slump, state pollsters say, but remains more popular than its closest rivals on the ballot, the Communist Party and nationalist LDPR party, which often back the Kremlin.

United Russia holds nearly three quarters of the State Duma's 450 seats. That dominance last year helped the Kremlin pass constitutional reforms that allow Putin to run for two more terms as president after 2024, potentially staying in power until 2036. "If United Russia manages (to win), our country can expect another five years of poverty, five years of repressions, five lost years," ran a message to supporters on Navalny's blog this week.

Navalny's allies were barred from running after his movement was banned in June as an extremist. Other opposition figures allege they were targeted with dirty tricks campaigns.

A Communist strawberry tycoon says he was unfairly barred, while a liberal opposition politician in St Petersburg says two identically-named "spoiler" candidates are running against him to confuse his voters.

The Kremlin denies a politically-driven crackdown and says individuals are prosecuted for breaking the law. Both it and United Russia deny any role in the registration process for candidates.

Navalny's camp is promoting a tactical voting ploy against the ruling party that amounts to supporting the candidate most likely to defeat United Russia in a given electoral district. Authorities have attempted to block the initiative online. "One day we will live in a Russia where it will be possible to vote for good candidates with different political platforms," Navalny ally Leonid Volkov wrote on Telegram messenger.

"And Navalny's party will vie for a seat in parliament in fair and competitive elections. But for now, 'smart voting' is voting for Navalny."

Since voting began on Friday, Google, Apple and Telegram messenger have limited some access to the tactical voting campaign, leading activists to accuse them of caving to pressure from the government. Apple and Google have not responded to the allegation. The Central Election Commission reported voter turnout at 35.7% as of 10:00 am Moscow time Sunday.

In Moscow, the tactical voting campaign spearheaded by Navalny — who is serving two-and-a-half years in prison for alleged parole violations — has recommended his supporters vote for politicians like the Communist Party's Mikhail Lobanov.

"People see the glaring inequalities, they feel the effects of economic policy and the swell of repression and respond with dissatisfaction accordingly," Lobanov said.

Taliban-run Kabul municipality to female workers: Stay home

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kabul, Sept 19: Female employees in the Kabul city government have been told to stay home, with work only allowed for those who cannot be replaced by men, the interim mayor of Afghanistan's capital said Sunday, detailing the latest restrictions on women by the new Taliban rulers.

The decision to prevent most female city workers from returning to their jobs is another sign that the Taliban, who overran Kabul last month, are enforcing their harsh interpretation of Islam despite initial promises by some that they would be tolerant and inclusive. In their previous rule in the 1990s, the Taliban had barred girls and women from schools, jobs and public life.

In recent days, the new Taliban government issued several decrees rolling back the rights of girls and women. It told female middle- and high school students that they could not return to school for the time being, while boys in those grades resumed studies this weekend. Female university students were informed that studies would take place in gender-segregated settings from now on, and that they must abide by a strict Islamic dress code. Under the U.S.-backed government deposed by the Taliban, university studies had been co-ed, for the most part.

Friday, the Taliban shut down the Women's Affairs Ministry, replacing it with a ministry for the "propagation of virtue and the prevention of vice" and tasked with enforcing Islamic law.

Sunday, just over a dozen women staged a protest outside the ministry, holding up signs calling for the participation of women in public life. "A society in which women are not active is (sic) dead society," one sign read.

World leaders return to UN with focus on Covid, climate

REUTERS

New York, Sept 19: World leaders are returning to the United Nations in New York this week with a focus on boosting efforts to fight both climate change and the COVID-19 pandemic, which last year forced them to send video statements for the annual gathering.

As the coronavirus still rages amid an inequitable vaccine rollout, about a third of the 193 UN states are planning to again send videos, but presidents, prime ministers and foreign ministers for the remainder are due to travel to the United States, reports Reuters.

The United States tried to dissuade leaders from coming to New York in a bid to stop the UN General Assembly from becoming a "super-spreader event," although President Joe Biden will address the assembly in person, his first UN visit since taking office. A so-called UN honour system means that anyone entering the assembly hall effectively declares they are vaccinated, but they do not have to show proof. This system will be broken when the first country speaks - Brazil. Brazilian President Jair Bolsonaro is a vaccine sceptic, who last week declared that he does not need the shot because he is already immune after being infected with COVID-19.

Should he change his mind, New York City has set up a van outside the United Nations for the week to supply free testing and free shots of the single-dose Johnson & Johnson vaccine.

UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres told Reuters that the discussions around how many travelling diplomats might have been immunised illustrated "how dramatic the inequality is today in relation to vaccination." He is pushing for a global plan to vaccinate 70 per cent of the world by the first half of next year. Out of 5.7 billion doses of coronavirus vaccines administered around the world, only 2 per cent have been in Africa. Biden will host a virtual meeting from Washington with leaders and chief executives on Wednesday that aims to boost the distribution of vaccines globally. Demonstrating US COVID-19 concerns about the UN gathering, Biden will be in New York only for about 24 hours, meeting with Guterres on Monday and making his first UN address on Tuesday, directly after Bolsonaro.

His UN envoy, Linda Thomas-Greenfield, said Biden would "speak to our top priorities: ending the COVID-19 pandemic; combating climate change ... and defending human rights, democracy, and the international rules-based order."

Due to the pandemic, UN delegations are restricted to much smaller numbers and most events on the sidelines will be virtual or a hybrid of virtual and in-person. Among other topics that ministers are expected to discuss during the week are Afghanistan and Iran.

Trailblazing tourist trip to orbit ends with splashdown

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cape Canaveral, Sept 19: Four space tourists safely ended their trailblazing trip to orbit Sunday with a splashdown in the Atlantic off the Florida coast.

Their SpaceX capsule parachuted into the ocean just before sunset, not far from where their chartered flight began three days earlier. The all-amateur crew was the first to circle the world without a professional astronaut. The billionaire who paid undisclosed millions for the trip and his three guests wanted to show that ordinary people could blast into orbit by themselves, and SpaceX founder Elon Musk took them on as the company's first rocket-riding tourists. "Your mission has shown the world that space is for all of us," SpaceX Mission Control radioed. "It was a heck of a ride for us ... Just getting started," replied trip sponsor Jared Isaacman, referring to more private flights on the horizon.

SpaceX's fully automated Dragon capsule reached an unusually high altitude of 585 kilometers after Wednesday night's liftoff. Surpassing the International Space Station by 160 kilometers, the passengers savoured views of Earth through a big bubble-shaped window added to the top of the capsule.

The four streaked back through the atmosphere early Saturday evening, the first space travellers to end their flight in the Atlantic since Apollo 9 in 1969. SpaceX's two previous crew splashdowns — carrying astronauts for NASA — were in the Gulf of Mexico. Within a few minutes, a pair of SpaceX boats pulled up alongside the bobbing capsule. It was hoisted on the recovery ship where the hatch was opened. The four were due to have medical checks before going to Kennedy Space Center by helicopter for a reunion with their families. This time, NASA was little more than an encouraging bystander; its only tie being the Kennedy launch pad once used for the Apollo moonshots and shuttle crews, but now leased by SpaceX. Isaacman, 38, an entrepreneur and accomplished pilot, aimed to raise USD 200 million for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. Donating USD 100 million himself, he held a lottery for one of the four seats. He also held a competition for clients of his Allentown, Pennsylvania payment-processing business, Shift4 Payments.

Joining him on the flight were Hayley Arceneaux, 29, a St. Jude physician assistant who was treated at the Memphis, Tennessee hospital nearly two decades ago for bone cancer, and contest winners Chris Sembroski, 42, a data engineer in Everett, Washington, and Sian Proctor, 51, a community college educator, scientist and artist from Tempe, Arizona. Strangers until March, they spent six months training and preparing for potential emergencies during the flight, dubbed Inspiration4. Most everything appeared to go well, leaving them time to chat with St. Jude patients, conduct medical tests on themselves, ring the closing bell for the New York Stock Exchange, and do some drawing and ukulele playing.

Arceneaux, the youngest American in space and the first with a prosthesis, assured her patients, "I was a little girl going through cancer treatment just like a lot of you, and if I can do this, you can do this."

Fuel prices stable amidst volatility

New Delhi: Auto fuel prices in the country have maintained stability amidst volatility in global oil prices with crude on the rise again. Vi CLAIMS TO RECORD PEAK 5G SPEED OF 3.7 GBPS

For 5G trials, Vi has been allocated high-frequency bands like 26 gigahertz by the Department of Telecommunications

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

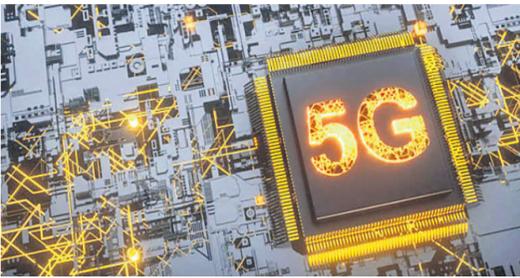

New Delhi, Sept 19: Debt-ridden telecom operator Vodafone Idea Sunday claimed to have recorded a peak speed of 3.7 gigabit per second (gbps), highest by any operator in India, during 5G trials in Pune.

The company also claimed to have recorded 1.5 gbps download speed in the mid-band spectrum in Gandhinagar and Pune.

In Pune city, Vi has deployed its 5G trial in a lab set-up of an end-to-end captive network of Cloud Core, new generation Transport and Radio Access Network.

In this trial, Vi has achieved a peak speed in excess of 3.7 Gbps with very low latency on the mmWave (millimetre wave) spectrum band, Vi said in the statement.

The DoT had approved applications of Reliance Jio, Bharti Airtel and Vodafone in May, and MTNL later. The permission has been granted for six-month trials with telecom gear makers Ericsson, Nokia, Samsung and C-DOT.

All the private players are providing 4G services across the country at present and gearing up for 5G. State-owned BSNL is yet to roll out 4G across India.

Vodafone Idea Chief Technology Officer Jagbir Singh said, "We are pleased with the speed and latency results in the initial stages of the 5G trials on the government allocated 5G spectrum bands."

He added that having established a robust 4G network across India, delivering the fastest 4G speeds and a 5G-ready network, Vi is now testing the next-gen 5G technology to be able to bring a truly digital experience for enterprises and consumers in India, in the future.

US trade official slams Mastercard ban

AGENCIES

Washington, Sept 19: A senior US trade official privately criticised India's July decision to ban Mastercard Inc from issuing new cards, calling it a "draconian" move that caused "panic", according to US government emails seen by agencies.

The documents show frustration within the US government after Reserve Bank of India (RBI) banned new card issuance by American Express and Diners Club International in April, then took similar action against Mastercard in July.

The RBI acted against Mastercard because it was found to be non-compliant with the 2018 rules. The bans do not affect existing customers.

The ban on Mastercard - a top payment network in India alongside Visa - triggered a flurry of emails between US officials in Washington and India as they discussed next steps with Mastercard, including approaching the RBI, the government emails show.

"We've started hearing from stakeholders about some pretty

Bankers eye to wrap up IDBI sale in a year

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Sept 19: Most of the merchant bankers who had submitted bids for facilitating strategic sale of LIC-controlled IDBI Bank indicated a time-frame of one year to complete the elaborate process, sources said.

During a presentation before the Department of Investment and Public Asset Management (DIPAM) held recently, most of the eligible transaction advisers gave a time-frame of 50-52 weeks to undertake several stages of the privatisation process of IDBI Bank, market sources said.

However, the government intends to complete the transaction during the current fiscal itself. Thus the merchant banker has to find a buyer in about 26 weeks or six months.

According to market sources, as many as seven bids - Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu India LLP, Ernst and Young LLP, ICICI Securities

The central government and LIC together own more than 94 per cent equity of IDBI Bank

Ltd, JM Financial Ltd, KPMG, RBSA Capital Advisors LLP and SBI Capital Markets Ltd - were received. The central government and LIC together own more than 94 per cent equity of IDBI Bank. LIC, currently having management control, has 49.24 per cent stake, while the government holds 45.48 per cent. Non-promoter shareholding stands at 5.29 per cent.

The transaction advisor would be required to advise and assist the government on modalities of disinvestment and the timing; recommend the need for other intermediaries required for the process of sale/disinvestment and also help in identification and selection of the same with proper Terms of Reference.

FESTIVE SEASON

Cos expecting big bang sales

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Sept 19: The consumer durable industry is expecting double-digit growth in the festive season sales this year, despite inflationary pressure on inputs that led to price hike twice in the year, shortage of components such as chipsets and a threat of a third wave of the pandemic.

The makers such as Panasonic and Godrej Appliances are expecting a pent-up demand and good growth in premium products across categories like large-screen TVs, front-load washing machines, and bigger capacity refrigerators.

The companies are keeping their supply chain and inventory ready for the festive season, which starts in the North and other parts from Dussehra and goes up to Diwali and usually accounts for up to 30 per cent of their sales in a month.

"We are seeing a steady rise in demand for value-proposition appliances such as smart 4K Android TVs, connected range of ACs (HU series), refrigerators, washing machines, microwaves and other lifestyle appliances," Panasonic India President and CEO Manish Sharma told PTI.

He further added that due to the return of demand, the company has seen a growth of 25 per cent in August 2021 as against last year. We are hoping to maintain the growth momentum through festive season to make up for losses due to the pandemic.

Godrej Appliances Business Head and Executive Vice-President Kamal Nandi said that despite concerns around the third Covid-19 wave, double vaccination should help in driving positive consumer sentiment.

"Festive season usually contributes 30 per cent of annual sales for us. We are seeing encouraging signs of demand revival and are targeting a double-digit growth rate of 20 per cent plus during festive," he said.

Implementation of Labour codes unlikely this fiscal

Under the new wages code, allowances are capped at 50 per cent. This means half of the gross pay of an employee would be basic wages

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Sept 19: The four labour codes are unlikely to be implemented this fiscal in view of slow progress on the drafting of rules by the states and also for political reasons like elections in Uttar Pradesh, a source said.

The implementation of these laws assumes significance because once these are implemented there would be reduction in take-home pay of employees and firms have to bear higher provident fund liability.

"The Ministry of Labour is ready with the rules under the four labour codes. But the states have been slow in drafting and finalising those under new codes. Besides, the government is not keen to implement the four codes due to political reasons, which are mainly elections in Uttar Pradesh (due in February 2022 onwards)," the source said.

The four codes have been passed by Parliament. But for implementation of these codes, rules under these must be notified by central as well as state governments for enforcing those in respective jurisdictions.

Once the wages code comes into force, there will be significant changes in the way basic pay and provident fund of employees are calculated. Provident fund contribution is calculated as a percentage of basic wage, which includes basic pay and dearness allowance.

Labour is a concurrent subject under the Constitution of India and therefore both the Centre and states have to notify rules under these four codes to make them the laws of the land in their respective jurisdictions.

According to the source, some states have worked on draft rules on four labour codes. These states are Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, Madhya Pradesh, Haryana, Odisha, Punjab, Gujarat, Karnataka and Uttarakhand.

Besides, the new industrial relation code would also improve ease of doing business by allowing firms with up to 300 workers to go ahead for lay-offs, retrenchment and closure without government permission.

At present all firms with up to 100 employees are exempted from government permission for lay-off, retrenchment and closure.

Most FDI proposals from nations sharing border with India

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Sept 19: The government has received maximum foreign direct investment (FDI) proposals in three departments - electronics and IT, industry and internal trade, and heavy industries - from countries sharing land border with India, an official said.

In April 2020, the government had made its prior approval mandatory for foreign investments from countries that share land border with India to curb opportunistic takeovers of domestic firms following the Covid-19 pandemic.

Countries which share land borders with India are China, Bangladesh, Pakistan, Bhutan, Nepal, Myanmar and Afghanistan. As per that decision, FDI proposals from these countries need government approval for investments in India in any sector.

Besides electronics and IT, industry and internal trade, and heavy industries, the ministry of new and renewable energy and department of pharmaceuticals have also received several proposals

The major sectors under which these FDI proposals mainly came included manufacturing of heavy machinery; automobile, auto components; computer software and hardware; e-commerce, and manufacturing of light engineering and electrical, the official said.

Further, pending FDI proposals received under this decision up to June 15 this year in the Ministry of Electronics and IT; Department for Promotion of Industry and Internal Trade (DPIIT); and Ministry of Heavy Industries are over 40.

Most of the foreign investment proposals have come from China and Hong Kong. Besides, Nepal, Bhutan and Bangladesh too have submitted certain applications.

In April this year, the Department for Promotion of Industry and Internal Trade (DPIIT) came out with a press note stating that a company or an individual from a country that shares land border with India can invest in any sector here only after getting government approval.

BOOSTING TOURISM Foreigners may be allowed to visit soon

THE DECISION IS BEING TAKEN IN VIEW OF THE DECLINING NUMBER OF COVID-19 CASES IN THE COUNTRY

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Sept 19: Amid a decline in Covid cases in the country, India may soon reopen its doors for foreign tourists for the first time in one-and-a-half years, officials said. Since March 2020 when a nationwide lockdown was announced, hospitality and aviation sectors were badly hit by the Covid-19 pandemic.

Top Union Home Ministry officials are deliberating with all stakeholders on the expected date and modalities for opening up of the country for foreign tourists. A formal announcement allowing foreign tourists to visit India may come within the next 10 days, an official from the Home Ministry said.

The decision is being taken in view of the declining number of Covid-19 cases in the country. Sunday, 30,773 new cases were reported while active cases had come down to 3.32 lakh. India's Covid-19 vaccination coverage has also crossed 80 crore as Saturday.

The free visa to the tourists will be issued till March 31, 2022 or the issuance of five lakh visa, whichever is earlier. The total financial implication for this would be Rs 100 crore. The free visa move is expected to incentivise short-term tourists visiting India, the official said.

The cost for a month-long e-tourist visa is country specific but is around USD 25. A year-long multiple entry e-tourists visa charge is around USD 40. The e-tourist visa has been suspended since March 2020. The Home Ministry officials said they are still deliberating whether the entry of foreign tourists will be allowed with certain conditions like limiting it to only vaccinated travellers for now and hav-

RUTURAJ HOLDS BATTING UNIT TOGETHER BEFORE CSK BOWLERS COME TO THE PARTY

AGENCIES

Dubai, Sept 19: Ruturaj Gaikwad's (88 n o, 58b, 9x4, 4x6) fantastic innings backed up by some steady bowling enabled Chennai Super Kings (CSK) win the opening game of the second phase of IPL-2021 against Mumbai Indians (MI) at the Dubai Cricket Stadium here Sunday. Batting first after winning the toss, CSK posted 156 for six in their 20 overs and then restricted the defending champions to 136 for eight to win the game by 20 runs.

If Gaikwad shone with the bat, it was the veteran Dwayne Bravo (3/25) who stifled MI with the ball. He was well-supported by pacer Deepak Chahar (2/19) who bowled an incisive opening spell to put MI on the back-foot. He picked up both the MI openers, Quinton de Kock (17) and Anmolpreet Singh (16) to keep the Kings in the game.

Only Saurabh Tiwary (50, 40b, 5x4) offered some resistance with the bat for MI who were without skipper Rohit Sharma. The rest just failed to conjure up a good knock that would have helped team over the finish line.

Rohit was rested for the game due to a knee niggle he had sustained during the recent England tour. MI head coach Mahela Jayawardene said Rohit was kept out of the game as a precautionary measure. "Rohit had something going in last Test (Oval), so we thought a couple of days of extra precaution," he said. Earlier it not been for Gaikwad, it is doubtful whether the Kings would have crossed the three-figure mark. They were rocked early on

KOHLI GIVES UP RCB'S HOT SEAT

BATSMAN SAYS HE WILL CONTINUE AS A PLAYER FOR THE TEAM

New Delhi, Sept 19: After announcing his decision to quit captaincy of the T20 national side, Virat Kohli said Sunday that this is the last edition of the IPL in which he will be leading Royal Challengers Bangalore (RCB). RCB tweeted a video of Kohli on the issue. "This will be my last IPL as captain of RCB. I will continue to be a RCB player till I play my last IPL game. I thank all the RCB fans for believing me and supporting me," Kohli said in the video.

"I have had discussions with the team management on this issue today (Sunday) evening. We had been talking on this issue for the last few days. I had also been contemplating such a decision for the last few days. It has been a great and an inspiring journey, captaining a talented bunch of players in the RCB squad. I would like to take this opportunity to thank the RCB management, coaches, support staff, players, and the entire RCB family, who have been instrumental in the growth of the franchise over the years," Kohli added.

It should be stated here that Kohli, only a few days back, had said that the T20 World Cup will be his last assignment as captain of the national side in the shortest format of the game. He had then said that he took the decision to quit captaincy in the T20 format to keep him fresh and mentally fit. He had also said that he would like to concentrate on his batting and that is one of main reasons why he decided to quit captaincy in the shortest format of the game.

Kohli also said, it wasn't an easy decision for him to quit as RCB skipper. "It wasn't an easy decision but one that has been well thought of and in the best interest of this wonderful franchise," he said.

Kohli of late hasn't been at his peak as a batsman in the format which he adores. For close to two years now, Kohli hasn't scored a century in the longest format century and has scored 563 runs at 26.80 in 12 Tests during this period. While announcing his decision to quit national T20 captaincy, he had stated that he was taking the step to manage his workload better and improve his batting.

Knights hoping for change in fortunes

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Abu Dhabi, Sept 19: Two-time champions Kolkata Knight Riders (KKR) had a forgettable outing in the first phase of IPL-2021. They managed only two wins in the seven games they played before the event was suspended due to the outbreak of Covid-19. exuded optimism about scripting a turnaround, despite a night-marish first half. "All we have to do is win this... We have done it before and so we can do it again... I feel we have the squad to do it. You qualify for the finals and whole competition starts again," the Australian said in a virtual press conference Sunday.

Hussey also pinned his hopes on the opening pair of Subman Gill and Nitin Rana to deliver. The two however, had a poor first phase. Gill scored just 132 runs while Rana managed 201 runs in the first seven games for KKR.

However, Hussey praised the duo, calling them the 'next generation of Indian players'. "They both are quality players, they are determined to do very well for the team and for themselves," Hussey said. "I think they are about to shock the world that they are the next generation of Indian players, not just for one or two series but for perhaps a decade, so if they get going look out for them in the IPL," the Australian added.

However, not just the two, but the likes of skipper Eoin Morgan, Dinesh Karthik and Andre Russell will have to come good with the bat, if KKR are to make an impression.

RCB, on the other hand, are currently in third position in the points table and would be hoping for Kohli to play freely and score big runs. With Glenn Maxwell (223 runs from seven games) and AB de Villiers (207 runs) leading the run scorers chart till now for the team, RCB's batting unit looks ominous.
