Apollo-Bhub performs 1st ever gynaecological robotic surgery

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, June 10: Apollo Hospitals, Bhubaneswar's Obstetrics and Gynaecology (O&G) department performed first ever gynaecological robotic surgery for tumours of the uterus on the world's most advanced Da Vinci Robotic platform here in Odisha.

The surgery was performed jointly by Senior Consultant GS Mohapatra and Rooma Sinha from Apollo Hospitals, Hyderabad here Friday. Speaking in details, Mohapatra said that gynecological surgery has been evolving rapidly over the last few decades. It all began with open surgery and slowly over the last three decades, laparoscopic surgery has become the gold standard for nearly all cases. Traditionally, open surgeries were accompanied by large incisions on the abdomen, greater blood loss and hence the chances of more blood transfusions, slower recovery (because of the pain due to the large incisions), and longer hospital stay leading to increased medical costs in the end.

All this changed with the advent of laparoscopic surgery. Keyhole incisions, less operative time, less blood loss and faster recovery became the game changer in the whole process of treatment. Now with the advent of robotic surgery for such procedures, it is another wonderful way of dealing with such complex surgeries and to take it to the next level, he said.

Ever since US FDA approved the Da Vinci robot in 2005, it has been used in removing fibroids from the uterus (myomectomy). removal of whole uterus (hysterectomy), tubal re-anastomosis (cases where patient wants opening up of the tubes after tubal ligation), complex surgeries like deep infiltrating endometriosis and radical surgeries done for cancers of the uterus, cervix, tubes and ovaries.

Robotic surgeries offer advantages for patients in the form of smaller incisions, less blood loss, less need of blood transfusions. more precise surgery, less postoperative pain and discomfort, shorter hospital stay, faster ambulation, faster recovery, faster discharge from hospital, faster return to work. For surgeons, it offers 3d visualisation and the ability to do precise surgeries because of better wrist movements by the instruments and also improved ergonomics, said Sinha.

The Da Vinci system translates the surgeon's hand movements at the console in real-time, bending and rotating the instruments while performing the procedure. This technique delivers highly magnified 3D high-definition views of the surgical area thus allowing the surgeons to perform complex surgeries through minor incisions, # recuperated from the disease 'Draft E-Waste Management Rules have left us in the lurch'

tating that the proposed Draft E-Waste Management Rules of 2022 totally disregards the role and responsibilities of dismantlers or Producer Responsibility Organisations (PROs), the Indian Federation of Reverse Logistics (IFRL) has demanded the government to recognise their position in the Extended Producer Responsibility value chain and not rid them of their livelihoods. Considering the hazardous materials, and other things such as plastic and other metals, are the end product of e-waste recycling chain and while applying the concept of circular economy - in simple terms, the output/waste at the end of the product cycle feeds back into the same chain or becomes raw material for some other product - the E-Waste Management Rules of 2016 had defined the roles of and responsibilities of the entire value chain.

Since the E-Waste Management Rules 2016 were applicable, more than 75 PROs and over 400 dismantlers started shops across India. These acted as a valuable bridge between the producer and the recycler by providing the necessary logistics of bringing together product wise e-waste with quality sourcing and better collection mechanism across the country. "Prior to these rules, the rate of recycling was less than 1 per cent, which is now 4-5 per cent with absolute growth approximately 15X over these years," the federation pointed out.

The newly formed federation comprises companies active in the reverse logistics domain that seek to develop a green supply chain across the country to facilitate collection and channelisation of e-waste and contribute towards creating a circular economy.

The E-Waste Management Rules 2022 were floated by the Ministry of Environment, Forests & Climate Change (MoEF&CC) May 19.

"The 'Extended Producer Responsibility' (EPR) has been defined in the Draft E-Waste Management Rules 2022 for meeting recycling targets only through registered recyclers. But there is a need for sustaining the integrated reverse value chain comprising consumers, PROs, collection centres, dismantlers to support the producers, importers, brand owners and recyclers with quality sourcing and better collection mechanism across the country only then there can be better recyclability," Vijai Singhal, an office bearer of the Federation listed the long list of works/jobs that the PROs carry out.

Pointed out Nisha Banth, spokesperson of the Federation. "It clashes with the monopoly laws and also with the right to lawfully earn a living. The draft rules have left us in lurch.'

"The PROs can continue acting as catalysts in the E-Waste value chain and help make the developed collection mechanism far more robust and integrated reverse value chain, besides supporting the SPCBs & CPCB in Ewaste data inventorisation, capacity building exercises aimed at promoting collections from residential colonies, dealers, retailers, bulk consumers, households, office clusters, and the informal sector," said Banth.

Pankaj Nijhawan, another office-bearer, pointed out how it was an NGT decision regarding the ewaste mismanagement at Moradabad (in Uttar Pradesh) that had prompted the 2016 Rule. He asked, "With the PROs missing in the value chain, do we want more Moradabads?'

The PROs can continue acting as catalysts in the E-Waste value chain and help make the developed collection mechanism far more robust and integrated reverse value chain, besides supporting the

clusters, and the informal sector

Teacher certs vetting fails to gather steam

Chhatrapur, June 10: Although the School and Mass Education (S&ME) department has started the verification of certificates and documents of teachers in Ganjam since 2019, the process is yet to gather steam.

Till date, the department has detected 99 fake teachers in the district who have grabbed the jobs by furnishing forged educational certificates. However, verification of scores of others is yet to be over.

Earlier, despite repeated allegations about the fake teachers, some officials are doing precious little to carry forward the investigation. The S&ME department has insisted on hastening the verification of mark sheets, caste and migration certificates, and training documents of all the teachers.

The department has been sending reminders to the district education officer, the district project coordinator of the Samagra Sikhya Abhijan and block education officers. But the verification is yet to be completed. The department has again sent a reminder to the officials.

The department has sought to know as to what action has been taken against the fake teachers. The district Collector has been intimated about the issue. The department had asked the district education officer (DEO) to sack the teachers or start departmental proceedings or file FIRs against the teachers if their documents are found to be fake. It was learnt that the officials have not sent reports about 85 teachers to the department.

Seven teachers have been sacked

while FIRs have been lodged against 19 teachers at different police stations. In some cases, a few teachers have got stay from courts on the verification of their documents.

Jaipur/Kabatabandha, June 10: The district administration has allegedly failed to contain plunder of minor minerals like black stone in Dharmasala block of Jajpur district, resulting in huge revenue loss to the state govern-

Reports said as many as 20 illegal stone quarries are still operational in different hills like Dankari, Kunubara, Kusunpur, Baghua, Rahadpur and Chargotha.

As per an investigation report of Balang revenue inspector (RI), stone mafia have been carrying out illegal quarrying by occupying 456.34 acre forest land in Bichhakhandi, Anjira and Kusunpur areas.

Biofloc fish farming big draw for women

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bissamcuttack, June 10: Biofloc fish farming which has set trends in the pisciculture industry is gaining traction among the women fish farmers under this block in Rayagada district, a report said.

The system requires a large water tank instead of a pond where fish can be grown with adequate oxygen supply through machines.

The move is part of an initiative by the state government to provide livelihood opportunities to women and make them self-reliant through Odisha Livelihood Mission (OLM). The move will help the women earn around ₹60,000 to ₹1 lakh through this method of fish farming.

The farming has been undertaken in Dhepaguda village under Sadar panchayat of Bissamcuttack block by involving over 40 women from several self-help groups (SHGs) like Maa Gavatri, Maa Santoshi, Maa Mangala and Maa Banjari. As part of this move, these women underwent training for the fish farming in the first phase.

After completion of their training, the women were sanctioned ₹5 lakh to undertake the fish farming. The women with the sanctioned money have installed eight large tanks of 15,000 litre capacity each to grow fish.

The tanks have been fitted with two fans and four biofloc machines for 24-hour oxygen supply to the tanks.

The fish will receive oxygen from the machines which will help them grow. As many as 3,000 fin-

Baby elephant rescued from well

POST NEWS NETWORK

Phiringia, June 10: After a tiring twohour operation, a 15-member team of the Forest department successfully rescued a jumbo calf that had fallen inside a well at Jiringipada village under Phiringia block in Kandhamal district late Thursday night.

A few villagers first spotted the baby elephant in the well and immediately alerted the Forest department officials. On learning about the incident, a 15-member team reached the spot and launched a rescue operation that lasted for two hours. Villagers of Jiringipada suspect that the calf might be part of a herd that passed through the village in search of food Wednesday night.

A path was created from the well with the help of a JCB machine. Later, the calf climbed onto the path and came out of the well on its own. It then ran towards the herd waiting for it and then the pachyderms proceeded towards the jungle.

"The rescue operation took two hours. But, it was worth the time. We are happy that the baby elephant was spotted and rescued safely," Phiringia ranger Bijay Mallik said. Meanwhile, an ailing tusker was found battling for life near Jukub of Satkosia Wildlife Division in Angul district. According to Forest department officials, there is no sign of external injuries.

A team of the Forest department along with a veterinary doctor has been at the spot and keeping a watch on it.

Sector Swap

Public or private sector? Where is the grass greener? In these enlightened times, apparently on both sides. Sources have informed DKB that the Centre is actively considering hiring a private sector executive for the top post at the Oil and Natural Gas Corporation (ONGC). The post has been vacant since the retirement of Shashi Shanker in March last year. The government's search-cum-selection committee is reportedly planning to seek out private sector executives as well as eligible candidates from within the government. The view is that a private sector honcho is more likely to help revamp the company, increase its risk-taking capability and enhance efficiency. To sweeten the deal, the government is weighing options to offer a lucrative compensation too.

Meanwhile, several corporate houses in Tamil Nadu believe hiring ex-IAS officers makes a lot of business sense. An IAS officer does not lose relevance after superannuation but is often capable of donning a new avatar. Recently, two leading corporates of Chennai drafted two former IAS officers R Gopalan and MF Farooqui as chairpersons of their companies. Of course, both exbabus have served on the boards of these companies for some time, but their elevation to the top slot has made a lot of people sit up and take notice.

Possibly, these babus who have long years of experience serving at the Centre and the state will bring a new perspective, especially on how to navigate the tricky corridors of bureaucracy. It is a win-win proposition for both exbabus and their new corporate masters.

Centre under pressure over Mizoram CS

The Centre often claims that it is very sensitive to the needs of the northeastern states. Now it faces an issue in Mizoram that will test its claim.

For some time now, major civil society groups in the state have been campaigning with the Centre to replace the state's Chief Secretary Renu Sharma with an officer who can speak Mizo, the native tongue. The protestors say that while they have nothing personal against Sharma, her inability to communicate in Mizo is a problem and creates administrative hurdles. The protests have turned public only because the Centre has repeatedly ignored the demand of the Mizo public.

The controversy is not new. This column had earlier reported how Sharma, an AGMUT cadre officer of the 1988 batch, was appointed by the Centre to the post in October last year after the retirement of her predecessor Lalnunmawia Chuaungo. Oddly, on the same day, Chief Minister Zoramthanga named additional chief secretary JC Ramthanga to the same post. The confusion ended when the Centre's nominee prevailed and Sharma took charge.

The opposition to Sharma, observers say, has the tacit support of the state government, which may explain why the issue has not died down. It may also be why the Centre is treading carefully on the issue, knowing that any wrong move can escalate the tense situation. The buzz is that the Home Ministry may decide to err on the side of caution and bury the issue quietly by acquiescing to the demand for Sharma's removal.

IAS crunch continues as govt goes slow on intake

When the Centre promised "minimum government, maximum governance" it is pretty certain that it did not mean cutting down the number of IAS officers. Yet, that is what it has allowed to happen.

Despite suffering a crunch of IAS officers for more than a year now, the government has done little to improve the intake of officers in the service. The recent UPSC civil service exam results have shown that the intake of IAS officers is 180, the same as it was in 2014 when Modi became the Prime Minister. The total intake of officers in the civil service has gone down to 749 officers last year from 1,228 in 2013.

Earlier in March, a report of the parliamentary standing committee on personnel had recommended that the Department of Personnel and Training (DoPT) increase the intake of IAS officers, but the government has not moved on the issue. Why is it dragging its feet? Some observers feel that the answer depends on the cadre review. The government is still working on an acceptable formula and does not wish to increase the intake of officers suddenly, since it may be perceived as a knee-jerk reaction.

So the low intake is due to the government trying to restructure the system. Again, we don't know how long that exercise will continue.

WORDSWORTH

■ Agnotology

agnotology is the study of culturally induced ignorance. Historians of science have tended to focus on the processes by which scientific knowledge gets accepted. In recent decades, some scholars have come to see that processes that impede or prevent acceptance of scientific findings are also important. Such processes include the very human desire to ignore unpleasant facts, media neglect of topics, corporate or government secrecy, and misrepresentation for a commercial or political end. They often generate controversy, much of it ill-informed. Examples include the health implications of tobacco and of genetically modified plants, the safety of nuclear power, the environmental consequences of hydraulic fracturing (fracking), and the existence or extent of man-made climate change. The word's earliest appearance seems to have been in a book of 1995, The Cancer Wars: How Politics Shapes What We Know and Don't Know About Cancer. This was by Robert Proctor, a historian of science at Stanford University in California. He coined it from the classical Greek agnosis, not knowing, plus the suffix -(o)logy, a subject of study, from Greek logos, word or speech.

■ Qubit

his is a key concept in the very new field of quantum computing. The aim is to produce a device which is the quantum equivalent of the digital computer. The qubit (pronounced exactly the same was as the Old Testament measurement, the cubit) is a "quantum bit", the analogue at quantum dimensions of the ordinary computer's 1 or 0, on or off, heads or tails binary digit or bit. Unlike such digital representations, a qubit remains in an indeterminate state until it is observed, like a tossed coin that is still spinning. It was shown recently that in theory a quantum computer could solve certain mathematical problems, such as factoring large numbers, much faster than conventional ones, and so could be used, for example, in codebreaking. It might even be possible to employ the "action at a distance" properties of quantum mechanics to transport information instantaneously over great distances without loss. This may all sound like SF, but the first two-bit quantum logic gates were actually demonstrated at the end of 1995. If this field takes off, we shall probably see a whole series of new portmanteau words beginning in "qu". Anyone for "quanputer"?

TAMING INFLATION CURVE

Willem H Buiter and Anne C Sibert

ALL THREE
CENTRAL BANKS
CONTRACTIONARY

aior central banks have lost the plot when it comes to fulfilling their price-stability mandates. In April, 12-month US consumer price index (CPI) inflation was at 8.3%, down slightly from 8.5% in March, and the US Federal Reserve's preferred inflation gauge, the core personal consumption expenditures price index (which excludes food and energy), was at 4.9%, down from 5.2% in March. But what the Fed should be doing is the opposite of what it actually is doing.

After increasing the target zone for the federal funds rate by 50 basis points to 0.75-1%, at its May meeting, the Federal Open Market Committee indicated that it will stick with 50-bps hikes at its June and July meetings. According to the May meeting minutes, all participants agreed that the US economy was very strong, the labor market was extremely tight, and inflation was well above target. Yet they decided that the FOMC "should expeditiously move the stance of monetary policy toward a neutral posture" (emphasis ours).

There are two problems with this. First, the Fed's monetarypolicy stance should be restrictive, not neutral. Instead, the FOMC merely noted "that a restrictive stance of policy may well become appropriate depending on the evolving economic outlook and the risks to the outlook.' Second, there is nothing expeditious about two additional 50-bps increases. The policy rate's upper bound will still be only 2%, below the consensus estimate of a 2.5% neutral rate (the sum of a neutral real rate of 0.5% and the 2% inflation target).

The Fed's balance-sheet tightening is also minimal. Starting in June, its holdings will shrink by $47.5 billion ($30 billion in Treasuries and $17.5 billion in agency debt and mortgage-backed securities) each month for three months, followed by an open-ended sequence of monthly $95 billion reductions ($60 billion in Treasuries and $35 billion in agency debt and MRSs)

That sounds like a lot of unwinding. But it is worth remem-

The Fed is not the only major central bank remaining behind the curve. The Bank of England's policy rate is currently 1%. That is up from an all-time low of 0.1% in March 2020, but the BOE has limited its rate hikes to increments of 25 bps or less.

bering that the Fed's balance sheet had ballooned to nearly $9 trillion by the end of March 2021. At the current pace of reduction, returning the balance sheet to where it was in early March 2020 (about $4.2 trillion) will take more than four years. And it will take more than seven years to reach the level in early September 2008 ($900 billion), before the Fed erected its Great Wall of Liquidity around financial markets.

The Fed is not the only major central bank remaining behind the curve. The Bank of England's policy rate is currently 1%. That is up from an all-time low of 0.1% in March 2020, but the BOE has limited its rate hikes to increments of 25 bps or less. At the May meeting of its Monetary Policy Committee, only three members (out of nine) voted for a 50-bps increase. In the MPC's May projections, the market-implied bank rate reaches about 2.5% by mid-2023, before falling back to 2% in 2025.

This policy-rate projection appears way too low. The United Kingdom's headline CPI inflation rose from 7% in March to 9% in April and is expected to peak at slightly over 10% later in 2022. The BOE projects that a significant slowdown in economic growth will bring inflation to its target in 2024; but while that outcome is certainly possible, we regard it as unlikely without significant additional monetary tightening.

The policy approach is similarly inexplicable in the eurozone, where headline CPI inflation was 8.1% in May, up from 7.4% in April. Nonetheless, the European Central Bank's interest rate on its main refinancing operations remains zero, and its deposit rate is -0.5%. In an interview on May 25, ECB Chief Economist Philip R. Lane indicated that, following the end of net asset purchases in July, the MPC will set a benchmark pace with 25-bps hikes at the July and September meetings.

Meanwhile, the supposedly hawkish chief of Austria's central bank, Robert Holzmann, has called for a 50-bps rate hike at the July meeting. Yet even if the ECB increases rates by 50 bps in July and again in September, the deposit rate will reach only 0.5%. Never mind that inflation will still be materially above target, and that, with the harmonized eurozone unemployment rate at 6.8% in April – its lowest level since July 1990 - the real economy will be close to overheating. The ECB's dovishness exceeds even that of the Fed and the BOE.

All three central banks should be adopting a contractionary stance, setting policy rates significantly above the 2.5% neutral rate. A useful benchmark for the appropriate policy rate is the Taylor Rule, the original version of which recommends a policy rate equal to the neutral rate (2.5%), plus half the percentage difference between actual and potential real (inflation-adjusted) GDP, plus 1.5 times the difference between the actual and target inflation rates.

Suppose we conservatively assume that the output gap is zero in all three monetary-policy areas. For the eurozone, even if the actual (underlying) inflation rate is the 3.8% core rate rather than the headline rate, the benchmark policy rate would be 5.2%. And because it is hard to come up with actual underlying US and UK inflation rates below 4%, the benchmark policy rate for both the Fed and the BOE would not be less than 5.5%.

Far from being restrictive, the major central banks' current stance remains expansionary, with policy rates well below the neutral level (and deeply negative in real terms). All three are therefore continuing to feed inflation.

At current levels, inflation is a severe economic, social, and political problem – one that especially hurts the poor and the financially unsophisticated. The more that longer-term inflation expectations become unanchored, the higher the cost of disinflation will be in terms of lost output and employment.

The inevitable and necessary economic slowdown should be engineered earlier rather than later. At each of the next two Fed and BOE meetings, policy rates should be raised by at least 100 bps, and the ECB should plan for three rate hikes of 100 bps or more. The ECB has not raised its policy rate for almost 11 years. Let us hope that it remembers how.

Climate change worsens food insecurity

Tood security has emerged a subject of much discussion due to an impending global crisis, more so due to the Russia-Ukraine conflict. Mention may be made of wheat shortage in different countries, including in India, which decided to stop restrictions on exports, except to its neighbours. There are reports that due to climate change and attendant vagaries such as global warming and increasing heat waves, cyclones and floods, food security is likely to be threatened.

Scientists warned that the world will run out of food in 27 years. This means we are heading towards a food crisis. Shortages of water, land and energy combined with the increased demand from population and economic growth will create a global food shortage around 2050. The lower output in India and some other countries, along with global supply crunch in the wake of the war in Ukraine are seen as the key drivers for international wheat prices, which have soared in recent weeks.

Delving into the problem of food insecurity, it may be said that such insecurity may be ranked into five phases. While phases 1 and 2 are classified as 'none/minimal' and 'stressed', respectively, the three highest levels of food insecurity are labeled 'crisis', 'emergency' and 'catastrophe'.

It is a well-known fact that two years of the COVID-19 pandemic had taken a considerable toll on global food systems – and the ability of the world to feed its 7.9 billion people. Ending hunger is the second of the UN's 17 Sustainable Development Goals to achieve by 2030. In the 2021 report on State of Food Security & Nutrition in the World, between 720 million and 811 million people in the world faced hunger in 2020, around one in 10, according to UN estimates.

In India, the major problems that have been identified are:population growth and poverty with a significant section though above the BPL line, belonging to the economically weaker sections; climate change, specially heat waves, floods and cyclones affecting production and productivity, specially in the current year, with similar changes also affecting livestock, forestry, fisheries and aquaculture; inadequate storage facilities for grains, leading to lack of protection from humidity and pests for farmers; lack of education and training on new techniques, technologies and agricultural products and reliance on traditional farming methods that are slightly more time consuming and delay the production of food grains, etc.growth of biofuel growing food crops market, thereby reducing land used for growing food crops; and diverting the grains to open market to get better margin, selling poor quality grains at ration shops, the irregular opening of the shops adds to the issue of food insecurity.

and concurrent wastage and loss

There is need to diversify food systems, empower vulnerable and marginalised groups, and promote sustainability across all aspects of food supply chains, from production to consumption. It also means shaping food policies in ways that recognise inter-system linkages—ensuring, for example, that food systems, ecological systems, and economic systems create positive synergies rather than working at cross-purposes.

Thus transformation across food systems would help to alleviate many of the problems unleashed by the pandemic. Policies that promote diverse farming systems such as agro-ecology are typically more ecologically sustainable than systems geared for specialized production and long-distance trade. More diverse production systems contribute to more nutritious diets by providing a wide variety of foods essential to good health.

More localised markets are also more empowering for vulnerable and marginalized groups because they create livelihood opportunities not only for local farmers, but also for local traders and processors. Grounded in communities and catering to their specific needs, these more localised market systems can respond to changing conditions more quickly and reduce the need for an excessive reliance on imports.

The threat to food security, is immense in most tropical countries, including India, with heatwaves causing loss to life and property as well as food production. Policies that support transformative initiatives and help to build more diverse food systems that can stand heat or flooding or even less dependent on water need to be evolved so as to achieve SDG2 in the coming years.

No place for complacency Sir, Apropos, "India carefully monitor

Sir, Apropos, "India carefully monitors developments along its border areas", (Orissa POST, June 10). The brazenness with which China has been ramping up infrastructure along the Line of Actual Control (LAC) is not lost on anyone. India is well aware of this buildup, though it has been slow in matching the aggressive neighbour's moves. Echoing New Delhi's concerns, a top US General has termed the Chinese activity 'eyeopening' and 'alarming'. During his India visit, General Charles A Flynn, who heads the US Army's Pacific Command, also called out the Chinese Communist Party for its 'destabilising and corrosive' behaviour in the Indo-Pacific region. His strong words come days before the second anniversary of the Galwan Valley clash, which has dominated the India-China discourse amid the prolonged Ladakh standoff. Indeed, America is missing no opportunity to throw its weight behind India, its key ally in the region. American support, however, gives India no reason to become complacent. With China busy constructing a second bridge around the Pangong Tso lake in eastern Ladakh to facilitate the movement of its troops, besides establishing roads and residential units in border areas, India needs to be more active and assertive along the LAC. Also, it is vital to ensure the success of the Centre's Vibrant Villages Programme, which envisages coverage of border villages having sparse population, limited connectivity and infrastructure. All-round development of these areas can spur the residents to help the troops and do N Sadhasiva Reddy, BANGALORE their bit for border security.

Noise woes

Sir, Sound pollution is eating into the vitals of our society. Sound pollution is unwanted sound that, disturbs our peace and tranquility. It is a menace for the society. It is a serious health hazard. Bursting of crackers in marriage processions on the road is adding woes to the worries of the common man. It is a flagrant display of wealth and superiority. Can't marriage be done without DJ music and bursting of crackers? Is it a royal procession or a march for a king to be enthroned? What is the necessity of causing trouble to children, senior citizens, animals and job aspirants preparing for various competitive examinations by the cacophony of DJ music? As conscientious citizens we should not harass our fellow citizens and flaunt the law by our act of misconduct and moral impropriety. We are duty bound to safeguard the interests of our fellow citizens. This is the demand of the day.

India registered its highest daily spike in nearly three months with 7,584 new Covid cases as the country witnesses a fresh surge in several parts

New Delhi, June 10: Experts said people lowering their guard and vacation period are the main reasons behind the recent increase in coronavirus cases in the national capital.

On Wednesday, the national capital had seen 564 infections in a single day, highest since May 15 when 613 cases were reported. B L Sherwal, medical superintendent, RML Hospital said there is a need to keep a vigil, but one should not panic. "Everybody has lowered the guard so such spikes (of cases) will happen.

Patients are recovering in three to four days, and are having fever, body ache or loose motions. The good thing is that there is no lung involvement and requirement of oxygen," he said.

The senior doctor added that only those who are very sick and advised by doctors are getting admitted to hospitals. SK Arora, medical director, Sanjay Gandhi Memorial Hospital attributed the increase in incidences of coronavirus infection to the vacation season, "This has become a common mild infection and such spurts will happen. Also, it is the vacation season and people are travelling from one state to another, and there will be such instances reported. But the only thing is that the infections are mild," he added.

As of Thursday, 85 of 9,630 hospital beds were occupied. According to Delhi Corona mobile application, the number of hospital beds stood at 85 even on Friday, while 28 out of 2,218 ICU beds are occupied.

'Mariculture policy' for fish production

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Panaji, June 10: Amid fears of a fish famine expressed by experts, the Goa government has notified "Goa State Mariculture Policy 2020" to carry out open sea cage fish culture in the territorial waters of the state of Goa.

Chief Minister Pramod Sawant on Wednesday had urged the scientists and students of the National Institute of Oceanography (NIO) to suggest to the government to increase fish productivity by adopting modern ways

NIO has played a vital role to increase production of green mussels in Goa, training of which was given to stakeholders

According to marine experts pollution near Goa's river mouths and in the waters off the state's coastline as well as over-fishing using banned practices like bull trawling and LED fishing, leads to fish famine in the state.

The fishermen from Goa are demanding action against illegal practices used to catch fish

Goa Fisheries Minister Nilkanth Halarnkar, earlier had said the Central government has sanctioned Rs 400 crore for setting up of cage fishing infrastructure to boost the coastal state's fishing catch output. The Central grant is aimed at aiding cage fishing culture in Goa

Covid spurt in Goa

Panaji: Even as Covid cases in the state have witnessed a spurt in recent days, the period between June 15 to July 15 will be a crucial period for the state, in order to judge the impact of the fresh wave of the pandemic Speaking to reporters, Dr. Shekhar Salkar, a member of the Goa government's expert committee for Covid management, the government may have to make wearing of masks compulsory if the number of daily new cases in the state shoot beyond 50 or the infection positivity rate passes 10 per cent. "The current number of (daily) cases is between 30 and 50. If it crosses 50 and the positivity percentage crosses 10, then we may have to make masks compulsory. Right now there is only an advisory for masks," Salkar said.

TIME TO TAKE ACTION

Toxic froth back in Yamuna

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 10: Pictures and videos of toxic froth floating in the Yamuna in Delhi made their way back on social media, with experts citing untreated sewage and detergents as the major reason behind the pollution.

The primary reason behind the formation of the toxic foam is high phosphate content in the wastewater because of detergents used in dyeing industries, dhobi ghats and households in Delhi, Haryana and Uttar Pradesh, they said.

Devotees standing knee-deep in the toxic foam-laden river during Chhath puia celebrations in November last year had attracted global attention. Officials said the problem of frothing will continue unless sewage treatment plants and common effluent treatment plants in Delhi are upgraded to meet the new standards and all unauthorised colonies are connected to the sewer network.

colonies and settlements containing high phosphate content reach the river through untapped drains. When water falls from a height at a barrage, the turbulence agitates the phosphoric compounds in the river which leads to the formation of froth, they said.

Frothing in certain stretches of the river, such as near ITO and Okhla Barrage, has become an annual phenomenon in winters when the temperatures are low and flow in the river is less.

The 22-kilometre stretch of the Yamuna between Wazirabad and Okhla, which is less than two percent of its total length of 1,370 kilometres from Yamunotri to Allahabad, accounts for around 80 percent of the pollution load in the river.

The Delhi government had in June last year banned the sale, storage, transportation, and marketing of soaps and detergents not conforming to the latest BIS standards to curb the pollution in the

Delhi govt to hire agency to test mid-day meals

Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal reviews the implementation of Tree Transplantation Policy, at Mayur Vihar

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 10: Delhi government will hire an agency to test mid-day meals served in its schools to ensure that the meals meet the prescribed standards of quality and nutritional value, according to officials.

"The government will hire an agency which will pick random samples from schools as well as the kitchens and godowns. Samples of both the cooked food as well as raw materials will be tested at regular intervals," an official of the Directorate of Education (DoE) said.

"The idea is to ensure that only quality meals are served to children

The midday meal or PM-POSHAN scheme, under which hot cooked meals are served to address the nutritional needs of children, covers government and government-aided school students of classes I-VIII, as well as pre-primary classes

During closure of schools due to the pandemic, the food security allowance was continued through the distribution of dry ration kits in schools and the prescribed nutritional value is not compromised.' According to official data, there are 8.24 lakh beneficiaries in over

1200 state run schools in the national

However, the Programme Approval Board (PAB), which decides the work plan and budget for the midday meal scheme annually, noted in its recent meeting that over 4.8 lakh children were left out of the midday meal scheme during the 2021-22 academic session in Delhi due to shortage of foodgrains.

The Delhi government in collaboration with Delhi Commission for Protection of Child Rights (DCPCR) in April had also started a social audit of distribution of dry ration under mid-day meal scheme.

'64% of Delhi's winter pollution caused by outside sources'

IN NOVEMBER- DECEMBER 2021, APART FROM THE GRADED RESPONSE ACTION PLAN (GRAP) COMING INTO EFFECT IN DELHI-NCR, THE COMMISSION FOR AIR QUALITY MANAGEMENT INTRODUCED SEVERAL EMERGENCY RESPONSE MEASURES THROUGH A SERIES OF DIRECTIONS AND ORDERS

New Delhi, June 10: Around 64 per cent of Delhi's winter pollution load comes from outside the capital's boundaries, with "burning of agricultural waste" and "burning for heating and cooking needs" being the major sources, according to a study

The researchers used data from publicly available air quality forecasts, including Delhi's Air Quality Early Warning System (3-day and 10day), Decision Support System for Air Quality Management in Delhi (DSS), and UrbanEmissions.Info.

"Sixty-four per cent of Delhi's winter pollution load comes from outside its boundaries. Biomass burning of agricultural waste during the stubble burning phase and burning for heating and cooking needs during peak winter are phase from November 15 to December 15, use of biomass for household heating and cooking (17 percent), dust (17 percent) and transport (16 percent) contributed the most to the air pollution in the capital. Interestingly, use of biomass for household heating and cooking (31.68 percent) emerged as the major contributor in the peak winter phase between December 15 and January 15, followed by dust (15.84 percent) and transport (14.85 percent).

The researchers called for survevs in residential areas across NCR to explore the prevalence of biomass usage for heating and cooking purposes.

'Based on this, a targeted support mechanism is required to allow households and others to use clean fuels for cooking and heating. There is also a need to assess and promote alternatives for space heating," they said. This study also assessed actions taken to tackle winter pollution last year. The Supreme Court also stepped in from time to time to direct the authorities to act on air pollution. The first set of restrictions was put in place November 16, and all were lifted by December 20, barring the one on industrial operations, it said.

While air quality forecasts picked up the pollution trends, they are not vet very accurate in predicting high pollution episodes ('very poor' and 'severe' air quality days), the researchers noted. When the restrictions were in place like ban on entry of trucks, construction and demolition activities and others, air quality did not descend into the 'severe plus' category, they said.

"There cannot be any compromise with the merits and/or quality of Medical Education, which may ultimately affect the Public Health," the bench said while noting that it was a conscious decision and cannot be termed as arbitrary.

The top court said the process of admission and that too in the medical education cannot be endless and it must end at a particular point in time. The time schedule has to be adhered to, otherwise, ultimately, it may affect medical education and public health, it said.

The apex court said the MCC and the Union of India have to adhere to the time schedule for completing the admission process when the current admission of NEET-PG-2021 is already behind the schedule.

'When a conscious decision is bу taken the Union Government/the Medical Counselling Committee, not to conduct a further Special Stray Round ocounselling, it cannot be said that the same is arbitrary," the bench said.

The apex court said the students cannot pray for admission to the vacant seats, which are mostly non-clinical, after approximately one year of the academic session and after eight to nine rounds of counselling.

"Apart from the fact that after the closure of the last round of counselling on May 7, 2022, the entire software mechanism has been closed and the security deposit is refunded to the eligible candidates, it is to be noted that the admission process for NEET-PG-2022 has already begun, the results for the NEET-PG-2022 has been announced on June 1, 2022, and as per the time schedule, the counselling process is going to start in July 2022," the bench said.

Therefore, if one additional Special Stray Round of counselling is conducted now, as prayed, in that case, it may affect the admission process for_ NEET-PG-2022, the top court said.

Will take strict legal action against use of children: NCPCR Kolkata cop opens fire, kills self

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 10: Amid protests over controversial remarks made by two now-suspended BJP leaders against Prophet Mohammad, the apex child rights body NCPCR said Friday that children were used in many of these "violent demonstrations" and that it would take strict legal action in the matter. Protests erupted in several parts of the country, including outside Delhi's Jama Masjid, with hundreds of people demanding the arrest of Nupur Sharma and Naveen Kumar Jindal over their controversial remarks against Prophet Mohammad.

National Commission for Protection of Child Rights (NCPCR) chief Priyank Kanoongo has claimed that children were used in many of these "violent demonstrations"."Instances of use of children in violent demonstrations have come to notice again today. Strict legal action will be taken and not a single extremist ('charampanthi') will be spared,' Kanoongo said in a tweet in Hindi.

He said there are laws in place and the NCPCR will not let children be "used by these extremists".
"We will look into

PROPHET ROW all the protests where children were used and then we will issue individual notices to police to take action against people who used children and also seek registration of FIR against them," Kanoongo said. Earlier, the NCPCR chief had asked the Uttar Pradesh Police to probe if children were engaged by "anti-social" elements in the recent communal violence in Kannur.

Kolkata, June 10: A policeman allegedly fired several rounds near the Bangladesh Deputy High Commission in central Kolkata's busy Park Circus area Friday afternoon, killing a woman and injuring two people before shooting himself dead, police said. The incident happened around 2.30 pm a few hundred metres away from the Seven-Point Crossing where thousands of people had gathered to protest against the inflammatory remarks made by suspended BJP spokesperson Nupur

Sharma. The woman, identified as Rima Singha of Dasnagar in Howrah. was passing by, riding pillion on a bike taxi when she was hit by a bullet as the on-duty policeman kept firing from his Self-Loading Rifle (SLR), triggering chaos in the congested area, police said.

Agartala-Kolkata via Bangladesh bus service resumes

Bangladesh Assistant High Commissioner Arif Mohammad said after a lot of efforts, the bus service has resumed fulfilling the expectations of people of both countries

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Agartala, June 10: The Agartala-Kolkata via Bangladesh bus service, which was suspended in March 2020 after the outbreak of Covid-19 and the restrictions imposed on cross-border movement, resumed on Friday to facilitate easier ferrying of people from the northeast region of India to the rest of the

Tripura Transport and Tourism

Minister Pranajit Singha Roy accompanied by Assistant High Commissioner of Bangladesh diplomatic mission in Agartala Arif Mohammad and Agartala Municipal Corporation Mayor Dipak Majumder flagged off the bus service, to be operated by the newly floated Royal Maitri International Bus Service.

Singha Roy said that the 40-seater passenger bus would ply six days in a week excluding Friday. From Agartala it will reach Dhaka in four hours and Kolkata in 19 hours. In all 28 passengers - 22 Indians and six Bangladesh nationals - boarded the airconditioned luxury bus on

Roy said that the bus service would not only help the people of Tripura and other northeastern states to go to Kolkata (with a fare of Rs 2200) and then other parts of India on a cheap fare but will also boost trade, tourism and strengthen the people to people contacts.

"In the near future, air, rail and waterway connectivity would be launched between Tripura and various cities of Bangladesh. After the completion of the work of the under construction railway line, we expect the railway service between Tripura and Bangladesh would start next year," Singha Roy

Bangladesh Assistant High Commissioner Arif Mohammad said after a lot of efforts, the bus service has resumed fulfilling the expectations of people of both countries. "The passenger bus service is the symbol of Maitri' (friendship) - that is why, we call it Maitri Bus," he added.

Tripura's Principal Secretary, Transport, Laihlia Darlong said that last month the External Affairs Ministry had given a no-objection to the Tripura, Assam, and Meghalaya governments to resume bus services with Bangladesh.

According to a bilateral agreement, the government-owned transport corporation and the Bangladesh Road Transport Corporation had started several bus services between Agartala, Shillong, Guwahati, Dhaka, and Kolkata but these were suspended due to various reasons, including the Covid-19 outbreak.

A large number of people of the  $\,$ northeastern states and West Bengal prefer bus rides via Bangladesh not only because of the shorter distance (around 500 km between Agartala-Kolkata) and very affordable fares, but for the exciting landscape of Bangladesh plains, emotional attachment with that country and crossing the mighty Padma river on a ferry.

In view of the railway lines cutoff in Assam from May 14, the bus service became very important for the people of Tripura, Mizoram and southern Assam to go to Kolkata and other parts of India.

Due to the railway line disruptions in Assam, the fares of different flights operating between Mizoram, Tripura, and southern Assam increased by three to four times, severely affecting the people bound for Kolkata, Delhi and other cities in India by air.

Trump accused of Ukraine calls for more help 'attempted coup'

Washington, June 10: A congressional panel investigating last year's assault on the U.S. Capitol by Donald Trump's supporters presented evidence at its prime-time hearing that the former president posed a danger both to American democracy and his vice president,

Representative Liz Cheney, the Republican vice chair of the House of Representatives select committee probing the January 6, 2021, attack, told the hearing Thursday that Trump spoke approvingly of the mob's chants to "hang Mike Pence."

On Thursday night, two panel members delivered opening remarks while presenting the findings of its year-long investigation, including previously unseen material documenting the event, reports Xinhua news agency.

The panel, which includes seven House Democrats and two Republicans, also called two witnesses, including Caroline Edwards. the first police officer injured in the attack. Edwards testified that she was called a "traitor" and a "dog" by the rioters before she was knocked unconscious.

It was one of a series of hearings set to be televised throughout the month to show the public what investigators have uncovered about the Capitol riot. Democrat Bennie Thompson, the select committee's chairman, told the hearing: "January 6 was the culmination of an attempted coup, a brazen attempt, as one writer put it shortly after January 6, to overthrow the government. Meanwhile, Trump's allies and supporters have charged the inquiry as a political "witch hunt" designed to tar the former President and the Republican Party. Earlier, Trump had dismissed it as a "political hoax". On January 6, 2021, thousands of individuals, mostly Trump supporters, stormed the Capitol in Washington, D.C. and disrupted a joint session of Congress in the process of affirming the 2020 presidential election results. Approximately 140 police officers were assaulted in the Capitol at-

US lifts Cov test requirement for int'l travel

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington, June 10: The Biden administration is lifting its requirement that international air travellers to the US take a Covid-19 test within a day before boarding their flights, easing one of the last remaining government mandates meant to contain the spread of the coronavirus.

A senior administration official said the mandate expires Sunday at 12.01 am (local time), saying the Centres for Disease Control and Prevention has determined that it's no longer necessary.

The official, speaking Friday on the condition of anonymity to preview the formal announcement, said that the agency would reevaluate the need for the testing requirement every 90 days and that it could be reinstated if a troubling new variant emerges.

The Biden administration put in place the testing requirement last vear, as it moved away from restrictions that banned nonessential travel from several dozen countries — most of Europe, China, Brazil, South Africa, India and Iran — and instead focuses on classifying individuals by the risk they pose to others.

CHINA CALLS COV 'LAB LEAK' THEORY A LIE

Beijing, June 10: China Friday attacked the theory that the coronavirus pandemic may have originated as a leak from a Chinese laboratory as a politically motivated lie, after the World Health Organization recommended in its strongest terms yet that a deeper probe is needed into whether a lab accident may be to blame.

He also reiterated calls for an investigation into "highly suspicious laboratories such as Fort Detrick and the University of North Carolina" in the United States where China has suggested, without evidence, that the US was developing the coronavirus as a bioweapon

'The lab leak theory is totally a lie concocted by anti-China forces for political purposes, which has nothing to do with science," Zhao said at a daily briefing. "We always supported and participated in science-based global virus tracing, but we firmly opposed any forms of political manipulation," he said.

Zhao said China has made major contributions toward virus tracing, sharing the most data and research results.

That "fully reflects China's open, transparent and responsible attitude, as well as its support for the work of the WHO and the advisory group," he said.

The WHO's stance in a report released Thursday is a sharp reversal of the U.N. Health agency's initial assessment of the pandemic's origins. It comes after many critics accused WHO of being too quick to dismiss or underplay a lab-leak theory that put Chinese officials on the defensive. Following a tightly controlled visit to China last year, the WHO concluded that it was "extremely unlikely" the coronavirus might have spread to humans from a lab in the city of Wuhan.

THE RESEARCHERS FOUND AN AVERAGE OF 29 MICROPLASTIC PARTICLES PER LITRE OF MELTED SNOW, WHICH IS HIGHER THAN MARINE CONCENTRATIONS REPORTED PREVIOUSLY FROM THE SURROUNDING ROSS SEA AND IN ANTARCTIC SEA ICE

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Melbourne, June 10: Scientists have found microplastics -- plastic pieces much smaller than a grain of rice - in freshly fallen Antarctic snow for the first time, which they said has the potential to influence the climate by accelerating melting of ice.

The findings, published recently in The Cryosphere journal, bring to light a serious threat to the Antarctic region.

Previous studies have found that microplastics have negative impacts on the health of the environment, limiting growth, reproduction, and general biological functions in organisms, as well as negative implications for humans.

dent at the University of Canterbury was unknown how widespread this problem was, the researchers said.

Antarctica in 2019, we were optimistic that she wouldn't find any microplastics in such a pristine and remote location," said Laura Revell, Associate Professor at the University of Canterbury

Once back in the lab, the researchers found that there were plastic particles in every sample from the remote sites on the Ross Ice Shelf too, and that the findings would be of global significance.

"It is incredibly sad but finding microplastics in fresh Antarctic snow highlights the extent of plastic pollution into even the most remote regions of the world," Aves said. "We collected snow samples from 19 sites across the Ross Island region of Antarctica and found microplastics in all of these," she

On a wider scale, the presence of microplastic particles in the air has the potential to influence the climate by accelerating melting of snow and ice, the researchers said. Aves analysed snow samples using a chemical analysis technique to identify the type of plastic particles present.

The plastic particles were also looked at under a microscope to identify their colour, size and shape.

The researchers found an average of 29 microplastic particles per litre of melted snow, which is higher than marine concentrations reported previously from the surrounding Ross Sea and in Antarctic sea ice.

Just next to the scientific bases on Ross Island, Scott Base, and McMurdo Station, the largest station in Antarctica, the density of microplastics was nearly three-times higher, with similar concentrations to those found in Italian glacier debris, they said.

PAK TO RAISE TAXES ON RICH, BAN CAR BUYING

REUTERS

Islamabad, June 10: Pakistan Finance Minister Miftah Ismail would raise taxes on the rich and ban government officials from buying new cars, amid pressure to control the fiscal deficit and secure International Monetary Fund (IMF) bailout money.

Ismail, unveiling the budget for the 2022/23 fiscal year that starts in July said that it would raise taxes on the rich, ban the import of cars and the buying of new vehicles by government officials. It was not immediately clear if the ban related just to official vehicles or those for personal use.

The nation of 220 million people is facing a balance of payments crisis, with foreign reserves falling below $10 billion, hardly enough for 45 days of imports, and a widening current account and ballooning fiscal deficits

"We have started difficult decisions... but it is not the end of taking difficult decisions," Ismail said.

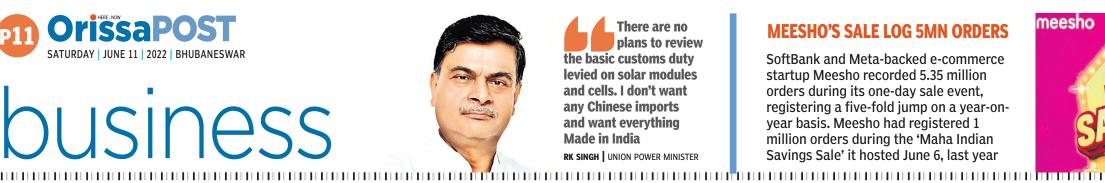

The IMF had asked the South Asian country to address its elevated fiscal and current account deficits before releasing a bailout package, as Pakistan had deviated from policies agreed in the last review under the multilateral agency's Extended Fund Facility programme. Ismail said the government would prevent tax evasion that would help increase revenue to 7 trillion Pakistani rupees ($34.65 billion) in 2022/23 and bring down the deficit. The government would target a fiscal deficit of 4.9% of gross domestic output for 2022/23, sharply lower from 8.6% in the current year, Ismail said.

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 10: The basket of crude oil that India buys has hit a decade high of $121 per barrel, but retail selling prices of petrol and diesel continue to remain frozen.

The Indian basket June 9 touched $121.28, matching levels seen in February/March 2012, according to data available from the oil ministry's Petroleum Planning and

As per the PPAC, the Indian basket of crude oil averaged $111.86 per barrel between February 25 and March 29 - the immediate period after Russia's invasion of Ukraine sent oil on fire.

It averaged $103.44 a barrel between March 30 and April 27.

International oil prices held near a 13-week high Thursday, underpinned by robust demand from key buyers like the US. They, however, pared some gains Friday, with Brent crude futures for August losing 81 cents to trade at $122.26 per barrel. US West Texas Intermediate crude for July was at $120.72 a bar-

Retail fuel rates, however, continue to be on a freeze in India.

State-owned fuel retailers Indian Oil Corporation (IOC), Bharat Petroleum Corporation Ltd (BPCL) and Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Ltd (HPCL) are supposed to adjust petrol and diesel prices daily in line with the cost, but they have been since November 2021 moderating pump rates.

India is 85 per cent dependent on imports to meet its oil needs and so local pump rates are benchmarked against international prices.

Industry sources said local pump rates are benchmarked to around $85 per barrel crude oil price but oil firms haven't changed rates as they aid the government in trying to control inflation, which already is ruling at an almost eight-year high of 7.8 per cent.

Petrol and diesel prices were last revised to align with the cost April 6 and have been on freeze since then. Last month, rates were reduced after the government cut excise duty on petrol by ₹8 per litre and that on diesel by ₹6.

Last week, Oil Minister Hardeep Singh Puri stated that oil companies are responsible corporate cit izens and that the government wasn't dictating retail selling prices.

Despite a surge in oil prices, the three state fuel retailers first froze petrol and diesel rates for a record 137 days beginning in early November 2021 when five states, including Uttar Pradesh, went to the polls and then went into a hiatus again in April that is now 65 days old.

While state-owned oil marketing companies (OMCs) have maintained retail operations despite losses, private sector retailers like Reliance-BP and Navara Energy have curtailed operations to cut losses. In some places, Nayara is selling fuel at rates that are ₹3 a litre higher than public sector competition.

Fitch betters India's outlook to 'stable'

The agency in June 2020 revised the outlook for India to 'negative' from 'stable' on grounds that the pandemic had significantly weakened the country's growth outlook

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 10: Fitch Ratings Friday upped the outlook on India's sovereign rating to 'stable' from 'negative' after two years, citing diminishing downside risks to medium-term growth on rapid economic recovery. Fitch Ratings kept the rating unchanged at 'BBB-'

"The Outlook revision reflects our view that downside risks to mediumterm growth have diminished due to India's rapid economic recovery and easing financial sector weaknesses, despite near-term headwinds from the global commodity price shock," it said.

The agency, however, cut the economic growth forecast to 7.8 per cent for the current fiscal (April 2022 to March 2023) from the 8.5 per cent prediction it made in March due to the inflationary impact of the global commodity price shock

"India's economy continues to see a solid recovery from the Covid-19 pandemic shock," Fitch said.

Stressing that India's mediumterm growth prospects remain solid, Fitch said India's strong growth outlook relative to peers is a key supporting factor for the rating, and will sustain a gradual improvement in credit metrics.

Indian economy grew 8.7% in the last fiscal, and the country's central bank RBI expects growth to be 7.2% this fiscal

"We forecast growth of around 7 per cent between FY24 and FY27, underpinned by the government's infrastructure push, reform agenda and easing pressures in the financial sector. Nevertheless, there are challenges to this forecast given the uneven nature of the economic recovery and implementation risks for infrastructure spending and reforms." Fitch said.

India enjoyed a 'BBB-' rating since the upgrade in August 2006 but the outlook has oscillated between stable and negative.

The agency said achieving the 4.5 per cent fiscal deficit target by 2025-26 could prove challenging, as revenue/GDP has already returned to pre-pandemic levels.

Fitch forecast the debt-to-GDP ratio to drop to 83 per cent in the current fiscal from a peak of 87.6 per cent in 2020-21, but it remains high compared to the 56 per cent peer median.

The withdrawal leaves an open field for rivals such as Reliance Industries, which will bid through its broadcasting joint venture Viacom 18, Disney Plus Hotstar, and the India unit of Sony Corp when bidding takes place Sunday. Disney-owned Star India, which is one of the country's top broadcasters, along with Sony and its planned acquisition Zee Entertainment Enterprises Ltd. paid ₹163.48 billion ($2.1 billion) for the rights until 2022.

IPL bidding rights are seen as key to growth in India's booming online streaming market.

It is to them that analysts attribute Disney's huge lead over rivals in the cricket-mad subcontinent, luring more than 50 million paid subscribers to its platform, Disney Plus Hotstar.

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, June 10: Regulator Irdai Friday permitted life insurers to launch products without prior approval, thus giving them greater leeway in designing and pricing of insurance covers in line with market needs.

This comes days after the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (Irdai) extending similar relaxations to health insurance products as well as general insurance

At present, all life insurance products and riders require prior approval of the Irdai before launch. However, certain specified modifications are allowed to be carried out through 'Use & File' process.

life insurance products. "In order to facilitate the life insurance industry to respond faster to the emerging market needs, in terms of designing and pricing of insurance products and to promote ease of doing business, it is decided to expand the scope of Use & File procedure for life insurance products," a Irdai circular said.

This means now the life insurance companies can also launch these products without prior approval of Irdai, the release said.

It further said the move will enable life insurers to launch most of the products (except individual savings, individual pensions and annuity) in a timely manner according to the dynamic needs of the market.

Surjendu Kuila, co-founder and CEO, Zopper, said the move will also allow the insurance carriers and the underwriters to do a controlled pilot and sense the product adoption. The 'Use and File' method will help insurers to design bite size insurance products for the embedded insurance space much faster, thereby manufacturing niche products for various customer segments, Kuila added.

Earlier when the industry was in nascent stage, it was made  $\geq$ mandatory for the insurance companies to take prior approval before launching any life insurance product. However, with the maturity attained by the industry, it is envisaged that necessary relaxations may be allowed, the regulator said.

On an evening of missed opportunities, the 37-year-old veteran struck a goal in each half to give Igor Stimac's side all three points, ensuring the group hosts keep ahead of Hong Kong on goal difference after Jorn Andersen's team won 2-1 over Afghanistan in the first match Wednesday.

Seeking to make a second successive Asian Cup Finals, the Chhetri-led India would look to bring out their best, especially up front with the likes of Liston Colaco, Manvir Singh, Udanta Singh, Ashique Kuruniyan and Roshan Singh hoping to improving their finishing abilities.

All of them got ample opportu $nities\,but\,failed\, to\, ma\bar{k}e\, an\, impact$ as far as scoring was concerned and it was once again left to the veteran to settle the nerves with his brace that took his international tally to 82 goals, behind Cristiano Ronaldo (117) and Lionel Messi (86).
