BJP govt dismantling democracy, says Sonia

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 11: Former Congress president Sonia Gandhi has accused Prime Minister Narendra Modi and his government of 'systematically dismantling' all three pillars of India's democracy, saying their actions demonstrate a 'deep-rooted disdain' for the democracy.

In an Op-Ed in 'The Hindu', Gandhi said with the Narendra Modi government bent on 'misusing every power' and elections approaching in several key states, her party will take its message directly to people and join hands with all like-minded parties to defend the Constitution.

She also alleged that the PM 'ignores' the rising tide of hatred and violence, egged on by BJP and RSS leaders, and has not once called for peace or harmony or acted to reign in the offenders, let alone bring them to justice.

"Religious festivals seem to have become occasions to intimidate and bully others -- a far cry from when they were occasions for joy and celebration. Instead, there is intimidation and discrimination only on account of their religion, food, caste, gender or language," Gandhi said.

Launching a scathing attack on Modi, she said his statements either ignore the most pressing issues of the day or are 'platitudes and verbal gymnastics' to distract from these matters.

The Congress Parliamentary Party chairperson said despite the PM's best efforts, the people of the country cannot and will not be silenced.

Underlining that the next few months will be a crucial test of India's democracy, she said the country is at the crossroads, with the Modi government bent on "misusing every power" and elections approaching in several key states.

"The Congress party will make every effort to take its message directly to the people, as it did in the Bharat Jodo Yatra, and will join hands with all like-minded parties to defend the Constitution of India and its ideals," Gandhi asserted.

She said the Congress's battle is for safeguarding the voice of people and it understands its solemn duty as the principal opposition party.

Raj man cremated in Odisha as courier agency swaps bodies

AGENCIES

Cuttack, April 11: A courier agency 'inadvertently' swapped the bodies of two persons while sending them to their families in Odisha and Rajasthan.

According to sources, Bilash Bhuyan, a resident of Kuanasala under Nemalo police limits in Cuttack district, who had been working in Mumbai, passed away near his workplace following a brief illness a few weeks back.

A courier agency sent the mortal remains of 'Bhuyan' to Kuanasala, where his last rites were carried out Monday evening.

However, to the utter dismay of Bhuyan's family, Nemalo police informed them that the body they cremated was not of Bhuyan but that of someone from Rajasthan.

Sources said the matter came to light after the family in Rajasthan discovered that the body they received through the same courier agency was not theirs and filed a complaint with the police in Mumbai.

As the investigation began, it was found that bodies got interchanged by the courier agency.

NORMAL RAINFALL THIS YEAR: IMD

AGENCIES

New Delhi, April 11: A day after 'Skymet Weather' predicted below-normal monsoon rains in India, the IMD Tuesday said that the country is expected to get normal rainfall during the south-west monsoon season despite the evolving El Nino conditions.

India has already seen four consecutive years of 'normal' and 'above-normal' rains during the monsoon season.

Normal rain is critical for India's agricultural landscape, with 52 per cent of the net cultivated area relying on it.

"India to see normal rainfall during the southwest monsoon season (from June to September). der weapon is yet to be recovered.

About the turn of events, the IIC said Duhsashan had a long-standing property dispute with his sister for which he hired contract killers at Rs 5 lakh to eliminate her son.

Bareilly (UP), April 11: Cow urine, which has been touted as a miracle medicine for decades, has now found to be unsuitable for direct human consumption as it contains potentially harmful bacteria.

Research carried out by Bareilly-based ICAR-Indian Veterinary Research Institute (IVRI), the country's premier animal research body, has found that the urine of buffalo was more effective on certain bacteria.

The study, led by Bhoj Raj Singh of the institute along with three Ph.D students, found that urine samples from healthy cows and bulls contained at least 14 types of harmful bacteria with the presence of Escherichia coli, which can cause stomach infections, most commonly detected.

The findings of the peer-reviewed research have been published in online research website, ResearchGate.

Singh, who heads the department of epidemiology at the institute, said, "Statistical analysis of 73 urine samples of cow, buffaloes and humans suggest that antibacterial activity in buffalo urine was far more superior than cows. Urine of buffalo was significantly more effective on bacteria like S Epidermidis and E Rhapontici."

He explained, "We collected urine samples of three types of cows -- Sahiwal, Tharparkar and Vindavani (cross breed) from local dairy farms -- along with samples of buffaloes and humans. Our study, carried out between June and November 2022, concluded that a sizeable proportion of urine samples from apparently healthy individuals carry potentially pathogenic bacteria."

The urine of some individuals, irrespective of sex and breeder species, might be inhibitory to a select group of bacteria but the common belief, that cow urine is antibacterial, cannot be generalised.

He further said, "In no case can urine be recommended for human consumption. Some people put forth the contention that distilled urine does not have infectious bacteria. We are carrying out further research on it."

Notably, cow urine is widely sold in the Indian market without the food safety and standards authority of India (FSSAI) trademark by many suppliers.

Shruti makes unique appeal to filmmakers

Hyderabad: Pan-Indian actress Shruti Haasan has recently made an appeal to all filmmakers. The actress, who was last seen dancing to the song Sridevi Chiranjeevi in Waltair Veerayya amidst a snow-covered mountain, has expressed her difficulty with such scenes. She earnestly requested filmmakers to refrain from including such scenes in their movies.

The video snippet of Shruti Haasan's interview discussing her struggles with dancing in the snow has become popular on social media. During her attempt to tackle the issue, the actress expressed her dislike towards dancing in the snow, citing its difficulty and the fact that the hero is usually allowed to wear a jacket while the actresses are not given any warm clothing options such as jackets, coats, or shawls. She emphasised that they are expected to wear only a blouse and saree in the snow. As a result, she intends to create a petition to urge people to stop this practice, having recently done it herself in one song.

In addition, the video concludes with the Sridevi Chiranjeevi song, featuring a snow-capped mountain in the background. Shruti is dressed in a white and blue saree paired with a sleeveless blouse, while Chiranjeevi sports a t-shirt, denim, blazer, and shoes.

Earlier, woman was an accessory: Shefali

Mumbai: Shefali Shah has been making waves with her acting prowess in films as well as web series. She recently spoke about how older women are getting better roles now. She also shared her opinion on the concept of method acting and her own process of getting into the character.

They are centres of shows and films."

During the podcast, Shefali also said she does not believe in method acting. She said, "Will you die in the dying scene? Will you actually beat someone in a violent scene? You can't do that. But there is a lot of thought and conversation with the director and actors. I don't want to be known as 'Shefali played a good role'. I would rather be recognised as the character."

The Jalsa actress will next be seen in the Netflix web series, Delhi Crime Season 2.

The patient is now doing good and undergoing chemotherapy after the successful procedure, said the hospital sources.

KCC senior surgical oncologist Sabyasachi Parida said, “The lady, when arrived at our super speciality cancer centre, was unable to eat and sip water for more than two weeks as nothing was going inside beyond her stomach due to complete obstruction. ## HC bail to Archana in blackmailing case

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Cuttack, April 11: The Orissa High Court Tuesday granted bail to Archana Nag, the prime accused in a high-profile blackmailing case.

She was arrested six months ago on the charge of running a sex racket that used to extract money from rich and influential persons including politicians. Justice V Narasingh accepted her bail application considering the welfare of her six-year-old child.

Directing her to cooperate with the ongoing investigation, the High Court asked Nag not to leave the state without the permission of the lower court.

The High Court also asked the lower court to fix the bail terms as it deems fit.

Following the rejection of her bail plea by an additional district magistrate court in Bhubaneswar in December, Nag had moved the High Court. Nag, a 26-year-old woman from Kalahandi district, was arrested October 6, 2022. The police arrested her husband Jagabandhu Chand later.

Photographs of Archana and Jagabandhu along with many politicians of different parties had gone viral on social media.

She was taken into custody on the basis of a complaint at Khandagiri police station by a woman, whom she had allegedly used in the sex racket.

An Odia film producer had claimed in an FIR that Nag had shot his intimate pictures with a woman after serving him intoxicating drinks at a hotel in the city and demanded ₹3 crore from him.

The Enforcement Directorate also launched a probe against the couple who had allegedly amassed properties worth crores of rupees during a span of four years from 2018.

The High Court had granted bail to Jagabandhu last month.

Humans can create computerised avatar of loved ones

INDIAN ORIGIN SCIENTIST PRATIK DESAI ASKS PEOPLE TO START RECORDING THEIR LOVED ONES’ VOICES, WHICH WILL “LIVE” EVEN AFTER THEIR DEATH

Humans will be able to upload consciousness and sensibility in computers by the end of 2023, claims an Indian-origin computer scientist.

Pratik Desai has asked people to start recording their loved ones’ voices, which will “live” even after their death.

In other words, users can create a computerised avatar that resembles their loved one before their death, which can live forever on their screens.

“Start regularly recording your parents, elders and loved ones,” Desai recently wrote Twitter.

“With enough transcript data, new voice synthesis and video models, there is a 100 per cent chance that they will live with you forever after leaving physical body. This should be even possible by end of the year,” he noted.

Desai is not the only one who has claimed this.

Previously, metaverse company Somnium Space offered an AI-based “live forever” mode. It aims to allow individuals to talk with their loved ones in the metaverse.

In an interview with Motherboard, the company’s founder and CEO Artur Sychoy said his project will allow people to store the way they talk, move, and sound until after they die, when they can come back from the dead as an online avatar to speak with their relatives. “Literally, if I die – and I have this data collected – people can come or my kids, they can come in, and they can have a conversation with my avatar, with my movements, with my voice,” Sychoy was quoted as saying to Vice.

“You will meet the person. And you, maybe for the first 10 minutes while talking to that person, would not know that it’s actually AI. That’s the goal,” he added.

Another US-based company Deepbrain has also developed a programme called “Re:memory” which allows users the opportunity to walk down a memorial hall dedicated to a late loved one and even interact with the person “through an actual conversation”.

Oppn demands CBI probe into fake certificate racket

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Bhubaneswar, April 11: The opposition BJP and Congress Tuesday alleged that the ruling BJD is involved in the alleged fake certificate racket in Odisha and demanded that the Naveen Patnaik government hand over the probe to CBI.

The demand was made hours after the Odisha circle of India Post recommended a probe by the central agency into the alleged racket.

The BJD refuted the allegation and said the state police have always proved its professionalism.

A large number of candidates have allegedly got government jobs in the postal and education departments in the state by using fake certificates. The crime branch has been investigating the case and 19 people have been arrested in Bolangir, suspected to be the epicenter of the fake certificate racket.

Odisha BJP president Mannohan Samal came down heavily on the state government and alleged involvement of ruling BJD leaders in the fake certificate racket.

"How does the government not know of the racket when it has its agencies in all nooks and corners of the state?" he asked and ridiculed the BJD government for remaining silent on it.

"It is because of this silence of the BJD government that the racket has flourished in Odisha," he claimed.

It has pushed the future of meritorious students into darkness. Any probe by the crime branch cannot do justice as the fraudulent activity is linked to different states, he said.

Only a thorough probe by CBI will unravel the truth and stringent action should be taken against those found guilty by it, the BJP leader insisted.

Joining forces with him Congress leader Suresh Routray alleged that the racket appears to have flourished under the patronage of BJD leaders and Patnaik should order a CBI probe to catch the kingpin and others involved in it.

A CBI investigation can ascertain how many fake certificates have been sold and how much money was transacted, he said.

BJD leader and government chief whip Prashant Muduli rejecting the allegations said that Odisha police have always proved its investigating skill and professionalism.

"Opposition parties should have patience as the investigation is being carried out in the right manner. The truth will be revealed and the culprits will be punished," he said.

Earlier in the day a spokesperson of India Post, Odisha circle, said the postmaster general has written to the CBI superintendent of police in Bhubaneswar to probe the racket.

The postal department has found that certificates submitted by some of the candidates for the job of gram dak seva (GDS) were fake.

The department selected around 1,100 candidates for the posts of postmaster and assistant postmaster under the GDS based on the marks secured by the candidates in the Class 10 Board examination. No written or viva tests are required for the selection of candidates.

The incidents of fraud came to the fore in Bolangir district when the department began verifying the certificates of the applicants. As many as 37 candidates were found to have secured 98 per cent marks in the Class 10 examination. All these candidates had got the certificates from Uttar Pradesh Madhyamik Sikshya Parishad, which prompted the department to verify them.

The candidates were found to be unable to write an application properly even though their certificates showed that they had secured 98 per cent marks in English language, a postal department spokesperson said.

The Bolangir police have arrested 19 people, including the owner of a coaching center on the charge of running a fake certificate racket in Odisha.

Raj man cremated...

The former Congress chief added that her party is ready to work with all like-minded political parties to achieve this objective.

In the Op-Ed piece, she said the people of India have learnt that when it comes to understanding the current situation, the prime minister's actions speak far louder than his words.

"His statements - when he is not venting anger on the Opposition or blaming past leaders for today's ills - either ignore the most pressing, vital issues of the day, or are platitudes and verbal gymnastics to gloss over or distract from these issues," Gandhi alleged. Modi's actions, on the other hand, leave little to the imagination on the BJP-led government's true intentions, she said.

"Over the past months, we have witnessed the prime minister and his government systematically dismantling all three pillars of India's democracy - the legislature, the executive and the judiciary - with their actions demonstrating a deep-rooted disdain for democracy and democratic accountability," Gandhi alleged.

Pointing to the recent goings-on in Parliament, she alleged that the last session saw a government-led strategy to disrupt parliamentary proceedings and prevent the Opposition from raising issues of grave concern before the country and its people, such as unemployment, inflation and social divisions, and discussing the budget and the "Adani scam", among other vital issues.

Faced with a determined Opposition, the government resorted to unprecedented measures - expunging speeches, preventing discussions, attacking members of Parliament and finally disqualifying a Congress MP at a "lightning speed", she said, referring to Rahul Gandhi's disqualification from the Lok Sabha following his conviction by a court in Gujarat's Surat in a criminal defamation case.

As a result, the budget of ₹45 lakh crore of people's money was passed without any debate, Gandhi said.

"The Narendra Modi government's misuse of the Central Bureau of Investigation and the Enforcement Directorate is well known, with over 95 per cent of political cases filed only against the Opposition parties - and cases against those who join the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) miraculously evaporating," she alleged.

Gandhi also said the prime minister makes grandiose statements about truth and justice even as allegations of financial fraud against his "chosen businessman" are ignored, Interpol withdraws a notice against fugitive Mehul Choksi and the convicted rapists of Bilkis Bano are set free and go on to share a stage with BJP leaders.

She claimed that the systematic effort to undermine the credibility of the judiciary has reached a "crisis point", with the Union law minister calling some retired judges "anti-national" and warning that "they will pay a price".

This language is deliberately chosen to misguide people, inflame their passions and thereby intimidate serving judges, the Congress leader said.

Alleging that the media's independence has long been compromised by the political intimidation of the government coupled with the financial might of the BJP's friends, she said evening debates on television news channels have emerged as slanging matches to shout down and silence those who question the Centre.

"Not satisfied with this, the government has armed itself with legal powers by amending the Information Technology rules to remove legal protections for any news which it dislikes under the label of 'fake news'. The Supreme Court of India has recently made clear that criticism of the government is not a ground for penal action. Is the government listening?" she asked. "No doubt, an army of lawyers from the BJP and Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) stands ready to harass any platform which publishes criticism of the great leader," she claimed.

Asserting that enforcing a silence cannot solve India's problems, Gandhi said the prime minister is silent on legitimate questions on his government's actions, which affect the lives of millions. She said Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman did not mention unemployment or inflation in her budget speech as if these problems do not exist.

Following the incident, villagers expressed resentment and anger at the callous approach of the courier service.

"I found it difficult to identify the body which was sent to Bilash's family. It looked slightly distorted but resembled Bilash and hence, all his family members were mistaken. The final rites were carried out but to the shock of family members, they were later informed that the body was not that of Bilash," a villager said.

Meanwhile, police informed that the family from Rajasthan is on their way to collect the mortal remains of their relative, who was cremated by Bilash's family, and are also bringing Bilash's body with them.

AP luring Telugu-speaking Rayagada kids to its schools

FAILURE OF ODISHA GOVERNMENT TO PROVIDE STUDY MATERIAL IN TELUGU SPARKS RESENTMENT

POST NEWS NETWORK

Rayagada, April 11: The aim of the Andhra Pradesh government to create a sense of bitterness among the local populace staying in districts of Odisha close to the border continues. Sources said that officials of the neighbouring state are coming up with new ideas to woo the residents of the bordering districts in an effort to gain control over villages and land.

The latest effort has been to attract Telugu-speaking children living in the villages of Rayagada district close to the border. The AP government is trying to lure them to state-run schools promising them with the best of facilities. However, this has happened only because of the failure of the Odisha government to provide study materials written in Telugu to students on time.

Rayagada has a sizeable amount of Telugu-speaking population, more than half of the populace living in the district. Telugu-speaking children study in local schools along with their Odia counterparts. Realising the importance of Telugu, the Odisha government had established bilingual mode of study in this district. Teachers fluent in Telugu were also appointed in the schools. However, in the last few years, the Odisha government has fallen short as it has failed to provide the Telugu-speaking students books and study materials on time. This has sparked resentment among the guardians of Telugu-speaking children. Left with no option, some of them are either spending more and admitting their wards in English medium schools or sending ing them to Telugu schools in Andhra Pradesh on the fringes of the district.

Sources said that the Odisha government has set up 11 bilingual schools only in Rayagada block of the district. A total of 451 Telugu-speaking children are taught by teachers who speak the same language. Sources however, pointed out that the lack of teachers who speak Telugu is also harming the plans of the Odisha government. They said that they don't remember the last time when a teacher who speaks the language was appointed in any of these schools. Sources informed that the

All the 11 dual language schools in Rayagada block face acute shortage of Telugu teachers and students are suffering due to it

Aerial attacks: New mode to tackle Maoists

POST NEWS NETWORK

Malkangiri, April 11: Security forces have launched aerial attacks with choppers and drones as a part of their new strategy to combat Maoists in areas of Chhattisgarh bordering Malkangiri district, sources said Tuesday. This new mode of combat has created panic among the Red rebels. They have now split into groups and are running for cover. Security forces decided to implement the new strategy as it is not always possible for them to engage in face-to-face combats with the Maoists.

To counter this new strategy, the Maoists are now organising 'Praja Meli' – a ploy to hide themselves among the residents of the area. Some villagers have been injured in the aerial attacks and the Maoists are trying to take advantage of this. Sources said that Maoists are forcing local villagers to actively oppose the aerial attacks.

On the other hand, the South

Bastar Maoist outfit has issued a press release condemning the aerial attacks. They alleged that the Centre and the Odisha government are harming innocents on the pretext of combating the Red rebels. Sources said that the security forces have twice conducted air strikes in the last four months. First drones try and identify a Maoist hideout. Then choppers are used to drop bombs on the hide-out and use machine gun fire on the fleeing Maoists. The new strategy was adopted after Union Home Minister Amit Shah visited Chhattisgarh a few months back and stated that there will no more Maoists in the state before the 2024 general elections

Hockey camp to woo kids starts in Rourkela

PNN & AGENCIES

Rourkela, April 11: The much-awaited hockey summer camp started Tuesday at the iconic Birsu Munda hockey stadium here. The camp was inaugurated by former India player Peter Tirkey in presence of Additional SP, Rourkela, Sangram Keshari Behera and veteran coach Kalu Charan Chaudhary and officials of the Sports and Youth Welfare department. The camp has been organised to attract kids to the game of hockey.

The response has been very good with 750 boys and girls registering for the camp in the six-16 years age group, organisers said Tuesday. Out of them, 465 have been selected for further training, informed Nilesh Shetty, an official.

"We have divided the participants in to two groups, six-10 years and 11-16 years. One coach will be attending to 10-15 participants and training will be provided in 10 sessions throughout the day," Shetty said. "The camp will run from April 11 to April 22. Basics of hockey along with other activities (strength & conditioning, nutrition, etc) will be taught to the participants," he added.

Officials also said that former players-turned coaches like Lazarus Barla, Praful Tirkey and Rajen Ekka will oversee the activities along with the junior trainers. They will try and spot the real talent and groom them for the future. Parents of the participating kids thanked the Sports and Youth Welfare department for taking the initiative to popularise the game of hockey.

History Erased

Reconstructing past events and deeds, in other words, rewriting history is not an easy task. It is fraught with risks. The danger that the task poses is misrepresentation and misinterpretation of facts that distort the truth and give a coloured vision of what happened in the past because there will be gaps in the narration of events which are bound to occur. In many cases, writers of history or those tasked with presenting history betray a bias that is a reflection of their prejudices and vested interests. They become too eager to present past events to suit the interests of their masters or those who commission them to reconstruct historical events. This process is not new. History in India has always been written top down, from the perspective of the rulers, mostly ignoring the common citizen. It was also done during the colonial period by many historians who used available material to dish out a narrative preferred by the colonialists. This tradition, it seems, is being continued in post-Independent India too. Historians owing allegiance to the ruling dispensations project history to serve the interests – both ideological and material – of the ruling elites. The malaise is deep-rooted since writing history in the correct sequences while taking every possible angle presupposes objectivity, dispassionate portrayal of facts and a scientific temper. Whenever these difficult criteria are not met, a pseudo-history is reconstructed.

The same process is now being repeated by the National Council of Education Research and Training (NCERT) which has removed certain chapters from history textbooks for Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) students. The NCERT's move to remove sections on the Mughal Empire from Class 12 history books has not only sparked a controversy and triggered widespread criticism from noted historians and Opposition political parties but is also bound to create confusion for students in the future.

The NCERT has specifically targeted chapters on 'Kings and Chronicles'; the Mughal Courts (C. 16th and 17th centuries) from the book 'Themes of Indian History-Part II' and the topics of Central Islamic Lands, Confrontation of Cultures, and The Industrial Revolution from the Class 11 syllabus. From the Class 12 Civics book, Politics in India since Independence, the chapters – 'Rise of Popular Movements' and 'Era of One-party Dominance' – have been erased. Chapters such as Democracy and Diversity, Popular Struggles and Movement, and Challenges to Democracy have been removed from Class 10 Democratic Politics-II textbooks.

Such a one-sided approach to history has been criticised by many, including a group of 250 eminent historians from leading Indian and foreign universities. These include historians Romila Thapar, Jayati Gosh, Mridula Mukherjee, Apoorvananda, Irfan Habib, and Upinder Singh. They find the NCERT decision appalling.

The process initiated by NCERT is contentious enough and the political intent is too obvious. It is in line with the ruling BJP's politics of religious polarisation. Topics such as the history of the Mughal courts, the Gujarat riots in 2002 and the Emergency have been dropped from Social Science, History and Political Science textbooks of Classes 6 to 12. It goes without saying that one-sided accounts of history promote falsification of narrations.

Removing parts of history are also bound to create confusing gaps. For instance, if there is no clarity on the existence of Mughals then who would Aurangzeb's maternal uncle Shaista Khan be and who did Shivaji fight against at Pune in 1659? Similarly, the bravery of Maharana Pratap must not be erased. However, if there was no trace of Emperor Akbar, then the Battle of Haldighati fought on 19 June 1576 would not be mentioned as an actual event in history. There are many such similar events which would become rootless if the Moslem Mughals are obliterated from history. In other words, removing the Moslems would also result in removal of a large chunk of Hindoo history. That would definitely give future students a lopsided and incomplete picture of the greatness of this land.

It is only imbecile minds governing us which can think of tinkering with history in such a big way. No generation should have the audacity to defile, pervert and deface history for the next generations. This brings to mind a saying that goes: 'We do not inherit this Earth from our ancestors. We borrow it from our children.'

Halcyon

A halcyon time is calm, peaceful, happy and carefree. The fabled halcyon days of calm weather are traditionally the seven days each side of the winter solstice on 21 December. The story goes back to a Greek legend that the kingfisher nested in the sea at this time of year and that its floating nest brought calm to wind and water. A romantic version of the legend was told by the Roman poet Ovid about Ceyx and Alcyone. She was the daughter of Aeolus, the god of the winds, and he was the son of the morning star. Ceyx was lost at sea and Alcyone was inconsolable. The gods took pity on them, turning them into kingfishers so that they might continue to live together. When they mated each year at the winter solstice the gods calmed the winds and seas so Alcyone might brood her eggs safely. Alcyone's name came from the Greek name for the kingfisher, alkuon. It became halcyon in Latin, because of a mistaken belief that its real source was two Greek words that meant "conceiving on the sea". When the word first came into English, in reference to the Greek legend, it was usually written in the Greek way, but when it became a general word meaning peaceful or calm, the Latin form took over.

Handfasting

At one time, betrothal – the solemn exchange of vows of intention to marry – was as important a step as marriage itself. Some of the ceremony once common in betrothal – such as exchanging rings or a formal kiss – later became part of the marriage service as that progressively became more important. We don't know a lot about the rules in Anglo-Saxon England before the Norman Conquest, but the betrothal ceremony seems to have been marked by the happy couple joining hands. This was the handfast – the holding fast of hands. It seems that in Northern England and Scotland, handfasting marked a first stage of marriage, a temporary contract that lasted a year and a day. If at the end of that time no child had been born and the couple didn't want to continue, the betrothal lapsed. The ceremony's name has become known again in recent decades because it has been adopted by modern Pagans such as Wiccans.

WE ARE BEST FRIENDS

The patient shook his doctor's hand in gratitude and said, "Since we are the best of friends, I would not want to insult you by offering payment. But I would like for you to know that I had mentioned you in my will." "That is very kind of you," said the doctor emotionally, and then added, "Can I see that prescription I just gave you? I'd like to make a little change."

A CHINESE TAKEOVER OF TAIWAN AND ITS CHIP INDUSTRY WOULD HELP TIP THE GLOBAL BALANCE OF POWER IN FAVOUR OF CHINA, WITH FAR-REACHING ECONOMIC AND STRATEGIC IMPLICATIONS

No one seems to know how the United States would react if China were to invade Taiwan. For decades, US leaders did all they could to avoid this question. Then, in September of last year, President Joe Biden seemed to have ended Washington's policy of "strategic ambiguity" when he said that US troops would defend the island in the event of "an unprecedented attack." But almost immediately after Biden spoke, White House officials backtracked, insisting that the US policy on Taiwan had not changed.

While the 1960 US-Japan Security Treaty obliges America to go to war if Japanese territory is attacked, the US has no such treaty with Taiwan. If China decided to attack the island, it would have to guess how the US would respond. But while strategic ambiguity is meant to serve as a deterrent, the real question is whether it is enough anymore. After all, China is far more powerful now than it was when it tried to "liberate" Taiwan from Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists by shelling the islands of Quemoy and Matsu during the 1958 Taiwan Strait Crisis. The US still had a mutual defense treaty with Taiwan back then, and American military leaders pushed to launch a nuclear strike on the mainland.

Today, China has the world's largest military in terms of personnel and a substantial nuclear arsenal. Chinese President Xi Jinping knows that the US cannot risk a nuclear war, which is why it has not intervened directly in Ukraine, and that emboldens him. After all, if the US does not want to fight the far weaker Russia, it will certainly not go into battle against China.

A political shift in the 2024 US presidential election could bolster China's hopes of taking Taiwan by force. A Republican president, whether former President Donald Trump or a like-minded figure, might choose to isolate the US from quarrels in faraway countries. This is a good reason for locking in place a security commitment to Taiwan now.

But is Taiwan really worth defending, even at the risk of a

FOCUS GEOPOLITICS

WHY TAIWAN MATTERS

Aside from nationalist pique, China's rulers seem obsessed with Taiwan because its very existence refutes the premise of the authoritarian Chinese model. Because Taiwanese democracy might give Chinese people the "wrong" ideas, China wishes to crush it, as it has done in Hong Kong devastating war? I believe it is. An attack on Taiwan would also be an attack on Japan and South Korea. If allowed to dominate the South and East China Seas, China would have a stranglehold over the economies of both countries. If Japan and South Korea lose confidence in America's ability or commitment to defend their security, they would either have to submit to Chinese domination or start acquiring nuclear weapons – and fast. Both options could have disastrous consequences.

Then there is the matter of Taiwan's strategic importance as the producer of more than 90 per cent of the world's advanced semiconductors. A Chinese takeover of Taiwan and its chip industry would help tip the global balance of power in favour of China, with far-reaching economic and strategic implications.

None of this would be a serious problem if China were a liberal democracy, or at least a relatively open society. Alas, it is not, and that is perhaps the most important reason to defend Taiwan.

Ironically, when the US was obliged to defend Taiwan in the 1950s, the island was still ruled by an oppressive autocratic regime, not the democracy it is today. At the time, however, America's support of Chiang Kai-shek made sense: Mao Zedong's China was far worse. Fortunately, even though Maoism was popular for a while among revolutionaries, mostly in poor post-colonial countries and on Western university campuses, Mao's bloody tactics had little global appeal.

The current Chinese model has a great deal more credibility these days. Unlike the Soviet Union, the Communist Party of China has managed to confound liberal expectations by achieving remarkable economic success while maintaining a Leninist dictatorship. Liberals previously assumed that the combination of a growing middle class and a free-market economy would inevitably result in democracy. The transformation of South Korea and Taiwan from military dictatorships to liberal democracies seemed to lend support to this thesis. But we now know that capitalism can thrive under "socialism with Chinese characteristics."

China's success has inspired many autocrats in developing countries, where large Chinese investments in infrastructure have bolstered the regime's image as a more efficient, more powerful, and more reliable partner than the often messy and meddlesome Western democracies. This is a dangerous trend, particularly at a time when liberal democracies are under attack by radical populists at home. A Trump victory in 2024 would galvanise dictators and authoritarians around the world, including Xi.

A pernicious form of cultural propaganda has long fostered strongman rule in China and in other parts of Asia. Its central idea, effectively promoted by Lee Kuan Yew, Singapore's founder and long-serving former Prime Minister, is that "Asian values" are incompatible with democratic governance. In Confucian societies, the argument goes, individual interests must be subordinated to the collective interest, obedience to authority is sacrosanct, and social order trumps freedom.

Members of China's increasingly wealthy middle class often subscribe to this view. Ordinary Chinese, one is often told in certain circles in Beijing and Shanghai, are not yet ready for democratic governance and still need the firm hand of authority to keep them in line.

That is why Taiwan matters. Aside from nationalist pique, China's rulers seem obsessed with Taiwan because its very existence refutes the premise of the authoritarian Chinese model. Because Taiwanese democracy might give Chinese people the "wrong" ideas, China wishes to crush it, as it has done in Hong Kong. Biden has repeatedly vowed to protect democracy against the threat of autocracy. If he is serious, he must ensure that Taiwan remains free.

Storing eggs can help keep options open

A GROWING NUMBER OF WOMEN ARE HAVING THEIR EGGS FROZEN AND STORED, SO THEY CAN GIVE BIRTH WHENEVER THEY ARE READY TO DO SO

If you're like me, you've probably rented a storage space at one time or another. Perhaps you needed to store items while moving from one home to another, perhaps you had run out of space for your treasured possessions, or perhaps you were storing things that you didn't need right away, such as a batch of your eggs.

A growing number of women around the world are having their eggs frozen and stored, so they can give birth whenever they are ready to do so, allowing them to ignore the "tick, tick, tick" from the biological clock and perhaps even the "quick, quick, quick" from the mother-in-law.

If you are considering freezing your eggs, you will be glad to know that I have done enough research to answer your questions with more expertise than some of the world's most educated and forward-thinking primates.

Question: I'm thinking of freezing my eggs because I do not have a partner. Is that a good reason?

Answer: Freezing your eggs is a personal decision and there are many good reasons to do it. If you are in your 20s or early 30s, you may not be ready to have a child for various reasons, including health, career and marital status, but your egg count and egg quality are at their peak. Just imagine how many responses you will get when you place an ad that says: "High-achieving lady in her mid-40s looking for a partner. Good career, financial stability and plenty of frozen eggs."

Q: How many eggs should I freeze? If I freeze a dozen, will they fit perfectly into an egg carton?

A: The older you are, the more eggs you need to save. If you are under 35, you need to freeze 15 eggs to have an 85 per cent chance of having a baby. If you are 38, freezing 15 eggs will give you a 60 per cent chance. If you are over 40, you'll need to hire Sal Khan to do the math.

Q: Is it true that many women are traveling outside their home countries to get their eggs frozen?

A: Yes, many Americans and other westerners are traveling abroad to save money. Some are combining tourism with egg freezing. By traveling to a country like Iceland, for example, they can get their eggs and butts frozen at the same time.

Q: How much can I save by going to another country to have my eggs frozen?

A: It depends on where you live. In India, you will find some great deals inside the country and probably won't need to travel, unless you want to take your eggs on some sight-seeing. If you live in America, traveling to another country will probably save you enough money to get a lifetime subscription to Netflix for your eggs.

Q: What happens to my eggs after I have them frozen?

A: Your eggs are kept in storage until you need them. You will have to pay monthly or annual storage costs.

Q: If it's too expensive to store my eggs in a special facility, can I just keep my eggs in my refrigerator?

A: No, of course not. What if someone makes an omelet out of them? There are so many things that can go wrong. You could have a power outage or a fridge malfunction. It's much safer to store your eggs in an embryology lab, where they'll be kept in liquid nitrogen tanks at an extremely low temperature, even colder than the frozen assets of Russian oligarchs.

Q: How often can I visit my eggs?

A: Visitation policies vary from lab to lab. Some labs allow visitation "under no circumstances," while other labs allow visitation "only if the eggs show signs of missing home."

Q: If I eventually decide to have a child with my frozen eggs, will I still need a man?

A: Yes, "technically" you would. Science has not yet found a way to leave a man out of the process. But give it time.

Tiger conservation

Sir, This refers to "Tiger census 2022 world's most extensive wildlife survey: Report," Orissa POST, April 11. The protect tiger project launched 50 years ago associated with the most extensive wildlife survey has paid off in the conservation of big cat in our country. The tiger numbers have appreciably grown and the count stands at 3,167 in 2022, making India a proud home to 75 per cent of the world's tigers. To bring back the tiger and other endangered animals from the precipice of extinction nine tiger reserves across the country were set up, covering 14,000 sq km. Today, the area of the ecosystem facilitating the thriving of wildlife and flora has, notably, swelled to 75,000 sq km. However, it has been observed that this expansion has come at the cost of man-animal conflict, especially due to habitat loss, fragmentation and poaching over the years. But, forest reserves have limited tiger-carrying capacities, — they can support up to only a certain number of tigers; crossing that figure means that the cats come out for prey, leading to conflict with humans. The future plan, thus, necessitates the linkage of sanctuaries that have crossed the carrying capacity with those that are underpopulated so that tigers could move from one protected area to the other unhindered. The reserves being far apart, it would entail land acquisition and compensation to the people uprooted.

COVID origins

Sir, Scientists in China collected key coronavirus data in 2020 from a market in Wuhan — ground zero of the first reported outbreak of COVID-19 — but didn't share the raw data publicly until March 2023. And experts suspect that China has much more data from the early pandemic that "have yet to be shared" with the global research community. That's according to a new editorial, published in the journal 'Science' and penned by Maria Van Kerkhove, the COVID-19 technical lead for the WHO. China likely has data that could shed light on how the pandemic began, Van Kerkhove wrote, and the country's failure to disclose the data makes the whole world more vulnerable to future pandemics. These undisclosed data likely include details of China's wild- and farmed-animal trades, as well as the operations of labs in Wuhan that work with coronaviruses, according to the editorial. The data also may include details about the earliest potential cases of COVID-19 detected in China and the diagnostic testing that was conducted in humans and animals in the early days of the pandemic.

Not scared of BJP's tactics: Rahul

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Wayanad (Kerala), April 11: Congress leader Rahul Gandhi Tuesday launched a no-holds-barred attack on the BJP saying he was not scared or intimidated by the saffron party's tactics of taking away his MP "tag" or his official residence as the more the ruling dispensation attacks him, the more he knows he is on the right path.

The Gandhi scion lashed out at the BJP over the "attacks" on him, saying that he was disqualified from the Lok Sabha as "the government was very uncomfortable" with the "simple questions" he had asked regarding businessman Gautam Adani and his alleged relationship with Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

Rahul Gandhi, who arrived in Kalpetta area of this border district of Kerala for the first time after his disqualification as the MP from Wayanad, said the Congress was not scared by the "intimidation, aggression and nastiness" of the BJP, but rather found it "amusing".

"It is a fight between two visions of India. The BJP represents one vision and we (Congress) are not scared of your (BJP) intimidation, your aggression, your nastiness. In fact, we find it quite amusing," the Gandhi

Apex court allows RSS march in TN

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 11: The Supreme Court Tuesday upheld Madras High Court orders allowing Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) to hold 'route marches' in various parts of the states with certain conditions and dismissed three appeals of the Tamil Nadu government in the matter.

The top court noted that the RSS members were not the perpetrators but victims in many of the cases cited in the data submitted by the state government while seeking that the marches be held only in certain enclosed areas due to the law and order situation following the imposition of a ban on the Popular Front of India (PFI).

The nearly eight-month-old issue of holding marches by the members of the RSS in the southern state saw several orders being passed by a single judge bench of the high court since September last year followed by a division bench order in February.

An apex court bench of Justices V Ramasubramanian and Pankaj Mithal said on Tuesday, "We do not wish to extract in this order the chart provided by the State... On account of its sensitivities." But the chart provided by the state government shows that the members of the respondent organisation (RSS) were the victims in many of those cases and that they were not the perpetrators. "Therefore, it is not possible for us to find fault with the order passed by the Judge either in the main writ petitions or in the review applications. Hence all the special leave petitions are liable to be dismissed".

The top court in total dismissed three appeals filed by the state government, including the main appeal against the order dated February 10, 2023 passed by a division bench of the High Court restoring the original order dated September 22, 2022 which directed the Tamil Nadu Police to consider the representation of RSS and grant permission to hold permissions with certain conditions.

Don't mess with my authority: CJI

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 11: "Don't mess around with my authority," an angry Chief Justice of India (CJI) D Y Chandrachud Tuesday warned a lawyer when he mentioned a case for early hearing before a Supreme Court bench presided over by him.

The CJI, who rarely loses his cool during judicial proceedings, got irked when the lawyer first sought an early hearing of his case and, after being told that it will be listed on April 17, asked for liberty to mention it before another bench.

"I can mention before another bench if permitted," the lawyer said. "Do not play these tricks with me. You can't mention it here and then elsewhere for an earlier date," the CJI, who was sharing the bench with justices P S Narasimha and J B Pardiwala, said. Sensing the mood of the bench, the lawyer expressed regret and said he should be excused for his submissions. "Yes, you are excused. But do not mess around with my authority," the CJI said sternly and proceeded to hear mentioning of other cases for urgent hearing.

Ukraine wants closer ties: Emine

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 11: Being with Russia means being on the wrong side of history and Kyiv wants closer and deeper relations with New Delhi, Ukraine's First Deputy Foreign Minister Emine Dzhaparova said Tuesday.

In an address at a leading think-tank, Dzhaparova said that Ukraine's relationship with Pakistan is not directed against India's interests and that her country's military ties with Islamabad began around three decades back.

Referring to the war in Ukraine, the deputy foreign minister said as a global leader and current chair of the G20, India can play a greater role in bringing peace and hoped that Indian officials will visit Kyiv soon. "Being with Russia, we are again very sincerely saying so, is actually being on the wrong side of history Supporting Russia means that it is to be in the evil visionary picture of the world," she said.

SHAH'S ARUNACHAL VISIT

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 11: India Tuesday firmly rejected China's objection to Home Minister Amit Shah's visit to Arunachal Pradesh and asserted that the state "was, is and will" always remain an integral and inalienable part of India.

External Affairs Ministry spokesperson Arindam Bagchi said objecting to such visits does not stand to reason and will not change the reality. The home minister visited Arunachal Pradesh on Monday during which he launched the ambitious 'Vibrant Villages Programme' that is aimed at improving the standard of living of the people in villages in frontier areas.

"We completely reject the comments made by the Chinese official spokesperson. Indian leaders routinely travel to the state of Arunachal Pradesh as they do to any other state of India," Bagchi said. "Arunachal Pradesh was, is and will always remain an integral and inalienable part of India. Objecting to such visits does not stand to reason and will not change the above reality," he said. Bagchi was responding to media queries on the Chinese reaction to Shah's visit to Arunachal Pradesh.

From a border village in Arunachal Pradesh, Shah, in a clear message to China, on Monday said that no one can dare cast an evil eye on India's territorial integrity and encroach even an "inch of our land".

He said the era when anyone could encroach the borderslands of India was over: The home minister's statement came days after Beijing announced Chinese names for 11 places in Arunachal Pradesh which the neighbouring country claims as the "southern part of Tibet."

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 11: The BJP Tuesday fielded Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai from his traditional Shiggaon constituency and party strongman B S Yediyurappa's son B Y Vijayendra from Shikaripura constituency as the party released its first list of 189 candidates for the May 10 Karnataka assembly polls.

To take on the Congress big guns, the BJP fielded two state ministers -- R Ashoka against state Congress chief D K Shivakumar in Kanakapura and V Somanna against former chief minister Siddaramaiah in Varuna. Ashoka and Somanna will also contest from one more seat each, the BJP announced.

Among the candidates named in the first list, nine are doctors, five advocates, three academicians, one retired IAS officer, one retired IPS officer, three retired government employees and eight social activists, he added.

The candidates have been selected to bring in "a new generation leadership and fresh ideas" while maintaining balance with the elder leaders, Union Minister Dharmendra Pradhan, who is Karnataka poll-in-charge of the party, told the press conference.

According to the list released by the party, Chief Minister Bommai will seek another term from his traditional Shiggaon seat. BJP veteran and former chief minister B S Yediyurappa's son B Y Vijayendra will contest from his father's Shikaripura constituency in Shivamogga district.

Pilot sits on dharna, targets Raj govt

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Jaipur, April 11: Congress leader Sachin Pilot Tuesday sat here on a fast, piling pressure on his own party by targeting the Ashok Gehlot government in Rajasthan for "in-action" in alleged cases of corruption when the BJP ran the state. Defying the Congress central leadership's warning that the move – which comes just months before the assembly polls – is "anti-party", he argued that Rahul Gandhi too has been leading a movement against graft.

As he left the protest site, Pilot told reporters that Rahul Gandhi, the Congress and other opposition parties have united over corruption and financial irregularities, and claimed that his fast will speed up this "movement".

The former deputy chief minister said he wrote two letters on this issue to Gehlot last year but received no reply.

"We had assured people that effective action will be taken against corruption by the former BJP government. I wanted the Congress government to take action but it has not happened in over four years," Pilot said. "This struggle against corruption will continue," he said.

K'taka BJP veteran to quit electoral politics

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Bangalore, April 11: Senior BJP leader and former Karnataka deputy chief minister K S Eshwarappa Tuesday told the party's central leadership that he wishes to retire from electoral politics and requested it to not consider fielding him from any constituency in the Assembly polls next month. The decision of the former state unit president, who played a key role along with B S Yediyurappa in building the party in the state over the last four decades, came in the midst of the BJP finalising its list of candidates for the elections.

"I wish to voluntarily retire from electoral politics. Hence, it is my request not to consider my name for any constituency for the Assembly elections this time," the former Leader of Opposition in the Legislative Council said in a letter to BJP President J P Nadda.

Eshwarappa, who resigned as minister last year over a corruption charge, expressed his gratitude to the seniors in the party who gave him honourable positions in his 40-year political career right from booth level to the deputy Chief Minister.

The 74-year-old Kuruba leader, also known for his controversial statements, is a five-time MLA from Shivamogga, and has served as minister holding various portfolios. Kurubas come under the OBC category in the state.

The announcement came amid speculations that the central leadership was weighing the option of denying him ticket for the polls.

Without getting into details, the Congress leader referred to the liquor and sand "mafias" that allegedly operated during the BJP term. On Tuesday, the BJP described the allegations as "fabricated". Gehlot and Pilot have been in a power tussle in the state since the Congress formed the government in December 2018.

Pilot offered flowers at the portraits of Mahatma Gandhi and social reformer Jyotirao Phule before starting his silent protest around 11 am. He sat alone on the dais for five hours, against the

Cops detain boy for threatening Salman

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Mumbai, April 11: Mumbai police have detained a 16-year-old boy from the neighbouring Thane district after he allegedly called up the control room and threatened to kill Bollywood superstar, Salman Khan, an official said on Tuesday.

The main control room of Mumbai Police received the call on Monday night. The caller told police that he would kill Khan April 30 and asked them to convey this to the actor before disconnecting the call, the official said.

When police called back, the caller claimed he is a "gaushala rakshak" (cowshed protector) and was speaking from Jodhpur in Rajasthan, the official said. The police then started an investigation, and with technical help, they tracked the number from which the call came to Shahapur in Thane district, located 70 km from Mumbai, he said.

The Crime Intelligence Unit (CIU) of the Mumbai crime branch was also roped in. A police team of CIU officials went to Shahapur and tracked down the suspect. After watching police personnel, the teenager tried to flee on his motorcycle with his friend riding pillion, but was chased and apprehended, the official said.

Police took the suspect into custody and started examining his mobile phone, where they found that he had called the control room and threatened to kill the actor. As per the preliminary investigation, the teenage boy hails from Rajasthan. He has been handed over to Mumbai Police for the further legal process, the official said.

A probe was on to ascertain the boy's motive behind issuing the threat to the 57-year-old actor, he said. The Mumbai police last month stepped up Salman Khan's security after he received a threatening e-mail, following which an FIR was registered against gangsters Lawrence Bishnoi and Goldy Brar, both accused in the murder of singer Sidhu Moosewala.

The 'Dabangg' actor was earlier provided with Y-plus category security by the police and he moved around in a bullet-proof car along with security guards. Notably, in June 2022, an unidentified person threatened Khan via a handwritten note.

Tejashwi grilled for nine hours

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 11: RJD leader and Bihar Deputy Chief Minister Tejashwi Yadav was Tuesday questioned by the Enforcement Directorate (ED) for about nine hours at the agency office here in a money laundering case linked to the alleged land-for-jobs scam.

The 33-year-old son of RJD president and former Bihar chief minister Lalu Prasad reached the federal agency's office in central Delhi in a carcade around 10:45 am.

The agency recorded his statement under the provisions of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) and he left the office about 9 pm, they said. In between, he went for an about hour-long lunch break.

Last month, the CBI had questioned the RJD leader in this case. The ED booked a separate case under the criminal sections of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) based on the CBI FIR. Tejashwi Yadav's MP-sister Misa Bharti was also questioned by the ED in this case on March 25, the same day he had deposed before the CBI.

Both the central agencies recently initiated action in the case, with the CBI questioning Lalu Prasad and his wife and former Bihar chief minister Rabri Devi and the ED carrying out raids against the RJD chief's family.

The ED, after the searches, said it seized "unaccounted cash" of Rs 1 crore and detected proceeds of crime worth Rs 600 crore.

It said the investigation was underway to unearth more investments made on behalf of Prasad's family and their associates in various sectors, including real estate, at various places.

The alleged scam pertains to the period when Prasad was the railway minister in the UPA-1 government at the Centre.

New Delhi, April 11: Urban light pollution may delay the winter dormancy period for mosquitoes, and as a result they can bite humans and animals longer into the fall, a study suggests.

The researchers noted that the disease-carrying pests may not survive the winter if their plans to fatten up are foiled due to the disruption. However, their dormancy period, known as diapause, may simply be delayed – meaning they're biting longer into the fall.

"If you have mosquitoes post-pone or delaying diapause and continuing to be active longer in the year, that's at a time when the mosquitoes are most likely to be infected with West Nile virus and people could be at greatest risk of contracting it," said Megan Meuti, senior author of the study and an assistant professor at The Ohio State University, US.

The study, published recently in the journal Insects, is among the first to show that artificial light at night could have a significant impact on mosquito behavior, including effects that are not necessarily predictable.

"We're finding that the same urban light at night can have very different effects under different seasonal contexts," said Meuti, who conducted the study with first author Matthew Wolkoff and Lydia Fyfe, both Ph.D. Candidates at Ohio State. Diapause for female Northern house mosquitoes (Culex pipiens) is not quite a winter slumber, but rather a period of dormancy when the insects live in caves, culverts, sheds and other semi-protected locations.

Prior to winter's arrival, mosquitoes convert sugary sources, such as plant nectar, into fat, the researchers said. As days get longer, females begin foraging for blood meals to enable egg production. Some get infected with West Nile virus by feeding on infected birds, and later transmit the virus when they feed on people, horses and other mammals.

The researchers compared daily activity and nutrient accumulation by mosquitoes reared in two lab conditions—long days mimicking the insects' active season and short days that induced dormancy—with and without exposure to artificial light at night.

The study showed that insects' activity decreases during diapause, but the circadian rhythmicity – a natural, internal process that regulates the sleep-wake cycle -- of that activity is sustained even during this dormant period.

The introduction of artificial light at night was found to affect those activity patterns and to influence mosquitoes' acquisition of nutrient reserves needed for fattening up and weathering winter temperatures.

Exposure to light pollution suppressed the amount of water-soluble carbohydrates—sugars that are an essential food source during winter—that were accumulated by mosquitoes in both long- and short-day conditions. The researchers found that patterns of accumulation of the sugar glycogen were reversed by exposure to artificial light at night.

Military airstrikes on Myanmar village feared to have killed 100

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bangkok, April 11: Airstrikes by Myanmar's military Tuesday killed as many as 100 people, including many children, who were attending a ceremony held by opponents of army rule, said a witness, a member of a local pro-democracy group and independent media. The military is increasingly using airstrikes to counter a widespread armed struggle against its rule, which began in February 2021 when it seized power from the elected government of Aung San Suu Kyi. More than 3,000 civilians are estimated to have been killed since then by security forces. A witness told The Associated Press that a fighter jet dropped bombs directly into a crowd of people who were gathering at 8 a.m. For the opening of a local office of the country's opposition movement outside Pazigy village in Sagaing region's Kanbalu township. The area is about 110 kilometres (70 miles) north of Mandalay, the country's second largest city. About half an hour later, a helicopter appeared and fired at the site, said the witness, who asked not to be identified because he feared punishment by the authorities.

Initial reports put the death toll at around 50, but later tallies reported by independent media raised it to about 100. It was impossible to independently confirm details of the incident because reporting is restricted by the military government. There were no immediate reports about the attack in state-controlled media. In past cases, the military government has said it does not use disproportionate force.

Macron visits Netherlands

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Amsterdam, April 11: French President Emmanuel Macron is set to deliver a speech outlining his vision for the future of Europe during a two-day state visit to the Netherlands that began Tuesday. The afternoon speech at a theatre in The Hague comes after Macron raised eyebrows with comments on Taiwan after his recent visit to China.

"The question we need to answer, as Europeans, is the following: Is it in our interest to accelerate (a crisis) on Taiwan? No," Macron was quoted as saying in an interview published Sunday in French newspaper Les Echos and by Politico Europe. The remarks raised questions about whether Macron's views are in line with the European Union's position and whether the bloc of 27 is able to become the "third superpower" that Macron says he hopes to build within "a few years."

Kim vows 'offensive' nuclear expansion

Kim reviewed the country's frontline attack plans and various combat documents and stressed the need to bolster his nuclear deterrent with "increasing speed on a more practical and offensive" manner

AGENCIES

Seoul, April 11: North Korean leader Kim Jong Un vowed to enhance his nuclear arsenal in more "practical and offensive" ways as he met with senior military officials to discuss the country's war preparations in the face of his rivals' "frantic" military exercises, state media said Tuesday.

The meeting of the ruling Workers' Party's Central Military Commission Monday came amid heightened tensions as the pace of both the North Korean weapons demonstrations and the US-South Korean joint military drills have intensified in recent weeks in a cycle of tit-for-tat.

North Korea's official Korean Central News Agency said the commission's members discussed unspecified issues related to strengthening defence capacities and perfecting war preparations to counter the threat posed by the allies' drills, which the North portrays as invasion rehearsals.

The report did not specify the directions the North intended to take. KCNA also published photos of Kim talking to officials while pointing to certain spots on a blurred map that appeared to be of South Korea.

KCNA said Kim and the military commission members analysed the security situation on the Korean Peninsula "in which the US imperialists and the (South) Korean puppet traitors are getting ever more undisguised in their moves for a war of aggression" and discussed preparation for proposed military actions that their enemy has no way of counter-acting.

The US and South Korean militaries conducted their biggest field exercises in years last month and separately held joint naval and air force drills involving a US aircraft carrier strike group and nuclear-capable US bombers.

KCNA claimed the drills simulated an all-out war against North Korea and communicated threats to occupy Pyongyang and decapitate its leadership.

The United States and South Korea have described their exercises as defensive in nature and said that the expansion of those drills are necessary to cope with the North's evolving threats.

North Korea in 2023 so far has fired around 30 missiles in 11 different launch events

Tensions are likely to be prolonged as the allies continue their drills and North Korea uses them as a pretext to advance weapons development and intensify military training involving its nuclear-capable missiles.

The North Korean report came as South Korean officials said the North did not respond to South Korean calls placed over inter-Korean liaison and military hotlines for the fifth consecutive day.

South Korean officials say North Korea cut off communications after the South last week urged the North to stop using without permission South Korean assets left at a now-shuttered joint factory park in the North Korean border town of Kaesong.

The paused military hotlines are particularly concerning in a time of heightened tensions as they are intended to prevent accidental clashes along the rivals' sea borders.

Jeon Ha Gyu, spokesperson of South Korea's Defence Ministry, said Tuesday the South's military wasn't immediately detecting unusual activities by North Korea's military after the hotlines were paused.

South Korean Unification Minister Kwon Youngse, Seoul's point man on the North, in a news conference expressed "strong regret" over North Korea's "unilateral and irresponsible attitude" over the communication lines and also warned of unspecified legal action over its use of the Kaesong assets.

When asked about Kim's comments during the military meeting, Kwon said it's likely that North Korea currently sees the buildup of tensions as favourable to its interests and that Seoul is closely analysing the North's intent.

South Korea pulled its companies out of Kaesong in 2016 following a North Korean nuclear test, removing the last remaining major symbol of cooperation between the rivals. North Korean state media recently showed what appeared to be South Korean commuter buses running in the streets of Kaesong and Pyongyang.

MEA Jaishankar meets Ugandan counterpart

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Kampala, April 11: External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar on Tuesday met his Ugandan counterpart General Odongo Jeje and took stock of the "close and historical ties" between the two nations, and acknowledged that possibilities of partnerships in trade, investments, energy, defence and air connectivity were being explored.

Jaishankar is on a two-nation visit to Uganda and Mozambique from April 10-15 to bolster India's robust bilateral relations with the two African countries.

Jaishankar said he had "comprehensive discussions" with his Ugandan counterpart and thanked him for the warmth of the welcome.

"Took stock of our close and historical ties that have been given greater intensity by our leadership. Possibilities in trade & investments, energy, defence and air connectivity being explored," Jaishankar said in a tweet.

During the meeting, Jaishankar also affirmed Prime Minister Narendra Modi's Kampala principles will be further implemented with a focus on digital, green and health projects.

In 2018, Prime Minister Modi unveiled a set of 10 guiding principles that would dictate India's engagement with Africa.

In his speech at the Ugandan parliament, Prime Minister Modi outlined a vision for not just a bilateral relationship with Africa but also a partnership at the global level.

The External Affairs Minister also participated in the virtual groundbreaking ceremony of solar-powered piped drinking water supply systems funded by the Exim Bank in Uganda.

Tsai condemns China's military drills

China's three-day large-scale drills were retaliation for Tsai's meeting with United States House Speaker Kevin McCarthy

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Taipei, April 11: Taiwan's President Tsai Ing-wen has condemned China's military drills in the Taiwan Strait, saying Tuesday that China did not demonstrate the "responsible" behaviour of a major Asian nation.

China's three-day, large-scale drills that ended Monday were retaliation for Tsai's meeting with United States House Speaker Kevin McCarthy in California last week on her tour of Taiwan's official and unofficial allies. "As the president, I represent our country in the world, whether it's a visit to allied countries or stopping through in the US and interacting with our international friends, and not only has this been going on for years, it's the Taiwanese people's shared expectation," Tsai said in a statement.

"But China used this as a pretext to start military drills, creating instability in the Taiwan Strait and region. This is not the attitude of a responsible major nation in this region."

China sees such meetings as encouraging Taiwanese voters and politicians who support formal independence for the island, a step China's ruling Communist Party says would lead to war.

The sides split in 1949 after a civil war, and the government says the island is obliged to rejoin the mainland, by force if necessary.

Pipe bombs found in Northern Ireland ahead of Biden's visit

REUTERS

London, April 11: Police in Northern Ireland said Tuesday they had recovered four suspected pipe bombs from a cemetery near the city of Londonderry following a public safety operation.

The discovery comes hours before US President Joe Biden is due to arrive in Belfast, about 110 kilometers (70 miles) southeast of Londonderry. On Monday, police said a number of masked people attacked a police vehicle with petrol bombs and other objects at a parade opposing the Good Friday peace accord in Londonderry. "The discovery of these devices was a further sinister and worrying development," Assistant Chief Constable Bobby Singleton said. Biden arrives in Belfast late Tuesday at a delicate political time in Northern Ireland as he helps mark the 25-year anniversary of a peace deal that largely ended 30 years of bloodshed there.

Pipe bombs are crude improvised explosive devices used in the past by militants in Northern Ireland and are often around the size of a hand grenade. They are made by tightly filling a section of pipe with explosives.

Russian forces in Crimea brace for possible Ukraine assault

Satellite images published last week showed a complex web of trenches and other fortifications dug near Medvedivka, a small town near a crossing between Crimea and mainland Ukraine, suggesting Russian concerns about a possible Ukrainian attack there

AGENCIES

Kyiv, April 11: The Moscow-appointed leader of Crimea said Tuesday the region is on guard for what may be an impending Ukrainian counteroffensive.

Sergei Aksyonov told reporters that Russian forces in Crimea had built "modern, in-depth defences" and had "more than enough" troops and equipment to repel a possible Ukrainian assault after 13 months of war following

Russia's full-scale invasion. "We cannot underestimate the enemy, but we can definitely say that we are ready (for an attack) and that there will be no catastrophe," he said.

His comments came days after Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy reaffirmed Kyiv's intention to take back the Black Sea peninsula that Russia illegally annexed from Ukraine in 2014.

Aksyonov first announced the beginning of fortification works in Crimea in November; without giving details. In February, at a security meeting chaired by Russian President Vladimir Putin, he said that the works were set to finish by April.

Satellite images published last week showed a complex web of trenches and other fortifications dug near Medvedivka, a small town near a crossing between Crimea and mainland Ukraine, suggesting Russian concerns about a possible Ukrainian attack there. Military analysts expect Kyiv to take advantage of improving weather to seize the battlefield initiative with new batches of Western weapons, including scores of tanks, and fresh troops trained in the West.

Ukrainian forces could seek to break through the land corridor between Russia and Crimea, heading from Zaporizhzhia toward Melitopol and the Azov Sea. That might split the Russian forces in two.

Kyiv's forces face a formidable challenge to dislodge Russian forces, however. Their armour likely will encounter minefields, anti-tank ditches and other obstacles, while extensive trench systems provide cover for Moscow's troops.

The Kremlin wants Kyiv to acknowledge Russia's sovereignty over Crimea and also recognise September's annexation of the Ukrainian provinces of Donetsk, Kherson, Luhansk and Zaporizhzhia.

Ukraine has vowed to drive the Russians out of all occupied territories and has ruled out any talks with Moscow until it fully reclaims control of its land.

The Ukraine-held parts of the four provinces have felt the brunt of Russian bombardments in recent months, and seven civilians were wounded by Russian shelling in Donetsk and Kherson Monday and overnight, the presidential office reported Tuesday.

Russia Tuesday also used Su-35 aircraft to launch strikes on two towns in the Zaporizhzhia region, the head of the Ukrainian presidential office said.

PE inflows plunge over 75% in Q1

Mumbai: Private equity inflows plunged 75.4 per cent to USD 2.2 billion in the March quarter, making it the sixth consecutive quarter of decline, amid global macroeconomic and geopolitical headwinds, according to a report. Internet-specific and computer software companies continued to attract the largest share of private equity capital, the report said. # IMF trims India's FY24 growth forecast to 5.9%

Global growth will bottom out at 2.8% this year before rising modestly to 3% in 2024, according to IMF's World Economic Outlook

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Washington, April 11: The International Monetary Fund (IMF) Tuesday lowered India's economic growth projection for the current fiscal to 5.9 per cent from 6.1 per cent earlier. Yet India will continue to be the fastest-growing economy in the world.

In its annual World Economic Outlook, IMF also lowered the forecast for 2024-25 fiscal (April 2024 to March 2025) to 6.3 per cent from the 6.8 per cent it had predicted in January this year.

The growth rate of 5.9 per cent in the 2023-24 fiscal compares to an estimated 6.8 per cent in the previous year.

IMF growth forecast is lower than projections by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI). RBI sees a 7 per cent GDP growth in 2022-23 and a 6.4 per cent in the current fiscal that started on April 1.

The government is yet to release full-year GDP numbers for 2022-23. Despite a significant drop in growth rate projections from 6.8 per cent in 2022 to 5.9 per cent, India continues to be the fastest-growing economy in the world, the World Economic Outlook figures revealed.

China's growth rate is projected to be 5.2 per cent in 2023 and 4.5 per cent in 2024 against its growth rate of three per cent in 2022.

On the surface, the global economy appears to be poised for a gradual recovery from the powerful blows of the pandemic and Russia's unprovoked war on Ukraine. China is rebounding strongly following the reopening of its economy. Supply-chain disruptions are unwinding, while the dislocations to energy and food markets caused by the war are receding, said IMF Chief Economist Pierre-Olivier Gourinchas.

"Simultaneously, the massive and synchronous tightening of monetary policy by most central banks should start to bear fruit, with inflation moving back toward its targets."

"In our latest forecast, global growth will bottom out at 2.8 per cent this year before rising modestly to 3.0 per cent in 2024. Global inflation will decrease, although more slowly than initially anticipated, from 8.7 per cent in 2022 to 7.0 per cent this year and 4.9 per cent in 2024," he said.

According to him, this year's economic slowdown is concentrated in advanced economies, especially the euro area and the United Kingdom, where growth is expected to fall to 0.8 per cent and -0.3 per cent this year before rebounding to 1.4 and 1 per cent, respectively.

By contrast, despite a 0.5 percentage point downward revision, many emerging market and developing economies are picking up, with year-end to year-end growth accelerating to 4.5 per cent in 2023 from 2.8 per cent in 2022, he wrote in a blog post.

OPEC+ output cut may push up India's import bill: IEA

INDIA IS THE WORLD'S THIRD-LARGEST OIL-IMPORTING AND CONSUMING NATION. IT MEETS 85 PER CENT OF OIL NEEDS THROUGH IMPORTS

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Paris, April 11: The International Energy Agency (IEA) Tuesday termed the decision of OPEC+ to cut oil production as "risky for the global economy," saying it may push up already high prices, leading to higher import bills for nations like India.

Global oil markets were already set to tighten in the second half of 2023, with the potential for a substantial supply deficit to emerge, said Fatih Birol, head of the Paris-based energy watchdog.

Talking to reporters after a bilateral meeting with India's Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal here, he said, "The cut of the additional production would mean that we have all the reasons to believe that there could be an upward pressure on the prices."

"At this juncture of time when the global economy is still very fragile and many emerging countries have difficulties with economic performance, I found this decision risky for the global economy," he noted.

Asked if oil prices could go past

fragile and many emerging countries have difficulties with economic performance, I found this decision risky for the global economy," he noted.

Asked if oil prices could go past

USD 100 per barrel again, he said, "I think we are all the day but USD 85 now, and looking at the second half of this year, I have reasons to believe that it can go even higher at current levels."

Higher oil prices will not just translate into inflationary pressure on other commodities but will also lead to a larger import bill for nations like India, which are dependent on overseas supplies to meet their requirements.

"India is an energy important country, oil important country, a majority of the oil consumed in India is important, such a move could increase India's oil import bill and as such a burden on the Indian economy and Indian consumers," Birol said.

Goyal is here to meet his counterpart and French CEOs to promote trade and investments between the two countries. India is the world's third-largest oil-importing and consuming nation. It meets 85 per cent of oil needs through imports. It spent USD 118 billion on oil imports in the first 11 months of the 2022-23 fiscal.

Birol said India's economy is strong and continues to be stronger.

"We expect the Indian economy will soon be the third largest economy of the world and the growing economy needs... We do revise our numbers all the time but I expect that the Indian economy will still be strong this year, one of the strongest in the world. And as such, we require strong oil and electricity demand," he said.

New Delhi, April 11: Rohit Sharma was at his vintage best en route to his first IPL half century (65, 45b, 6x4, 4x6) in 25 innings before Mumbai Indians overcame some tense moments to pull off a last-ball win over Delhi Capitals here Monday.

David Warner laboured to 51 (47b, 6x4) before Axar Patel (54, 25b, 4x4, 5x6) flaunted his much improved batting skills again to push Delhi to a competitive 172 after Mumbai Indians put the hosts in to bat.

With the pitch on the drier side compared to the first game here and finger spinners getting plenty of assistance from it, Mumbai Indians had a tricky task at hand but Rohit helped his side record their first win of the season.

With Cameron Green (17 n o) and Tim David (13 n o) in the middle, Mumbai needed five runs off the last over but Anrich Nortje bowled brilliantly to take the game down to the very last ball. David got the required two off the final ball for a much needed victory.

Promoted to number three, the in-form Tilak Varma came up with a crucial 41 (29b, 1x4, 4x6) and forged a 68-run stand with skipper Rohit. It was a much needed win for Mumbai after back-to-back defeats while the season got worse for Delhi who suffered their fourth loss in as many games.

When Rohit charged down the track to pacer Mukesh Kumar in the first over of the innings to pull him for a six over mid-wicket, one could see a special knock coming.

There is no better puller in the game than Rohit and that was on full display at the Feroz Shah Kotla. His second six was even better as he pulled Anrich Nortje off the front foot over wide long-on. Rohit's biggest six came off a pull shot too as he smashed a short ball from Nortje for a massive hit over deep square leg.

Delhi were able to stem the flow of runs in the middle overs via spinners Lalit Yadav and Axar before Varma produced timely boundaries to keep Mumbai ahead in the game.

Needing 30 off the final five overs with nine wickets in hand, Mumbai were on course for a comfortable win before Mukesh dismissed Varma and Suryakumar Yadav (0) off successive balls.

The nerves increased in the Mumbai dressing room when Rohit fell to a moment of brilliance from young keeper Abhishek Porel who dived to his right to take a sensational one handed catch off Mustafizur Rahman. However, the towering Australian duo David and Green took their team over the line.

Earlier, veteran Piyush Chawla (3/22) showed he has still got his sublime skills intact with a three-wicket haul for Mumbai. Prithvi Shaw, who struggled in the first three games, hit some high quality boundaries in his 10-ball 15 before falling to a sweep shot off spinner Hrithik Shokeen.

Manish Pandey (26) used his feet brilliantly against the spinners but that also led to his downfall. Yash Dhuill, who made his IPL debut after warming the bench for the whole of last season, could last only four balls.

When Chawla trapped Rovman Powell with a googly in the 11th over, Delhi were starting at a below par total at 86/4. However, Axar joined a struggling Warner in the middle and single-handedly changed the momentum of Delhi's innings. Axar made his intentions clear with back-to-back inside out sixes off Shokeen.

Two overs later, it was the turn of left-arm pacer Jason Behrendorff to be at the receiving end of Axar's onslaught. After dispatching him for a six over long-on, Axar targeted the same area again and got lucky as Suryakumar Yadav missed the catch completely and got hit above his eye with the ball going all the way.

Mumbai put the brakes on the scoring rate by picking four wickets in the 19th over bowled by Behrendorff (3/23).

BRIEF SCORES

DC 172 (Axar Patel 54, David Warner 51, Manish Pandey 26; Piyush Chawla 3/22, Jason Behrendorff 3/23) vs MI 173/4 (Rohit Sharma 65, Tilak Verma 41, Ishan Kishan 31; Mukesh Kumar 2/30) by 6 wickets.

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Chennai, April 11: The in-form dynamic opening Rajasthan Royals pair of Jos Buttler and Yashasvi Jaiswal will face a quality 'Spin Test' on a tricky Chepauk pitch when they lock horns with some world-class short-format tweekers in the Chennai Super Kings line-up in an IPL match here Wednesday.

The England white-ball skipper and his young Indian partner have both scored a couple of half-centuries each and that too at healthy strike-rates - 180.95 for Buttler and 164.47 for Jaiswal.

But in the three games that Royals have played so far, two were in Guwahati, which was the flattest batting deck amongst all the venues. The Hyderabad track was also loaded heavily in favour of batters.

And, suddenly, they come to Chennai where the ball can grip and also get slower as the match progresses. The toss is always an important factor in Chennai as chasing anything above 170 to 175 could be a risky proposition.

Especially when Moeen Ali, Ravindra Jadeja and Mitchell Santner are operating at the Chepauk and might bowl 10, if not 12, overs between them. Matches can be won and lost there. The three seasoned CSK campaigners have taken 11 wickets between them in three games but, more importantly, their economy rate has been very impressive.

Moeen has bowled at an economy rate of 6.50 in two games while Jadeja (6.88) and Santner (6.75) have also gone for less than seven runs per over.

Moeen missed the last game due to food poisoning and is expected to play the game in place of Sisanda Magala, while Dwaine Pretorius will fill in as an all-rounder in case Ben Stokes is not fit.

But by no means Royals' spinners could be taken lightly as the wily 'Cricket Scientist' Ravichandran Ashwin has played all his cricket at this very ground and the intelligent Yuzvendra Chahal can outfox any batter on a given day. Add the other Tamil Nadu spinner Murugan Ashwin in the mix and CSK will also have their own set of challenges.

However, CSK will be missing Deepak Chahar, who is expected to be out of the tournament due to recurrence of a left hamstring injury. Whether Dhoni prefers the erratic but pacey Rajvardhan Hangargekar or the incisive Simarjeet Singh will be a big question.

On the batting front, the vastly experienced Ajinkya Rahane showed he too could score quickly on his CSK debut as the team turned in a strong performance with spinners Jadeja and Santner doing a fine job.

Add the good run of Ruturaj Gaikwad at the top of the order and CSK do have a formidable batting line-up. But they would be up against an equally well-endowed Royals team.

It promises to be an interesting battle on the morrow with the two sides boasting of a strong batting unit, and the onus would be on the bowlers to seize the moment.

In skipper Sanju Samson and Shimron Hetmyer, the Royals have batters who can play big shots and boost the score. The pace unit comprising Trent Boult and Jason Holder looks better than CSK's on paper but how the respective attacks fare on the given day could determine the game's outcome.

The wicket at the MA Chidambaram stadium offered bounce in the game against Lucknow Super Giants and it remains to be seen if similar conditions are on offer. Nevertheless, an interesting battle is in store.

BCCI to upgrade stadiums ahead of World Cup '23

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 11: The BCCI is planning a massive renovation with an estimated cost of over Rs 500 crore of at least five major stadiums in India ahead of the ODI World Cup in October-November.

The game has attracted huge money over the past 10 years, making BCCI, the richest board in the world, richer. However, the stoic fan, who has made the game what it has become, is often deprived of basic facilities at most venues around the country.

During the India-Australia Test series in February-March, fans had vented their ire over the lack of clean toilets at the Arun Jaitley Stadium in Delhi. It is not surprising that Delhi is among the five venues which underwent a gap assessment from the BCCI.

A gap assessment outlines the existing gaps between the current and ideal future state of an organization. As per the list accessed by PTI, the other venues are Hyderabad, Kolkata, Mohali and Mumbai.

The Wankhede in Mumbai had undergone renovation before the India-Australia ODIs last month after a fan complained of poor sanitary conditions at the famous stadium.

The projected cost of renovation at the five venues runs into hundreds of crores. Even if one doesn't factor the cost of roof renovation, which is not a possibility at least in Delhi due to structural flaws at the venue, the costs are huge.

It will cost Rs 100 crore to re-vamp the Delhi stadium, Rs 117.17 crore for Hyderabad, Rs 127.47 crore for the iconic Eden Gardens at Kolkata, Rs 79.46 crore for the ageing PCA stadium in Mohali and Rs 78.82 crore for Wankhede. The costs increase drastically if roof work is involved.

Twelve venues have been short-listed to host World Cup games and they include Bangalore, Chennai, Delhi, Dharamsala, Guwahati, Hyderabad, Kolkata, Lucknow, Indore, Rajkot, Mumbai and Ahmedabad, the likely venue for the final.

A total of 48 games will be played in the 46-day ICC event. India last hosted the ODI World Cup in 2011 when the MS Dhoni-led team lifted the trophy.

Chennai, Kolkata likely to host Pak games

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 11: The Pakistan cricket team would prefer playing bulk of its 2023 ODI World Cup matches in Chennai and Kolkata - the two venues where the team has felt safe during its earlier tours, according to ICC sources.

The World Cup will start tentatively October 5, with 46 matches, including the final set to be played across 12 Indian cities, including Ahmedabad, Lucknow, Mumbai, Rajkot, Bangalore, Delhi, Indore, Guwahati and Hyderabad, Dharamsala.

It is understood that discussions are currently on at the ICC level as Pakistan Cricket Board (PCB) bigwigs are in talks with a top level ICC executive on the issue, which still remains a sensitive one.

"A lot will depend on what BCCI and the Indian government decide but given a choice, Pakistan will like to play most of its World Cup matches in Kolkata and Chennai. "In Kolkata, Pakistan played its T20 World Cup game against India in 2016 and the players were very happy with the security. Similarly, Chennai as a venue remains memorable for Pakistan. It's also about feeling safe at specific venues," a source close to ICC Board, tracking developments, told PTI on conditions of anonymity.

The bone of contention will be the India versus Pakistan game. While Ahmedabad with 1,32,000 capacity gives ICC, the best chance to earn optimum profits but the Narendra Modi Stadium is already hosting the final, so another venue might host the game. Each team will play nine games at the league stage which will be held in round-robin format.

The ICC's Events committee, in association with host cricket board BCCI, will chalk out the final itinerary in the next few months so that it allows fans across India and other parts to plan their travel itinerary.

Recently, ICC General Manager Wasim Khan, in his own capacity had told Pakistani media that the team could play its matches in Bangladesh as a part of a 'hybrid model' that could be followed since the Indian team is not travelling to the country for the Asia Cup.

But PCB chairman Najam Sethi, back then had rubbished the idea of playing World Cup games in Bangladesh. More so, ICC had made it clear that no such proposal had come from Pakistan about 'hybrid' model' for global tournaments.

I did the right thing by playing slow: Rahul

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Bangalore, April 11: On a day when Lucknow Super Giants' Nicholas Pooran smashed the second-fastest IPL half-century, his captain KL Rahul defended his inexplicable 20-ball-18 stating that he "has done the right thing".

The West Indian left-hand batter's 19-ball 62 - and his 15-ball half century - played a pivotal role in LSG chasing down a stiff RCB's 212-run total on the last ball at the Chinnaswamy Stadium Monday night.

However, the innings played by Rahul - who has often been criticised for his unflattering strike rate in T20 cricket and was included in the 2022 World Cup squad despite criticism - stood in stark contrast to the West Indian's hell for leather effort.

But Rahul, who lost his Test vice-captaincy midway through the Border-Gavaskar series, recently due to poor form, said post-match that losing wickets in a heap forced him to go slow.

"If I score more runs, the strike-rate will go up. I looked at the situation and I feel I had done the right thing. Hopefully, with a couple of good knocks the strike rate will go up," Rahul said, following LSG's one-wicket win.

Rahul, in the 72 T20Is he has played has scored 2,265 runs at a strike rate of 139.12, and his overall strike rate in the shortest format is just 136.93. His strike-rate is more about making it up towards the end.

In the end, Rahul's stay at the crease only added to the pressure on the likes of Pooran and Ayush Badoni to accelerate the run-rate. In fact, Marcus Stoinis, who came in at No.5, was left with little choice but to go for the big hits from the word go, smashing a 30-ball 65 to infused some life into the innings.

Rahul, who has played most of his cricket in formative years at the Chinnaswamy Stadium, said, "From the position we were in, we were chasing 210-plus and we knew we had to go hard and attack. But, sometimes, when you do that you lose wickets. Unbelievable, I mean it's the Chinnaswamy I've grown up here and I think it's the stadium with most last-ball finishes.

"They (RCB) bowled well in the powerplay, they swung it well. But the way Stoinis and Pooran played, if we have two points today it's because of them."

Barcelona held at home by Girona in Spanish league tie

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Madrid, April 11: Barcelona failed to rebound from their humiliating loss to Real Madrid in the Copa del Rey semifinals and was held to a 0-0 home draw with Girona in the Spanish league Monday.

The result still allowed Barcelona to increase their lead over second-place Madrid to 13 points with 10 matches remaining. Madrid lost 2-3 to Villarreal at home Saturday.

Barcelona lost 0-4 to Madrid at the Camp Nou last week. It was the first time Barcelona had lost to Madrid at home by four goals since 1963 and they hoped to rebound in the team's rare Monday game.

Barca finished with 18 shots in total, but only three were on target.

Zverev, Dimitrov advance at Monte Carlo Masters

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Monaco, April 11: Alexander Zverev started his clay-court season with a 3-6, 6-2, 6-4 win over Alexander Bublik to reach the second round at the Monte Carlo Masters Tuesday.

The 13th-seeded German was playing on clay for the first time since a right ankle injury forced him to retire in the French Open semifinals against Rafael Nadal last year.

Zverev said he needed to "get the injury out of my head" and get used to sliding again. "It felt awful at times to be honest, but he made me feel awful," Zverev said. "Tactically he played well, he didn't let me play my game at all. He didn't let me have my rhythm and he almost won the match, just a few points here and there." Still, Zverev limited his unforced errors to nine and hit 21 winners on Court Rainier III to set up a match against Spaniard Roberto Bautista Agut in the next round. Two-time semifinalist Grigor Dimitrov also advanced by beating American Ben Shelton 6-1, 3-6, 6-3. The 20-year-old Shelton made his debut at Monte Carlo and did not disappoint, testing Dimitrov in a tense contest that lasted more than two hours.

"It is one of those matches that I just needed to go through," Dimitrov said. "I played a lot of good tennis. There were a lot of positives to take out of that." Dimitrov will next play Jiri Lehecka of Czech Republic.

Top-ranked Novak Djokovic will start his clay-court season against qualifier Ivan Gakhov later Tuesday. The 35-year-old Djokovic has not played since losing to Daniil Medvedev in the semifinals of the Dubai Championships five weeks ago, which ended the Australian Open champion's 20-match winning streak.

Stefanos Tsitsipas, aiming for a third consecutive title at the Country Club, takes on Frenchman Benjamin Bonzi. Nadal, second-ranked Carlos Alcaraz, and seventh-ranked Felix Auger-Aliassime pulled out of the tournament.
