Varsha lodges complaint against hubby Anubhav

AGENCIES

Cuttack, May 22: A day after actor-politician Anubhav Mohanty released a video on the social media accusing his wife Varsha Priyadarshini of denying him the conjugal rights he deserved for years, Varsha Sunday lodged a complaint with the Purighat police here accusing the Kendrapara MP of tarnishing her image.

Mohanty had May 19 and 21 released videos on the social media holding Varsha responsible for the marital dispute.

In his latest video, the Parliamentarian said he was the first one to file a petition for divorce. "My only reason for filing the divorce as cited in the petition was non-consummation of marriage. Even after eight years of marriage, my life partner didn't give me the rights that I deserve being a husband," said Mohanty.

He went on to add: "After we got married in 2014, she had said that since childhood she feared physical relationship. She requested me to give her some time to accept me as her husband mentally as well as physically."

In the video shared on social media May 19, Mohanty broke down and poured his heart out over his 'failed' marriage with the actress. Without taking any name, the actor-turned-politician said choosing a life partner was the only mistake he had committed that ruined his life.

Row over midnight survey

The Archaeological Survey of India was kept in the dark about the Ground Penetrating Radar Survey conducted around the Srimandir

POST NEWS NETWORK

Puri, May 22: The controversy surrounding the Srimandir Heritage Corridor Project has refused to abate with the district administration carrying out Ground Penetrating Radar Survey (GPRS) around the temple in a clandestine manner Saturday midnight.

Meanwhile, the Archaeological Survey of India's circle office at Puri has clarified that it had no prior information about the survey.

Sources from the office said that neither the Odisha Bridge and Construction Corporation nor the temple or district administration informed it on conducting the survey. No official from ASI was present at the site where the survey was being conducted. However, as per norms, an ASI official is required to be present at the site during survey.

The state government in an affidavit in the Orissa High Court, May 9 had informed the Advocate General that ASI officials will be present in all the works that will be

However, it has deviated in this case. The AMASR Act-1958 speaks the same. It says that survey cannot be conducted without the presence of ASI officials.

As per sources, some people were spotted carrying out inspection near the Meghanad wall of the Srimandir and other nearby spots with some machines on their hands late Saturday night. The GPRS was not carried out at the excavated site.

The heritage corridor project row is currently sub-judice in the Orissa High Court which has scheduled the next date of hearing in the case June 20. During the last hearing in the case, the Archaeological Survey of India in its joint inspection report had submitted that the Odisha government had not carried out the GPRS around the 12th century temple before executing deep excavation works for the project construction.

Maha, Kerala, Raj reduce VAT on fuel

AGENCIES

New Delhi, May 22: Maharashtra, Rajasthan and Kerala have decreased VAT on petrol and diesel after Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman's call to provide further relief to consumers following a cut in excise duty by the Centre, though some other states appeared reluctant citing their inability to take more strain on revenue.

The Shiv Sena-led Maharashtra government slashed the VAT on petrol by ₹2.08 per litre and diesel by ₹1.44 per litre. A statement issued by the government said the state exchequer will have to bear an annual loss of ₹2,500 crore as a result of this decision.

However, the DMK-led government in Tamil Nadu said that it is neither fair nor reasonable to expect states to reduce their taxes.

ernment in Kerala had Saturday promptly announced a cut in the state tax on the prices of petrol and diesel by ₹2.41 and ₹1.36 per litre respectively, following the reduction in fuel prices by the Centre. Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot also said the state government will reduce VAT by ₹2.48 per liter on petrol and ₹1.16 per liter on diesel.

In Madhya Pradesh, Congress leader Kamal Nath demanded that the BJP government reduce VAT on petroleum products to further bring down the rates.

Bahujan Samaj Party chief Mayawati said it was the duty of not only Uttar Pradesh but also of other states to immediately announce a cut in VAT on fuel.

In BJP-ruled Karnataka, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said his government will consider a further cut in fuel tax.

Pooja hopes to inspire Indian girls to dream big

Mumbai: Pooja Hegde, who has made her debut at the 75th annual Cannes Film Festival, is hoping to inspire young Indian girls to dream big.

Hegde also has a lot more stories to tell, saying "I want to do more films for women because I genuinely think that we are not represented enough. When I see a powerful woman on film, you want to emulate them, you want to be them, and I hope I can be a small part of that in terms of inspiring girls in India to just dream a little bigger and tap their inner potential."

Citing Oscar winner Bong Joon-ho, the actress said: "I think that it's time we stop looking at languages as a barrier; it's like the director of Parasite said at the Oscars that if we get over that one-inch barrier of a subtitle we would be privy to such amazing content across the world, and across India."

India, she noted, is "so culturally diverse and so culturally rich as a country, and I think film is a way to make us understand other people in a much more insightful way and personal way. We have it in us we just need to continue to tell our stories the way we want them to be told."

Ray's work inspires projects at Cannes

Cannes: A restored version of Indian maestro Satyajit Ray's The Adversary (Pratidwandi in Bengali) is playing at Cannes Classics this year and films inspired by his works are being planned.

Kolkata-based Indian producer-director Aritra Sen's Roadshow Films and Los Angeles-based British writer-director Alex Harvey's Big Bazaar Films are producing two films this year, which take their inspiration from Ray's life and work, said a report.

First up is feature documentary Forest of Humans, which looks at Ray's creative relationship with Kolkata, the city where he lived and worked all his life.

Directed by Harvey and produced by Sen, the documentary explores the many ways in which Ray used Kolkata's diverse humanity to create an entire cinematic world.

"Kolkata endlessly fed Ray's imagination, in return Ray gave the city its sense of self," says Sen.

"His films never try to idealise Kolkata but constantly transform how it is perceived," says Harvey. "Look at The Adversary's disaffected anti-hero who is seen apart from his city, unable to find solace in its casual pleasures," he added.

Both filmmakers said they are committed to exploring the rich legacy offered by Ray.

'Monkeypox patients could be infectious for up to 4 weeks'

People who catch the virus initially suffer a fever before rashes and skin lesions appear on the face and body. The virus can then be passed on through touching the affected areas or via droplets expelled in coughs and sneezes

Health experts have reportedly said that monkeypox patients could pass on the disease for up to four weeks after symptoms appear.

Amesh Adalja, an emerging infectious diseases expert at John Hopkins University, made the warning in an interview that monkeypox patients could be infectious for up to four weeks, reports the DailyMail.

People who catch the virus initially suffer a fever before rashes and skin lesions appear on the face and body. The virus can then be passed on through touching the affected areas or via droplets expelled in coughs and sneezes. "It can take a few weeks for the skin lesions to disappear: People are contagious until their active skin lesions have dissipated," he said.

Michael Head, a global health expert at Southampton University in England, agreed with his assertion, the report said.

"Based on previous monkeypox outbreaks and guidance from [UK health authorities] and WHO, the infectious period (i.e. when the virus can be transmitted to another person) can be comparable to the time period where the rash and blisters are present," Head said.

"This may be for two weeks, and may be longer," he added.

The month-long infectious period raises the likelihood that the virus could be passed on by in-fectured patients to others.

More than 80 cases of monkeypox have been confirmed in at least 12 countries, the WHO has said.

The WHO mentioned another 50 suspected cases are being investigated, without naming any countries, and warned that more cases are likely to be reported. Infections have been confirmed in nine European countries, as well as the US, Canada and Australia.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approved a smallpox drug to treat monkeypox patients, while the WHO revealed it will hold daily meetings as the situation unfolds.

City youth held over extortion charges

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, May 22: The Commissionerate police Sunday arrested a 23-year-old youth for allegedly demanding extortion worth ₹1 lakh by giving death threats to a restaurant owner at Nuagaon Square in City.

The accused identified as Nilu Nayak is a resident of Bhoi Sahi area of Nuagaon under Bharatpur Police limits.

Police sources said that Nayak along with his elder brother used to collect extortion from various businessmen in the Nuagaon market for the past few years.

The sibling had earlier extorted ₹50,000 from the owner of Mishra Restaurant at the Nuagaon Square too.

However, Nayak again reached the complainant's restaurant Saturday morning and asked him to pay ₹1 lakh.

When the victim refused pay the same, Nayak reportedly threatened to shoot him and his family members to death. Later,

Nayak left the spot asking the restaurant owner to pay ₹1 lakh by 10pm that day.

Police subsequently registered a case (200/22) on the basis of the complaint lodged by the victim and arrested the accused immediately.

Nayak was Sunday produced before the court that later sent him to judicial custody. He is also involved three more cases of similar nature registered at Khandagiri and Bharatpur police stations. Police have been taking steps to book the accused under section 110 of the CrPC.

The state level event saw the participation of officers from Forest, Environment & Climate Change department, members of Biodiversity Management Committees (BMCs) from all 30 districts of the Odisha, students and professors from state universities, traditional knowledge holders and practitioners, media persons and other stakeholders.

PCCF-cum-Chairman of Odisha Biodiversity Board, Rajiv Kumar (IFS) in his welcome address briefed about the programme and spoke on the achievements of the board. He also highlighted various activities Former state Principal Chief Conservator of Forests & Head of the Forest Force, Sandeep Tripathy appreciated the board for its efforts to create awareness on biodiversity among people in the grassroots level.

Siddhanta Das, Odisha Real Estate Regulatory Authority Chairperson and former Director General of Forests, specifically highlighted the role of BMCs in achieving the three objectives of the Biological Diversity Act 2002.

He praised the board for involving youth from universities in the programme as he foresaw that inculcating conservation mindset among young people would be extremely fruitful to achieve the goals in the long run.

A video on Biological Diversity of Odisha along with books on "Brachyuran Crabs of Devi Estuary" and "Banyajantu Parichalanara Bistruta Margadarshika" were released in the programme.

Grunt, hoo, pant, scream: Chimps use complex vocal communication

It is not a language but it is amongst the most complex forms of communication described in a non-human animal

CÉDRIC GIRARD-BUTTOZ | BEHAVIORAL ECOLOGIST

Scientists exploring the evolutionary origin of language have detected a vocal communication system among wild chimpanzees more complex and structured than previously known, with a dozen call types combined into hundreds of different sequences.

The researchers made more than 4,800 recordings of vocalisations produced by members of three groups of chimpanzees inhabiting Ivory Coast's Tai National Park, one of the last major remnants of old-growth tropical forest in West Africa and home to a rich array of plants and animals.

Chimpanzees, which along with their cousins the bonobos are the closest living genetic relatives to people, are intelligent and highly social apes that make and utilize tools and can be taught some basic human signing from sign language.

Scientists have long known that chimpanzees use various vocalizations in the wild, but the new study offered a comprehensive examination of this intra-species communication.

"It is not a language but it is amongst the most complex forms of communication described in a non-human animal," said behavioral ecologist Cédric Girard-Buttoz of French research agency CNRS's Institute for Cognitive Science and lead author of the study published this week in the journal Communications Biology.

The call types included a grunt, a panted grunt, a hoo sound, a pant hoot, a bark sound, a panted bark, a pant, a scream, a panted scream, a whimper, a panted roar and the non-vocal lip smack and raspberry sounds. The researchers determined that these call types were used in 390 different sequences.

The order in which the chimpanzees produced the calls appeared to follow rules and structure, though the study did not include conclusions about any potential meanings.

"The key finding is the ability of primate other than humans to produce several structured vocal sequences and to recombine small sequences with two calls into longer sequences by adding calls to it. It is important because it shows the premise of structured communication which could have been the foundation of the evolution towards syntax in our language," Girard-Buttoz said.

Syntax refers to the arrangement of words and phrases to construct understandable sentences.

"One of the most common sequences is the well-described 'pant hoot' sequence either as 'hoo' plus 'pant hoot' or 'hoo' plus 'pant hoot' plus 'pant scream' or 'pant bark'. But other sequences are also frequent like 'hoo' plus 'pant grunt' or 'grunt' plus 'pant grunt'. In general 'pant grunt' and 'pant hoot' are the most common calls used in these sequences," Girard-Buttoz said.

The researchers want to learn whether the various sequences communicate a wider range of meanings in the complex social environment of the chimpanzees. They have suspicions about the potential meanings of certain vocalisations.

"We need to explore in detail the contexts of emission of these vocalizations to see if it shifts between single calls and sequences," Girard-Buttoz said. "Then we need to conduct playback experiments to see if the suspected meaning matches with the behavioral reaction of chimpanzees when they hear the call."

The researchers are not certain whether chimpanzee vocal communication may be similar to the beginnings of language in the human evolutionary lineage. Humans and chimpanzees share a common ancestor but split into separate lineages perhaps 7 million years ago.

"Protolanguage was probably in between what chimpanzees do and what humans do," Girard-Buttoz said.

Govt sits tight over solar-run PWS projects

POST NEWS NETWORK

Jajpur, May 22: The ambitious solar-powered piped water supply (PWS) projects in nine coastal districts affected by floods and cyclones have not yet started. The proposal to this effect has remained non-starter.

According to reports, in May, 2019, the engineer-in-chief of the Rural Water Supply and Sanitation (RWSS) department made a proposal to the Panchayati Raj department to run PWS projects with both electricity and solar power at places where electricity is inaccessible.

It was stated that 4,315 PWS projects will be implemented in Balasore, Bhadrak, Cuttack, Ganjam, Jajpur, Kendrapara, Jagatsinghpur, Khurda and Puri districts at an estimated cost of ₹345.20 crore which will be funded by the World Bank.

Nearly ₹0.08 crore will be spent for each project. Three years have passed since the RWSS moved this proposal, but the state government has not taken any step on it.

Each year, people of these coastal districts are affected with floods and cyclones. Power supply gets disrupted for days together worsening the plight of the people in the flood-hit pockets when they struggle to get safe drinking water in these areas.

Keeping this problem in view, the RWSS had taken a far-sighted proposal to harness solar energy in these flood-prone areas to ensure safe drinking water. However, the proposal has remained confined to the administrative red tape.

On the other hand, as many as 200 solar-run piped drinking water projects have been set up in three phases in Jajpur. However, most of the projects are not working due to use of sub-standard equipment and machinery. The construction agency allegedly got away with money by compromising with quality of work. Most of the projects fail to cater to the drinking water needs of the locals.

Last year, Odisha Renewable Energy Development Agency (OREDA) had conducted a survey on effective public utility of solar projects in Jajpur.

In the survey, it was found that some projects had functioned for a maximum of 281 days since the day of commissioning. Some projects even went defunct within 15 days of operation.

In Dharmasala block, a solar powered drinking water project at Endalaba Bichhakhanda Mundasahi had run for 219 days before going kaput. Similarly, Patapur Harijanasahi project had run for 218 days and Patapur Badabarisahi project for 13 days only.

In Sukinda block, Gobarakhati Mirgichar project ran for 177 days; Chingudipal Chhatanagar Mundasahi project for 169 days and Kharadi project for 211 days.

In Barchana block, Paria Sabarsahi project was effective for 281 days, Bhusandhapur Adabashisahi project for 131 days and Charinangal Jharkul project for 13 days. It was alleged that solar-powered pump sets used for these projects were of poor quality.

Executive engineer of the Jajpur RWSS division, Sushant Kumar Ghadei was contacted over phone but he did not pick up the call.

Mafia destroy sand dunes along coast

POST NEWS NETWORK

Kujang, May 22: Some local mafia gangs, instead of quarrying sand from a nearby private land for which they pay royalty, have been smuggling the minor mineral from natural dunes near seashore in Abhayachandpur mouza under Erasama tehsil of Jagatsinghpur district.

Although hundreds of heavy vehicles are engaged in the illegal activity every day, the Revenue department does not bother to verify if sand is actually being quarried from private land or from the dunes. They have no information as to how much of sand is being quarried every day. This helps the smugglers fill their pockets heavily. The state exchequer also loses crores of rupees, villagers from Dhinkia alleged.

"Naturally formed sand dunes acted as a bulwark against the surging tidal wave in Bay of Bengal during 1999 super cyclone. Lives and properties in Dhinkia, Mahala and Trilochanpur villages were saved owing to the dunes," Bibeknanda Swain from Dhinkia stated.

When contacted, Erasama tehsildar Prajnyananda Das said, "Action will be taken against the guilty if it is found that sand is being lifted from any place other than the lease area."

Series accident: Family alleges murder bid over land dispute

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bolangir, May 22: A road accident which claimed the life of a youth and rendered two others critical before the RTO office here Saturday, took a curious turn Sunday as the CCTV footage featuring the scene has revealed that the accident was nothing but a pre-planned murder over past enmity and property dispute.

The matter came to the fore after the CCTV footage of the accident went viral on social media platforms. The deceased was identified as Srikanth Bagh, 30 and the injured as Sanu Nayak, a hotel owner.

The second injured person is the accused Chittaranjan Mohanty who was driving the mini-truck. He is undergoing treatment at a private hospital near the Bhima Bhoi Medical College and Hospital (BBMCH) under police custody.

The deceased Srikanth and injured Sanu's family members have alleged that the accused tried to mow them down under the wheels of the truck over past enmity.

The incident has sent shockwaves in the town as police detained Chittaranjan Mohanty including two others and interrogated them in this connection. Sources said that family members of Sanu and Chittaranjan were on loggerheads over acquiring of IDCO and government lands.

Acting on the allegations of the family members of the deceased and the injured Sanu, Bolangir police seized the CCTV footage and launched further investigation into the matter.

The series accidents occurred at RTO Office Square on NH-26 at 11:26am Saturday. A mini truck from Titlagarh end came rushing at great speed and rammed a bike and then hit a tree on roadside and then a cow and finally a truck in front.

Srikanth Bag who was riding as pillion on the bike succumbed to head injuries while two others, Sanu and Chittaranjan were critical after a 407 truck hit their bike near the Bolangir RTO office, Saturday.

However, a few locals who witnessed the accident from close quarters smelt something unusual from the truck driver's activity. Meanwhile, Sanu's father and the kin of the deceased suspected a foul play and lodged complaints with the police.

On the basis of the video clips, the Bolangir DFO placed the two staffers under suspension.

Hardcore Maoist bids adieu to arms in Kandhamal dist

POST NEWS NETWORK

Phulbani, May 22: A member of the outlawed CPI (Maoist) carrying a huge bounty on his head surrendered before Kandhamal police, an officer said Sunday. The surrendered Maoist identified as Ashok Pune belongs to Chhattisgarh's Dala village.

He surrendered before Kandhamal SP Vinit Agarwal who welcomed his decision by felicitating him with a bouquet of flowers. He had joined the banned outfit six to seven years ago and had shifted to Odisha. Since then, he was operating in KKBN (Kandhamal-Kalahandi-Boudh-Nayagarh) division of Odisha State Committee as the area committee member.

Pune said that he took the noble step as he was deeply influenced by the government's development works in his native place. He also vowed to join the mainstream of the society. "I and my friend decided to surrender. But, my friend is yet to surrender. I request other fellow comrades to surrender and live a normal life," Pune said.

He is being interrogated to ascertain his involvement in other offences. He will be rehabilitated as per the surrender and rehabilitation policy of the state government and will be provided financial assistance of ₹5 lakh besides homestead plot with building assistance, marriage allowance, study allowance of ₹3,000 per month and vocational training, reports said.

Steps will be taken for his gainful employment, the SP said, adding that at least 10 Maoist cadres have surrendered in Kandhamal district. They have been provided rehabilitation assistance.

The police added that the surrender of the cadres would land a serious blow to the Maoists' plan and designs in north Kandhamal and adjoining axis.

Clamour for revival of old fish spawn centre

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhanjanagar, May 22: The fish farmers here have long been demanding revival of an old fish fingerling production centre near the College Road under this NAC of Ganjam district which has been lying unused for over three decades.

Sources said the facility has turned into a dumping yard and is thronged by anti-social elements during night.

Though the farmers have been demanding revival of the fish production centre, the fisheries department has taken no step in the regard.

While the staff quarters at this facility are in decrepit condition, the fingerling production centre has almost lost its existence amid piles of garbage, plastic materials and solid waste dumped by the civic body.

The fisheries department had thought of revival of the centre in July 2021 with the thrust of the state government on boosting farmers' income through fish production.

The then director of fisheries department Smrutiranjana Pradhan had visited Bhanjanagar and directed the officials to take steps for restoration of the old fish spawn production centre. However, no step in this direction was taken though 10 months have passed since the visit of the fisheries director, locals alleged.

They also said that if the facility is left unused, the land may be encroached by mafia.

Notably, the fish spawn production centre was shifted near Biju Patnaik Children's Park in 1984. Earlier, it was set up on 22 acre land near College Road. However, over the years this facility became a victim of faulty management while its ponds could not be restored, leading to its gradual closure. Now, the centre near Biju Patnaik Children's Park is being renovated at an expense of ₹4 crore.

Local farmers are of the view that the old facility can be used for fish production to cater to the growing need for fish farmers. The government should focus on the renovation of the old fish production centre. It will create scope of direct and indirect employment to the locals, they added.

Block fisheries officer Sudhansu Sahu said, "A proposal was sent to the government for revival of the old fish production centre, but funds have not been made available."

Auto-rickshaw driver returns gold necklace to woman passenger

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Berhampur, May 22: A 35-year-old auto-rickshaw driver here in Ganjam district has won accolades for returning a gold necklace worth around ₹1.6 lakh to a female passenger who had accidentally left it in his vehicle a few days ago.

The auto-rickshaw driver identified as Pankaj Behera found the ornament weighing around 30 gram underneath the passenger seat while cleaning his vehicle Friday.

He handed it over to the woman, Narmada Behera, at New Bus Stand Police Outpost Saturday in the presence of law enforcers and some members of the local auto drivers' association.

The auto-rickshaw driver had ferried the 30-year-old woman and her family members from New Bus Stand to Gopalpur Wednesday.

Behera had kept the gold ornament in her purse but it might have accidentally fallen in the vehicle without her knowledge, a police officer said.

She realised that the necklace was not in her purse after she reached home and immediately called up the auto-rickshaw driver, whom she knew beforehand. He checked the vehicle but did not find it that day.

"After finding the necklace while cleaning my auto-rickshaw, I informed the police and the woman's family," the driver said.

Narayan Swain, the office-in-charge of the police outpost appreciated the honesty of the driver.

The woman was also relieved after getting her ornament back.

"I had spent sleepless nights in the last few days. Now, I am very happy and thankful to the auto-rickshaw driver," she said.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION GOES FOR A TOSS

POST NEWS NETWORK

Nabarangpur, May 22: As many as 315 villages in this district are yet to be connected with power supply due to sheer negligence of the Energy department and power distribution companies.

This is the sad state of affairs in this tribal dominated district even after 73 years of independence and this has come at a time when the Centre and state governments are spending a lot to make power supply available to every household.

As a result, residents in these 315 villages are spending their lives in darkness, deprived of even basic amenities. Lack of power supply in these remote and underdeveloped areas of the district paints a sorry picture of government and departmental apathy.

Reports said that the Chief Minister had directed the administrative and people's representatives to ensure that all the plans and programmes of the government should be for the benefit of the people. However, a basic need such as power supply is yet to be made available for 315 villages out of the district's 891 villages.

The district has witnessed the implementation of three power supply schemes like Rajiv Gandhi Vidyutikaran Yojana of the previous UPA government, state sponsored Biju Grama Jyoti Yojana and Saubhagya Yojana after BJP-led NDA government came to power. The phase one of the Saubhagya Yojana has concluded and the phase 2 started. However, these villages are yet to receive power supply to their households.

Residents attributed the failure in proper implementation of the scheme to the serial handover of the power department to the private firms. All revenue villages are being electrified while the hamlets are getting deprived, they lamented.

When contacted, a senior power official said that the 315 hamlets which are yet to be electrified due to various reasons will soon be included under Biju Grama Jyoti Yojana and Saubhagya Yojana phase-2.

Moreover, the state government has engaged Odisha Renewable Energy Development Authority (OREDA) to supply power through solar channels to those villages where commuting is not a problem.

The state government has informed in writing to the zilla parishad May 4 and District Rural Development Agency (DRDA), he said. However, it remains to be seen when these villages are being connected with power supply.

FOCUS SUSTAINABILITY

THE GLOBAL HUNGER CRISIS

A more resilient, sustainable, and equitable food system must be a pillar of any climate mitigation or adaptation agenda. But the barriers to building one should not be underestimated, especially for countries and regions where soil is poor, land has little agricultural value, and other natural resources, such as water, are limited or degraded more than 80% of their needs. But pandemic- and war-related disruptions, together with the price increases they have fueled, have shown just how vulnerable such countries are. According to the FAO's State of Food and Agriculture 2021 report, an additional 161 million people were affected by hunger in 2020, compared with 2019. And the World Food Programme is now cautioning that the combination of conflict, COVID, the climate crisis, and rising costs has pushed 44 million people in 38 countries to the edge of famine.

With countries struggling to secure enough food to meet their populations' nutritional needs, many are now re-evaluating their food dependencies and seeking to expand local production. But unless sustainability is taken into account, efforts to increase short-term resilience by shortening supply chains could undermine medium- and long-term resilience by further depleting agricultural resources like soil and water.

Sustainability isn't cheap. Efficient production amid biophysical and climate constraints requires investment in costly technologies. But poor governance structures, limited growth prospects, and high debts pose major challenges for many countries. The pandemic has placed massive strain on public budgets, and debt crises loom for many governments, as loans taken out to address the pandemic come due.

Poor and vulnerable countries cannot be expected to address the myriad interconnected challenges they face, from pollution and biodiversity loss to hunger and poverty, without help. To bolster long-term food and nutritional security, we must look beyond country-level solutions to regional and international ones that consider the needs of communities living in marginal environments. Otherwise, there will be no escaping destabilising cycles of hunger, migration, and violence.

Global food prices are soaring. The United Nations Food and Agriculture Organisation's Food Price Index – which covers a basket of basic food commodities (cereals, meat, dairy, vegetable oils, and sugar) – reached an all-time high of 159.7 in March, up from 141.1 the previous month. While it declined slightly in April, to 158.5, ongoing developments – not least Russia's war in Ukraine – are set to keep driving prices to new highs, with devastating implications for global hunger.

The COVID-19 pandemic exposed the fragility and dysfunctionality of the world's food systems, with movement restrictions and supply-chain disruptions driving up prices, damaging rural livelihoods, and exacerbating food insecurity, especially for the poor. Now, the war in Ukraine is compounding these challenges, because both sides are major exporters of food, fuel, and fertilizer.

Moreover, climate change poses an even larger threat to global food security. Already, extreme weather like heatwaves, floods, and prolonged droughts has triggered shocks to agricultural production and food availability. As temperatures rise, these shocks will become increasingly frequent and powerful. If global warming crosses the 1.5° Celsius threshold (relative to Earth's pre-industrial temperature), they are likely to become catastrophic.

As the latest Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change report shows, avoiding the threshold will require immediate and drastic action. But mitigation is only part of the challenge. Large-scale investments in adaptation will also be needed to protect vulnerable communities from the warming that is already locked in.

Even under the most optimistic mitigation scenario, global warming is expected to hit the 1.5°C threshold in a decade, before receding. This will result in shifts in climatic zones, rising sea levels, and disruptions to the water cycle that increase the frequency and intensity of extreme weather. Beyond raising economic and health risks, the resulting disruptions to food and water supplies are likely to drive social and political upheaval, fueling a vicious cycle of poverty, hunger, instability, and even conflict, accompanied by sharp rise in migration.

A more resilient, sustainable, and equitable food system must be a pillar of any climate mitigation or adaptation agenda. But the barriers to building such a system should not be underestimated, especially for countries and regions where soil is poor, land has little agricultural value, other natural resources, such as water, are limited or degraded, and socioeconomic conditions are difficult.

Given the low productivity of their agricultural land, such marginal environments are unable to support the sustainable production of sufficient food to meet local people's nutritional needs. In fact, while marginal environments are home to less than 25% of the global population – an estimated 1.7 billion people – they account for 70% of the world's poor and most of its malnourished.

Poverty and hunger can lead farmers to overuse fragile environmental resources in order to ensure their short-term survival, even at the cost of long-term depletion of their lands and impoverishment of their households and communities. Those living in remote areas with minimal infrastructure, few alternative economic opportunities, and limited market access are particularly likely to make such choices.

Given this, countries with significant marginal lands rely on food imports – in some cases for

It is an old debate whether art should be used as a tool for political causes or it should reflect life as it is without any intention to overtly preach any doctrine or political message. But, the debate has gained a new currency at the ongoing Cannes Film Festival which has been turned into a new theatre of war between Russia and Ukraine. The 75th Cannes Film Festival opened last week against a backdrop of international crisis. The first question jury president Vincent Lindon had to answer to the world was whether the event should at all take place when thousands are dying in Ukraine and the brute Russian war machine, under the dictatorial President Vladimir Putin, is crushing life out of innocent people. Acknowledging the rumbling noises of war drums, the French actor said that given the "turbulent times" in the world at large, the festival's role was more vital than ever: "Do you think the world will change if we stop Cannes (festival)?" he asked, making an impassioned plea. "No. If it would, then I am sure we would stop Cannes. But I think the opposite. At this festival we can be a mirror," he said, arguing that culture is the most crucial piece of proof or evidence of what the world is like when we are living in it.

In a sense, this year's Cannes is a rebirth of sorts after its last-minute cancellation in 2020 and a compromised, COVID-shadowed edition last summer. But, during the rebirth it has gone back to its old combative spirit taking up the cause of freedom of speech, art and expression. In a show of support for the conflict in Ukraine, the organisers have banned official Russian delegations while opening its doors to individual artists, many of whom are at odds with the Putin regime. The dissident Russian director Kirill Serebrennikov, who was recently released from house arrest, has a film – Tchaikovsky's Wife – screening in the main competition. But, the surprise of surprises was the selection of the guest of honour at the opening ceremony who was no other than Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy, who addressed the audience by video link.

In his address Zelenskyy said, "We have no choice but to continue fighting for our freedom" and explained there is nothing amiss in mixing filmmaking with fighting for a cause. He cited Charlie Chaplin as a glorious and shining example of his conception of the deep connection between cinema and political fight. He spoke about Chaplin's film, The Great Dictator; to draw parallels between fictional war and dictators and the one Ukraine now faces. "Hundreds of people are dying every day. They won't get up again after the clapping at the end," he told the audience. He asked filmmakers and actors present at the festival whether cinema will "keep quiet" or speak up. "If there is a dictator, if there is a war for freedom, once again, everything depends on our unity. Can cinema stay outside of this unity?" Zelenskyy said. He referred to the power of cinema during World War II, including the 1940 Chaplin film The Great Dictator which mocked Nazi leader Adolf Hitler. Chaplin's dictator did not destroy the real dictator, but thanks to cinema, thanks to that film, cinema did not stay quiet, Zelenskyy said, underscoring the need for cinema taking up political positions. His final message was: "We need a new Chaplin to prove today that cinema is not mute."

His speech received a standing ovation from the crowd in the southern French resort town's Palais des Festivals.

But, there were contrary noises as well about the festival's ban on official Russian entries. And that too from a film director from Russia itself, Serebrennikov, who has been invited to the festival for his persistent stand against Putin. For this he was kept in house arrest and released only weeks before the Cannes festival. He sparked off a controversy in a 19 May Press conference when he said, "We should not boycott language, we should not boycott Dostoyevsky, Chekhov, Tchaikovsky, deprive people of music, theatre, cinema. On the contrary, this is what makes people feel alive." In the same breath he emphasised he could fully understand the people's anger who are so pained and hurt by what is happening in Russia. He has called the war in Ukraine a "total catastrophe" and believes that art has no frontiers.

Another film, a documentary, Mariupolis 2, selected for special screening, is on the armed conflict in the Ukrainian city of Mariupol. The Lithuanian director Mantas Kvedaravicius was allegedly killed by Russian forces when he was making the documentary in Mariupol, which had, till recently, been facing the brunt of Russian attack. His fiancée, Hanna Bilobrova, who was with him in Mariupol, was able to bring back the footage filmed and edited it.

The festival, almost in keeping with its spirit of political activism, witnessed an unidentified woman appearing on the red carpet. Seconds later she ripped off her gown, revealing the Ukraine flag painted on her bare chest with the words "stop raping us" written on her abdomen while other parts of her body flashed red handprints. The woman kept yelling, "Don't rape us," as security quickly encircled her and took her off the red carpet.

Such acts prove that politics has always been a part of human existence and the borderline between art and politics is blurred.

WORDSWORTH

Symploce

Symploce is a combination of anaphora and epistrophe. The first of these, anaphora, has more than one sense; in this case it refers to an oratorical device by which the first words of a section of prose are repeated. Hillary Clinton's speech to the 1996 Democratic National Convention is a good example: "To raise a happy, healthy, and hopeful child, it takes a family; it takes teachers; it takes clergy; it takes business people; it takes community leaders; it takes those who protect our health and safety. It takes all of us." In epistrophe the repetition occurs at the end of phrases. One of the best-known examples is in Abraham Lincoln's famous Gettysburg Address in which he speaks of government "of the people, by the people, for the people." Another appears in Paul's first letter to the Corinthians in the King James's Bible: "When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child." With symploce, the repetition occurs at both the beginnings and the ends of lines. A much-quoted example is in Anne Morrow Lindbergh's book of 1955, Gift from the Sea: "Perhaps this is the most important thing for me to take back from beach-living: simply the memory that each cycle of the tide is valid, each cycle of the wave is valid, each cycle of a relationship is valid." All three words derive from Greek, though not altogether obviously. Anaphora combines ana-, back, with pherein, to bear (in other words, to repeat); epistrophe is from epistrephein, to turn around; symploce derives from symplekein, to weave together.

Temple economy: $4 billion at stake!

Shivaji Sarkar

INDIANS DO MORE PILGRIMAGE THAN BUSINESS TRIPS AND SPEND MORE ON PILGRIMAGE THAN TRAVELING FOR EDUCATION PURPOSE

The temple economy is as large as the Indian budget sustaining the country. Its contours across religious denominations of Hindu, Muslim and Christians, are much wider than perceived. This is changing society and its financial parameters. An NSSO survey estimates that temple economy is worth ₹3.02 lakh crore or about $40 billion and 2.32 per cent of the GDP. In reality it may be larger. It includes everything - flowers, oil, lamps, perfumes, bangles, vermilion, images and puja clothes.

Donations in 2021 collected for the Ram Temple in Ayodhya were ₹5450 crore, almost equal to ₹5000 crore of the country's defence budget. Others are Tirumala Tirupati ₹3023 crore; Vaishno Devi ₹2000 crore, Ambaji ₹4134 crore (₹5163 crore in 2019-20), Dwarkadhish ₹1172 crore, Somnath ₹1205, Golden Temple ₹690 crore. Donations to Kamakhya temple in Guwahati; Krishna Janmabhoomi, Mathura; Banke Bihari Mandir in Vrindavan, Padmanabha mandir, Siddhivinayak mandir and Kashi Vishvanath mandir have similar huge earnings.

The Pew Global Attitude surveys reveals that over 25 per cent of Indians are reported to have become more religious over the past four-five years. Between 2007 and 2015, the share of respondents in India, who perceived religion to be very important, increased by 11 per cent to 80 per cent now.

It can be said that the Ram Mandir movement and the court verdict have been a game changer. It has poured in huge funding into a region that was one of the most backward. It boosted funding for mosques and Islamic shrines as well. During the pandemic the silent real estate boom took place in Ayodhya, Varanasi, Vindhyachal, Mirzapur and Mathura. Land prices soared in the most backward places and the premium on land is unprecedented.

Whether religious activities can sustain such places would be interesting to observe. The enthusiasm is high but would it surpass the next industrial revival? Domestic religious tourism is surpassing the number of foreign visitors. Over 100 crore domestic visits to new destinations suggest there is a churning beyond the Delhi-Agra-Jaipur golden triangle. Even 20 per cent of nine crore foreign tourists are visiting Madurai and Mahabalipuram in Tamil Nadu and Tirupati, in Andhra Pradesh.

The NSSO figures suggest that 55 per cent of Hindus undertake religious pilgrimages, patronising mid and small sized hotels, after two years of the pandemic slump. This NSSO data says that Indians do more pilgrimage than business trips and spend more on pilgrimage than traveling for education purpose.

The government has chalked out religious circuit tourism. The Ramayana circuit is over the life philosophy of Lord Ram. Along with this, the Char Dham road project has also been prepared. The government has also strengthened the Buddha circuit. Apart from this, Prime Minister Narendra Modi relaunched the Varanasi corridor, Kedardham and Badridham. Not only this, the government is renovating about 50,000 temples in Jammu and Kashmir. No other Prime Minister made a visit to religious shrines an event. Indira Gandhi used to visit such places and saints but often kept it low profile, perhaps even at the dead of night, away from the public glare.

The dargahs of Chisti, Aulia, Charar-e-Sharif, Jama Masjid of Bhopal, Delhi and other shrines have large income in cash and kind. Similarly various churches have decent incomes. The enormous 'donations' reaching various small and big organisations are used for many activities in places like Hardwar, Vrindavan, Ayodhya and Ujjain and even non-descript places such as Deoband. One particular activity is to launder the funds by issuing donation cheques at cuts of 20 to 60 per cent depending on the exigencies. It ensures that illicit or non-tax paid money is channeled back to the system. Many institutions have a "secular" approach in dealing with money. During demonetisation some heads of mutts were in the news for their wide connections and effective delivery. Their services were not limited to India alone. They could deliver new currency notes with ease even in dollars to Dubai, Canada, England or other destinations at premium price. The hawala linkages helped. Plus, they are good at balance sheet manipulations for whatever the amount may be for turning black into white. Even scrapped notes were equally exchanged with élan. Adjusting 'murky' money is no longer difficult.

Boost soil health

Sir, Despite its low position in the food chain, the soil is one of the planet's most biodiverse ecosystems and the source of all life. All living things depend on healthy soil to survive. Agriculture is the only major industry in which soils produce 95% of the food. Despite its strengths, the soil is in peril. According to the UN Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), soil erosion is one of the world's most serious issues. It has the potential to have long-term implications. Soil erosion reduces soil health and productivity by exposing the residual soil and removing the very fertile topsoil. Unfortunately, 33 per cent of the world's topsoil is already degraded. The removal of important topsoil will not only wash away all of the nutrients but will have a significant impact on the structure and stability of the soil. Soil erosion diminishes agricultural productivity, has an impact on ecosystem functioning and raises hydro-geological threats such as landslides and floods. Natural erosion poses a threat to soil on all continents, according to FAO. Soil is crucial for human well-being and the sustainability of life on the planet. Soil preservation is a significant and important issue that requires everyone's attention. Krishna Kumar Vepakomma, HYDERABAD

Press freedom

Sir, Democracy craves for a reliable and impartial Press because free and independent media underpin a vibrant democracy. Post-Emergency, when the Press was browbeaten and mocked at, the media has assiduously cultivated its image as a do-gooder, thanks to brave scribes who could, with their courage of conviction, resist being drawn into submission. Meanwhile, India has ranked 150 out of 180 countries in the annual World Press Freedom Index as per the Paris based Reporters Without Borders. As compared to last year, India has dropped two places. This ranking is based on the governmental policies to respect the degree of freedom enjoyed by journalists, news bureaus, and netizens of a country. Journalists in the country are facing threats and harassment from various quarters including the authorities. Quite a few reporters are imprisoned by the government for varied reasons. The report says Indian Press' image of being "pluralist" is seriously endangered. Security of knowing that the government and the Press are performing to the people's betterment soothes the nerves of a common man. But when this "security" is breached, the common man is unnerved. The Press cannot let the people down because after the judiciary, people look up to the Press as a harbinger of change in the society at large. Ganapathi Bhat, AKOLA

DELHI TRIPLE SUICIDE

Room sealed with foils, suicide note affixed on wall

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, May 22: As investigations continued Sunday into the triple suicide case in Delhi, more details have come to the fore.

Saturday, a 55-year-old woman and her two daughters aged 30 and 26 years were found dead at their House no.207, Vasant Apartment, Vasant Vihar. The deceased were identified as Manju Srivastava (mother) and two daughters -- Anshika and Anku.

Deputy Commissioner of Police (southwest) Manoj C said a local resident made a PCR call at Vasant Vihar police station around 8.55 p.m. Saturday stating that the said house is locked from inside and the people are not opening the door.

The police immediately swung into action and the Station House Officer along with other staff reached the spot and found the doors and windows closed on all sides, and the flat locked from inside. "The police managed to open the door and found that a gas cylinder was partially opened and there was also a suicide note," the DCP said.

As the police went further to check the rooms, they found three bodies lying on the bed, along with four small traditional hearths.

The room was completely sealed with foils to prevent the fumes from the hearth leaving the room, making it impossible for the three women to escape the toxic fumes, just like a 'gas chamber death'. "Most likely they died due to suffocation," the senior official said.

It was also learnt that the a few pages of the suicide note were affixed on the wall of the room, however, the police refrained to share the content. "The content and veracity of the note are yet to be verified and are still under investigation," the official said, adding the inquest proceedings have been initiated.

The preliminary probe revealed that the owner of the house, Umesh Srivastava died in April 2021 due to Covid and since then the family was in depression as the mother, Manju, was bedridden due to illness. Though there are three casualties in this particular incident, yet, it has brought the horrific memories of the Burari suicide case in which 11 members of a family died by suicide in 2018. Ten people were found hanged, while the oldest family member, the grandmother, was strangled

Jolt to BJP: Arjun Singh rejoins Trinamool

The development comes as a setback for the BJP against the backdrop of the Bengal Panchayat polls in 2023 and the Lok Sabha polls in 2024, as Singh was an important pillar in expanding its organisational base in North 24 Parganas district

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Kolkata, May 22: Bringing an end to all speculations and in another jolt to the BJP, BJP's Barrackpore MP Arjun Singh rejoined West Bengal's Trinamool Congress Sunday evening.

He was greeted back into the party by Trinamool General Secretary Abhishek Banerjee at the party office at Camac Street in central Kolkata. Other top Trinamool leaders, MLAs, and ministers from the North 24 Parganas district were present on the occasion.

The development comes as another setback for the BJP against the backdrop of the West Bengal Panchayat polls in 2023 and the Lok Sabha polls in 2024, as Singh was an important pillar in expanding its organisational base in North 24 Parganas district, especially in the Barrackpore, area since 2019.

Speculations were rife for quite some time that Singh might come back to Trinamool as he continued with his salvos against the Union government on the issue of fixing the price of jute. Recently Singh also became vocal against the state leadership of BJP claiming that the latter has become social media-oriented instead of focusing on grassroots level organisation.

Union Textiles Minister Piyush Goyal and BJP's national President J.P. Nadda even had separate meetings with Singh in New Delhi to address his grievances. However, as the latest developments show, those did not prove to be fruitful.

After rejoining, Singh said that he had switched over to the Trinamool leadership.

"But after joining BJP, I faced hurdles in acting independently as an elected Lok Sabha member from the state. I tried hard to settle the jute price issue and there too

I faced hurdles. So, I decided to join back..." he said.

Asked whether he would resign as a Lok Sabha member on moral grounds, Singh said that currently there are two Lok Sabha members from Bengal, who are officially Trinamool MPs, but are actually with the BJP.

"The day these two MPs resign on moral grounds, I will also resign within an hour and face fresh elections," he said.

His clear hints were towards the Leader of Opposition in Assembly, Suwendu Adhikari's father, Sisir Adhikari, the Trinamool MP from Kanthi and brother, Dibyendu Adhikari, the Trinamool MP from Tamluk. Both these constituencies are in East Midnapore district.

Reacting to Arjun Singh's exit, BJP's national Vice President, Dilip Ghosh said that Singh was unable to bear the administrative and police pressure on him since the time he was elected on behalf of the BJP from Barrackpore.

Farmers can change govt, says KCR

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Chandigarh, May 22: Telangana Chief Minister K Chandrashekar Rao Sunday reached out to farmers in Punjab and Haryana, saying they can change government if they want and should keep fighting till they get a constitutional guarantee for remunerative prices of their crops.

The Telangana Chief Minister also paid tributes to the farmers who died during the course of the agitation against the Centre's now-repealed farm laws and said he bows to their grit and determination. "If farmers want, they can change government. It is not a big thing. From where the power comes, it comes from us. The agitation should continue till farmers get the right price and there is a constitutional guarantee for it," he said.

He urged farmers that their next agitation should be throughout the country. "Farmers from north, south, east and west should fight together," said the chief minister, who is visiting multiple states apparently eyeing a role in the national politics.

29 children in MP, 14 in Raj went missing per day in 2021: Report

The report revealed that the number of missing girls in Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan was reported five times higher than that of boys in 2021

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, May 22: On an average, 29 children in Madhya Pradesh and 14 in Rajasthan went missing every day in 2021, according to a new report of child rights NGO CRY, which revealed that there was a significant increase in the number of missing children cases in four major states of north India.

Also, five children went missing per day in Delhi in 2021 in eight police districts, according to the "Status Report on Missing Children" report of Child Rights and You (CRY), which also said on an average, eight children - six girls and two boys - went missing per day from 58 districts of Uttar Pradesh.

The report revealed that the number of missing girls in Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan was reported five times higher than that of boys in 2021. While 8,751 cases of missing children were registered in Madhya Pradesh and 3,179 in Rajasthan (National Crime Records Bureau, 2020), the figures increased to 10,648 in Madhya Pradesh and 5,354 in Rajasthan in 2021, as revealed by the state governments in response to RTI applications filed by the CRY's partner organisations.

The data received from Madhya Pradesh shows that the number of missing girls over a period of 11

A total of 2,998 children - 835 boys and 2,163 girls - were reported missing in Uttar Pradesh in 2021 (data of 58 of the 75 districts). About 88.9 per cent of the children reported missing in the state belonged to the age group of 12-18 years. The data shows that the top five districts in Uttar Pradesh in terms of number of missing children are Lucknow, Moradabad, Kanpur Nagar, Meerut and Maharajganj. The report said five children went missing per day in Delhi in 2021 in the districts for which data was available and a total of 1,641 children were reported missing in eight districts of the national capital in 2021.

ON BULLDOZERS' BLIND SPOT

Delhi's illegal factories ticking time bombs

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, May 22: Those who are not residents of Delhi get astonished whenever they walk down the narrow streets of the national capital's congested areas and suddenly encounter a small-scale industry.

People usually visualise a factory as a big building in an open space with a chimney on the top, but the reality bites in Delhi, and one wonders why these are not on the radar of bulldozers.

The city is the epicentre of thousands of such factories which are ticking time bombs. When IANS compiled the data of major fire accidents that have occurred in the past couple of years, the factories being run without fire safety standards were found to be a substantial part of such incidents.

Twenty seven human lives perished May 13 in one of the deadliest tragedies the national capital has seen in the recent years. A massive fire gutted a four-storey building near a metro station, charring to death 27 and wounding 12 in west Delhi's Mundka.

In December 2019, 44 died after a fire broke out in an illegal factory at Anaj Mandi. A firecracker storage unit in Bawana killed 17 persons, including 10 women, in January 2018. If we do not go by the number of casualties, then fire breaks out every now and then in some Delhi factory.

Every year, the Delhi Fire Service provides a Fire No Objection Certificate (NOC) to around 50-70 factories, however, several still run unnoticed. A senior fire department official told IANS that they do not directly deal with the public to provide an NOC.

"We are not a licensing authority to do that. It is the duty of the building authority or the civic agency to refer the case to us before permitting or giving a license to a building or even a factory," the official said.

Most of the buildings gutted in fire incidents lack fire safety standards and most importantly a Fire NOC. A Fire NOC certifies that a building complies with the fire prevention and fire safety require-when compared to the previous years. Not just the number of casualties, the Fire calls also soared by 49 per cent this year in May.

In 2020, as many as 1,432 calls were received till May 19 while this year so far 2,145 calls were attended by the DFS, i.e. over 2,000 incidents were reported in just the first 19 days of the month.

Delhi Fire Service is constantly upgrading itself both technically and manually, but the rising levels of temperature and population of the workers in the alleged factories are adding to the woes. Every year, lakhs of poor people come to Delhi to improve their living conditions and finally get trapped in these factories as workers.

The gut-wrenching audio clip of a phone call between two brothers, where the one who was trapped inside the building told the other that he won't survive and to take care of his family, during the Anaj Mandi blaze in 2019 was a wakeup call for the authorities but even now, three years later, such incidents continue to happen.

Delhi Fire Service chief Atul Garg, while speaking to IANS, informed that till now 42 people have died in May alone while 117 have suffered injuries. The casualties in previous years during the month of May are 41 in 2021, 10 in 2020 and 18 in 2019. Clearly, the numbers have risen

Delhi 'won't get' extra water from HP & UP

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, May 22: Uttar Pradesh and Himachal Pradesh have "backed out" from plans to give extra water to Delhi, while Haryana is not keen to pursue a water exchange proposal with the national capital, according to officials.

Proposals involving Himachal Pradesh and Uttar Pradesh were being pursued since 2019. The two states pulled out around six to eight months ago, they said.

Delhi had a plan to exchange 140 million gallons a day (MGD) of treated wastewater for freshwater from Uttar Pradesh.

"Uttar Pradesh said it could share 270 cusecs of water from the Ganga through the Murad Nagar regulator and Delhi had promised to release an equal amount of treated wastewater to UP from Okhla for irrigation purposes. After multiple meetings and field inspections, Uttar Pradesh wrote to us around six months ago that the idea has been dropped," an official said on condition of anonymity. The Centre was in favour of the proposal but Uttar Pradesh denied it. They did not give any reason for doing so, he said.

Delhi also held deliberations with Haryana on a proposal to share 20 MGD of treated wastewater for irrigation through Jaunti and Auchandi regulators in lieu of freshwater through Carrier Lined Canal (CLC) and Delhi Sub Branch (DSB). "Haryana has not agreed to the proposal yet. There is a very slim chance of it happening now," the official said.

Another official said the proposal for a water exchange with Haryana is pending at the level of the Upper Yamuna River Board.

Delhi generates around 770 MGD of wastewater. The 34 sewage treatment plants located at 20 locations across the city treat up to 570 MGD of sewage. Around 90 MGD of treated wastewater is being utilised for horticulture in parks and forests, irrigation and DTC depots. The capital is obligated to release 267 MGD of treated wastewater into the Yamuna to maintain the environmental flow.

In December 2019, Himachal Pradesh signed a MoU to sell its share of Yamuna water to Delhi at Rs 21 crore per annum. Water had to be delivered at Tajewala, Haryana, to Delhi.

According to a statement released at that time, Himachal Pradesh was supposed to "provide regular, daily supply of 368 cusecs (198 MGD) from November to February and 268 cusecs (144 MGD) from March to June every year".

According to a multi-state agreement signed in 1994, Himachal Pradesh gets a three per cent share of Yamuna water. This share has remained unclaimed since then.

It was Haryana which had first opposed the Himachal Pradesh's plan to sell its share of Yamuna water to Delhi. Haryana contended that its "canals did not have the capacity to carry extra water from Himachal Pradesh to Delhi", another official said.

Thereafter, Himachal Pradesh also "backed out" from the agreement around six months ago. An official said, "Our engineers worked really hard to turn these plans into reality, but the neighbouring states backed out due to political reasons."

Children at Delhi landfills have little to do but sort litter

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

New Delhi, May 22: Despite Sarva Shiksha and Beti Padhao Beti Bachao Abhiyan, thousands of children in the national capital are living in garbage dumps with no future in sight. These children run their homes with garbage. While they may stand explained by the Utilitarian principle, it is the apathy of the government towards this class that is hollowing out a progressive society.

This issue, however, is not new. Many incidents of fire in landfill sites of Delhi have made headlines. It is mostly children who work at these landfills, picking up plastic, iron and other metal pieces, and anything else of any value in the market. This is a means of livelihood for these children and their families.

Delhi has 3 large litter 'hills' at Okhla, Bhalswa, and Ghazipur landfill sites around which, slums have been built. There are 40-50 huts near each garbage hill which is home to children that work in these landfills. Even while the garbage hill is on fire, these children continue to work as usual, knowing well that the gases released are toxic and suffocating. One can barely imagine how difficult it must be to choose between being hungry and breathing healthy. As the saying goes, the finest steel has to go through the hottest fire, but the future of these children in this fire has no end in sight.

Toxic gases like methane and hydrogen sulfide keep emanating from the garbage. When they burn, carbon dioxide and carbon monoxide are also released. Methane is flammable.

A similar fire broke out at Bhalswa garbage mound and blazed for two weeks at stretch. The 12-year-old Satara residing there said that he studied till class VI but has been working as a waste-picker for the last two years. After the death of his parents, he quit studies and began working to run his household and get his sister married.

Neha, a resident of Ghazipur slum, said that she has been doing this work for the last 3 years. The 8-year-old Neha has never been to school. Her elder sister worked as a waste-picker earlier and Neha joined her at the garbage mound every day, picking up iron and plastic.

Many claims have been made by Delhi and Central governments regarding eradication of poverty, education, and health. Yet, 14-year-old Manju could never study, despite being very desirous of going to school because no school admitted her. Her entire family also is engaged in picking and sorting waste from sun rise to sunset.

These kids spend all day at the garbage dump and have remained too distant from books. Delhi and the Central government claim their respective figures. The Delhi government has announced the opening of 11 more schools in the Budget for the year 2022. This year, the maximum chunk of the Budget (Rs 16,278 crore) has been allocated for education. According to the ruling Aam Aadmi Party in Delhi, the standard of education in Delhi has improved in the last few years.

According to the Central government, under the Sarva Shiksha Abhiyan, children between 6-14 years of age have a Fundamental Right to Education. The Ministry of Women and Child Development has also started many schemes to provide education to poor girls.

Opening up more schools and devising means of education for these children have so far not done enough to secure their future. The truth is that these children need the support of the society to undertake the journey from mountains of garbage to a school.

ENCOUNTER KILLINGS

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, May 22: The alleged encounter killing of four suspects in the gang-rape and murder case of a veterinarian in Hyderabad in 2019 is not the only incident where fingers have been pointed out at the police, with there being several other such instances including the 2009 Dehradun encounter case that left an MBA student dead and the 1997 Connaught Place shootout in which two people were killed.

Recently, a three-member inquiry commission headed by a retired Supreme Court judge on the Hyderabad encounter submitted that the firing by the police personnel was allegedly deliberate and that three of the deceased were minor at the time of death.

Some of the other encounters where police officials have been found on the wrong side of the law either by a commission or a court, include that of Sadiq Jamal, who was shot dead by Gujarat Police.

In 2003, the Gujarat Police shot dead Jamal, claiming to have information that he was planning an attack on the then Chief Minister Narendra Modi and other top BJP leaders. According to an investigation by the CBI, not only was Jamal shot dead by the police in an alleged fake encounter, but also that the Intelligence Bureau played a role in it. Many police inspectors and top IB officials were questioned and later accused in the case of his 'encounter'.

In 2006, Tulsiram Prajapati, known to be an associate of Sohrabuddin Sheikh, was killed in an alleged fake encounter. According to the CBI, Prajapati was with Sheikh and Kausar Bi when the Gujarat Police caught them. Prajapati was shown to be arrested in Rajasthan and later killed. Similarly, Sohrabuddin Sheikh, who the Gujarat Police claimed was also a terrorist, was killed in an alleged fake encounter by the Gujarat and Rajasthan police in 2005.

His wife Kausar Bi disappeared, and was alleged to have been eliminated by police.

In December 2018, a special court in Mumbai had acquitted all the 22 accused, including 21 policemen in the case. In the case of Ishrat Jahan, who was killed along with Javed Shaikh, Amjadali Akbarali Rana and Zeeshan Johar by Gujarat Police in an encounter near Ahmedabad in June 15, 2004, the police had claimed that the four were terrorists who were planning to assassinate then Gujarat Chief Minister Modi.

A high court-appointed Special Investigation Team concluded that the encounter of Ishrat Jahan was "fake".

However, a special court in Ahmedabad discharged three police officials in the case in March 2021. Ram Narayan Gupta alias 'Lakhan Bhैया', who was allegedly an aide to gangster Chhota Rajan, was shot dead in 2006 by the Mumbai Police when he was picked up from Vashi and killed in a purportedly staged encounter in Versova.

Following the encounter, a Mumbai sessions court had sentenced 21 people, including 13 policemen, to life imprisonment in 2013 for killing Gupta while holding them guilty of conspiring and kidnapping him. However, one of the accused, encounter specialist Pradeep Sharma, was acquitted.

Another case which grabbed headlines was that of MBA student Ranbir Singh.

In this encounter case, the Delhi High Court in February 2018 had upheld a trial court's order convicting and awarding life terms to seven policemen for killing the 22-year-old in a staged shootout in Dehradun in 2009, while describing the matter as "a tragic case."

'Quad Summit will review progress'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, May 22: The second in-person Quad Leaders' Summit in Japan will provide an opportunity for leaders of four countries to review the progress of the grouping's initiatives and exchange views on developments in the Indo-Pacific as well as on global issues of mutual interest, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said Sunday.

In his departure statement ahead of his visit to Japan from May 23-24, Modi said during his visit he will also hold a bilateral meeting with US President Joe Biden, where they will discuss further consolidation of the multi-faceted bilateral relations.

"We will also continue our dialogue on regional developments and contemporary global issues," he said. Modi said he will be visiting Tokyo at the invitation of his Japanese counterpart Fumio Kishida, and noted that in March 2022, he had hosted Kishida for the 14th India-Japan Annual Summit. "During my visit to Tokyo, I look forward to continuing our conversation further, with an aim to strengthen the India-Japan Special Strategic and Global Partnership," he said. In Japan, Modi said, he will also participate in the second in-person Quad Leaders' Summit, which will provide an opportunity for the leaders of the four Quad countries to review the progress of initiatives taken by the grouping. "We will also exchange views about developments in the Indo-Pacific region and global issues of mutual interest," Modi said.

The Quadrilateral Security Dialogue comprises India, the US, Japan and Australia. Modi also noted that the newly-elected Australian Prime Minister Anthony Albanese will be joining the Quad Leaders' Summit for the first time.

"I look forward to a bilateral meeting with him during which the multifaceted cooperation between India and Australia under the Comprehensive Strategic Partnership, and regional and global issues of mutual interest will be discussed," Modi said. In his statement, the prime minister also said economic cooperation between India and Japan is an important aspect of their Special Strategic and Global Partnership. "During the March Summit, PM Kishida and I had announced our intention to realize JPY 5 trillion in public and private investment and financing over the next five years from Japan to India," Modi said. "During the forthcoming visit, I will meet with Japanese business leaders with the goal of further strengthening economic linkages between our countries, in pursuit of this objective," he said.

Noting that Japan is home to nearly 40,000 members of the Indian diaspora, who are an important anchor in our relations with Japan, Modi said he looks forward to interacting with them.

Prime Minister Modi's visit to Japan on May 23 and 24 to attend the summit is taking place under the shadow of the Russia-Ukraine conflict.

Woman ends life in Gujarat police station

Battle begins for Prez polls

With the Opposition parties inclined to put up a Presidential candidate in July, the BJP has swung into action to ensure support of NDA and non-NDA parties. While the BJD president and Odisha Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik gave a hint of lending support to a party only after seeing the candidate, Andhra Chief Minister Jagannathan Reddy had already decided to go with the NDA. The BJP is working hard to win these two non-NDA allies so that it consolidates its position. Recently, the BJP leadership tried to soothe the hurt feelings of Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar when Education Minister Dharmendra Pradhan flew to Patna and held a two-hour private meeting with him. What transpired between the two is not known as both were not available for comments after meeting in Patna on Thursday night. But sources say that the decision to send Pradhan was taken as part of BJP's exercise to contact some of the Chief Ministers as part of garnering support for the Presidential candidates. Though the NDA has more than 45% votes in the kitty and if it gets the support of the regional parties, it will cross the hump very easily.

VP post: Anandiben in race

There is a growing feeling that a woman will be made Vice President this time. Insiders say that Anandiben Patel has a bigger claim to the post among other women candidates. She was removed as Chief Minister of Gujarat prematurely and PM Modi inducted her as Governor of Madhya Pradesh and later shifted to UP. She belongs to the powerful Patel community. BJP desperately needs Patidar votes in Gujarat Assembly polls. There are reports that powerful Patel leader from Gujarat, Naresh Patel may join the Congress. He has not opened his cards so far. But the BJP is also wooing him. If he goes to the Congress or AAP, then BJP has reasons to worry. Bhopendra Patel, Gujarat's new CM has not been able to make any mark in the state. Therefore, the importance of Anandiben Patel has gained ground.

100 Cong rebels in line?

After a gentle rebuff to the Group of 23 leaders at the Chintan Shivir where none of their key demands was accepted, the battle lines seem to have been drawn. The dissidents may at best wait until May 31, the last date of filing nomination for the 57 Rajya Sabha seats. Ghulam Nabi Azad, Anand Sharma, Kapil Sibal, Vivek Tankha and many others are waiting to hear from the high command about their re-nomination. Sonia Gandhi has already told partymen that the party has given them enough and now it's time to repay the debt. The hint is clear. Meanwhile, the BJP has a twin strategy to give the Congress a body blow. If it is wooing Congress leaders in states at every level to switch sides, it is also impressing upon heavyweights to create a "ginger group". Sources in the BJP say that it wants a ginger group of 100 leaders to be formed first. This non-political forum will raise issues of importance to embarrass the Gandhis.

One RS seat, 3 claimants

After sulking for the past two years, a former Haryana Chief Minister Bhupinder Singh Hooda finally got the command of the state from the Gandhis. He succeeded and succeeded in dislodging Kumari Selja with his protégé Uday Bhan Haryana Congress Chief. He himself is Congress Legislature Party leader and his son is a sitting Rajya Sabha MP. After consolidating his position, Hooda now wants the high command that the Rajya Sabha seat be given to either senior party leader Anand Sharma or another non-Jat leader. On the other hand, Selja is saying that she has quit her PCC post and needs to be compensated with a Rajya Sabha seat. The biennial polls for the two Rajya Sabha seats in Haryana is due this month end.

Russia intensifies offensive as Polish leader visits Kyiv

AGENCIES

Pokrovsk (Ukraine), May 22: Russia pressed its offensive in Ukraine's eastern Donbas region on Sunday as Poland's president travelled to Kyiv to support the country's Western aspirations and became the first foreign leader to address the Ukrainian parliament since the start of the war.

Ukrainian lawmakers stood to applaud Polish President Andrzej Duda, who thanked them for the honour of speaking in a place where "the heart of a free, independent and democratic Ukraine beats", according to remarks carried by the Polish state-run news agency PAP.

Duda's visit, his second to Ukraine's capital since April, came as Russian and Ukrainian forces engaged in battles along a 551-kilometre wedge of the country's eastern industrial heartland.

After declaring its full control of a sprawling seaside steel plant that was the last defense hold-out in the port city of Mariupol, the Russian military launched artillery and missile attacks in Ukraine's industrial heartland, seeking to expand the territory Moscow-backed separatists have held since 2014.

In a Saturday night video address to the nation, Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky described the situation in the Donbas as "really hard", but he said his country's ability to withstand nearly three months of full-scale war against Russia "is good news". "Every day that our defenders take away from these offensive plans of Russia, disrupting them, is a concrete contribution to the approach of the main day. The desired day that we are all looking forward to and fighting for: Victory Day," Zelensky said. Zelensky stressed Saturday that the 27-member European Union should consider Ukraine's desire to join the bloc as soon as possible within the context of Russia's invasion.

"I want to emphasise that our European integration path is not just about politics," Zelensky said. "It's about quality of life. And about the fact that Ukrainians perceive the values of life in the same way as the vast majority of Europeans."

Poland is ramping up efforts to persuade other EU members that are more hesitant about accepting Ukraine as a member. The country's potential candidacy is set to be discussed at a Brussels summit in late June.

"The free world has the face of Ukraine," Duda told the Verkhovna Rada, Ukraine's legislature, Sunday. "Despite the great destruction, despite the terrible crimes, the great suffering that the Ukrainian nation experiences every day, the Russian invaders did not break you, they did not manage to do it and I believe deeply that they will never succeed," he said.

Long march to Islamabad from May 25: Imran

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Peshawar, May 22: Pakistan's ousted Prime Minister Imran Khan Sunday asked his supporters to march peacefully to Islamabad May 25 to press for the dissolution of the National Assembly and fresh elections in the country.

Khan, 69, who served as Prime Minister for over three and half years, was removed from the position through a no-confidence vote in parliament by the Opposition parties last month. Since his removal, Khan has addressed several rallies in different cities. Addressing a press conference after his party's core committee meeting in Peshawar, Khan said the march would convert into a sit-in and continue until his demands are accepted.

Biden says 'hello' to North Korea's Kim

REUTERS

Seoul, May 22: US President Joe Biden, in Seoul before heading to Japan as part of his first Asia trip as president, had a simple message for North Korea's Kim Jong Un: "Hello... period," he told reporters on the last day of his visit to South Korea Sunday.

Biden said he was "not concerned" about new North Korean nuclear tests, which would be the first in nearly five years.

North Korea has said the US overtures are insincere because Washington maintains "hostile policies" such as military drills and sanctions

But his wry response when asked what message he had for Kim underscored the administration's low-key approach to the unresolved tensions with North Korea. It is a stark contrast with former President Donald Trump's showy threats, summits, and "love letters" with Kim.

Neither president's approach has led to a major breakthrough, however, and North Korea has resumed testing its largest intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs), while intelligence reports suggest it is preparing for a new nuclear test.

"We are prepared for anything North Korea does," Biden said. A day earlier, Biden and his new South Korean counterpart, President Yoon Suk-yeol, agreed to consider bigger military exercises and potentially deploying more nuclear-capable American weapons to the region in response to the North's weapons tests.

North Korea has not responded to US overtures, including offers of Covid-19 vaccines, Biden said on Saturday, noting that he was willing to sit down with Kim if he thought it would lead to a serious breakthrough.

Covid-19 restrictions may be playing a role in North Korea's lack of response, a senior US administration official said.

Seoul: South Korean civic and student activists held rallies against US President Joe Biden throughout his three-day trip in the Asian nation to clamour for peace on the Korean Peninsula. # Thousands of Cov-ve Beijing residents sent to quarantine

AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE

Beijing, May 22: Thousands of Covid-negative Beijing residents were forcibly relocated to quarantine hotels overnight due to a handful of infections, as the capital begins to take more extreme control measures resembling virus-hit Shanghai. China's strategy to achieve zero Covid cases includes strict border closures, lengthy quarantines, mass testing and rapid, targeted lockdowns.

Over 13,000 residents of the locked-down Nanxinyuan residential compound in southeast Beijing were relocated to quarantine hotels overnight Friday due to 26 new infections discovered in recent days Beijing has been battling its worst outbreak since the pandemic started.

The Omicron variant has infected over 1,300 since late April, leading city restaurants, schools and tourist attractions to be closed indefinitely. "Experts have determined that all Nanxinyuan residents undergo centralised quarantine beginning midnight May 21 for seven days," authorities from Chaoyang district said Friday.

Social media photos showed hundreds of residents with luggage queuing in the dark to board coaches parked outside the compound. Residents were told to pack their clothes and essential belongings, and that their homes would be disinfected afterwards, according to screenshots shared on Weibo.

Last month, thousands of negative Shanghai residents were bussed to makeshift quarantine centres hundreds of kilometres away as the metropolis of 25 million doubled down on efforts to contain the spread of the virus.

92 monkeypox cases now in 12 countries

As of Saturday, 92 confirmed cases and 28 suspected cases of monkeypox have been reported from 12 member states that are not endemic for the virus, the World Health Organisation said

REUTERS

London, May 22: The World Health Organisation said it expects to identify more cases of monkeypox as it expands surveillance in countries where the disease is not typically found.

"Available information suggests that human-to-human transmission is occurring among people in close physical contact with cases who are symptomatic," the agency added.

Monkeypox is an infectious disease that is usually mild, and is endemic in parts of west and central Africa. It is spread by close contact, so it can be relatively easily contained through such measures as self-isolation and hygiene.

"What seems to be happening now is that it has got into the population as a sexual form, as a genital form, and is being spread as are sexually transmitted infections, which has amplified its transmission around the world," WHO official David Heymann, an infectious disease specialist, told Reuters.

Heymann said an international committee of experts met via video conference to look at what needed to be studied about the outbreak and communicated to the public, including whether there is any asymptomatic spread, who are at most risk, and the various routes of transmission.

He said the meeting was convened "because of the urgency of the situation". The committee is not the group that would suggest declaring a public health emergency of international concern, WHO's highest form of alert, which applies to the Covid-19 pandemic.

INDIA@DAVOS

More investments, less conflicts, Cov-ready infra on leaders' minds

PRES TRUST OF INDIA

Davos, May 22: With nearly 100 CEOs and over a dozen government leaders here for a rare spring-time annual meeting of the World Economic Forum, the Indian contingent at this Swiss ski resort town is brimming with confidence when it comes to share their story of fighting the Covid-19 pandemic and attracting more investments.

The government leaders and their associates are also confident that India will be able to tell the world that their approach towards the Ukraine crisis has been the most balanced, even as a vast majority of the world leaders who have congregated here are expected to take on Russia strongly for waging the war. Some are also of the view that the unfolding political situation back in India in the run up to the general elections of 2024, and various state polls before that, would be of keen interest for the global leaders assembled here, while so could be the issues of societal conflicts as well as income and gender inequalities.

One Indian CEO, however, said almost the entire world is seeing a rising level of polarisation and any India-specific issue should not gather much momentum at a summit the size of the World Economic Forum Annual Meeting.

The Ukraine crisis, climate change and preparing a pandemic-ready world are the three main issues that would dominate the discussions over the next five days here, he added.

Several Indian CEOs as well as government leaders also feel that there is a strong need to focus on creating necessary infrastructure for fighting any future pandemic and also to effectively defeat the existing one

Other key issues, they feel, which will dominate the five-day event include climate change, crypto currencies, role of multilateral institutions and rising costs across the world

The Indian story at Davos this time also has a key component of various states making their strong respective pitches for investments and global collaborations.

Prominent among those are Telangana, Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka, Tamil Nadu and Maharashtra. Among these, the Telangana team led by minister K T Rama Rao will be making a strong pitch for presenting his state as a key investment destination and innovator; while Karnataka Chief Minister B S Bommai has expressed confidence about attracting more investments into the state.

Three union ministers - Piyush Goyal, Mansukh Mandaviya and Hardeep Singh Puri - as well as nearly 100 business leaders from India are also participating in the event. Goyal said India's participation in the WEF Annual Meeting 2022, will help reinforce the country's crucial role as a rising economic powerhouse and project it as an attractive hub for business and investment globally. In addition to top industrialists such as Gautam Adani, Sanjiv Bajaj, Hari S Bhartia, Shyam Sunder Bhartia, Kumar Mangalam Birla, Shobana Kamineni, Rajan and Sunil Mittal and Pawan Munjal, a large number of young Indian business leaders are also attending the summit. These include Serum Institute CEO Adar Poonawalla, HCL Tech Chairperson Roshni Nadar Malhotra, CoinSwitch Founder and CEO Ashish Singhal, EaseMyTrip Co-Founder Prashant Pitti, Oyo Rooms CEO Ritesh Agarwal, Ecoware Solutions CEO Rhea Mazumdar Singhal, Trashcon CEO Nivedha RM and BYJU'S founder and CEO Byju Raveendran.

FUEL EXCISE DUTY CUT

Burden entirely on Centre: FM

Sitharaman's tweets came as a rebuttal to the Opposition's criticism of the Government's move. Earlier, former Union Finance Minister P Chidambaram and then other Opposition leaders had stated that the reduction in excise duty announced Saturday evening would reduce the share of states in central taxes

(RIC) and Agriculture & Infrastructure Development Cess (AIDC) together constitute Excise Duty on petrol and diesel. Basic ED is sharable with states. SAED, RIC & AIDC are non-sharable," she said.

The excise duty reduction of ₹8 per litre on petrol and ₹6 a litre on diesel has entirely been made in RIC. This was the case even in November 2021 when tax on petrol was cut by ₹5 and that on diesel by ₹10, she said.

Petrol commanded ₹13 a litre additional excise duty in form of RIC and ₹8 of such tax was levied on per litre of diesel. This has been cut in Saturday's excise reduction. Only ₹1.40 per litre BED collected on petrol and ₹1.80 on diesel are shared with states.

The SAED, AIDC and

As per the centre-state tax sharing formula, 41 per cent of taxes collected by the Centre go to states. These however do not include collections from levy of cess. Most of the tax on petrol and diesel is made up of cess

While total incidence of central tax on petrol prior to Saturday's cut was ₹27.90 per litre, basic excise duty was only ₹1.40 a litre. Similarly, out of Rs 21.80 a litre total central tax on diesel, basic excise duty was only ₹1.80

Special additional excise duty of ₹11 a litre on petrol and ₹8 per litre on diesel was levied. A Rs 2.50 a litre (AIDC) was levied on petrol and Rs 4 per litre on diesel

RIC are not shared.

"Basic ED which is sharable with states has not been touched. Therefore, the entire burden of these two duty cuts (made in Nov, 21 and yesterday) is borne by the Centre," she said.

Chidambaram had Saturday evening stated that the cut in excise duty was "equal to rob Peter more & pay Peter less!"

"FM's exhortation to States is meaningless. When she cuts Central Excise by one rupee, 41 paise of that rupee belongs to the States," he had stated. Sunday, he retracted saying contrary to what he had said Saturday "the entire burden of the reduction falls on the Centre. To that extent, I stand corrected."

Sitharaman said RBI data shows total developmental expenditure incurred by the Modi government during 2014-22 was ₹90.9 lakh crore.

"In contrast, only ₹49.2 lakh crore was spent on developmental expenditure during 2004-14. The expenditure incurred by our Govt under @PMOIndia @narendramodi includes ₹24.85 lakh crore spent so far on food, fuel and fertiliser subsidies and ₹26.3 lakh crore on capital creation. Over the 10 years of UPA, only ₹13.9 lakh crore was spent on subsidies," she added.

The duty reduction made yesterday has an implication of ₹1,00,000 cr a year for Centre. The duty reduction made in November 21 has an implication of ₹1,20,000 cr a year for Centre. Total revenue implication to Centre, on these two duty cuts is thus Rs 2,20,000 cr a year

Amazon accuses FRL independent directors of fraud

Future and Amazon have been locked in a bitter legal tussle after the US e-commerce giant dragged Future Group to arbitration at the SIAC in October 2020, arguing that FRL had violated their contract by entering into a deal for the sale of its assets to Reliance Retail on a slump sale basis for ₹24,713 crore

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, May 22: Amazon has accused independent directors of Future Retail Ltd (FRL) of facilitating "fraudulent stratagem" of transfer of 835 stores to billionaire Mukesh Ambani's Reliance group, saying the narrative of that transfer was on account of failure to pay huge outstanding rent was a "sham" as the retailer had a month prior to such move stated that outstanding rent was only ₹250 crore.

independent directors of FRL stated that the firm had in meeting with core lender banks January 1, 2022, "categorically admitted that the unpaid rental dues was ₹250 crore only. FRL further stated that it voluntarily retained the amount."

"Surprisingly, FRL had managed to do so without discontinuing any of its operations or handing over its stores," it wrote. "Consequently, any narrative that there was a purported transfer on account of failure to pay huge outstanding rent for as many as 835 retail stores, that too as quickly as February 26, 2022, is nothing but a sham and a false narrative to regulators, creditors, the shareholders and the Courts."

The Reliance deal fell last month after the lenders to FRL rejected it. But prior to that, Reliance group, referred to as MDA group by Amazon, took over operations of dozens of Future stores after the retailer failed to pay rent.

"January 22, 2022, FRL issued a letter to Bank of India, State Bank of India and Saraf and Partners, wherein FRL reiterated its stand on selling the small store formats, in blatant disregard of the binding injunctions operating against it. If the

Govt mulls spending additional ₹2 trillion to control inflation

Retail inflation rose to an 8-year high in April, while wholesale inflation rose to at least 17-year high, posing a major headache for govt

REUTERS

New Delhi, May 22: The Indian government is considering spending an additional ₹2 trillion ($26 billion) in the 2022/23 fiscal year to cushion consumers from rising prices and fight multi-year high inflation, two officials told Reuters.

The new measures will be double the ₹1 trillion hit government revenues could take from tax cuts on petrol and diesel the finance minister announced Saturday, both the officials said.

"We are fully focussed on bringing down inflation. The impact of Ukraine crisis was worse than anyone's imagination," one official, who did not want to be named, said.

The government estimates another ₹500 billion additional funds will be needed to subsidise fertilisers, from the current estimate of ₹2.15 trillion, the two officials said. The government could also deliver another round of tax cuts on petrol and diesel if crude oil continues to rise that could mean an added hit of ₹1 trillion-1.5 trillion in the 2022/23 fiscal year started April 1, the second official said.

One of the officials said the government may need to borrow additional sums from the market to fund these measures and that could mean a slippage from its deficit target of 6.4% of GDP for 2022-23.

The official did not quantify the amount of borrowing or fiscal slippage saying it depended on how much funds they eventually divert from the budget in the fiscal year.

The government plans to borrow a record ₹14.31 trillion in the current fiscal year, according to February budget announcements.

The other official said the additional borrowing will not impact the planned April-September borrowing of ₹8.45 trillion and may be undertaken in January-March 2023.

Infra projects over ₹500cr to be routed via GatiShakti panel

The PM GatiShakti plan was announced last year with an aim to break departmental silos and bring in more holistic and integrated planning and execution of projects

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, May 22: All logistics and connectivity infrastructure projects, entailing investment of over ₹500 crore, would now route through the network planning group (NPG) constituted under the PM GatiShakti initiative with the finance ministry issuing the necessary instructions and creation of the national master plan digital platform, an official said.

According to an office memorandum of the department of expenditure dated April 28, a revised format has been issued for Public Investment Board (PIB)/Delegated Investment Board (DIB) project proposals.

"The revised format of the PIB/DIB memorandum... Will apply to all the PIB/DIB proposals for new projects submitted on or after April 28, 2022," it has said.

As per the revised format, proposals should include whether the project has components of logistics or infrastructure connectivity; and whether it has been examined by NPG for convergence and integration at the conceptualisation or feasibility study stage.

This will help bring down the logistics cost and promote effective and efficient planning of infrastructure projects. An integrated infrastructure network planning group (NPG) has been constituted

Cost overruns of ₹4.83L cr hit 425 infra projects

As many as 425 infrastructure projects, each entailing an investment of ₹150 crore or more, have been hit by cost overruns of more than ₹4.83 lakh crore, according to a report. According to the Ministry of Statistics and Programme Implementation, which monitors infrastructure projects of ₹150 crore and above, out of 1,579 projects, 425 projects reported cost overruns and as many as 664 projects were delayed. "Total original cost of implementation of the 1,579 projects was ₹21,95,196.72 crore and their anticipated completion cost is likely to be ₹26,78,365.62 crore, which reflects overall cost overruns of ₹4,83,168.90 crore (22.01 per cent of the original cost)," the ministry's latest report for March 2022 said. According to the report, the expenditure incurred on these projects till March 2022 stood at ₹13,88,760.73 crore, which is 51.85 per cent of the anticipated cost of the projects.

which has representations from various connectivity infrastructure ministries/departments involving their heads of network planning division for unified planning and integration of the proposals.

"We have created the national master plan digital platform. We have provided training to people concerned and now we have this mandatory provision from the finance ministry. So, now all logistics and connectivity projects will be approved on the principles of PM GatiShakti. All those projects, costing over ₹500 crore will be considered by NPG," the official said.

retail stores were not available with FRL. FRL would be incapacitated from making such a statement," Amazon said. "The purported handover of retail assets of FRL is, thus, not on account of non-payment of outstanding lease rentals."

"The purported handover is nothing but an intentional fraudulent action in furtherance of the stratagem to ostensibly alienate the retail stores, without following the rule of law. It has been carried out without notice to the Courts, regulators, lender banks and solely motivated by the desire to defeat any final award passed in the Arbitration Proceedings in favour of Amazon," it said.

"The stratagem to alienate the retail stores grossly undervalues the retail stores and moreover falls under acts amounting to wrongful trading to defraud creditors," it alleged warning that the promoters, KMPs and directors, including independent, are liable for terms of imprisonment under various provisions of law including the Companies Act, 2013.

Amazon said FRL had March 9 stated for the first time that termination notices were issued by entities affiliated to the MDA Group. "FRL further went on to disclose that at least 835 retail stores (contributing 55% - 65% of the total revenue of FRL) had been purportedly shut down, possibly making way for stores operated by entities belonging to the MDA Group."

Accusing independent directors of "gross failure" in performing their statutory obligations and duties, the US retailer that, "Your inaction and material omissions have resulted in the execution of this stratagem orchestrated to commit a fraud by FRL, its Promoters, directors and KMPs on various stakeholders inter alia constitutional Courts, regulators, lender banks and its shareholders in collusion and connivance with the MDA Group."

CITY LIGHTS GLOW IN GLORY

MANCHESTER CITY PIP LIVERPOOL TO THE PL TITLE WITH THRILLING 3-2 WIN OVER ASTON VILLA

AGENCIES

London, May 22: They were destined to retain the Premier League title and in spite of falling 0-2 behind by the 70th minute, Manchester City conjured up sheer magic in five minutes. In those five minutes, the Blues scored three goals through Ilkay Gundogan (76th and 81st) and Rodri (78th) to go past Aston Villa and win the Premier League title. Pep Guardiola's team did the unthinkable when even their most ardent fans had given up hope. Liverpool were breathing hard on City's neck with just a point separating the two sides before the game began. When Manchester City looked down and out, Liverpool were 2-1 up against the Wolves. It seemed that nothing could catch up. But City players thought otherwise. In a six-minute spell they scripted a turnaround that only champions can conjure up, that only men of steel can think about. In the end after 38 games of the toughest league in the world, City ended with 93 points to emerge champions while Liverpool missed out finishing on 92 points. And with the results Sunday, Liverpool's hopes of a quadruple disappeared. They can still make it a treble though if they win the Champions League title beating Liverpool May 28 at Paris. In the Liverpool-Wolves game it was the underdogs who had taken the lead with a third minute goal by Pedro Neto. However, Sadio Mane (24th) restored parity and then Mo Salah (84th) and Andrew Robertson (89th) ensured all the three points from the game for Liverpool. City looked a completely disjointed in the first half against Villa. Their usual free-flowing passing game was missing. Matty Cash put the visitors ahead in the 37th minute at the Etihad. And then when Philippe Coutinho doubled the tally for Villa in the 70th minute, it seemed that the title was going to Liverpool. However, Gundogan and Rodri thought otherwise. Coming off the bench, Gundogan scored two goals, the second one being a peach. He sped past two Aston Villa defenders as Kevin de Bruyne danced into the Villa box and laid the perfect ball. Gundogan was in flash to poke the ball home. Prior to the winning goal, Rodri had restored parity for City driving the ball home from the edge of the Villa box.
