₹50k for kin of Covid victims

The Centre however has told the apex court that the responsibility will be on the states to provide the compensation from their own disaster funds

AGENCIES

New Delhi, Sept 22: The families of those who die of Covid-19 will get an ex-gratia of ₹50,000, the Centre told the Supreme Court here Wednesday. It said that the National Disaster Management Authority (NDMA) has recommended the amount.

Significantly, compensation will be paid against not only for deaths that have already occurred but for future ones, too, the court was informed.

The Centre also told the apex court that the ex-gratia assistance will also be given to the kin of those who died of the virus due to involvement in Covid-19 relief operations or activities associated with the preparedness for dealing with the pandemic.

The ex-gratia will be paid by the respective state governments, sourced from their respective disaster response funds, and will be channelled through the district disaster management authority or the district administrations, the government said in an affidavit filed before with the Supreme Court. Since the pandemic broke out in January 2020, India till now has registered over 4.45 lakh Covid-related deaths.

"The ex-gratia assistance... will continue to be provided for deaths that may occur in the future phases of the Covid-19 pandemic as well, or until further notification," the affidavit by the Centre said.

"Compensation will be given to families of even those deceased who were involved in Covid-19 relief operations or associated in activities related to prevent the spread of Covid-19 and preparedness activities. The cause of death needs to be certified as Covid-19 in accordance with Health Ministry guidelines," it added.

The concerned families will submit their claims through a form issued by the state authorities along with specified documents, including those certifying the cause of death.

"All claims must be settled within 30 days of submission of the required documents, and disbursed through the Aadhaar-linked direct benefit transfer procedures," the Centre's affidavit said.

"In case the decision of the committee is not in favour of the claimant, a clear reason for the same shall be recorded," the affidavit further stated.

A bench headed by Justice SK Kaul said the Armed Forces are the best response team to deal with any emergency and it is hopeful that necessary arrangements will be put in place to pave the way for the induction of women in NDA without delay. MORE P9

Pradhan seeks Jagan's assistance

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Sept 22: Union Minister Dharmendra Pradhan has sought the intervention of Chief Minister YS Jagan Mohan Reddy for amicable resolution of border disputes over villages between Odisha and Andhra Pradesh. The minister termed the entire development as 'unfortunate' and said that the skirmishes, which started in 20-odd villages under Kotia gram panchayat in Pottangi block of Koraput district, have now spread to other bordering villages in Gajapati district.

"Such disputes pose a threat both to the security as well as developmental aspirations of villagers staying in border villages of Odisha and Andhra Pradesh," Pradhan said in his letter.

Pradhan requested both the AP chief minister and his Odisha counterpart to withdraw armed police forces in the disputed villages and also cases registered against local representatives and government officials of both states.

"There is a need for building an enabling environment to facilitate talks between the States in view of the flared-up situation on ground," he suggested. "Then only an amicable solution is possible," Pradhan added.

BMC to rectify 75 weak points

2 days after the death of the 15-year-old student, the municipal body wakes up and promises action

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Sept 22: The Bhubaneswar Municipal Corporation (BMC) said Wednesday that it has identified 75 vulnerable waterlogging spots in the state capital. This disclosure came two days after an open storm water drain claimed Monday the life of 15-year-old student Jyoti Prakash Behera.

Speaking on the issue, BMC Commissioner Sanjay Kumar Singh said that the municipal body is trying to rectify the vulnerable points. He however, blamed construction violations due to which these 75 points have been exposed. He also added that at present it will not be able to repair all the weak points, so BMC will press into service as many pumps required to clear places affected due to waterlogging.

leading to severe waterlogging this monsoon.

Residents of the 'smart' city however, have alleged that such claims are made every year but precious little is done. The Odisha capital has now witnessed seven deaths including those of three minors since 2015 due to open drains.

It should be mentioned here that the government in June this year had issued a mandatory checklist to all ULBs directing them to install signages or cover open drains to avoid mishaps. Locals alleged that the BMC ignored their pleas of constructing a permanent drain at the site where the boy slipped and met his watery grave, Sunday.

Singh while admitting that BMC regretted the loss of life, said that measures will be put in place to avoid such accidents in future. "Natural drains cannot be concretised or covered with slabs because of Supreme Court and NGT guidelines. However, such incidents are regretful and will not be repeated. We have decided to expand drainage channels 7 and 10 on a priority basis to prevent waterlogging in New Forest Park and Bairagi Nagar areas," Singh said.

"The main cause behind increase in waterlogging spots is due to violation of construction guidelines, encroachment on drains and the land around those and destruction of recharge points. The entire drainage system will be redesigned and revamped to make it more robust. This will be implemented as quickly as possible so that in future we will be able to deal with heavy rainfall," Singh informed.

It should however, be stated here that the Odisha government had earlier sanctioned ₹750 crore for widening, covering, and cleaning of drains in the city. However, the civic body could de-silt only 383km of its 625km of drainage system ority basis to prevent waterlogging in New Forest Park and Bairagi Nagar areas," Singh said.

Meanwhile, the Odisha Assembly House Committee, after taking a serious note of the death of the minor boy decided to hold a meeting with top civic officials of Bhubaneswar and Cuttack over the issue. "The committee has taken serious cognizance of the incident. A decision has been taken to hold discussions with commissioners of both the BMC and Cuttack Municipal Corporation, chief engineers of drainage division and other authorities October 5," MLA Mohammed Moquim, a member of the panel said.

Covid-19 hits IPL again, event to continue

BCCI had suspended the tourney in May when a number of players had tested positive. This time however, it is not ready to incur huge losses due to another suspension

AGENCIES

Dubai, Sept 22: Sunrisers Hyderabad (SRH) pacer T Natarajan has tested positive for Covid-19, but even then the team's IPL game against Delhi Capitals will go ahead Wednesday as scheduled, the BCCI said. Six persons, who had come in close contact with Natarajan, have also put in isolation including India all-rounder Vijay Shankar.

The decision of the BCCI to go ahead with the event is not surprising. The BCCI earns approximately ₹67 crore from television rights of each IPL match. A second suspension may well lead to the cancellation of the tournament as no more windows are available this year. It means a loss of approximately ₹2,000 crore for the BCCI and the franchises. It should be stated here that last season, amid crowd-less stadiums at the UAE, the BCCI had earned revenues of over ₹4,000 crore from TV rights of the tournament.

The income generated from the event is transferred to the BCCI's central pool. Then the entire amount is shared between the eight franchises and the BCCI. The cancellation of IPL-2021 at this stage would mean the franchises losing out on sharing of approximately ₹2,000 crore. Also each franchise has individual sponsors. Not having a game means losing out also on sponsorship money.

If the tournament is cancelled the BCCI will lose approximately ₹2,000 crore in TV rights
 Each franchise will lose out on individual sponsorships amounts if they don't play
 This is the 2nd time Covid-19 has hit the Hyderabad side

The 2021 edition of the IPL was suspended May 4, after a number of players like Wriddhiman Saha (SRH), Varun Chakravarthy (KKR) and L Balaji (CSK, bowling coach) had tested positive for Covid-19. However, even then while announcing the decision to suspend the tournament, the BCCI and the IPL governing council had said that they would try and conduct the remaining part of the tournament later in the year. Hence the tournament was again shifted to the UAE.

"Sunrisers Hyderabad player T Natarajan tested positive for Covid-19 at a scheduled RT-PCR test. The player has isolated himself from the rest of the squad. He is currently asymptomatic," a BCCI release stated. "The rest of the contingent including the close contacts underwent RT-PCR tests at 5.00am local time this (Wednesday) morning and the test reports are negative. "As a result, tonight's (Wednesday's) game between Sunrisers Hyderabad and Delhi Capitals will go ahead at the Dubai International Stadium," it further stated.

As per the IPL's standard operating procedure, Natarajan will now have to isolate for 10 days and test negative twice before being allowed back into the bubble.

Grammy nominees to be unveiled Nov 22

New York: The 2022 Grammy nominations will be announced November 22, the Recording Academy announced. The unveiling takes place just two days before Thanksgiving, as they were last year, reports variety.com.

This year's roster could be significantly different from ones in recent years, as the Academy has eliminated the 'secret' nominating committees of artists, creators and industry experts that curated the final lists over the past couple of decades.

Now, the final nominees ostensibly will be chosen by the broader Grammy voting body. The move and a subsequent overhaul of the Academy's awards team was made after last year's controversial nominations, which inexplicably saw the Weeknd, who'd had one of the most successful albums of the year and, with Blinding Lights, one of the most successful singles of the 2000s, receiving no nominations whatsoever.

The 2022 awards will have a 13-month eligibility period, due to industry delays caused by the pandemic. Earlier this week, Variety also confirmed that the Academy is pausing two honorary awards programmes, the Grammy Hall of Fame and its special merit awards, for one year. The former is being delayed to revise its process and the Academy plans to relaunch it next year; the latter is being delayed because last year's ho-nourees have not yet been properly acknowledged.

The Grammy Awards return to Los Angeles' Staples Center January 31, 2022, and will broadcast live on the CBS Television Network and stream live and on demand on Paramount+.

ILLEGAL MINING IN KEONJHAR

NGT seeks status report on land reclamation

POST NEWS NETWORK

New Delhi, Sept 22: The National Green Tribunal (NGT) has asked the Keonjhar administration to submit an affidavit mentioning the status of rehabilitation and reclamation of the areas affected by illegal mining in the district.

A bench of judicial member B Amit Sthalekar and expert member Saibal Dasgupta granted three weeks time to the state government to file a comprehensive affidavit stating the condition of the areas affected by illegal mining in Ghasipura tehsil of Keonjhar and the recovery of compensation.

The tribunal noted that the Keonjhar Collector was simply dragging his feet in the matter of identification of the wrongdoers and recovery of environmental compensation from them.

The green body observed that the joint inspection, conducted by the Central Pollution Control Board, Kolkata, Odisha State Pollution Control Board, district mining officer and the divisional commissioner in December 2019, had estimated environmental compensation of ₹7.3 crore to be recovered from the wrongdoers.

"But even after two years of the inspection nothing has happened with regard to the recovery of this amount from the wrongdoers," the tribunal observed.

During the hearing, the state government's counsel submitted that illegal mining was going on for almost 20 years in Keonjhar and identification of the illegal miners is a time-taking process.

An affidavit filed by the assistant conservator of forests (ACF) of Keonjhar district mentioned that forest conservation and reclamation were being carried out in Madanpur mouza of Ghasipura tehsil, the bench noted.

However, petitioner's counsel Sankar Prasad Pani submitted that nothing has been placed on record before the tribunal to show whether rehabilitation and reclamation of the land has been done in Keonjhar district.

Stir halts public hearing for bauxite mining at Mali Hills

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Koraput, Sept 22: The Koraput district administration Wednesday stopped the first public hearing for operation of bauxite mines at Mali Hills in the wake of protests by local people and a section of environmentalists, an official said.

The protestors broke chairs and the tent erected for holding the meeting at Kankada Amba under Semiliguda police station, according to eyewitnesses.

Public hearing is mandatory as per the law before going ahead with the mining operation in areas inhabited by tribal people. Bauxite mining at Mali Hills, a sacred place for the local tribal population, was awarded to Hindalco.

The district administration with help of the Odisha State Pollution Control Board (OSPCB) had organised the public hearing to obtain environment clearance for annual mining of 0.6 MT of bauxite at Mali Hills spread over 268.11 hectares of land across Aligaon, Sorispadar and Kankada Amba village under two tehsils of Pottangi and Semiliguda.

"Villagers created ruckus at the public hearing for which it couldn't be completed. The district administration will decide on the future course of action," OSPCB regional officer P K Kar said.

Officials of the district administration and Hindalco refused to comment on the matter.

Bauxite mining at Mali Hills to develop aluminium was awarded to Hindalco in 2005. However, the company was forced to stop operations due to opposition by local villagers who started protesting under the aegis of Mali Parvat Surakhya Samiti (MPSS).

"We don't want to destroy our Mali Hills. We worship Mali Hills and will not allow mining there at any cost," MPSS member Dasi Nandibali said.

He claimed that over 36 water sources will get dry and farmland of more than 40 villages of Semiliguda block will be affected if mining operations start at Mali Hills.

Efforts to extract bauxite from nearby Niyamgiri Hills were stopped following protests by local people a few years ago.

In a letter to the state government, the WSO mentioned that the effort to closely monitor the jumbos is laudable. However, it said, the available radio collar technology may not deliver expected results as the initiatives like this by Chhattisgarh government have not been fruitful. The experts stated that out of seven collars fitted on the elephants, only one remained active since 2018.

Stating that a radio collar costs

Flood brings croc fear to Rajnagar

POST NEWS NETWORK

Rajnagar, Sept 22: As if being marooned in floodwater for seven days was not enough for the people of 13 villages under Rajnagar block in Kendrapara district, now crocodiles are being sighted in villages. The villagers are presently living in fear and apprehension.

The villagers of Belapala, Dandi, Chakibanka, Govindpur, Santhapada, Tanganatoila, Ostia, Nagad, Katakana, Naladia, Bandhapatana, Rajpur and Balichandrapur are these days facing a double whammy. They are struggling with the woes of waterlogging and living with the fear of crocodile attack.

With the flow of water in the Brahmani basin increasing, the water level in the flood-affected areas in Rajnagar block was also rising. At the same time, adding to the woes of the flood hit villagers, crocodiles from the Brahmani river started entering the villages.

The villagers said they had seen a crocodile in floodwater at Belapala Kalipadia Tuesday. "To bring drinking water or get vegetables, we have been wading through the water for last three days. But we are now in fear and apprehension. There is every possibility of crocodile attack," they added. Fear of crocodile attack has gripped the villagers so much that yesterday some villagers who came to Madanpur square to buy vegetables were seen returning homes in the trailer attached to a tractor.

Around 40,000 people in Bandhapada, Ostia, Belapal and Rajpur panchayat have been marooned. The floodwater in Rajnagar block started increasing from September 15 night. Even though the paddy fields were completely submerged, there was no water on village roads from September 17 to September 19 morning. But the floodwater suddenly came gushing into the village after September 19 morning and the water level kept rising.

These four panchayats are now cut off from the district headquarters. Knee-deep floodwater is still stagnant in Ostia-Bandhapatna High School.

Whatever is the difficulty if we keep truly quiet the solution will come.

THE MOTHER

Les Anglo-Saxons

Two days before the Normandy landings in June 1944, Charles de Gaulle demanded the right to govern France after it was liberated by the Allies. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who detested de Gaulle, had no intention of agreeing to this. Winston Churchill, who rather admired de Gaulle's illusions of grandeur, sided with Roosevelt. He told the Free French leader that if he had to choose between de Gaulle and Roosevelt, he would always choose Roosevelt.

Churchill's attitude was entirely understandable. Europe was occupied by Nazi Germany. The Free French were largely a symbolic force. And Britain was one of the three major Allied powers. Later, however, Britain's choice to cling to the United States came what may (with one or two exceptions, including the Suez crisis in 1956 and the Balkan war in the 1990s) came with a heavy price.

Flush with wartime victory, Britain turned down every opportunity to shape European institutions in the 1950s, and when Prime Minister Harold Macmillan concluded in the early 1960s that Britain could remain a serious country only within the European Economic Community de Gaulle stood in his way. British membership of the EEC was vetoed by the general in 1963, and again in 1967.

De Gaulle hadn't forgotten Churchill's words in 1944. He saw Britain as a Trojan Horse for American domination of Europe. France, in his view, was Europe's natural leader. And, because Germany had no desire to assert leadership, and other Europeans had had quite enough of German power, this arrangement was widely accepted.

Britain finally joined the EEC in 1973, but even so, British prime ministers, except for Edward Heath in the 1970s, hung on to their so-called (especially by the British) 'special relationship' with the US. This was largely a matter of shared nuclear secrets, intelligence, and military cooperation. Britain hoped that the special relationship would allow it to remain a formidable global player, even long after its empire was lost.

Now, once again, Britain has opted to side with the US, this time in a new defence pact with Australia to counter China. AUKUS is its unlovely name. A long-standing agreement with France to supply diesel-powered submarines to Australia was broken in favour of Anglo-American nuclear-powered boats. France is understandably furious. The three AUKUS countries didn't even bother to notify the French of their impending deal. France recalled its ambassadors from Canberra and Washington, but not from London; Britain was not deemed to be important enough.

There may be good reasons why Australia decided American submarines would be more suitable as a defence against China. It might also be argued that it makes sense to strengthen US alliances in the Indo-Pacific region, not just with Australia, but also Japan and India. Quite what British interests in the region are, apart from puffing up a self-image of 'global Britain' after Brexit, is less clear. France, with 1.5 million people, 8,000 troops, and island territories in the Indian and Pacific Oceans, has more at stake there than Britain does.

But there is more to AUKUS than submarine deals, lucrative though they are. US President Joe Biden has decided to confront China's expanding power in East Asia with a show of military force. He has often expressed his wish that American allies would join him in this effort, even as Japanese and Europeans worry about damaging trade interests in China and being sucked into a potential war. But by undercutting France, the US, with the connivance of Britain, has widened a historical rift among European allies. It is as though de Gaulle's suspicion of les Anglo-Saxons in 1944 has been proven right.

There is of course another way of looking at this. Wartime nostalgia plays an important part in Britain's instinctive fondness for the special relationship. Like former Prime Minister Tony Blair in the run-up to the invasion of Iraq in 2003, some British politicians might believe that the United Kingdom is the only European country with serious armed forces and the political will to use them. Prime Minister Boris Johnson, like Blair before him, seems to fancy himself a modern-day Churchill.

Unfortunately (or not), Britain's military power is insignificant compared to what Churchill could command in 1944. Wartime nostalgia has drawn Britain into several foolish American wars, which other European countries were wise to avoid. The question is whether provoking China's wrath by supporting Biden's sabre-rattling is justified nonetheless, even if it doesn't involve direct British interests. Is the alternative of backing off and doing business as usual with China a form of cowardly appeasement? Or might there be other options?

Fear of repeating Neville Chamberlain's appeasement in 1938 is one reason why the US and Britain have gotten themselves entangled in unnecessary wars in the decades after World War II. This is why French leaders have called for greater 'strategic autonomy' for the European Union. Europe should beef up its own military force and wean itself from dependence on the US. The EU High Representative for Foreign Affairs and Security Policy Josep Borrell announced that Europe, too, would like to limit China's power. The bloc would seek a trade deal with Taiwan while still engaging with China. Even the pro-European, left-leaning newspaper Le Monde called this 'deficient in backbone.'

As long as the EU has no common foreign policy and sufficient armed forces of its own, talk of strategic autonomy is just that. Only the full cooperation of Britain, and far greater military participation by Germany, might one day give Europe some chance of autonomy. But the combination of Germany's historical baggage and Britain's fixation on its special relationship stands in the way.

As a result, the fate of the Indo-Pacific region, and perhaps many places beyond, will remain in the hands of the increasingly aggressive authoritarians in Beijing and whoever happens to be sitting in the White House. Either way, neither Britain nor Australia, much less France and the EU, will have much to say in the matter.

ACCORDING TO A MAJOR STUDY BY THE RESEARCH FIRM AIRFINITY, THE NUMBER OF UNUSED DOSES WILL REACH ONE BILLION BY THIS DECEMBER

With low-income countries in Africa and elsewhere still importing rich countries to stop stockpiling millions of unused COVID-19 vaccines, there are still real doubts as to whether the United States and Europe will honour the promise made at this year's G7 summit to vaccinate the world by the end of 2022.

US President Joe Biden's administration has said that the Global North can deliver enough doses for everyone by next September's United Nations General Assembly. But the gulf between the vaccine-rich and vaccine-poor has grown so vast that under 2 per cent of adults in low-income countries are fully vaccinated, compared to over 50 per cent of adults in most high-income countries. Worse, millions of doses in high-income countries are now being wasted because they are not being used in time.

For many months earlier this year, Western governments could at least say that there was not enough vaccine supply to meet global demand. But, we are now producing 1.5 billion vaccines every month. As I write this, around 300 million doses of vaccines are lying unused, hoarded in warehouses or on their way to fulfill delivery contracts that have been monopolised by Western countries. As a result, the World Health Organisation's September 2021 goal of vaccinating at least 10 per cent of the population in every low-income country - the basic level needed to cover health workers and the elderly - remains unrealised.

According to a major study by the research firm Airfinity, the number of unused doses will reach one billion by this December. To put that staggering figure into perspective, it is enough to meet our year-end goal

FOCUS VACCINATION

GLOBAL NORTH'S TEST

If the West does not deliver the necessary supply of vaccines to the rest of the world, low-income countries will have little reason ever to trust it again. Failing to transfer millions of surplus doses to those in desperate need would be a grotesque failure of the most basic test of human solidarity and decency of vaccinating 40 per cent of the African population.

Making matters worse, Airfinity shows that if we do not act, 100 million unused vaccine doses will have passed their expiration dates by the end of this year. And if we cannot airlift surpluses to where they are needed on a schedule that preserves a two-month shelf life, this figure could rise to 241 million. Either way, that is near-criminal wastage.

Exaggeration comes easily to politicians. But it is no overstatement to say that unless more vaccines, diagnostics, and treatments are made available to the Global South, there could be at least one million more COVID-induced deaths over the next year.

We know that more than 100,000 lives have been saved in Britain, owing to the administration of fewer than 100 million vaccine doses. Allowing 200 million or more doses to be wasted is thus tantamount to condemning hundreds of thousands of unvaccinated people in low-income countries to unnecessarily suffering or death.

The upshot is that at Biden's vaccine summit this week, more lives hang in the balance than at any other peacetime gathering that I can recall. If the West does not deliver the necessary supply of vaccines to the rest of the world, low-income countries will have little reason ever to trust it again. Failing to transfer millions of surplus doses to those in desperate need would be a grotesque failure of the most basic test of human solidarity and decency.

And so for world leaders convening at the UN this month, the stakes could not be higher. We are at a make-or-break moment to mitigate the monstrous, unforgivable vaccine inequality that has prevailed so far.

The data compiled by Airfinity suggests that 200 million doses can be transferred immediately to the COVID-19 Vaccine Global Access (COVAX) facility and the African Vaccine Acquisition Trust for distribution across Africa and other low-income countries. That would be enough to meet the WHO's 10 per cent target for every country. Moreover, Western countries can send the same amount of additional doses - around 200 million - to COVAX each month thereafter. That would be enough to address Africa's deficit of nearly 500 million doses, ensuring that some 40 per cent of the continent's population is vaccinated by the end of the year, in line with the WHO's goal.

We have seen how vaccine nationalism leads to inequality, wastage, and far too many avoidable deaths. Not only is this approach self-serving; it is self-defeating. The longer the disease is allowed to spread in low-income countries, the greater the likelihood that it will develop new variants that will come back to haunt even the fully vaccinated.

This basic truth lies at the heart of pleas that have been building this week from African leaders, former heads of state and government, the Pandemic Action Network, and groups like The Elders. NGOs and faith leaders in the Global South have issued statements calling for immediate action to prevent an epic moral catastrophe.

In a global health crisis born of a highly infectious and communicable disease, there is no alternative to collective global action. This week's vaccine summit represents the rich world's best chance to show that it means what it says.

Draupadi, DU and inconvenient truths

Lekha Rattanan

Delhi University enjoys the stature of an 'institute of eminence' in the Indian educational set-up. In less than a year from now, the university established in 1922 with just four colleges, will celebrate its 100th foundation day. Its motto is "Nishtha Dhriti Satyam", which translates to mean dedication, steadfastness and truth. With some 6.5 lakh students (conventional and distance mode) enrolled across more than 500 programmes and over 90 colleges affiliated to it, DU stands out as a premier institute of higher learning.

It is this prestigious university that has now decided to drop some inconvenient truths from its syllabus. Among those erased from the syllabus of BA (Honours) is the late Mahashweta Devi, who is a winner of the Jnanpith award, the Padma Vibhushan, the Indira Gandhi award for National Integration, the Sahitya Akademi award for Bengali writers and the Ramon Magsaysay Award for Journalism, Literature, and Creative Communication Arts.

The axe has fallen on Mahashweta Devi's short story 'Draupadi', which is a raw, chilling and explicit story of a tribal woman brutalised by Indian security forces. The English translation of the original in Bengali by post-colonial theorist Gayatri Chakravorty Spivak has now been dropped from the BA (Honours) course, stirring a controversy after 15 academic council members have protested but a rival group has endorsed the change. The changes were ordered by DU's oversight committee, which also dropped from the syllabus the works of two Dalit writers, Bama Faustina Soosairaj and Sukirtharani. The changes and their enthusiastic endorsement by the DU administration have led to new fears of political control on academia and what this might mean for an education system that is already under strain.

This is not the first time that political considerations will determine what universities should teach, or which books may be banned. But the action this time is blatant, and worse, is explained away in equally blatant language on what these stories do to India's image. Consider the DU registrar saying that the 'gruesome' details in the sexual assault of Draupadi in the story of Mahashweta Devi are 'uncomfortable' and also show the Indian forces in a very poor light. "We don't want our students to hate them based on fictional stories," he has been quoted as saying.

Three members of the Delhi University Academic Council and the Delhi University Teachers' Association said the administration was "complicit in the unethical and the unacademic chopping of authors."

Among other changes, two poems by Sukirtharani and selections from Bama's Sangati were excluded from the syllabus. Some 1,500 writers, academics, artists, and celebrities who petitioned DU against the step, argued that these writings are essential readings, noting that "Bama and Sukirtharani articulate the lived experience of being Dalit women in contemporary India. They illumine how caste oppression colludes with modes of patriarchy to produce gendered oppression and exploitation." The dropped writers were part of a core paper of the final year English Honours syllabus, titled 'Women's Writings' that aims to explore past and contemporary lives of women in India and elsewhere.

Another text that has been removed is a feminist reading of the Ramayana which has been part of a DSE (Discipline Specific Elective) paper titled 'Pre-colonial Indian Literatures'. The oversight committee has instructed the English department to replace 'Chandrabati Ramayana' with 'Tulsidas. Chandrabati who lived in what is now Bangladesh is believed to be the first Bengali woman poet. Chandrabati wrote a woman-centred version of the Ramayana which has been translated into English by noted academic Nabaneeta Dev Sen. Very little is known about the author except that her version of the Ramayana is believed to be sung even today by peasant women in Bangladesh. Chandrabati's work is a unique example of looking at the Ramayana from Sita's point of view and it also comes well before works that questioned the undisputed place of Lord Rama in India. Nineteenth century Bengali poet Michael Madhusudan Dutt who followed some 300 years after Chandrabati, challenged the position of Lord Rama over Ravana. The Lankan monarch is the hero of Dutt's works and not portrayed as a demon king. His 'Meghnad Badh Kavya' about the killing of Ravana's son Meghnad, while he is unarmed and worshipping at a Lankan temple, is portrayed as an act of cowardice by Lakshmana.

Lionising Ravana is not new in India. While his effigies are burnt across the country on Dussehra, his devotees worship at the five temples dedicated to Ravana in India. The village Ravangram in Vidisha has one of the most famous temples of Ravana whose wife Mandodari is believed to be from the place. There is also a temple at Mandasaur where they are believed to have been married.

In her original introduction to the collection of stories of which 'Draupadi' is one, Mahashweta Devi wrote: "Life is not mathematics and the human being is not made for the sake of politics. I want a change in the present social system and do not believe in mere party politics." It is the misfortune of DU to show that the system isn't changing and politics will rule, more forcefully and blindly than ever before.

Vaccine racism

Sir, This refers to the news report "India vows action against UK." Orissa POST, September 22. There is consternation and uproar in India with the UK's discriminatory travel restrictions for Indian travellers. The UK's decision to quarantine even vaccinated Indians lacks logic. Why is the UK making an exception to Covishield? Is it not a fact that Covishield is another name for Vaxzena, the European brand name for the AstraZeneca vaccine? It is also claimed that the entire controversy stems from some technical issues in the CoWin certification process. Now, the question arises, why the Serum Institute of India didn't ensure Covishield was in the approved list of vaccines in the UK? The UK follows the approval procedure of the European Medicines Agency (EMA). In July, the British government had said the UK health regulator had approved Serum Institute of India's vaccine, but EMA was yet to give its nod. Even now Covishield is not in the EMA's list of approved vaccines.

Sir, After two unsuccessful attempts to find a buyer for Air India, the Centre seemed to have found one. In 2001 and 2018, reputed private airlines backed off from final stages after showing initial interest in Air India. Two prominent companies have been making the final moves on owning the state-run aviation giant that has been incurring huge losses for the last 14 years - approximately to the tune of ₹80,000 crore. The two have submitted their financial bids. In another three weeks, the name of the buyer will go public although the actual transfer of assets will take another four to five months. A 100 per cent stake in Air India, 100 per cent stake in Air India Express and 50 per cent stake in Air India Airport Services Private Limited are being sold by the government in contrast to its earlier stand of retaining 24 per cent stake in Air India. A smooth disinvestment take-off was hindered by the huge 'monkey on its back' - massive debts. No buyer would risk pumping money into a loss-making venture, and then spend his/her entire time in struggling to pay off the debts. Left with a Hobson's choice, the government had to yield to the requests of the private players for a cent per cent stake in Air India and 50 per cent stake in AISATS.

Nuapada, Sept 22: People displaced by the Lower Indra irrigation project at Tikhali under Khariar block in Nuapada district blocked the NH-353 Wednesday.

They alleged that people ousted from the villages having completely submerged and partially submerged had not yet received financial assistance. They raised various demands including laying a siege to the road near Bilenjora bus stand.

In 2000, Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik had laid the foundation stone for the Lower Indra irrigation project at Tikhali. The project has been commissioned in 2021. It was alleged that though 20 years have passed since the project inception, many oustees have been running from pillar to post to get financial assistance. Thus, they resorted to agitation.

It was alleged that though 20 years have passed since the project inception, many oustees have been running from pillar to post to get financial assistance. Thus, they resorted to agitation.

Due to the irrigation project, as many as 10 villages have been completely submerged while 21 villages have been partially submerged. Over 50,000 people have been affected by the project.

"As we have not received our assistance, we are unable to move to other places. Over 800 families are yet to receive compensation. But the government is yet to sanction their assistance," they lamented. They demanded that their other issues related to rehabilitation and resettlement be sorted out soon at the government level.

Inhabitants of Konabira, and a few other villages such as Sonbahali and Budhachhapar, have been demanding payment of outstanding dues to compensate for their displacement from their lands.

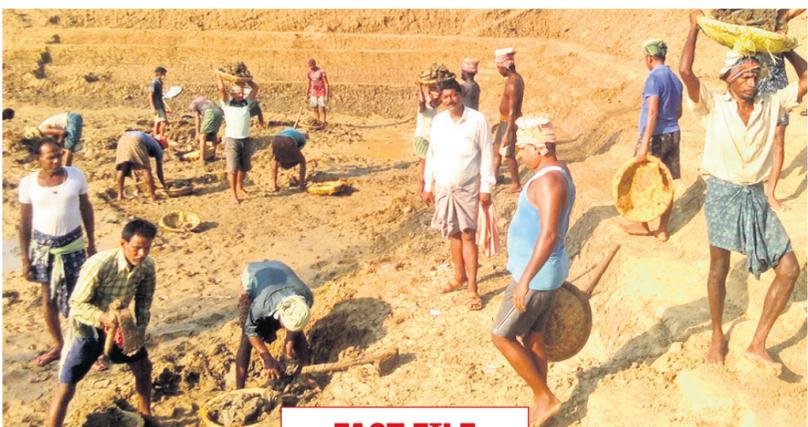

The project can irrigate 29,900 hectares in Nuapada and Balangir districts. It was conceptualised in 2001 at an estimated cost of ₹211 crore. The project was revised in 2003 at an escalated cost of ₹521 crore, with ten villages identified to fall inside the reservoir and 21 villages facing partial submergence. By 2018, the cost of the project stood in excess of ₹1,750 crore.

MGNREGS mess: Job card holders awaiting incentives

POST NEWS NETWORK

Khaira, Sept 22: Even as 80 days have passed, job card holders under the poverty alleviation scheme MGNREGS under this block in Balasore district are yet to receive their incentives, a report said.

This has sparked resentment among the beneficiaries who are reeling from financial stress due to non-payment of incentives so far. They have warned of launching an agitation if immediate steps are not taken to pay their incentives.

The district administration had launched various projects under the Mahatma Gandhi Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme (MGNREGS) to provide livelihood opportunities to the migrants returning home during the Covid-19 pandemic.

Many people, including the migrants, enrolled their names for a job card and worked under various projects implemented by the state government from April 1 to June 30.

Anadi Parida of Saradanga panchayat alleged that it is quite unfortunate that money towards incentives is yet to be transferred to the bank accounts of beneficiaries even after over two months.

When contacted, Prashuram Parida, block development officer of Khaira block, said delay has been inordinate as several posts of MGNREGS staff are lying vacant in the block. The remaining beneficiaries will receive their incentives soon and over ₹43 lakh has been transferred to the accounts of many beneficiaries so far.

Malkangiri: ₹7cr to boost healthcare

POST NEWS NETWORK

Malkangiri, Sept 22: Over ₹7.13 crore has been sanctioned by the 5th Finance Commission to boost healthcare services in the district. The status of healthcare services was discussed at a meeting chaired by the Collector in the presence of the CDMO, DRDA and National Health Mission, officials said.

There are 158 primary health centres in the district while 88 centres will be upgraded with facilities like diagnostic tests for children and pregnant women.

Four PHCs have no buildings of their own. Their infrastructure was developed with the funds.

It was decided that two special teams will be formed for Chitrakonda and Kalimela blocks to ensure that patients do not face problem in obtaining beds, food and quality healthcare services. Thus, the patients will not have to go outside the state seeking treatments.

Road brings turnaround in Maoist-infested village

THE CONTRIBUTION OF A WOMAN WARD-MEMBER IN BRINGING DEVELOPMENT TO THE VILLAGE IS INCOMPARABLE

POST NEWS NETWORK

Sambalpur, Sept 22: A village in Sambalpur district, which was once infested by Maoists amid dense forests, is on the way to development after a road was constructed to the area under Mukhya Mantri Sadak Yojana with sheer efforts of a woman ward member, a report said.

The village was identified as Jarang village under Kayakud panchayat of Jujumura block in this district. The village lies around 50 km from the district headquarters town and is surrounded by four forests.

In the past, the village was prone to Maoist menace where ultras would call every shot in the village. The villagers always lived in an atmosphere of fear and trepidation. But gone are those days after a road was constructed.

This has become possible due to the sincere and dedicated efforts of woman ward member Barilona Kandolona of the village. She is leaving no stone unturned and has poured her heart and soul to bring a turnaround in the village. Villagers are now finding it easier to join the mainstream after the village was selected for construction of a road under the Mukhya Mantri Sadak Yojana. Officials and social activists have started visiting the village which has helped in achieving financial and social development of the village.

The village has a population of 350 comprising 65 tribal families from four hamlets of Taldihi, Chadali, Budamunda and Schoolpada. Agriculture is the mainstay of villagers and they cultivate a variety of crops like green grams, black grams, horse grams, maize, pearl millet, and various types of vegetables. They also collect minor forest produce like Bahada, Sal seeds as well as mahua from the forest and now sell them in the local markets.

They no longer incur damage of their harvested products as they can now travel to the nearest market and sell their produce following construction of a road. This has helped them in their financial growth. Ambulance can now reach the village smoothly and traders can visit the villagers at their doorsteps and buy their harvested products.

The village has a school up to Class V while many of them study outside for higher education. The nancially independent from their male counterparts.

Many developmental works have been carried out in the village during last five years. Kandolona has always been working to make more funds available for developmental works in the village and in making the government welfare schemes accessible to people.

She is so thoughtful for the development of her village that she gives less time for her family and more for the uplift of the village,

6 govt employees sacked for terror links

25 government servants have been dismissed from service over the last 6 months for their alleged links with terrorists in the UT

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Srinagar, Sept 22: Six government employees, including two policemen, were Wednesday dismissed from service for their alleged links with terrorists in Jammu and Kashmir, taking the total number of employees sacked in last nearly six months to 25, officials said.

Among those dismissed from service earlier, there were two sons of Pakistan-based Hizbul Mujahideen chief Syed Salahuddin and tainted Deputy Superintendent of Police Davinder Singh who was caught along with a wanted terrorist and two others early this year.

The six employees who were dismissed by the government, include constable Showkat Ahmad Khan, a resident of Budgam who was involved in the looting of service weapons from the house of a member of legislative council in Srinagar with whom he was posted as a Personal Security Officer in 2018. The policeman was arrested and subsequently detained under the Public Safety Act (PSA) August 8 last year, the officials said.

They said constable Jaffer Hussain Butt of Kishtwar was arrested in a case that is presently under investigation of the National Investigation Agency (NIA).

The probe has revealed that Butt provided his car to Hizbul

Mujahideen terrorists and facilitated their safe movement in his hometown, the officials said, adding that he is currently on bail since August 30.

Teacher Abdul Hamid Wani of Bijbehara in Anantnag district was also among those dismissed from service. It is alleged that before joining government service, he was a district commander of terrorist group Allah Tigers and propagated secessionist ideology, the officials said.

They said he had reportedly secured the employment without any selection process by leveraging Jamaat-e-Islami (JeI) influence. He was a key speaker and organiser in the 2016 agitation following the killing of terrorist commander Burhan Wani.

A junior assistant in the Roads and Buildings Department, Mohd Rafi Butt of Kishtwar, is accused of having provided logistical support to Hizbul Mujahideen terrorists in Kishtwar, besides providing a safe environment to them to execute terror plans. He figures in an FIR registered by the NIA and is presently on bail after being arrested, the officials said.

They said teacher Liyaqat Ali Kakroo of Baramulla was appointed in government service in 1983 and was arrested in 2001 with an explosive substance. The probe against him revealed that he was a locally-trained terrorist.

A cache of arms was recovered from his possession in 2002 and subsequently, he was detained under the PSA for two years. However, he was acquitted by court in both the cases, the officials said, adding that two grenades were recovered from his possession again in 2021.

Range officer Tariq Mahmood Kohli of Poonch was allegedly involved in smuggling of illegal arms, ammunition and explosives, including hard drugs and fake Indian Currency Notes from Pakistan, they said.

They said Kohli, who was arrested in a case registered against him in 2010, had remained in touch with active militants and was mentioned as an overground worker in police records.

In an identical order about the dismissal of the six employees, the General Administration Department (GAD) said the Lt Governor was satisfied after considering the facts and circumstances of the cases and on the basis of the information available that the activities of these employees were such as to warrant their dismissal from service.

"...The Lieutenant Governor is satisfied under sub-clause (c) of the proviso to clause (2) of Article 311 of the Constitution of India that in the interest of the security of the State, it is not expedient to hold an enquiry in the case of... Accordingly, the Lieutenant Governor hereby dismisses... From service, with immediate effect," the order said mentioning the name of each sacked employee.

July 11, as many as 11 employees, including two sons of the Hizbul Mujahideen chief, were dismissed from service.

Earlier in April-May, the administration dismissed seven employees, including DSP Davinder Singh.

Drees Jan, a teacher from North Kashmir's Kupwara district was the first government employee to be sacked from service for anti-national activities May 1.

His dismissal came barely a week after the Union Territory administration constituted a Special Task Force (STF) empowered to look into allegations against government employees of involvement in anti-state activities and recommend dismissal of those found involved.

Assam burns rhino horn hoard to highlight they have no medicinal value

The ritualistic burning of 2,479 rhino horns was done publicly on the occasion of World Rhino Day

AGENCIES

Bokakhat (Assam), Sept 22: Assam Wednesday consigned to flames 2,479 rhino horns, world's largest stockpile destroyed in a single day, to bust a myth that the horns have miraculous medicinal properties.

The move by Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma is part of an effort to curb poaching of the endangered one-horned Indian rhinoceros.

"We want to give a strong message to the world that the rhino alive with the horn on its head is precious to us, and not a dead animal with its pride removed by poachers or those kept in the government treasuries," the Chief Minister said.

The ritualistic burning of the rhino horns was done publicly at Bokakhat on the occasion of World Rhino Day in the presence of the Chief minister, some of his cabinet colleagues including Forest and Environment Minister Parimal Suklabaidya and local AGP MLA and Agriculture Minister Atul Bora, senior forest department officials and conservationists in a first of its kind exercise in the country. Indian laws as well as international conventions forbid sale of body parts, whether of humans and animals, both by individuals and governments and Assam committed to follow it, Sarma said.

"A section of people have questioned us why we are burning the horns when it can be sold and the government could earn revenue ...

I ask them is it right to sell kidneys when people are ready to pay huge amounts for them," he asked.

The chief minister argued that since the horns have no proven medicinal values, allowing them to be sold tantamounts to cheating people and encouraging poaching. "Just like all communities, whether they are Hindus, Muslims or Christians, send away their beloved ones with rituals and prayers, we also decided to send our beloved to the other realm in the same manner," he said.

There are an estimated 2,600 rhinos in Assam's Kaziranga, Manas, Orang National Parks and Pobitora wildlife sanctuaries.

Poaching of the animal has declined considerably with poachers realising that during "the tenure of this government, it will not be easy to kill an animal in the state," the Chief Minister claimed.

It has also been decided to set up a Natural History Museum at Kaziranga National Park where 94 rhino horns, extracted from those animals that had died naturally, will be kept and preserved scientifically as heritage pieces for academic purpose and public viewing, he said.

The world's largest rhino recorded, with a standing height of 42.5 cm, and the heaviest horn at 3.05 kg, will also be on display at the Museum, Sarma said.

The state Cabinet September 16 had decided to destroy 2,479 of the 2,623 reconciled rhino horns, stockpiled in the treasuries of different districts, while 29 rhino horns, including 19 genuine and 10 fake, under court cases would be preserved with due procedures.

Strike protesting 'anti-trade' policies hits life in Jammu

AGENCIES

Jammu, Sept 22: Normal life was hit across the Jammu region Wednesday amid a day-long strike call given by the Jammu Chamber of Commerce and Industries (JCCI) to protest against the alleged 'directionless anti-trade policies' of the administration.

The strike, which evoked widespread support from almost all opposition political parties and social groups, remained peaceful with no untoward incident reported from anywhere, officials said.

The work in courts was affected by the strike, which was also supported by the Jammu chapter of the J&K High Court Bar Association.

The main markets in the city wore a deserted look as shops and business establishments including retail chemist shops were closed, while the movement of public and private transport was thin.

Protests and rallies at various places by traders, activists of National Panthers Party (NPP), Peoples Democratic Party (PDP), Aam Aadmi Party and Dogra Front in the city marked the strike, which was the first of its kind in the Jammu province after the abrogation of Article 370 in 2019.

Among other things, the sponsors of the strike are agitated over the scrapping of the 'darbar move' by the government without consulting the stakeholders and new excise policy, rendering wine shopkeepers jobless.

ASSAM ORDERS PROBE INTO BODOLAND ENCOUNTER

Assam has witnessed a series of 'encounters' since the present BJP government, led by Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma assumed office May 10, with many alleged militants and criminals being shot dead or injured while allegedly trying to flee from custody

AGENCIES

Guwahati, Sept 22: Assam government has ordered an inquiry into the killing of two alleged United Liberation of Bodoland (ULB) militants by policemen, a day after a 12-hour bandh to protest the death brought life in the four districts of the Bodoland Territorial Region (BTR) to a standstill.

An order issued by the Assam government said the Divisional Commissioner of Lower Assam Jayant Narlikar has been directed to inquire into the circumstances leading to the death of two suspected ULB militants in an encounter with the police at Ultapani in Kokrajhar district September 18.

Narlikar was tasked to submit the report within 15 days.

The killing of the two suspected militants evoked wide-spread protests in the BTR with a 12-hour bandh called by All Bodo Peoples (ABP) shutting down normal life in the region Monday.

Several political and non-political organizations and leaders have strongly condemned the killings, claiming the encounter was 'staged' and the youths killed were innocent.

Bodoland Peoples' Front (BPF) Chief Hagrama Mohilary Tuesday appealed to Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma to initiate a high level probe by the CBI into the encounter in the "interest of peace and tranquility" in the BTR.

He also appealed to the ULB leadership to refrain from violent activities to prevent loss of life and property.

"I appeal to the UBL leadership to restrain from retaliatory activities or planting of bombs, which might further escalate the situation in Bodoland region," the former Bodoland Territorial Council (BTC) Chief said.

The police had claimed Saturday that two suspected militants of a newly formed outfit, United Liberation of Bodoland (ULB) had been killed and their camp busted while two pistols and grenades were recovered from the encounter site.

Assam has witnessed a series of "encounters" since the present BJP government, led by Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma assumed office May 10, with many alleged militants and criminals being shot dead or injured while allegedly trying to flee from custody. The opposition has alleged the state police has become "trigger-happy". The Chief Minister however, has supported police action and said Assam police had 'full operational liberty' to fight criminals "within the ambit of law".

In all, 26 accused have been killed so far and 42 others injured when police fired on them claiming that they had tried to escape from custody in the last four-and-half-months.

Cop enters temple, killed in case of mistaken identity

AGENCIES

Srinagar, Sept 22: A policeman died in Kupwara district Wednesday after being shot at by his colleague in a case of mistaken identity, officials said.

Ajay Dhar, a follower in the police department who was posted at Handwara, was shot at by a sentry guarding a temple around 2 am after he failed to stop when asked, they said.

According to preliminary investigation, Dhar was going from the Handwara Police Station to sleep at the temple which is located in main Handwara town.

"The victim was using headphones on his mobile phone. When he reached near the temple, the guard there observed suspicious movement and signalled him to stop. Dhar apparently could not hear the sentry prompting him to open fire," the officials said.

They said Dhar was rushed to a hospital here but succumbed to his injuries during treatment.

This is the second incident of fratricide in Kupwara district in three days. An Army soldier died in a firing incident on Monday following an argument with his colleague during a break from patrolling.

Cong questions Assam CM's involvement in Naga talks

AGENCIES

Guwahati/Kohima, Sept 22: The Congress has raised questions over Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma's involvement in the Naga peace talks and said the state's interest may be compromised in the long run.

Demanding publication of the Naga Framework Agreement (NFA), signed between the government of India and the Isak-Muivah faction of the National Socialist Council of Nagalim (NSCN-IM) in 2015, Assam Congress President Bhupen Kumar Borah has asked the Centre to clear at what capacity Assam CM has been involved in the peace talks in Nagaland. "As a Chief Minister of Assam can he (Sarma) hold talks with NSCN (IM) without discussion in the state Assembly and without taking Cabinet into confidence? The NSCN (IM) has been demanding for 'Greater Nagalim' (integration of Naga dominated areas of neighbouring states) and for all we know it is supposed to include parts of Assam. Congress Party is committed to keeping its state intact and under no circumstances will allow any part of its land into Greater Nagalim," the Assam Congress chief told the media.

He asked: "Can the people of Assam trust Sarma to defend the state's interests when he had miserably failed to do so in the recent Mizoram-Assam border issue? He (Sarma) had publicly said that he is ready to give the whole of Barak Valley (southern Assam) and even Guwahati to Mizoram? Can Sarma be trusted to defend Assam's interests in his talks with NSCN (IM) when his blind allegiance to the Delhi BJP high command's diktat is well known to all?"

Borah said that it has been reported that Nagaland and Manipur Chief Ministers have also been asked to be part of the talks along with Assam CM but it was learnt that Manipur CM has decided not to participate due to differences on 'Greater Nagalim issue'.

In 2015, Prime Minister Narendra Modi had announced the Nagaland Framework Agreement of Government of India with NSCN (I-M) by declaring that this marks the end of a problem. However, the Framework Agreement was not publicly divulged and "though the Congress had demanded at that time that the contents of the Agreement should be made public, till today nobody knows what is there in it," Borah said.

Subsequently, the Prime Minister appointed a trusted aide, Naga Peace Talks Interlocutor R N Ravi as Governor of Nagaland in 2019. However, Bora alleged this did not help take forward the talks and the Framework Agreement appeared to have become a "Discord Agreement" with public spats between leaders of NSCN (I-M) and the Governor becoming news headlines. The Central government has been separately holding peace talks with the NSCN-IM and eight other outfits, which came together a few years ago under the banner of NNPGs. The NSCN-IM and the other outfits entered into a ceasefire agreement with the Government of India in 1997.

PM calls for mutual recognition of vax certificates Farmers' protest completes 300 days

AGENCIES

New Delhi/Washington, Sept 22: Prime Minister Narendra Modi said Wednesday that international travel should be made easier through mutual recognition of vaccine certificates, amid several countries adopting different sets of rules to allow foreigners to enter their territory in the wake of the Covid-19 pandemic.

In his video remarks at the Global Covid Summit hosted by US President Joe Biden, Modi also said India is ramping up production capacity of existing vaccines and the supply chains of raw materials must be kept open so that vaccine supplies to other countries can be resumed.

"We also need to focus on addressing the pandemic's economic effects. To that end, international travel should be made easier, through mutual recognition of vaccine certificates," Modi said.

His remarks comes on a day when the UK government issued an updated international travel advisory to include AstraZeneca Covishield among the eligible Covid-19 vaccine formulations but kept India out of the 18 countries on an approved vaccinations list, requiring Indians to follow rules set out for "non-vaccinated" travellers.

Despite the inclusion of Covishield, Indian travellers are not exempt from the quarantine rules under the UK's new international travel norms that will come into force from October 4. On Monday, the US had announced a new international travel system under which fully vaccinated individuals would be allowed to enter the country beginning early November.

Former US president Donald Trump had imposed a blanket ban on foreign travellers from entering the US at the start of the coronavirus pandemic in early 2020. The new system adopted by the Biden administration essentially lifts the travel ban on countries like India that the US had earlier enforced. In his remarks, Prime Minister Modi said that India is ramping up production capacity of existing vaccines. "As newer Indian vaccines get developed, we are also ramping up production capacity of existing vaccines. As our production increases, we will be able to resume vaccine supplies to others too. For this, the supply chains of raw materials must be kept open," Modi said.

India stopped the export of Covid-19 vaccines after the second wave of the pandemic hit the country in April this year. On Monday, India said that it will resume export of surplus COVID-19 vaccines in the fourth quarter of 2021 under the "Vaccine Maitri" programme and to meet its commitment to the COVAX global pool.

COVAX is a worldwide initiative aimed at equitable access to COVID-19 vaccines directed by Gavi, the Vaccine Alliance, the Coalition for Epidemic Preparedness Innovations, and the World Health Organisation (WHO).

WHO chief Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus hailed India's decision to resume Covid-19 vaccine exports as an "important development" in support of the goal to reach 40 per cent vaccination in all countries by end of the year. Noting that India is running the world's largest vaccination campaign, Modi said that over 200 million Indians are now fully vaccinated.

"Recently, we vaccinated about 25 million people on a single day. Our grassroots level healthcare system has delivered over 800 million vaccine doses so far," he said. "Earlier this year, we shared our vaccine production with 95 other countries, and with UN peacekeepers. And, like a family, the world also stood with India when we were going through a second wave. For the solidarity and support extended to India, I thank you all," he said. Modi said India's pharmaceutical industry has produced cost-effective diagnostic kits, drugs, medical devices and PPE kits. These are providing affordable options to many developing countries, he said.

Preparations for the "Bharat bandh" called by the SKM September 27 are in full swing

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Sept 22: As the ongoing farmers' protest against three contentious agriculture laws of the Centre completed 300 days Wednesday, the Samyukt Kisan Morcha (SKM) said the movement is a testimony to the will and determination of lakhs of farmers across the country that would only grow stronger.

"It has been 300 days since lakhs of farmers were forced to stay put at Delhi's borders. The protesting farmers have been peacefully communicating their resistance against a corporate takeover of India's food and farming systems."

"Their demands are clear and known to the (Narendra) Modi government, which has been obstinately choosing not to agree to these legitimate demands of farmers, even though farmers constitute the largest set of workers in the country and even though elections in our democracy are won through votes cast mainly by farmers," a statement issued by the SKM said. "The Samyukt Kisan Morcha states that this historic movement stands as a testimony to the will, resolve and hope of lakhs of farmers across the country. The SKM also vows to strengthen the movement, going forward, and make it more widespread," it added.

"Various sections of the society are being reached out to by farmers' outfits in different parts of the country to get their support and solidarity to the farmers' cause, which is also becoming a movement to protect India's democracy," the SKM said.

According to the statement, workers' unions, trade unions, employees' and students' unions, women's organisations, transporters' associations, in addition to the joint planning meetings of many farmers' organisations, are being roped in for the planning of the 'bandh'.

Will keep Sidhu away from CM's post, says Amarinder

AGENCIES

Chandigarh, Sept 22: Amarinder Singh Wednesday said he would fight Navjot Singh Sidhu's elevation to Punjab Chief Ministership tooth and nail, and was ready to make any sacrifice to save the country from such a "dangerous man".

Even as he reiterated his intention to counter any move to make Sidhu the state's Chief Minister face, Amarinder Singh said he will pit a strong candidate against him in the 2022 Assembly polls to ensure his defeat.

"He (Sidhu) is dangerous for the state," said the former Chief Minister in a series of media interviews.

Asserting that he will only leave politics on a high, he said: "I was ready to leave after a victory but never after a loss."

He disclosed that he had offered his resignation to party President Sonia Gandhi three weeks earlier but she had asked him to continue. "If she had just called me and asked me to step down, I would have," he said, adding that "as a soldier, I know how to do my task and leave once I am called back".

He said he had even told Sonia Gandhi that he was ready to hang his boots and allow someone else to take over as the Chief Minister after leading the Congress to another sweeping win in Punjab. "But that did not happen, so I will fight," he asserted, taking strong exception at being subjected to "humiliation" by calling a Congress Legislative Party meeting in a secretive manner, without taking him into confidence. "I would not have taken MLAs on a flight to Goa or some place. That is not how I operate. I don't do gimmicks, and the Gandhi siblings know that is not my way," he said, adding: "Priyanka and Rahul (Gandhi) are like my children... this should not have ended like this. I am hurt."

He claimed that the Gandhi siblings were "quite inexperienced" and "their advisors were clearly misguiding them".

Indicating that he was still keeping his political options open, the former Chief Minister said he was talking to his friends before deciding on his future course of action. "You can be old at 40 and young at 80," he quipped, making it clear that he did not see his age as a hurdle.

On allegations of inaccessibility, Amarinder Singh said he had been elected to the Vidhan Sabha seven times and twice to the Parliament.

SC REFUSES TO DEFER 1ST NDA EXAM FOR WOMEN

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, Sept 22: The Supreme Court Wednesday rejected the Centre's plea to defer the first National Defence Academy (NDA) exam for women candidates, and directed they should be allowed to sit for the upcoming exam November 14.

A bench headed by Justice Sanjay Kishan Kaul said: "This won't send the right signal to women after having given them the aspiration. Let's begin from this year." As Additional Solicitor General Aishwarya Bhati, representing the Centre, submitted "your lordships may allow us to skip this examination (November 14) which is going to take place, for which your lordships had passed the interim order", the bench said: "Let us see the result -- how many will take it and how many women will clear the exam", as it emphasised that it finds it difficult to postpone everything by a year. "Having given some hope to the women to take the examination in November, we don't want to belie that hope now," it said.

The bench said the planning can go on and appreciated Centre's endeavour to develop a curriculum and infrastructure for the women cadets, as it reiterated that the Armed Forces should allow women to appear for the NDA exam in November this year, and not wait till May 2022.

Bhati contended that in the very next exam, the first exam of 2022, the girls can participate. "Your Lordships will appreciate that there is a fixed number of every course of NDA - the standards will have to be fixed to start with the medical standards etc," she said.

Top court rejects Shree Padmanabha Swamy Temple Trust's plea

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Sept 22: The Supreme Court Wednesday rejected a plea filed by Shree Padmanabha Swamy Temple Trust (SPSTT), run by the Travancore royal family, seeking it be exempt from the special audit of 25 years as ordered by the top court last year.

The special audit should be completed as early as possible, preferably within three months, the apex court said. A bench headed by Justice U U Lalit said it had initially directed special audit of the temple and its properties be conducted by Vinod Rai, former CAG, in response to the report of the senior advocate Gopal Subramaniam, who was appointed amicus curiae in the case April 24, 2014.

The amicus had suggested an audit in his report from the financial year 1989-90 to 2013-14. Later, the order of May 5, 2015 recorded the submissions of senior advocate Arvind P Datar, appearing for SPSTT that it would not have any difficulty in cooperating with Rai in undertaking scrutiny of the audit reports and in conducting a fresh audit.

"It is quite clear that the audit contemplated by said direction was not intended to be confined to the Temple but was also with respect to SPSTT. This direction has to be seen in the light of the report dated April 15, 2014 of the amicus curiae and the submissions of Datar. Thus, the first prayer made in Miscellaneous Application No.1465 of 2021 deserves to be rejected," said the bench.

The apex court however refrained from passing any order on the plea of the Trust to exempt it from the administrative supervision of the Administrative Committee constituted by it saying that it requires factual analysis.

Air pollution biggest environmental threat: WHO

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Sept 22: Air pollution is one of the biggest environmental threats to human health alongside climate change, the World Health Organisation said Wednesday as it released its new air quality guidelines for the first time since its last global update in 2005.

"New World Health Organisation Global Air Quality Guidelines provide clear evidence of the damage air pollution inflicts on human health, at even lower concentrations than previously understood," it said in a statement.

The guidelines recommend new air quality levels to protect the health of populations, by reducing levels of key air pollutants, some of which also contribute to climate change.

AQG is an annual mean concentration guideline for particulate matter and other pollutants. "Since WHO's last 2005 global update, there has been a marked increase of evidence that shows how air pollution affects different aspects of health. For that reason, and after a systematic review of the accumulated evidence, WHO has adjusted almost all the AQGs levels downwards, warning that exceeding the new air quality guideline levels is associated with significant risks to health," the WHO said.

The 2021 guidelines stipulate that PM 10 should not exceed 15 µg/m<sup>3</sup> (micrograms per cubic metre of air) annually, or 45 µg/m<sup>3</sup> 24-hour mean. According to the 2005 guideline, the limit was 20 µg/m<sup>3</sup> annual mean or 50 µg/m<sup>3</sup> 24-hour mean for PM 10.

They recommend that PM 2.5 should not exceed 5 µg/m<sup>3</sup> annual mean, or 15 µg/m<sup>3</sup> 24-hour mean. As per the 2005 guideline, the limit was 10 µg/m<sup>3</sup> annual mean or 25 µg/m<sup>3</sup> 24-hour mean for PM 2.5.

Under the 2005 guideline, the AQG level of another pollutant Nitrogen Dioxide was 40 µg/m<sup>3</sup> annual mean which has now been changed by the WHO to 10 µg/m<sup>3</sup>.

The global health body added that by striving to achieve these guideline levels, countries will be both protecting health as well as mitigating global climate change.

In 2013, outdoor air pollution and particulate matter were classified as carcinogenic by WHO's International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC).

Nepal to recall its envoy to India

Kathmandu, Sept 22: Prime Minister Sher Bahadur Deuba led Nepal government has decided to recall ambassadors from 12 nations appointed by former premier K P Sharma Oli, including envoy to India Nilamber Acharya, according to a media report. With this decision, out of 33, Nepal's 23 diplomatic missions abroad will remain vacant from the next three weeks to one month. As many as 11 missions have been headless for a long time, The Kathmandu Post reported.

"A Cabinet meeting today decided to recall the ambassadors appointed under political quotas by the Oli government," said Minister for Law, Justice and Parliamentary Affairs Gyanendra Bahadur Karki. "Those appointed from among career diplomats will carry on their duties," Karki said. The decision will mean Nepal will not have ambassadors in some key countries, with which it has a "very close" working relationship, including India, China, the United States and the United Kingdom. Other than Acharya, Mahendra Bahadur Pandey Yubraj Khatiwada and Lok Darshan Regmi, who are serving in Beijing, Washington DC and London respectively, now will have to return as per the new decision of the Deuba government. Acharya was appointed to lead the Delhi mission in February 2019. Earlier on July 18, five days after the new government was formed, Deuba's Cabinet had cancelled 11 recommendations made by the Oli government as ambassadors to different countries.

US COVID deaths topping 1,900 a day

Washington, Sept 22: COVID-19 deaths in the US have climbed to an average of more than 1,900 a day for the first time since early March, with experts saying the virus is preying largely on a distinct group - 71 million unvaccinated Americans. The increasingly lethal turn has filled hospitals, complicated the start of the school year, delayed the return to offices and demoralized health care workers.

"It is devastating," said Dr. Dena Hubbard, a pediatrician in the Kansas City, Missouri, area who has cared for babies delivered prematurely by cesarean section in a last-ditch effort to save their mothers, some of whom died. For health workers, the deaths, combined with misinformation and disbelief about the virus, have been "heart-wrenching, soul-crushing." Twenty-two people died in one week alone at CoxHealth hospitals in the Springfield-Branson area, a level almost as high as that of all of Chicago. West Virginia has had more deaths in the first three weeks of September - 340 - than in the previous three months combined. Georgia is averaging 125 dead per day, more than California or other more populous states. "I've got to tell you, a guy has got to wonder if we are ever going to see the end of it or not," said Collin Follis, who is the coroner in Missouri's Madison County and works at a funeral home. The nation was stunned back in December when it was witnessing 3,000 deaths a day. But that was when almost no one was vaccinated.

INDIAN TRAVELLERS MUST FOLLOW NON-VACCINATED RULES, SAYS UK

Under new international travel norms that come in force for England from October 4, India is not yet on a list of 17 countries on an approved vaccinations list and therefore not exempt from quarantine rules

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

London, Sept 22: The UK government Wednesday issued an updated international travel advisory to include AstraZeneca Covishield among the eligible COVID-19 vaccine formulations but kept India out of the 17 countries on an approved vaccinations list, requiring Indians to follow rules set out for non-vaccinated travellers. Under new international travel norms that come in force for England from October 4, India is not yet on a list of 17 countries on an approved vaccinations list and therefore not exempt from quarantine rules.

There was widespread condemnation of the Serum Institute of India manufactured Oxford/AstraZeneca vaccine, Covishield, not being covered under the reviewed international travel norms and fully vaccinated travellers from India being subjected to the compulsory 10-day quarantine in line with non-vaccinated travellers. "We are engaging with the government of India to explore how we could expand UK recognition of vaccine certification to people vaccinated by a relevant public health body in India," a British High Commission spokesperson said on Wednesday. "The UK is committed to opening up international travel again as soon as is practicable and this announcement is a further step to enable people to travel more freely again, in a safe and sustainable way, while protecting public health," the spokesperson said. It came amid much confusion over the process for Indian travellers as the advisory states: "Formulations of the 4 listed vaccines, such as AstraZeneca Covishield, AstraZeneca Vaxzevria and Moderna Takeda, qualify as approved vaccines."

However, UK government officials have indicated that Indian travellers to the UK must follow the "non-vaccinated rules", which means Indian passengers must take a COVID test three days before departure and book in advance for two COVID tests to be taken upon arrival in England. On arrival in England, the passengers must self-isolate in the place they have confirmed on their passenger locator form for 10 days. A privately paid-for "Test to Release" option does exist at day five, which allows an early end to the 10-day quarantine with a negative PCR test.

These rules are effectively unchanged from India's current amber list status, even though from October 4 England's traffic light system of red, amber and green countries based on levels of COVID-19 risk is to be officially scrapped. However, despite Covishield being one of the main vaccines being administered in India and falling within the UK's eligible formulations, it would not offer any advantage to Indian travellers planning a UK visit. "We have to see how it goes. But if we do not get satisfaction we would be within our rights to impose reciprocal measures," Foreign Secretary Harsh Vardhan Shringla said in New Delhi in response to a question on the issue on Tuesday. "The basic issue is that here is a vaccine, Covishield, which is a licensed product of the UK company, manufactured in India of which we have supplied five million doses to the UK at the request of the government of the UK. We understand that this is being used under the national health system, and, therefore, non-recognition of Covishield is a discriminatory policy and does impact those of our citizens travelling to the UK," he said.

Covishield and other Indian vaccines being covered as eligible would mean that self-isolation and a pre-departure PCR test is no longer required as long as vaccinated travellers pre-book a day two test post-arrival in England and complete the compulsory passenger locator form in advance. From October 4, travellers from 17 additional countries with eligible vaccines, including Australia, Japan, Singapore and Malaysia, will fall under the UK's list of recognised jabs of Oxford/AstraZeneca, Pfizer BioNTech, Moderna or Janssen vaccines. The DHSC has said this list is reviewed fortnightly.

China, Russia, Pak envoys meet Taliban officials in Kabul

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Beijing, Sept 22: Special envoys of China, Russia and Pakistan have met the top officials of the Taliban's interim government as well as Afghan leaders Hamid Karzai and Abdullah Abdullah in Kabul and discussed the formation of an inclusive government, combating terrorism and humanitarian situation, a top Chinese official said Wednesday. The three special envoys visited Kabul from September 21 to 22 and held talks with acting Prime Minister Mohammad Hasan Akhund, Foreign Minister Amir Khan Mutaqi, Finance Minister and other high-level officials of the interim government, Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman Zhao Lijian told a media briefing here.

Significantly, they also met with former President Karzai and Abdullah Abdullah, President of the Council for National Reconciliation under the previous government. "We exchanged views on the current developments in the country, & welcomed the role of AFG's neighbours in achieving peace, stability & inclusive government," Abdullah Abdullah tweeted. "They emphasised on formation of an inclusive government acceptable to all, peace, stability, moderate policy, respecting women rights, equal right of education for all Afghans & regional cooperation," he said. This is perhaps the first time that the foreign diplomats met Karzai and Abdullah who stayed put in Kabul after the Taliban seized power in Afghanistan last month ahead of the withdrawal of the US and NATO troops. "The Taliban underscored special attention to advancing relations with Russia, China and Pakistan and stressed the major role of the three countries in strengthening peace and security in Afghanistan," Russia's TASS news agency reported, citing Russian government news release on the three envoys' visit to Kabul.

All three countries kept their embassies open in Kabul while the US, India and the EU countries have closed their missions after Taliban's takeover of Kabul. Besides coordinating closely with Russia on Afghanistan, Pakistan and China, who are playing a lead role after the Taliban seized Kabul, are trying to establish a new grouping of countries sharing borders with Afghanistan. The new grouping includes China, Pakistan, Iran, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan, all of them Afghanistan's neighbours. The Foreign Ministers of the group held a virtual meeting September 7.

Highlighting its significance, Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan said Tuesday that the new group will jointly decide about extending recognition to the Taliban's interim government. Memorandums of Understanding (MoU) would be signed between Pakistan and Chinese institutions. "We wish to train Pakistani experts in modern medical technologies as well as traditional Chinese medicines, which is a treatment of choice by millions of people in China. These experts would not only fulfill the medical needs of visiting Chinese nationals but also of the Pakistani people, who believe in alternate medicine," Prof Shahzad Ali Khan said. In the first step, Chairman China Pakistan Health Corridor Dr Lee, also the VC, HSA, will sign an MoU for the HSA's joining into the China Pakistan Health Corridor, he said, adding the Department of Public Health of Wuhan University will sign an MoU for multiple cooperation in the academic partnership between China and Pakistan in the field of public health.

Taliban name Shaheen as Afghan envoy to UN

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

United Nations, Sept 22: The Taliban have written to Secretary-General Antonio Guterres nominating their spokesman Suhail Shaheen as Afghanistan's new ambassador to the UN and have asked to participate and speak in the high-level 76th session of the General Assembly currently underway here. The nomination sets up a confrontation between the Taliban and Afghanistan's fallen government envoy Gram Isakuzai, who has held his post so far. The Taliban swept across the country last month, seizing control of almost all key towns and cities in the backdrop of withdrawal of the US forces that began on May 1. On August 15, the capital city of Kabul fell to the insurgents. The Taliban claimed victory over opposition forces in the last holdout province of Panjshir on September 6, completing their takeover of Afghanistan three weeks after capturing Kabul. On September 20, on the eve of the commencement of the high-level UN General Debate, the Secretary-General received a communication with the letterhead "Islamic Emirate of Afghanistan, Ministry of Foreign Affairs" dated September 20, 2021, signed by "Ameer Khan Muttaqi" as "Minister of Foreign Affairs". In the letter, the Taliban requested to participate in the "76th session of the UN General Assembly on September 21-27." Farhan Haq, the Deputy Spokesman for the Secretary-General, said that the letter also indicates that as of August 15, 2021, "Mohammad Ashraf Ghani is ousted and (countries across the world) no longer recognise him as president". Ghani, who had fled the country as the Taliban took control of Kabul on August 15, had appointed Isakuzai as Kabul's envoy to the UN in June 2021.

Quad summit faces changed environment after US pullout

THE CHAOTIC US WITHDRAWAL FROM AFGHANISTAN HAS CHANGED THE DYNAMICS IN THE REGION GIVING CHINA AN EDGE BECAUSE OF ITS ADOPTION OF THE TALIBAN WHILE RAISING DOUBTS FOR THE ALLIES ABOUT THEIR RELIANCE ON THE US

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New York, Sept 22: When Prime Minister Narendra Modi sits down Friday with President Joe Biden and Prime Ministers Yoshihide Suga of Japan and Scott Morrison of Australia for their in-person summit - the first with Biden - they will face a world with a new set of complexities - but also a higher level of intent by the US to involve itself in the region. The chaotic US withdrawal from Afghanistan has changed the dynamics in the region giving China an edge because of its adoption of the Taliban while raising doubts for the allies about their reliance on the US.

Former British Prime Minister Theresa May asked in Parliament, "What does it say about NATO, if we are entirely dependent on a unilateral decision by the US?" The European Union (EU) also is stepping up its involvement in the Indo-Pacific, but independent of the US. But Biden has shifted his priorities to the Indo-Pacific where a direct confrontation with China is building up and, in fact, he cited that as a rationale for pulling out of Afghanistan. He is continuing on the path to expanding the role of the Quad beyond just security matters, a goal the leaders set when they held a virtual summit in March.

Giving a reassurance about the commitment to the group, he said at the UN on Tuesday, "We elevated the Quad partnership among Australia, India, Japan and the United States to take on challenges ranging from health security to climate to emerging technologies, engaging with regional institutions." In another indication of the commitment, Australia, the United Kingdom and the US announced a security pact, AUKUS, that could impact the Indo-Pacific region. He has offered Australia nuclear-powered submarines that would make its navy more effective in facing threats from China. But at the same time, it set off a diplomatic spat with France, whose contract to sell diesel submarines to Australia was scuttled. The EU, which had been somewhat ambivalent about the strong policy that Biden has co-opted from the strategic arsenal of former President Donald Trump, is also showing renewed interest in the Indo-Pacific with plans of its own.

India to block Chinese investment in LIC IPO

The trust deficit has significantly widened, said one of the government officials, adding that Chinese investment in companies like LIC could pose risks

AGENCIES

New Delhi, Sept 22: New Delhi wants to block Chinese investors from buying shares in Indian insurance giant Life Insurance Corp (LIC) which is due to go public, four senior government officials and a banker told agencies, underscoring tensions between the two nations.

State-owned LIC is considered a strategic asset, commanding more than 60% of India's life insurance market with assets of more than $500 billion. While the government is planning to allow foreign investors to participate in what is likely to be the country's biggest-ever IPO (Initial Public Offering) worth a potential $12.2 billion, it is leery of Chinese ownership, the sources said.

Political tensions between the countries rocketed last year after their soldiers clashed on the disputed Himalayan border and since then, India has sought to limit Chinese investment in sensitive companies and sectors, banned a raft of Chinese mobile apps and subjected imports of Chinese goods to extra scrutiny.

Aiming to solve budget constraints, Prime Minister Narendra Modi's administration is hoping to raise 900 billion rupees through selling 5% to 10% of LIC this financial year which ends in March. The government has yet to decide on whether it will sell one tranche of shares seeking to raise the full amount or choose to seek the funds in two tranches, sources have said.

Things to remember while renewing motor, health insurance policies

Renewals allow you an opportunity to review your contract, upgrade and improve your cover to ensure that you are thoroughly protected

Motor Insurance

IDV - Insured declared value is the most important element in your motor insurance and directly affects the cost of the premium. IDV reflects the maximum amount which you will get from your insurer in case of total loss. During renewal, you might be allured by the prospect of paying a lower premium offered by another insurer; however, more often than not this lower premium comes at the cost of reduced IDV. Please do not compromise your IDV for a lower premium, as it will leave you under-insured.

No claim bonus - You are eligible for no claim bonus if you haven't filed any claim in the preceding year. For each claim-free year, your insurer rewards you with NCB which goes maximum up to 50% for 5 consecutive claim-free years. NCB discount can considerably reduce your Own Damage (OD) premium; make sure you opt for NCB during claim-free years. I want to highlight that NCB discount applies only to OD premium, not the entire premium which constitutes both the premiums, OD and TP.

Add On features - Apart from the standard cover, motor insurance offers many useful add-ons which help in building a complete protection plan for your vehicle. Few add-ons like engine protection cover, zero depreciation cover, no claim bonus protection cover, return to invoice cover can add value and bolster your motor insurance. Also, few add on covers are granted basis to the age of the vehicle and may not be available for your older vehicles.

Health Insurance

Sum Insured adequacy - Renewal is the right time to re-visit your sum insured limit and evaluate its sufficiency. The sum insured that you opted initially might not be adequate a few years down the line due to medical inflation and increased cost of treatment. A high sum insured ensures that you have sufficient cover during the time of need.

Top-up plan - While evaluating the adequacy of your health cover, if you realize that your current policy is not sufficient to cover you during exigency, you can avail top-up plan. They are designed to provide you additional coverage over and above the base policy at a nominal price. Top-up plans give you the freedom to explore the market since you can buy the cover from any insurer of your choice and are not bound to buy it from your incumbent insurer.

Disclosure of new ailments - If you or the insured members in the policy have acquired any new ailment, it is in your best interest to declare it during the renewal. In a health insurance policy, it is of material importance that you share the details related to your health with your insurer to avoid hassles later, especially during the time of claims.

I know, it becomes difficult to keep track of the renewal dates, and it is one of the major reasons why policy lapses. However, today all leading insurance companies have their apps which are as important as any other application on your mobile. These apps have a dashboard that will give you an overview of all your policies. It will help you in keeping track of your renewals besides the entire policy management. In a matter of few simple clicks, you can renew your insurance contract and enjoy peace of mind.

Dominant DC maul SRH

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Dubai, Sept 22: Delhi Capitals (DC) rode on a brilliant fast bowling performance from their South African duo Anrich Nortje (2/12) and Kagiso Rabada (3/37) to pulverise wooden spooners Sunrisers Hyderabad (SRH) by eight wickets as they took a giant leap towards IPL play-offs Wednesday.

Capitals produced top-notch performance in their first match of the second phase of this year's IPL to eke out the easy win in 17.5 overs in their pursuit of a modest 135-run target.

It was only possible after fast furious Nortje bowled at 150 clicks and was ably supported Rabada and Axar Patel (2/21) in a brilliant bowling effort.

Last edition's runners-up are now well and truly in contention for clinching a play-off berth with 14 points from nine games while SRH with two points are all but out of the competition.

DC started their chase on an aggressive note with Shikhar Dhawan (42, 37b, 6x4, 1x6) and young Prithvi Shaw (11) adding 20 runs in 17 balls before the latter was caught by Kane Williamson off the bowling of Khaleel Ahmed as the batsman went for an extravagant shot over mid-wicket.

Orange Cap Dhawan was unperturbed as he continued his attacking batting. While SRH batsmen struggled, Dhawan made batting look easy on the wicket as DC reached 69/1 in the 10th over.

But Dhawan paid the price for being too aggressive when he was holed out by Abdul Samad off the bowling of Rashid Khan (1/26) as the left-hander went for a slog sweep over deep square leg in search of a six.

Shreyas Iyer (47 n o, 41b, 2x4, 2x6), who played the second fiddle when Dhawan was around, then took the onus on himself and upped the ante. Iyer continued to bat freely and in the company of skipper Rishabh Pant (35 n o, 21b, 3x4, 2x6) took DC home with 13 balls to spare.

Earlier, SRH put up a dismal batting performance to manage a meagre 134/9. Nortje and Rabada were terrific with the ball as they extracted extra bounce and pace from the relatively low and slow wicket to dismantle SRH top-order.

BY 8 WICKETS.

The script didn't turn out as SRH wanted after opting to bat as they lost David Warner (0) in the third ball of the innings without any runs on the board. Wriddhiman Saha (18) then added 29 runs with skipper Williamson (18) before the former mistimed a pull to Dhawan at midwicket of the bowling of Rabada.

Williamson and Manish Pandey then stitched 31 runs for the third wicket but SRH soon suffered a jolt when their skipper gave a simple catch to Shimron Hetmyer at long-off the bowling of Patel. Pandey (18) followed suit and Kedar Jadhav (3) too didn't help his cause either. Jason Holder (10) too turned out to be a big flop for SRH.

Damage already done, Abdul Samad (28) tried his best to shore up the run-rate in company of Rashid Khan (22) but he too departed in search of quick runs, top-edging a miss-timed pull to DC skipper Rishabh Pant off Rabada's bowling.

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Abu Dhabi, Sept 22: Defending champions Mumbai Indians would look for inspiration from skipper Rohit Sharma, who is set to return to action, when they take on a rejuvenated Kolkata Knight Riders (KKR) in the Indian Premier League match here Thursday.

Mumbai were without the services of Rohit and star all-rounder Hardik Pandya in their 20-run defeat to Chennai Super Kings Sunday as both were rested as a precautionary measure due to having niggles. However, head coach Mahela Jayawardene has said Rohit should be fit and available for selection for the match against KKR.

KKR, on the other hand, have registered a dominating nine-wicket win over Royal Challengers Bangalore in their opening game of the second leg of the league.

Mumbai, who are currently placed fourth in the table with eight points, began their second leg campaign in a typical slow manner but with only half the tournament left to play, the defending champions need to win to stay in the top half of the league table.

Rohit, who has been in fine touch of late, will be expected to continue in the same vein and help his side make amends of the inept batting performance against CSK. Apart from Saurabh Tewary, who hit an unbeaten half century, none of the other batsmen were able to capitalize on their starts against CSK, failing to chase down 156.

On the other hand, the comprehensive win would have boosted KKR's confidence. Having struggled in the first leg, KKR looked a completely different unit, in the manner in which they defeated RCB.

The Eoin Morgan-led side, placed sixth in the points table, debutant Venkatesh Iyer chased down the 93-run target with 10 overs to spare.

Skipper Morgan had said that KKR would be dangerous opponents with nothing to lose in the second leg and the team certainly looked menacing against RCB. They will hope to continue playing in a similar aggressive fashion and win the title just like 2014 edition when they notched nine victories in a row.

They will also hold the edge over their rivals having already experienced the conditions at the Sheikh Zayed Stadium against RCB.

COMMENTS ON RR-PBKS MATCH

KARTIK TYAGI: This feels really good. I have been talking to seniors over the years and they keep telling me that things keep changing in this format, so I need to keep believing. I've always heard from everyone and also watched games in this format where strange things have happened. Today, I was fortunate to play a big role in something special.

SANJU SAMSON: It's funny that we kept believing (that we could win). I kept the overs of Mustafizur and Tyagi for the end, believing. Cricket is a funny game right. We just kept fighting and believing. I always believe in my bowlers, want to keep fighting and that's why I kept those two overs till the end. To be very honest, to get that score on this wicket, we felt good because we had the bowling. If we took the catches, we could have won the game earlier. People have really worked hard on their fitness.

KL RAHUL: This is a tough one to swallow. We need to see how we can handle pressure better. It's happened to the best in the game. Tough one to swallow that you haven't learnt from your previous mistakes. We bowled decent lengths in the first six. Unfortunately that edges got it away from us. But we pulled this back nicely with the ball.

ANIL KUMBLE: It's (letting the game slip away) sort of become a bit of a pattern for us, especially as soon as we get to Dubai, it seems. There was a clear message saying we need to finish this game in 19 overs, and that was the approach. Unfortunately, we let it till the end, and in the last couple of balls it becomes a lottery (with) a new batsman going in, it is a bit of lottery.

Pak blames India for NZ withdrawal

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Islamabad, Sept 22: Pakistan Wednesday alleged that a threatening email was sent to the New Zealand cricket squad from India, which prompted the Kiwis to call off a tour of the country.

The Kiwis called off their first tour of Pakistan after 18 years last Friday due to a security threat to the team, followed by a decision by the England and Wales Cricket Board (ECB) Monday to cancel a bilateral series scheduled for next month in Pakistan.

Pakistan has been claiming that India was behind some of the terror attacks in the country recently. India has dismissed these claims as "baseless propaganda" and asked Islamabad to take "credible and verifiable" action against terrorism emanating from its soil instead.

"It is not new for Pakistan to engage in baseless propaganda against India. Pakistan would do well to expend the same effort in setting its own house in order and taking credible and verifiable action against terrorism emanating from its soil and terrorists who have found safe sanctuaries there," Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) Spokesperson Arindam Bagchi said in July.

"The international community is well aware of Pakistan's credentials when it comes to terrorism. This is acknowledged by none other than its own leadership, which continues to glorify terrorists like Osama Bin Laden as 'martyrs'," he said. Speaking at a press conference alongside Interior Minister Sheikh Rashid Ahmed here Wednesday, Information Minister Fawad Chaudhry said that a fake post was created in August under Tehreek-i-Taliban Pakistan militant Ehsanullah Ehsan's name which told the New Zealand cricket board and government to refrain from sending the team to Pakistan as it would be "targeted".

Pakistan paramilitary troops and police officials stand guard outside the Pindi Cricket Stadium following the cancellation of the first ODI, eventually the tour, against New Zealand, September 17

Despite this, the New Zealand cricket team travelled to Pakistan. However, on the day of the first match New Zealand officials said that their government had concerns of a credible threat and cancelled the tour, Chaudhry said. "PCB officials, the interior ministry security team, everyone went to them and asked them to share the threat... (but) they were as clueless as us," he was quoted as saying by 'Dawn News'.

He said that a day later, a second threatening email was sent to the New Zealand team using the ID, Hamza Afridi. He claimed that investigating authorities discovered that the email was sent from a device associated with India.

"It was sent using a virtual private network (VPN) so the location was shown as Singapore," he claimed. He said that the same device had 13 other IDs, nearly all of which were Indian names.

"The device used to send the threat to the New Zealand team belonged to India. A fake ID was used but it was sent from Maharashtra," he claimed.

He said that the interior ministry had registered a case and had requested Interpol for assistance and information on the Tehreek-i-Labbaik ProtonMail and the ID of Hamza Afridi.

He said that the West Indies team was travelling to Pakistan in December. "A threat has already been issued to the team," he claimed, adding that this was also issued via a ProtonMail account.

"This is unfortunate. We believe this is a campaign against international cricket. The International Cricket Council (ICC) and other bodies must take notice," he said.

Tuesday, Chaudhry had claimed that his country was paying a price for saying no to the US on allowing American military bases on its soil.

Commenting on England's decision to cancel their tour, Chaudhry said that British High Commissioner Christian Turner had made it clear that the United Kingdom government's advisory for Pakistan was not being changed.

"So if the government has no reservations, who is the ECB (to cancel the tour)? To claim that players are tired is a shoddy excuse," he said. He said that PCB chairman Rameez Raja, foreign ministry and Interior ministry would take up the issue at all concerned forums and Pakistan Television would evaluate the financial losses. "We are working on this and if our legal team permits, we will sue the ECB," he said.

CITY, REDS ADVANCE

ASSOCIATED PRESS

London, Sept 22: Bidding to win the English League Cup for a fifth straight season, Manchester City's players fell behind during a game in the competition for the first time in nearly four years.

They immediately put that right. City responded to conceding a surprise opening goal at home to third-tier Wycombe Wanderers in the 22nd minute by scoring three times before halftime and eventually easing to a 6-1 win.

Among the scorers for City were Kevin De Bruyne and Phil Foden as they build up their match fitness after early-season injuries.

Brandon Hanlan put Wycombe ahead in front of a stunned home crowd at Etihad Stadium. De Bruyne equalised within seven minutes and there were further goals from Riyad Mahrez (2), Phil Foden, Ferran Torres and young substitute Cole Palmer.

Pep Guardiola's team last tasted defeat in the League Cup in October 2016, and hasn't trailed since the first leg of the semifinals in January 2018.

Like City, Liverpool used the competition to hand starts to fringe players and senior debuts to a number of its promising youngsters — including a 16-year-old in Kaide Gordon — and they enjoyed a 3-0 victory at fellow Premier League team Norwich. Japan forward Takumi Minamino started and finished the scoring.

Liverpool and City are tied on a record eight League Cup titles. Six of City's have come in the eight previous seasons.

Everton were one of three Premier League teams taken to a penalty shootout by lower-league opposition, and fell to an 8-7 loss to second-tier Queens Park Rangers following a 2-2 draw after 90 minutes.

Southampton and Leeds fared better to overcome teams who were in the top flight last season — Sheffield United and Fulham, respectively. Brentford thrashed Oldham 7-0 and Burnley cruised past another third-tier opponent, Rochdale, 4-1.
