ARIES
A plain Jane day. Work goes on as usual, and there is progress. But as Ganesha says, it's an ordinary day. Hum, whistle, doodle, and sip your green tea. While day dreaming, start planning your dream home. After all, that's where the first plan takes shape.

TAURUS
This is a bright, rosy day for students and scholars, particular who are engaged in, or are looking forward to higher studies, specializing in a particular professional stream. This a great day for making plans for higher studies abroad. Do not miss this opportunity. Plans made today are likely to materialize.

GEMINI
The day will be dedicated to spending quality time with children, predicts Ganesha. You will be overloaded with household responsibilities and will find it tough to deal with them. However, you will manage to do well and will be satisfied with the outcome.

CANCER
Today, it will be all about finding your comfort zone, and spending the day there. You are likely to spend most of the day with your close friends. Your smooth demeanour will help you breeze through all business deals. The opposite sex may find you irresistible.

LEO
Most battles are fought and won inside our head. Hence, Ganesha urges you to maintain a positive outlook today. The stars grant you the ability to double your efforts, and allow your imagination to take flight and chart new routes to success. This should curb your frustration of the last few days.

VIRGO
You will charm people with your flexibility of thought and willingness to adjust today. Those under the spell of love will see an unexpected turn of events; but don't panic, as things will eventually work out in your favour. Some quality family time is also on the cards.

LIBRA
Ganesha has a feeling that today may not be the best day to undertake any government dealings. Call it red-tapism, or bureaucratic procrastination, but it is highly unlikely that such tasks shall be fruitful today. This may test your patience, and in doing so, bring out your competency and efficiency to the fore, especially if you happen to be a public servant. Touché!

SCORPIO
It is about time you learn to deal with frustration in a more healthy manner. The right choice is always the hardest to make. Do not let sentiments sway you into hasty choices because they may feel right, but might also be extremely impractical. There may some strain on your relationship with near and dear ones.

SAGITTARIUS
You will enjoy the magic of the Midas touch today, feels Ganesha. In business, sheer brilliance will help you derive the best possible results in productivity and clinching new contracts. Your approach, in general, will be methodical, disciplined and systematic for most part of the day.

CAPRICORN
You have always been generous by nature, but your benevolent attitude will do you no good, warns Ganesha. People will try, almost blatantly, to take advantage of you, and for once, you will feel that being crafty and unrelenting would have helped kept those blood-sucking leeches at bay. But as the day progresses, you will thank the Almighty for all the precious things he made you the guardian of.

AQUARIUS
You zoom in on research and development today. Your fabulous work speaks volumes and your commitment pays off. You're keen to play Romeo today, and all your gimmicks and surprises will work wonders! Love on, says Ganesha.

PISCES
You set irreproachable standards for yourself, but what keeps your subordinates from grumbling about it is the efforts you make to help them achieve perfection in their endeavours, says Ganesha. You inspire, they aspire.

BHUMI ON HER FEARLESS CHOICES

Mumbai: Bhumi Pednekar broke into Bollywood with a bold and unconventional debut in Dum Laga Ke Haisha, playing a character far removed from the typical glamorous heroine. Starring opposite Ayushmann Khurrana, Bhumi embraced her role with authenticity, setting the tone for a career defined by fearless choices. "I didn't have any other option but to be fearless," she reflects. "My first film taught me that to make it here, I had to create my own space—my own genre."

Determined to carve her niche, Bhumi leaned into stories often overlooked, choosing roles that others might hesitate to take. From heartland narratives to socially relevant and queer-centric films, she's built a reputation for championing bold, thought-provoking cinema. "I've always wanted to lead in spaces where others might hold back," she says, citing films like Bhakhshak, Lust Sto- ries, Sonchiriya, and Saand Ki Aankh as personal milestones.

In her latest film, Mere Husband Ki Biwi, alongside Arjun Kapoor and Rakul Preet Singh, Bhumi continues to push boundaries. Now firmly established in the industry, she isn't chasing competition—she's defining her own path. "I'm proud of the space I've created," she says. "And I want others to thrive within it too."

Moments Rajkummar likes to relive

Mumbai: Bollywood actor Rajkummar Rao, who plays an about to get married guy caught in a time-loop in Bhool Chuk Maaf, says there are moments in his life that he would want to relive including the time he bagged his debut film Love Sex Aur Dhokha and saw Stree 2 become a major box office success.

At the trailer launch press conference of the actor's upcoming film Bhool Chuk Maaf, he was asked about the moments he would like to relive in his life.

"From my career, as an outsider, when you come to the city, it can be overwhelming; it is very tough. I know a lot of actor friends who've come to the city, and not everyone gets that opportunity. So, getting that first film is important for any actor who has come from outside. This happened to me in 2010," Rao told reporters at an event here.

"I would like to relive that moment again and again. I would also love to relive the moment when my mother was with me when I won the first National award. Then when Stree 2 released and the first day box office number came we were like, 'What...what has happened,'" Rao added.

Nushratt's career turning point

Mumbai: Actor Nushratt Bharuccha says her career took a significant turn with the 2021 horror film Chhorii, which has not only altered the audience perception of her but has also opened opportunities to do more female-led narratives.

"After Chhorii, I've had Janhit Mein Jaari and Akelli and now I've two-three other films, which I don't know how it happened, it's not like I'm going out there and choosing those films, I'm not. I'm very happy doing other films and other parts also. But somehow it's (Chhorii) changed audiences and trade perception of me, a mixture of that is bringing more scripts that way," the actor told the agency in an interview.

Chhorii is the remake of director Vishal Furia's 2017 Marathi film Lapachhapi, which revolves around a pregnant woman named Sakshi whose unborn child is targeted by evil spirits.

The sequel, which will release April 11 on Prime Video, will pick up the story of Sakshi from where it left off in the first film and will bring back some key characters as well as introduce new scares.

Known for massy entertainers like Pyaar Ka Punchnama, Sonu Ke Titu Ki Sweetie, and Dream Girl, Bharuccha said Chhorii is the most demanding movie in her career.

Cricket to feature in 2028 LA Olympics

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 10: Cricket will feature six teams battling for top honours when the sport returns to the Olympics at the 2028 Los Angeles Games after a gap of 128 years. This was confirmed by the organisers on Wednesday.

Cricket last featured at the Olympics in the 1900 edition of the Games in Paris, where a one-off, two-day match between Great Britain and France was held, which is now recognised as an unofficial Test. At LA 2028, cricket will be played in T20 format, with six teams competing in both the men's and women's competitions.

Every team will be able to name a 15-member squad as a total of 90 athlete quotas have been allocated for each gender.

The International Cricket Council (ICC) consists of 12 full members in Afghanistan, Australia, Bangladesh, England, India, Ireland, New Zealand, Pakistan, South Africa, Sri Lanka, the West Indies and Zimbabwe.

Another 94 countries form the associate members group.

Qualification criteria for the 2028 Games are yet to be confirmed for the cricket tournament but USA are likely to earn a direct spot at the quadrennial extravaganza as host nation, meaning only five teams will be allowed to make the cut through the qualification process. It is expected that top five teams in the ICC rankings within a certain cut-off date will qualify apart from the United States of America.

Cricket is one of five new sports which will feature at the next Olympic Games. The International Olympic Committee (IOC) approved cricket's inclusion for LA28 in 2023, along with baseball/softball, flag football, lacrosse (sixes) and squash.

Meanwhile, The Executive Board (EB) of the IOC Wednesday approved the event programme and athlete quotas for the LA Games, adding 22 more medal events as compared to Paris 2024. The IOC approved a record 351 medal events for the LA28 program and the athlete quota remains at 10,500, with an extra 698 quota places allocated for the five additional sports -- baseball/softball, cricket, flag football, lacrosse and squash.

Rana in India; key 26/11 players out of bounds

The government might be patting its back for managing to extradite Pakistan-born Canadian citizen Tahawwur Hussain Rana for his role in the diabolic 26/11 terror attack in Mumbai following a US court's ruling. However, considering that Rana, who ran a halal meat shop in Canada, has very little role to play in the deadly terror strike, as revealed by the chargesheet in the case, key conspirator David Coleman Headley still remains out of the bounds of Indian investigating agencies. The US, which promptly arrested Headley just before the 26/11 investigators got a whiff of his involvement in the Lashkar plot, has turned down possibilities of his extradition so far. Indian agencies have, until now, been able to conduct his questioning in a US prison, partially though, Headley (Daood Sayed Gilani) still remains the main facilitator of the carnage. India had sent an extradition request for Headley to US in December 2012, but a US court sentenced him to 35 years in prison, followed by 5 years of supervised release, for 12 terrorist acts. Given this background, Rana's extradition, or his subsequent interrogation, could help little in furthering anything noteworthy in the probe, people in the know of the development feel

New Delhi, April 10: Tahawwur Hussain Rana, one of the key accused in 26/11 Mumbai terror attacks, was brought to India after being "successfully extradited" from US and was formally arrested and produced in a court here, the National Investigation Agency (NIA) announced Thursday.

Woman herself invited trouble: Allahabad HC

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Prayagraj, April 10: In a retrograde ruling, the Allahabad High Court has granted bail to a rape accused, observing that the complainant "herself invited trouble" by agreeing to go to the applicant's house after getting drunk, the news coming days after the Supreme Court intervened to stay an "insensitive" order passed by another HC justice in a rape attempt case. The woman is a student of MA and hence she "was competent enough to understand the morality and significance of her act", stated the order passed by Justice Sanjay Kumar Singh last month.

Earlier, it was submitted on behalf of the applicant that it was an admitted case of the woman that she was an adult and resided in PG Hostel. She, of her own volition, went to a restaurant with her female friends and their male friends where all of them drank alcohol together. Due to this, she became very intoxicated.

The counsel for the applicant argued that the woman, along with her friends, stayed in the bar till 3am. Since she needed support, she herself agreed to go to the house of the applicant and rest. Her allegation that the applicant instead took her to his relative's flat and raped her twice is false and against the evidence on record, the counsel told the court.

It was argued that considering the facts as disclosed by the woman, it is not a case of rape but might be a case of consensual relationship. "This court is of the view that even if the allegation of the victim is accepted as true, then it can also be concluded that she herself invited trouble and was also responsible for the same. Similar stand has been taken by the victim in her statement. In her medical examination, her hymen was found torn but doctor did not give any opinion about the sexual assault," it said.

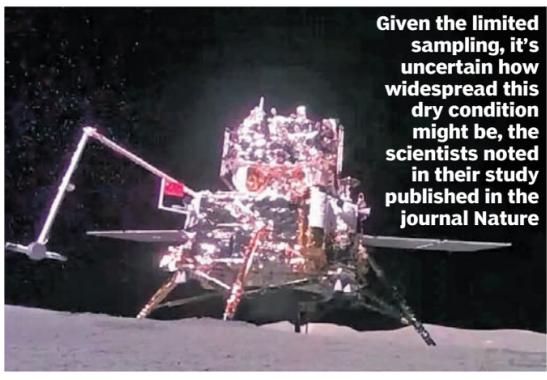

Soil from moon suggests a thirsty far side

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cape Canaveral, April 10: Soil and rocks returned from the moon's mysterious far side suggest it may be drier than the side constantly facing Earth, Chinese scientists reported Wednesday. They, however, cautioned more samples are needed for a clearer picture.

A better understanding of the abundance of water in the lunar mantle can help explain how the moon evolved, the researchers noted. But it could also be all the more reason for astronauts to stick close to the near side of the moon as currently planned.

China became the first country to land on the moon's far side last year. The Chang'e 6 spacecraft scooped up the volcanic rock and dirt from the ancient, sprawling South Pole-Aitken basin, one of the largest impact craters in the solar system.

The Chinese Academy of Sciences' Sen Hu said he and his team received 5 grams of soil samples, then selected 578 particles for detailed analysis using electron microscopes.

They estimated the water abundance at less than 1.5 micrograms per gram, on the dry end of what's been found in samples gathered over past decades from the moon's near side. Measurements on samples from the near side have ranged between 1 microgram and 200 micrograms per gram.

Given the limited sampling, it's uncertain how widespread this dry condition might be, the scientists noted in their study published in the journal Nature.

"More far side samples are required for testing and further unraveling" how much water there is, Hu said in an email.

It's possible the impact that created this basin may have blasted water elements to the near side, leaving the far side depleted. Another possibility is that the vertical distribution of water could be different between the two hemispheres.

Even if confirmed, the findings shouldn't drastically alter NASA's plans to send astronauts to the moon's south polar region, where permanently shadowed craters are believed to hold massive amounts of ice. This frozen water could be used for drinking, cooking and making rocket fuel.

NASA aims to send four astronauts around the moon next year under its Artemis program, the successor to Apollo, which put 12 men on the moon from 1969 through 1972. That would be followed by a landing near the lunar south pole by astronauts no earlier than 2027. China is seeking its own astronaut moon landing by 2030.

Stadiums to come up in all 314 blocks: CM

MAJHI ATTENDS 39TH NATIONAL SUB JUNIOR (BOYS) HANDBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

PNN & AGENCIES

Keonjhar, April 10: Chief Minister Mohan Charan Majhi Thursday said Odisha government will construct stadiums in all 314 blocks of the state to strengthen sports infrastructure at the grassroots level.

The state government has allocated over ₹4,000 crore for construction of stadiums of various categories from village and block to district level. In every block, a stadium will come up on around 8 to 10 acres of land, Majhi said after watching matches of the 39th National Sub Junior (Boys) Handball Championship being held in Keonjhar.

Majhi also announced plans to set up 14 indoor swimming pools and emphasised development in archery. He urged continued support from the government to further develop handball and train players to compete at the international level, calling for collaborative discussions on the matter.

The CM said apart from popular games like cricket, hockey and football, the state government has been encouraging sports like kho kho, kabaddi and handball.

He said the state government is taking all measures for the promotion of sports from the rural level and encouraging youngsters to actively participate in the initiative.

Majhi said Odisha organises the CM Trophy sports tournaments to attract budding talents.

Earlier, Majhi greeted the athletes with chants of 'Jai Jagannath' and 'Jai Maa Tarini,' extending his best wishes.

Addressing the players, the chief minister said Keonjhar is renowned for handball, recalling that the first National Junior Handball Championship was held there in 1980. "After 45 years, we are fortunate to host a national-level event here once again," he said.

Majhi highlighted the unifying power of the sport and noted that Keonjhar's handball ground is the first synthetic playground of its kind in Asia.

The Chief Minister arrived in Keonjhar by a special helicopter and participated in the holy congregation of the State-level Sanatan Dharma Sammilani and 114 Kundiya Tridinatmaka Biswa Shanti Trishakti Mahayagna in Kalipadia. Later, he attended the golden jubilee celebration of Mangalpat Nodal High School in Birakesharpur village and watched a cricket match in Murusuan of the Sadar block.

He also attended the 37th annual function of Saraswati Vidya Mandir in Jhumpura, where he once served as a teacher before entering politics. Reflecting on his time there, he fondly recalled old memories and his circle of friends.

MISSION ON WHEELS: Dharitri and Orissa POST Chief Executive Adyasha Satpathy and staffers of the English daily with environmentalist Prasanjit Das at the newspapers' office in Bhubaneswar, Thursday

Pedalling for a liveable tomorrow

A rmed with a bicycle, a camping tent, and an unwavering spirit, Prasanjit Das from Murshidabad district of West Bengal has embarked on an ambitious mission—to cover 195 countries in 17 years for environmental conservation, peace, and health. His slogan—Pedal for Green, Plant for Peace, Donate Blood and Ride for Health—has resonated with communities across states as he continues his journey through Odisha. In a brief halt during his ride, Das, popularly known as Jojo Dada, sat down with Orissa POST's Debadurllav Harichandan to talk about the road behind and the miles ahead.

■ What inspired this journey?
■ The worsening climate crisis—from global warming to urban flooding and extreme weather events—compelled me to act. This journey is my way of spreading awareness and inspiring change. While it may seem like a daunting task, I am fully committed to seeing it through.

The mission is also a celebration of India's diversity.

Every 50 to 100 kilometres, the language, the culture and the people—everything changes. It's magical.

Swami Vivekananda's ideals have been a major catalyst for my inner drive. His ideals of selflessness and unbreakable resolve guide me every day. He achieved the impossible, and I hope to do the same in my own way.

■ Where next?

■ After completing the Odisha leg, I plan to pedal through Andhra Pradesh and Tamil Nadu, before taking a ferry from Nagapattinam to Jaffna in Sri Lanka—marking my first international stop.

■ Challenges ahead?

■ The journey has not been without hardships. The hot weather in Odisha has been especially tough. To cope, I start early, avoid peak hours, and set a daily target of 100 kilometres, beginning with an initial 40 kilometres stretch in the first 2.5 hours.

While tent offers me shelter, challenges like charging phone and occasional encounters with miscreants have tested my resilience. Still, the support and kindness I've received outweigh the setbacks.

Another hurdle has been financial support. Despite reaching out to non-profit organisations, I am yet to secure any backing. I'm hopeful that once the word spreads, some doors will open.

■ Message to fellow dreamers

■ My advice to aspiring globe-trotters and changemakers is simple—Don't see a bicycle as a barrier. What matters is taking that first step—or pedal. If your mission is strong, the road will carry you forward.

From P1...

"With the active assistance of USDOJ, the US Sky Marshal, NIA worked closely with other Indian intelligence agencies, NSG through the entire extradition process, which also saw India's Ministry of External Affairs and Ministry of Home Affairs coordinating with the other relevant authorities in the United States to take the matter to its successful conclusion," the statement read.

Senior advocate Dayan Krishnan and special public prosecutor Narender Mann, who are representing the NIA, reached the Patiala House court premises shortly after news that Rana had landed in Delhi. Police officials asked mediapersons to leave and said they were ensuring the court premises were fully vacant. The lawyers, however, refused to comment.

Special NIA judge Chander Jit Singh is hearing the case against Rana. Advocate Piyush Sachdeva from Delhi Legal Services Authority is representing the accused.

Meanwhile, tight security has been ensured outside the NIA headquarters at the CGO complex here and the entire premises has been cordoned off by security personnel of Delhi Police and Central Reserve Police Force (CRPF).

Key roads outside and around the NIA office has been closed for any vehicular traffic. Entry and exit from gate no 2 of Jawaharlal Nehru Stadium metro station, which is opposite the probe agency's office, has been barred.

The announcement that Rana would be finally extradited came when Prime Minister Narendra Modi visited the US capital in February. "We are giving a very violent man back to India immediately to face justice in India," US President Donald Trump said at a joint press conference with Modi February 14.

Trump said his administration has approved the extradition of "very evil people of the world" Rana "to face justice in India". Rana was lodged in Metropolitan Detention Centre in Los Angeles.

He was held in judicial custody in the US following proceedings initiated under the India-US Extradition Treaty for his extradition. The extradition finally came through after Rana exhausted all legal avenues to stay the move.

The District Court for the Central District of California had ordered his extradition May 16, 2023. Rana then filed multiple litigations in the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, all of which were rejected.

He subsequently filed a petition for a writ of certiorari, two habeas petitions, and an emergency application before the US Supreme Court, which were also denied.

"The extradition proceedings were initiated between the two countries after India eventually secured a surrender warrant for the wanted terrorist from the US government," the NIA said.

Rana is accused of conspiring with David Coleman Headley alias Daood Gilani, and operatives of designated terrorist organisations Lashkar-e-Taiba (LeT) and Harkat-ul-Jihad Islami (HUJI) along with other Pakistan-based co-conspirators, to carry out the three-day terror siege of India's financial capital. Both LeT and HUJI have been declared terrorist organisations by the Indian government under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act, 1967.

Among the 166 killed were US, British and Israeli nationals. Besides, 238 were injured in the mayhem carried out by a group of 10 Pakistani terrorists on a railway station, two luxury hotels and a Jewish centre after they sneaked into Mumbai through the Arabian Sea.

The terrorists had targeted multiple iconic locations in Mumbai, including the Taj Mahal and Oberoi hotels, Leopold Cafe, Chabad House and Chhatrapati Shivaji Terminus train station, each of which Headley had scouted in advance.

Rana would be the third person to be sent on trial in India in the case after Ajmal Kasab and Zabiuddin Ansari alias Abu Jundal. In November 2012, Ajmal Amir Kasab, the lone surviving terrorist among the Pakistani group, was hanged to death in Yerawada Jail in Pune. Rana had served in the Pakistani Army medical corps before emigrating to Canada in late 1990s and started his immigration consultancy firm. He later moved to the US and set up an office in Chicago.

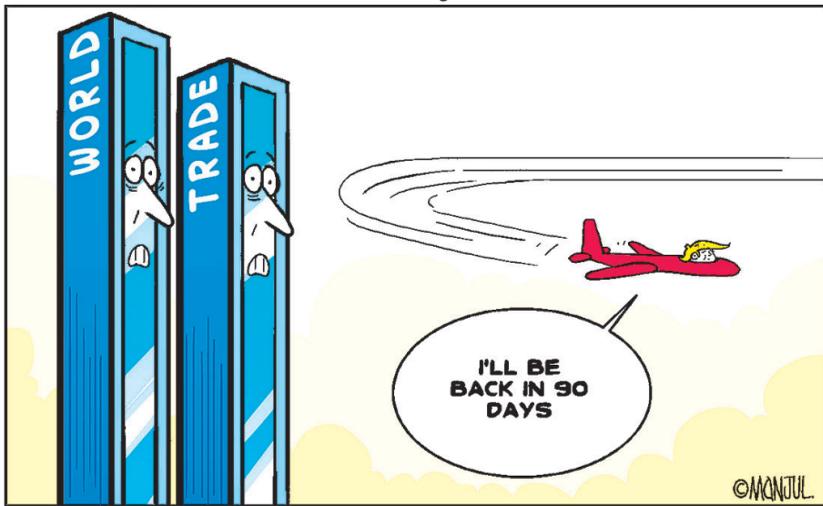

Through his firm, Rana gave cover to Headley to carry out reconnaissance mission in Mumbai so that the terrorists could launch the attacks.

Body goes missing from burial ground

Bhadrak: The body of a woman allegedly went missing from a graveyard in Bhadrak district, prompting the police to launch an investigation. The incident happened in Maninathpur village in the Bhandaripokhari police station area. Three bodies went missing from the same graveyard last year as well. Locals now suspect the involvement of a racket that illegally supplies corpses to private medical colleges for research. Rukmani Samal had died 10 days ago, and as per customs in her community, she was buried in the graveyard. When her family went to the graveyard for the 10th-day ritual Thursday, they were stunned to find the burial site dug up and the body missing. Police have launched an investigation into the incident.

Koraput breaks 7-yr record in finger millet procurement

POST NEWS NETWORK

Koraput/Nandapur, April 10: Finger millet procurement in Koraput district has hit a seven-year high, thanks to the Odisha government's ₹2.10 per kg incentive scheme aimed at encouraging millet cultivation and supporting farmers, a report said.

cord 41,000 quintals of millet have been collected from 2,597 farmers—making it the highest procurement block in the region.

Vasan informed that during the 2023-24 procurement season, 1,18,624 quintals of finger millet had been purchased from 8,232 farmers at the minimum support price (MSP) of ₹38.46 per kg.

To further encourage millet cultivation and production, the state government increased the MSP to ₹42.90 per kg from earlier ₹38.46. Additionally, it offered an incentive of ₹2.10 per kg to farmers, which helped promote higher output.

support price (MSP) of ₹42.90 per kg, along with the state incentive of ₹2.10 per kg, bringing the total price to ₹45 per kg, directly credited to farmers' bank accounts.

The Collector noted that exceeding the target ahead of time has not only made farmers more self-reliant and economically empowered, but has also helped highlight the nutritional value of millets on a global platform.

The district administration has praised the collective efforts of millet farmers, FPOs, LAMPs, the Millet Mission, and TDCCOL for making the record-breaking procurement possible.

The Shri Jaibik Farmers Producer Group has procured 34,950 quintals of millet from 2,382 farmers in the Nandapur block this year by establishing six procurement centers, according to district officials.

Ayushman Dream Comes True

FREE TREATMENT FACILITY TO AROUND 3.5 CRORE ODISIA PEOPLE

A promise made, a promise fulfilled. Today, joy echoes across the State. Millions of our brothers and sisters, who work outside as migrant labourers, now wear smiles of relief, their hearts filled with happiness and ecstasy.

Ayushman Bharat is being implemented in the State from today. I am delighted that the benefits of the Ayushman Bharat Jan Arogya Yojana, Gopabandhu Jan Arogya Yojana, Ayushman Vay Vandana are now available for the brothers and sisters of Odisha from today. Hon'ble Union Health and Family Welfare Minister Jagat Prakash Nadda will launch the scheme at the historic Baliyatra Ground of Cuttack.

The scheme is dedicated to around 3.46 crore people from about 1.03 crore families under which they will get the benefit of free treatment up to ₹5 lakh per annum while an additional free treatment facility of ₹5 lakh has been provisioned for women members of the family. Under this scheme, each member of the beneficiary families will get health card.

The Ayushman Vay Vandana Yojana is designed for senior citizens aged 70 years and above. The scheme provides ₹5 lakh free health cover to all senior citizens of the age 70 years and above irrespective of their socio-economic status. The women beneficiaries will get additional assistance of ₹5 lakh per year.

The beneficiaries will now have access to free and quality treatment in over 29,000 Government and private empanelled hospitals across India.

It is a revolutionary step in the health sector of Odisha which is a gift for the people of Odisha by the double-engine Government led by Prime Minister Narendra Modi at the Centre. On this occasion, I congratulate all the citizens of the State.

The BJD Government did not implement the Ayushman Bharat scheme due to political vendetta. But after the formation of our government, we are committed to implement our Sankalp Patra in letter and spirit. Proper implementation of promises is the commitment of the double-engine Government. Moreover, JP Nadda Ji, the current Union Health Minister, in his capacity as the BJP national president had also repeatedly appealed to the former Chief Minister to implement the scheme.

Now, we all are delighted that the revolutionary scheme is being launched in Odisha none other than by Shri Nadda Ji.

Along with Nadda Ji, Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Union Home Minister Amit Shah had also requested the previous Government in the State to implement Ayushman Bharat in Odisha. But the previous Government did not pay heed to it thereby depriving crores of poor people of quality and free treatment facility across the country. As a result, people of the State changed the Government.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi launched Centre's flagship Ayushman Bharat-Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya Yojana (AB-PMJAY) on September 23, 2018 with aim to provide quality treatment facilities for poor families.

As a political activist, I along with my colleagues hit the streets on several occasions to implement Prime Minister Narendra Modi's Ayushman Bharat in Odisha. We had met the former Chief Minister requesting him to implement the scheme.

Being implemented by the National Health Mission, AB-PMJAY aims to provide coverage of ₹5 lakh per family annually to poor families. AB-PMJAY is the world's largest publicly funded health assurance scheme which provides health cover of ₹5 lakh per family per year to 55 crore individuals of 12.34 crore families.

In September 2024, in a significant move, the Union Cabinet led by Prime Minister Narendra Modi approved a major expansion of the Ayushman Bharat-Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya Yojana. Under this decision, all senior citizens aged 70 and above will receive health coverage, regardless of their income.

The previous BJD Government deprived the poor people of Odisha by not implementing the Ayushman Bharat Yojana. It did not implement the scheme fearing the popularity of Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

But, Ayushman Bharat was a necessity for Odisha. There is not a single State in the country where Odia brothers and sisters are not staying. Thousands of Odias migrate to different States in search of work. But due to lack of money, they were unable to go to hospitals. Now, they can access quality healthcare by showing Gopabandhu Jan Arogya card.

The scheme of the previous Government was only confined to limited hospitals in and outside the State. Now, the Ayushman Bharat scheme will be implemented in convergence with the State's Gopabandhu Jan Arogya Yojana (G-JAY). As a result, not only those residing in the State but also the Odias staying outside will be benefitted a lot.

The scheme covers up to 3 days of pre-hospitalization and 15 days post-hospitalization expenses such as diagnostics and medicine.

The flagship scheme of Prime Minister Modi could not be implemented in three States, including Odisha. Now, this scheme to be rolled out in Odisha from today.

I am confident that the love, affection and support for Prime Minister Narendra Modi will pave the way for the successful implementation of the flagship scheme in our neighbouring State.

Jumbos from Odisha to be MP's safari attraction

PNN & AGENCIES

Umariya (MP), April 10: The arrival of wild elephants from Odisha and other neighbouring states at Bandhavgarh Tiger Reserve (BTR) in Madhya Pradesh, via Chhattisgarh, and their amicable existence with humans have proved to be a boon for the MP government as the latter is planning to showcase these gentle giants during safaris in near future.

"We are planning to showcase the wild elephants during safaris in the near future," said Prakash Kumar Verma, BTR's Deputy Director.

These elephants, initially wary of humans, have now started becoming friendly with tourists, offering a unique addition to the reserve's attractions.

The arrival of these elephants dates back to 2018-19, when around 40 jumbos migrated from Odisha via Chhattisgarh. Their numbers have since increased, and their behaviour has notably changed over the years.

Earlier, they would chase safari vehicles, creating concerns among visitors, Verma said.

He said when the elephants first arrived, their presence took both locals and authorities by surprise.

Villagers initially resorted to bursting crackers to drive them away, which only aggravated the elephants and led to more damage, Verma added.

To address the situation, BTR collaborated with experts from southern states, NGOs, and reserve staff to train locals in alternative deterrent methods.

The villagers are told to use chilli smoke or herbal products instead of firecrackers, he said, adding that over time, elephants and locals have adapted to each other's presence, the BTR Deputy Director said.

Despite this progress, BTR witnessed a tragic event last October when 10 elephants were found dead. The deaths, reported between October 29 and 31, raised alarm across wildlife conservation circles.

Post-mortem reports later confirmed the presence of Cyclopiazonic acid in their viscera samples, indicating the elephants had consumed spoiled kodo plants or grains.

Over months, the wild jumbos became a part of the safari. They are roaming the core and buffer areas of BTR.

Sources said the authorities have not yet taken any specific measures to create dedicated water bodies or habitats for the pachyderms, but they are keen to integrate them into the safari experience.

Body of missing farmer found

The deceased has been identified as Uday Nahak, 6, of Gunasagar village. Family members of the deceased said he had gone to his farmland Tuesday morning to guard his crops from wild boars, but did not return by evening. Despite extensive searches, his whereabouts remained unknown. On Thursday morning, some villagers found a decomposed body in a field and alerted the family. It was later identified as Uday Nahak. Police have registered an unnatural death case and sent the body to Berhampur based-MKCG Medical College and Hospital for a post-mortem.

Woman sentenced to life for killing hubby

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bolangir, April 10: The Bolangir District and Sessions Court recently sentenced a woman to life imprisonment for killing her husband in 2022.

Presiding Judge Pabitra Mohan Samal Thursday found Jashoda Bhoi, 30, guilty of murdering her husband, Dibyasingh Bhoi, and sentenced her to rigorous life imprisonment along with a fine of ₹10,000. In case of failure to pay the fine, the convict will have to serve an additional one year in prison.

According to case details, 22 October 2022, Rajanikant Bhoi of Mahipur village under Tushura police limits filed a complaint with the local police alleging that his daughter-in-law Jashoda had murdered his son, Dibyasingh.

A case (No. 162/22) was registered at Tushura police station, and then-officer Sanjeeb Pradhan conducted the investigation. Jashoda was subsequently arrested and later produced in a court.

The investigation revealed that the couple had long-standing marital disputes. On the night of October 21, 2022, during a domestic quarrel, Jashoda allegedly hacked her husband with an axe while he was asleep, resulting in his death.

Following a thorough trial, the District Judge declared Jashoda guilty and imposed the sentence.

The case was prosecuted by government advocate Subash Chandra Mahanta.

A TALE OF TWO CMS

For the BJP, Nitish Kumar is a useful mascot who is needed to shore up their wider base ahead of the November Bihar elections

If ever there was an award for political gymnastics, Nitish Kumar would undoubtedly be in line for gold, with Chandrababu Naidu competing for a podium finish. From being staunch adversaries of Narendra Modi to becoming faithful allies, the transformation of these two chief ministers is almost complete. The manner in which the Janata Dal (United) and the Telugu Desam lined up behind the Wakf Amendment Bill in Parliament is further evidence of how quickly the dice has turned in the last few months. From being in a position to call the shots in June 2024 after a hung parliament verdict, both Nitish and Naidu have now quietly accepted the BJP's dominant position.

Rajdeep Sardesai

BOTH NITISH AND NAIDU HAVE MADE POLITICAL SURVIVAL AN ART FORM, WHERE A SUITABLE ELASTICITY IN APPROACH ENSURES LONGEVITY IN POWER

gaze—has only rendered him even more helpless to offer a semblance of a counter to the Modi juggernaut. His supporters may claim that their leader remains committed to Muslim welfare, but this appears increasingly like lip-service being paid to a constituency that has slowly been marginalised from the JD (U)'s political playbook. For the BJP, Nitish Kumar is a useful mascot who is needed to shore up their wider base ahead of the November Bihar elections. Post the elections, new alignments and fresh leadership possibilities are likely to emerge.

Chandrababu Naidu is a slightly more tricky case study. He presides over a state where the BJP is not a major stakeholder, and he possesses the administrative acumen and political experience to remain in power in Andhra Pradesh without being dependent on the BJP's munificence. And yet, this is the same leader who had raged against Modi in the 2019 election campaign, even calling the prime minister a 'terrorist'. Naidu's politics has always revolved around having a transactional relationship with the Centre: he was, after all, the prop who held up both the United Front government and the Vajpayee-led NDA in a previous coalition era. Now, as chief minister, he has struck a similar 'deal' with the Centre: seeking maximum financial benefit for a cash-strapped Andhra Pradesh while also standing firmly with the Centre on contentious legislation. In a sense, both Nitish and Naidu have made political survival an art form, one where a suitable elasticity in approach ensures longevity in power. Their political choices place a troubling question mark over the secular-communal divide that has underpinned contemporary politics and only expose the underlying hypocrisies of a political system where conviction is replaced by convenience. Their selective viewpoints reaffirm a political truism: 'where you stand on an issue depends on where you sit'. In the process, secular constitutional values have been steadily hollowed out. Is Nitish Kumar a 'secularist' when he stands with the India alliance and does he turn communal only when he switches to the BJP? Ditto the case with Naidu.

What we are left with are only different shades of opportunistic 'secular' politics, all of whom can make their peace with communalists of all hues when required. The Congress perfected the art of running with the secular hare and hunting with the communal hound, one day bowing before Muslim communalists in the Shah Bano case, the next day cosying up to Hindutva flag-bearers while opening the gates of the Babri Masjid. The socialists and the wider Janata parivar, driven by fierce anti-Congressism, also played footloose with secular politics, aligning with the BJP when necessary to keep the Congress out. Regional parties like the Trinamool Congress and the DMK have also aligned with BJP-led governments in the past, if only to share power at the Centre. Only the left parties have called out communal politics without demur, but the Left has shrunk into political irrelevance and hence can scarcely challenge dominant narratives.

This leaves a Modi-led BJP in a seemingly unassailable position. A party without a single Muslim MP in the Lok Sabha can claim that it is now a champion of 'reforming' Islamic practices, ending 'appeasement' and standing by the interests of 'poor' Muslims when all it is really doing is consolidating a Hindutva majoritarian worldview that looks at all other religions with suspicion and often unalloyed hatred. Those who might have challenged the BJP's supremacy are either too enfeebled or too compromised now to mount a significant opposition. Nitish and Naidu supporters will claim that their leaders did push to ensure important amendments in the Wakf Act that addressed concerns of those who feared the bill was being bulldozed through, but the fundamental constitutional issue of freedom of religion has been severely undermined by the new law. What is left are the shattered pieces of a cracked secular mirror that maybe both Nitish and Naidu need to glance at occasionally. The disfigured reflection may remind them of just how far they have come in becoming enablers of discriminatory politics where once they prided themselves on being principled defenders of equality of all faiths.

Post-script: I was the first to interview Nitish Kumar when he left the NDA in 2013. When I asked him why he'd made the move, his instant response was: 'I can't work with a 'nashah' (dictator)'. I wonder how the same Nitish Kumar would explain his pitiful situation today.

China's Marriage Crisis

New marriages in China reportedly plummeted by one-fifth last year, implying that the official number of births will likely fall from 9.54 million in 2024 to 7.3-7.8 million in 2025. Thus, while China represents 17.2% of the global population, it will account for less than 6% of births—comparable to Nigeria.

Moreover, China's fertility rate in 2025 is expected to fall to 0.9 births per woman (2.1 is the standard replacement level), just half of what officials predicted in 2016. So alarming is this demographic reality that early this month Chinese Premier Li Qiang announced that the government will be rolling out new policies to boost the birth rate.

But the marriage crisis will greatly undermine these efforts. Marriages already plummeted from 13.47 million couples in 2013 to 6.11 million in 2024—albeit with some deviation in 2020-24, owing to the zero-COVID policy. Likewise, the overall marriage rate fell from 9.9 per 1,000 people to 4.3 over the same period, compared to 5.4 in Taiwan and 6.1 in the United States (2023).

Why is this happening? Unfortunately for the Chinese leadership, there is no single cause. Salient factors include the steady decline in China's childbearing-age population; changes in lifestyle; the lingering effects of the (now-discarded) one-child policy on attitudes toward marriage and childbearing; the persistent oversupply of men; and high youth unemployment.

According to China's 2020 census, 61% of babies are born to women aged 20-30. But the number of women in this cohort dropped from 111 million in 2012 to 73 million in 2024, and is expected to decline further, to 37 million by 2050. Even if the fertility rate were to rise somewhat, births would continue to fall rapidly.

Decades of sex-selective abortion in China have led to a shortage of brides and a soaring "bride price" (the groom's family must, at a minimum, purchase a new apartment). While the typical biological sex ratio at birth is between 102 and 106 males per 100 females, China's 2000 census showed a sex ratio (in 0-4-year-olds) of 120 nationally, 133 in Jiangxi Province, and 197 in Wuxue City, Hubei Province. Yet despite this profound asymmetry, there are still many "leftover women," because many parents with a daughter (almost always an only child) have prioritized her education and economic independence over marriage, and placed excessive expectations on aspiring sons-in-law. The proportion of unmarried women aged 25-29 in China soared from 9% in 2000 to 33% in 2020 and 43% in 2023—and this trend continues to accelerate.

When China implemented its one-child policy in 1980, it not only raised the barriers to marriage but also made divorce easier, further exacerbating the crisis. The divorce rate soared from 0.3 per 1,000 people in 1980 to 3.4 in 2019. Hence, in 2021, China implemented a new civil code, following the example of the United Kingdom and France, to require a 30-day cooling-off period for divorce. But while this reduced the divorce rate to two per 1,000 people, it had rebounded to 2.6 by 2023—much higher than Japan's rate (1.5).

The reproductive window for Chinese men and women is very short. A woman typically has 12% of her eggs left by age 30, and only 3% by 40. The risk of miscarriage increases from 10% for women under 30 to 20% at 35, 33-40% at 40, and 57-80% at 45. The chance of conceiving a child with Down syndrome increases with the mother's age, rising from one in 2,000 at age 20 to one in 350 at age 35, and up to one in 30 at age 45. As the age of marriage is postponed, interest in raising children also declines.

That is why about two-thirds of babies worldwide are born to women aged 30 and under. In 2021, the mean age of mothers at first birth was 27 in the United States, 27 in Mexico, and only 21 in India. By comparison, the mean age at first birth for Chinese women has risen from 25 in 2000 to 28 in 2020, with an accelerating increase in recent years. In Shanghai, it increased from 30 in 2019 to 32 in 2024. Worse, the overall infertility rate in China has increased from 1-2% in the 1970s to 18% in 2020. More and more people are becoming infertile after marriage or after having their first child.

Traditionally Confucian-influenced regions have the lowest fertility rates in the world, partly because their overemphasis on education translates into an under emphasis on marriage and child bearing. As a result, such regions have a higher proportion of unmarried people overall, and the historical data suggest that it will be virtually impossible to boost their fertility rate even to 1.5 if the mean age of mothers at first birth exceeds 28.

Internationally, the legal minimum age for marriage is usually between 16 and 18. But in China, it was raised to 22 for men and 20 for women in 1980. People have grown so accustomed to marrying and having children later that lowering the age to 18 would do nothing new to boost the fertility rate.

The widespread postponement of marriage and childbearing, like the soaring proportion of unmarried people, is largely attributable to the government's policies in pursuit of a talent dividend and "new quality productive forces." These policies have led to an increase in undergraduate and postgraduate enrollment, from 2.21 million and 129,000, respectively, in 2000, to 10.69 million (much more than this year's births) and 1.36 million in 2024. Meanwhile, China's tertiary education enrollment rate has surpassed Japan's, implying that its fertility rate will struggle to stabilize at Japan's current level of 1.15.

Can China's government resolve the contradiction between its economic ambitions and its demographic reality? Judging by its past efforts, no one should bet on it.

All eyes on Indo-US trade pact

The US has announced reciprocal tariffs on India but these are substantially lower than most countries. This gives India some comparative advantage though estimates suggest around two-thirds of India's exports to the United States will bear the impact of the tariffs.

One may point out here that the Trump administration does not club India with countries like China, Mexico and Canada.

Experts feel that US tariffs have created a somewhat chaotic environment and there isn't a consistent strategy visible. Countries at the receiving end of tariff firing have already responded differently. There have been counter retaliatory measures with say the European Union and Canada targeting US political constituencies and daily consumption items to put back pressure through higher domestic prices.

Regarding the farm sector, agriculture will be hit with a decline projected in dairy products and marine products like shrimp while rice exports remain largely unaffected. There are reports of India reforming its MSP system for rice and wheat though this may take sufficient time and lower tariffs on farm products.

After the steep tariff hike, the jewellery market does not look bright as there may be a sharp decline in demand in the US market.

However, the textile sector holds out promise as India is at a relative advantage compared with countries such as Bangladesh and Vietnam.

Exemption of pharmaceuticals and semiconductor industries from the ambit of tariffs, at least for the time being, has been of great help to Indian exporters. Indian Pharmaceutical Alliance stated that this decision underscores the critical role of cost-effective, life-saving generic medicines in public health. India exported $8 billion of pharma products to the US in 2024, which accounted for 40 percent of the generic drugs consumed in the US and this is expected to increase this year. Though some believe that the pharma sector is not out of the woods and that a tariff is expected to be imposed later, it will not be big enough and the manufacturers and consumers will be in a position to share the burden and India's export to the US market will not be affected.

Similar patterns exist in transport equipment. However, though not automobiles but auto components are a serious matter as India exports are around $2.2 billion to the US. Tariffs may affect exports of auto components, but the bigger worry is whether US manufacturers may produce more locally and outprice imports.

The tariff has put an extra burden on most Indian products to the US with marine products, dairy, medical equipment, machinery and carpets being the hardest hit. Given that these are all labour-intensive sectors, the government may evolve a strategy to push them aggressively however, much depends on the proposed Indo-US Bilateral Trade Agreement and, according to Niti Aayog's experts, the final such treaty will aim to enhance the potential gains during the next five years or so. Some expect that the agreement may facilitate the possibility of increasing Indo-US trade in the coming years and may strengthen the Indian economy.

Meanwhile, the tariff war will drag down global investments and growth. The OECD has cut down its growth projections, noting that trade disruption will take a significant toll on the global economy, which is expected to slow down this year. Even the WTO has forecast that world trade will shrink as a result of these tariffs while the IMF has termed it sluggish. Obviously, the question before most analysts the world over is whether Trump wants to destroy the global economic order.

Supreme intervention

Sir, The Tamil Nadu CM, as well as the people of the state, must thank the Supreme Court for clipping the wings of the Governor. In one deft stroke, the apex court ruled that a Governor can't sit on Bills passed by the legislature of a state indefinitely. Furthermore, it even set timelines for state Governors beyond which they can't hold the Bills cleared by the state legislature, out of sheer malice or ego clashes with the CM of the state. By extrapolation, non-BJP ruled states like Punjab, West Bengal, and Kerala will also heave a sigh of relief. The tussle between the Tamil Nadu CM, MK Stalin, and Governor RN Ravi had been going on for far too long and was getting more and more embarrassing by the day. Ditto for West Bengal, where CM Mamata Banerjee and Governor CV Ananda Bose crossed swords almost routinely. All this while, our Constitution makers must be squirming in their graves to see how senior and mature politicians holding the highest constitutional office in a state could not overcome their egos and blind love for their parent party, and became stumbling blocks in the governance of a state, rather than being facilitators.

Swimming pool deaths

Sir, During the summer season, lots of coaching camps are conducted in the city and trainees go into the water without much exposure to swimming. Unless there are lifeguards with proper training and experience, the lives of children going for such training are at high risk. Permission should not be given to children to go deep into the water. Parents sending their children to these swimming pools are having sleepless nights. Swimming pools have also become death traps. So, these pools must be declared as dangerous spots and proper instructions will have to be displayed and followed to avoid further disasters. Children going for swimming classes will have to take all the precautions and ensure that lifeguards are available before joining the training. Negligence of lifeguards has resulted in the instant death of children in many cases. It is imperative that such accidents are taking place because of the carefree attitude of the authorities in charge and the lifeguards manning these pools.

CLOUDY SKY, LIGHT DRIZZLE BRING RELIEF TO DELHIITES

The India Meteorological Department has forecast light to moderate rain, accompanied by light thunderstorm, lightning and gusty winds of 40-50 kmph, in several parts of Delhi later Thursday evening

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 10: The weather in Delhi experienced a sudden change Thursday evening as the sky turned cloudy, followed by light drizzle and duststorm in some parts of the city, providing much-needed relief to Delhiites amid a heatwave that had gripped the national capital for the past few days. The India Meteorological Department (IMD) has forecast light to moderate rain, accompanied by light thunderstorm, lightning and gusty winds of 40-50 kmph, in several parts of Delhi later Thursday evening. The monitoring stations at Ridge and Ayanagar recorded heatwave conditions Thursday, with the maximum temperature settling at 40.9 degrees Celsius and 40.2 degrees Celsius, respectively, according to the IMD. The city's primary weather station at Safdarjung recorded a high of 39.6 degrees Celsius, 4.5 notches above normal, while Palam reported 39.1 degrees Celsius, and Lodhi Road 39.6 degrees Celsius, the IMD said. The capital recorded the season's first heatwave Monday, when the mercury touched 40 degrees Celsius, according to the IMD. The minimum temperature Thursday was recorded at 25.9 degrees Celsius, nearly six notches above normal and the highest night temperature recorded in the month of April in the past three years, IMD data showed. In 2022, the highest minimum temperature in April was recorded at 26.2 degrees Celsius. In 2024 and 2023, the minimum temperature in April did not touch the 25-degree mark. The humidity level in the capital Thursday fluctuated between 55 per cent and 30 per cent during the day, according to the IMD. For Friday, the weather office has forecast thunderstorm with rain, with the maximum temperature likely to settle around 37 degrees Celsius, and the minimum around 24 degrees Celsius. The Air Quality Index (AQI) in Delhi was recorded in the 'poor' category Thursday with a reading of 256 at 4 pm, as per the Central Pollution Control Board (CPCB). An AQI between 0 and 50 is considered 'good', 51 to 100 'satisfactory', 101 to 200 'moderate', 201 to 300 'poor', 301 to 400 'very poor', and 401 to 500 'severe'.

Delhi CM Gupta announces riverfront at Najafgarh drain

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 10: Delhi Chief Minister Rekha Gupta Thursday inspected several ongoing projects to clean the Yamuna river and announced a riverfront project along the Sahibi river, popularly known as Najafgarh drain. The chief minister was accompanied by Delhi Lieutenant Governor VK Saxena and Water Minister Parvash Verma. The team inspected 50 acres of land belonging to the irrigation and flood control department and announced that the government has now decided to transform this land into a beautiful and grand public park. "This land holds immense potential for the community and has long been left in a deplorable condition. We are now committed to converting it into a lush, accessible green space," she said. The plan also includes a proposed riverfront development along the Sahibi river, which passes through the area. The chief minister also inspected the ongoing desilting work at supplementary drain in Wazirabad, Barapullah drain, Sunheri Pul drain and Kushak drain. "We are constantly monitoring the Yamuna cleaning process. Work to clean the 22 drains are being desilted so that the treated water from these drains when entering the river is as per prescribed standards," she told reporters here. At the supplementary drain at Wazirabad, Gupta inspected 'surface aerators' - used to increase the dissolved oxygen levels in water necessary for aquatic life. The process involves creating a disturbance in the surface of water with the help of rotators. "All are working collaboratively for the benefit of Delhi citizens to prevent any issues related to waterlogging or pollution in the upcoming seasons, thereby enabling Delhi to function as a clean, healthy and safe city," she said. Hitting out at the previous AAP government, Gupta said that it did not pay attention to the untreated waste water flowing into the Yamuna through the drains. There are 22 large drains, including Najafgarh and Shahdara, where desilting work is currently ongoing. The Delhi government's Urban Development Department had last year directed all concerned agencies to hand over these drains to Irrigation and Flood Department.

Delhi Mayor writes to CM over user charges

A POLITICAL ROW HAS ERUPTED OVER THE IMPOSITION OF USER CHARGES FOR SOLID WASTE MANAGEMENT BY THE MUNICIPAL CORPORATION OF DELHI

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 10: Delhi Mayor Mahesh Kumar has written to Chief Minister Rekha Gupta and objected to the decision to impose user charges for solid waste management. The mayor has called it an undue burden on the public. A political row has erupted over the imposition of user charges for solid waste management by the Municipal Corporation of Delhi (MCD). The mayor alleged that the proposal to collect user charges along with house tax was never passed by the MCD.

There has been no coordination between the concessionaires and those who collect garbage from homes privately, said Kumar, adding sixty to seventy per cent of the garbage is collected through private services. "Until the Delhi Municipal Corporation is fully capable of collecting garbage from every house, it will not be appropriate to impose such user charges," he said. The mayor urged Gupta to immediately direct the MCD to withdraw the decision, stating that citizens are already grappling with inflation and deserve relief, not additional financial pressure.

Responding to the development, BJP spokesperson Praveen Shankar Kapoor said that a similar surcharge was proposed in 2021 by the then commissioner of the erstwhile East Delhi Municipal Corporation, but the BJP mayor at that time had halted its implementation. In contrast, the current Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) Mayor, Mahesh Kumar, is merely issuing statements without taking any concrete action, he added. The BJP spokesperson said the mayor must answer "why he has neither called a meeting of the municipal house on this issue nor directed the commissioner to stop the collection of the user surcharge".

NGO warns of Char Dham influx risk

Citing media reports about the Uttarakhand government's decision not to impose any limits on the number of pilgrims visiting the Himalayan temples, SDC Foundation founder Anoop Nautiyal said it posed a serious risk

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Dehradun, April 10: A local NGO Thursday emphasised the need to regulate the number of pilgrims visiting the Char Dham temples daily, warning that uncontrolled influx of devotees could be dangerous. Citing media reports about the Uttarakhand government's decision not to impose any limits on the number of pilgrims visiting the Himalayan temples, Social Development for Communities (SDC) Foundation founder Anoop Nautiyal said it posed a serious risk. Nautiyal said, "This effectively means that every registered pilgrim would be permitted to visit the shrines. Considering the rising rush of pilgrims with each passing year, regulating the number of pilgrims becomes more important."

environment," he added. The annual Char Dham Yatra is scheduled to begin April 30, with the opening of the Gangotri and the Yamunotri temples. Last year, about 50 lakh devotees reached the Char Dham - Gangotri, Yamunotri, Kedarnath and Badrinath - located in the Upper Garhwal Himalayan region. SDC Foundation is a Dehradun-based NGO working in areas such as climate change, environment, urbanisation and waste management. Nautiyal said SDC Foundation had consistently urged the government to consider the carrying capacity of the Char Dham sites. Nautiyal noted that the government had previously indicated a 60:40 ratio for online and offline registrations. Referring to a detailed report released by SDC Foundation on the Char Dham Yatra in 2024 that lasted for 192 days, he said it documented the number of daily visitors to each shrine over a 28-week period. It included 14 data-driven graphs highlighting 10 key issues, alongside a special feature analysing media coverage and recommendations to simplify the registration process. While the government has said all pilgrims would be allowed entry into the shrines, many have found that online registration slots are already full for specific days.

Uttarkashi village emerges as symbol of women empowerment

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Dehradun, April 10: Uttarkashi district's Matholi village has become a symbol of women empowerment and rural tourism as women are providing hospitality to tourists through homestays and taking them on village tours. The women of Matholi village in the Chinyalisaur block have transformed their village into a new tourist destination with their warm hospitality and skills. From managing homestays to conducting village tours, everything is being handled by women. The credit for turning Matholi from a regular mountain village into a tourist hotspot goes to a young local Pradeep Panwar who had to return to his village during the COVID-19 lockdown. Using his prior experience in the tourism sector to his advantage, Panwar converted his nearby cowshed (locally known as "chhanni") into a homestay and opened it for tourists. At the same time, he trained local women in hospitality, cooking, trekking and village tours. He also branded the village as "Bwari Village" to spread the message of women empowerment far and wide. Bwari in local dialect means daughter-in-law. Additionally, through events like the "Ghasyari Competition", he introduced tourists to unique aspects of village life that have been widely appreciated. More women in the village are now coming forward to convert their own 'chhannis' into homestays, Anita Panwar a resident of the village said. Pradeep Panwar mentions that his homestay is now registered with the tourism department, enabling him to accept online bookings. He started his homestay March 8, 2022, and since then, around 1,000 tourists have visited it, providing employment to around 20 women from time to time.

Martyred IAF officer's parents seek change in govt policy

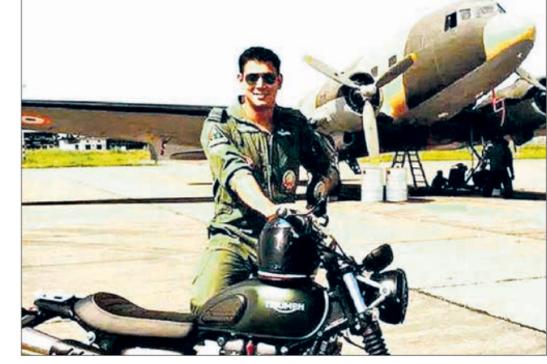

A pilot in the IAF, 33-year-old Squadron Leader Rai died in a plane crash December 4, 2023, near the Air Force Academy in Hyderabad while training a foreign cadet

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Dehradun, April 10: The parents of Squadron Leader Abhimanyu Rai, who died in a trainer jet crash, say they were ignored for entitlements and honours that went exclusively to their daughter-in-law and are demanding a change in government policy. A pilot in the IAF, 33-year-old Squadron Leader Rai died in a plane crash December 4, 2023, near the Air Force Academy in Hyderabad while training a foreign cadet. He was flying a Pilatus PC-7 Mark-II aircraft, a trainer jet, with a foreign cadet under his training when it crashed near the Academy killing both of them. Group Captain Amitabh Rai (retd) and his wife Chitralkha said they lost their only son Abhimanyu in December, 2023 but they have not received even a word of condolence from the government so far. They feel the policy for such cases needs to be tweaked to accommodate the parents of the martyred bravehearts apart from their wives. "We know of at least a dozen parents of martyrs who have been ignored when it came to according entitlements, which went exclusively to their wives," Chitralkha told PTI in an exclusive interview here Wednesday. "One year and three months have passed since we suffered the worst tragedy of our life, losing our only son in a trainer jet crash near the Air Force Academy in Hyderabad. But we did not receive even a word of condolence to date from either the prime minister or the defence minister," Amitabh Rai said. "Why should a word of condolence be the exclusive privilege of only the martyr's wife," he asked. He said in many cases, the wives of slain or martyred soldiers leave or ill-treat their in-laws after getting compensation and half the pension of their husbands. At times, they even drag them to court to claim their share in their late husband's ancestral property, he claimed. "The wife of a slain soldier is called a 'veer nari' (brave woman) but not his mother who gave birth to him, brought him up and inculcated in him a love for the country that was strong enough to make him lay down his life for it. Is it fair?"

asks Group Captain Rai. "We know what it takes to groom your son like that and make him a soldier ready to die for his country. But, unfortunately, no one seems to take notice of the fact," says he. The awareness that their son is not treated as a "martyr" despite having died in the line of duty only deepens their sense of hurt. "As his death was not a 'battle casualty', they don't treat our son as a martyr. Our question is didn't he die for the nation?" asks Chitralkha. "My son had even served for one-and-a-half years in the prime minister's fleet," Group Captain Rai, who retired from the Indian Air Force (IAF) in 2017 after 32 years of service, said. The plane crashed during a low-level navigation sortie, says the braveheart's father. "My son was a dedicated soldier. The foreign cadet was admittedly weak in memory and slow in learning things. He also lacked confidence and was not keen on continuing with his training." "He had written all this in a letter to Abhimanyu. But as the passing out parade was near after which he was to be commissioned into the air force of his country, Abhimanyu decided to help him complete his training by taking him on the training sortie during which the jet crashed," his father said. Asked why his son did not bring the foreign cadet's reluctance to complete his training to his superiors, Group Leader Rai said maybe he was under pressure. "He might have been hesitant to take the matter to the higher-ups because diplomatic ties between the two countries are involved. The trainer pilots are under pressure to complete the training process successfully," Rai said. Training of cadets from friendly countries is done as part of a diplomatic exercise to strengthen ties with them and the resulting pressure comes from the soldiers, he said. It is an inherent flaw in the system which needs to be addressed, he said. "An inquiry is underway to ascertain what exactly led to the crash and until that happens, we are assailed by all sorts of doubts about the circumstances at the time of the crash such as whether our son was overworked or under pressure or some error was committed by the weak and ill-confident foreign cadet under training," Rai said. The Rais visited the crash site in Hyderabad and erected a memorial in the name of their martyred son at their own expense. The couple also visited the foreign cadet's country, met his parents and extended financial assistance to them as a goodwill gesture. However, the loss of a son has not deterred Group Captain Amitabh Rai (retd) from training bright young boys free of cost to join the armed forces and serve their motherland with valour.

Oppn claims DPDP Act provisions destroy RTI

Some INDIA bloc leaders, including Gaurav Gogoi (Congress) and M M Abdulla (DMK), addressed a joint press conference seeking the repeal of Section 44(3) of the DPDP Act that was passed by Parliament in 2023. They also said they have signed a joint memorandum for repeal of this section and it will be submitted to Information and Technology Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 10: Opposition INDIA bloc Thursday demanded repeal of certain provisions of the Digital Personal Data Protection (DPDP) Act, contending that these sought to curtail access to public information under the pretext of safeguarding privacy.

Some INDIA bloc leaders, including Gaurav Gogoi (Congress) and M M Abdulla (DMK), addressed a joint press conference seeking the repeal of Section 44(3) of the DPDP Act that was passed by Parliament in 2023. They also said they have signed a joint memorandum for repeal of this section and it will be submitted to Information and Technology Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw.

"We have been studying the implications of the Digital Data Protection Act and have come to understand that the recent amendments have a draconian impact on citizens' rights and press freedom," Gogoi said.

Vaishnaw dismissed the apprehension voiced by the Opposition and asserted that any personal information subject to disclosure under legal obligations under various laws governing public representatives and welfare programmes will continue to be disclosed under the RTI Act. "In fact, this amendment will not restrict disclosure of personal information, rather it aims to strengthen the privacy rights of the individuals and prevent the potential misuse of the law," Vaishnaw said in response to a letter written by Congress leader Jairam Ramesh on the issue March 23. Section 8(1)(j) of the RTI Act allowed withholding of personal information if its disclosure was unrelated to any public activity or interest or would result in an unwarranted invasion of privacy.

However, this restriction was subject to an important safeguard: if the Central Public Information Officer, the State Public Information Officer, or the appellate authority determined that disclosing the information served a larger public interest, it could still be made available. Gogoi claimed that Section 44 (3) of the DPDP Act amended Section 8(1)(j) of the RTI Act and it now allowed government bodies to withhold "information which relates to personal information," with no consideration for the public interest or any other exception.

He said a group of civil rights activists had reached out to INDIA bloc leaders, including Leader of the Opposition Rahul Gandhi, during the recent Budget Session to share their apprehensions about the amendments to the DPDP Act.

He said the Act is yet to be notified by the government as consultations were ongoing on the rules of the law. Gogoi said the DPDP Bill was passed by Parliament when the Opposition had moved a no confidence motion against the government on the Manipur issue.

The Congress leader also suggested that the government had introduced amendments to the Bill that fundamentally altered the report of the Joint Parliamentary Committee set up to examine the draft legislation.

Talking about the passage of the Act in Parliament in 2023, Gogoi said, "There was a JPC set up, an extensive report was presented, and subsequently the government, as it has the habit, when it is going to pass the Bill, brings certain amendments, which have fundamentally changed the nature of the JPC report." The DPDP Bill, which became the Digital Personal Data Protection Act, 2023, was passed by Lok Sabha August 7, 2023, and by Rajya Sabha August 9, 2023.

The press conference was also attended by Priyanka Chaturvedi (Shiv Sena-UBT), John Brittas (CPI-M), Javed Ali Khan (SP) and Naval Kishor (RJD). The Opposition's petition said that the amendment removes the crucial proviso of Section 8(1) that states "information which cannot be denied to Parliament or a State Legislature shall not be denied to any person".

Elaborating on it, Gogoi gave an example, and said, "So tomorrow, if you want information on collapsing bridges in Bihar, and you ask for the information of the contractor, you may be denied."

"You are taking Right to Information towards 'road to ignorance', so that people do not get to know about any corruption. The DPDP Act in 2019 had no such provision, in 2021, after it went to the JPC, no such provision was there either. In 2023 they brought in these provisions which will make RTI null and void," she said.

S'pore SC quashes ex-CJI Misra's 'copy-paste' arbitration award

AGENCIES

New Delhi, April 10: In a major embarrassment for India's arbitration process, the Singapore Supreme Court has set aside an arbitral award issued by a tribunal headed by former Chief Justice of India Dipak Misra. The court found that Misra copied 212 out of 451 paragraphs from previous arbitration awards involving the same parties but concerning different issues.

The case involved a dispute between a special purpose vehicle (SPV) managing India's Dedicated Freight Corridor and a consortium of three firms awarded the contract in August 2015. The disagreement arose after the Indian government increased labour wages, prompting the consortium to demand more funds—an issue contested by the SPV and taken to arbitration. The tribunal, also comprising former Chief Justices K K Lahoti and Gita Mittal, ruled in favour of the consortium in November 2023. However, the Singapore SC bench, led by Chief Justice Sundaresh Menon, upheld a lower court's decision to quash the award, citing serious concerns over the integrity of the arbitration process.

The court criticised the use of earlier awards as templates, noting that extensive portions were reused without the parties' knowledge or consent. It ruled that the award had been drafted without fresh consideration of the facts and issues unique to the present case, thereby breaching the principles of natural justice and fair hearing.

The judgment concluded that such pervasive copying undermined the fairness, transparency, and independence expected in arbitration, thereby invalidating the award. The Singapore SC sided with the SPV, rejecting the consortium's arguments and reaffirming the importance of procedural integrity in arbitration.

India, Pak armies meet on LoC

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Jammu, April 10: The armies of India and Pakistan Thursday held a brigade commander-level flag meeting along the Line of Control (LoC) in Jammu and Kashmir's Poonch district to discuss issues related to border management.

This is the second such meeting between the two sides this month. The meeting was held at the Chakan-Da-Bagh cross-point, led by brigadier-level officers from both sides, officials said. "The flag meetings are routine LoC and border management process in accordance with DGMO's understanding between both sides," a defence spokesperson said.

He said Thursday's meeting was conducted to discuss routine issues along the LoC. Indian Army officials also raised the issue of infiltration attempts, ceasefire violations, and IED blasts with their counterparts and lodged a protest with them, official sources said. On April 2, a brigade commander-level flag meeting, lasting 75 minutes, had taken place at the Chakan-Da-Bagh crossing point area, with both sides highlighting the need to maintain peace along the borders.

On April 1, Pakistani troops violated the ceasefire by resorting to unprovoked firing along a mine exploded along the LoC in Poonch district of Jammu and Kashmir, a defence spokesperson said Wednesday. On February 13, Pakistani troops violated the ceasefire by resorting to unprovoked firing on Indian posts along the LoC in Poonch district of Jammu and Kashmir, prompting a befitting response by the Indian Army, security officials said.

Teachers start relay hunger strike to protest job loss

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Kolkata, April 10: A section of teachers who lost their jobs following a Supreme Court judgment which held that the whole appointment process was tainted, Thursday began a relay hunger strike outside the West Bengal School Service Commission (SSC) office in protest over the issue.

Joining the protesters, BJP MP Abhijit Gangopadhyay who is a former judge of the Calcutta High Court, blamed the state administration and its wings for their plight. The teachers and other staff who lost their jobs said that they were also protesting police action against their compatriots at the district inspector (DI) of schools' office at Kasba in south Kolkata Wednesday. "We started a relay hunger strike agitation with one teacher at the beginning and will soon chalk out further programme to protest the issue," one of the protesters told reporters outside the SSC office at Salt Lake here. The agitating teachers have been holding a sit-in outside the SSC office building 'Acharya Sadan' since Wednesday night to protest the loss of jobs and police action against their compatriots.

The protesters alleged they were subjected to baton-charge and were even kicked and shoved around by law enforcement personnel during their agitation outside the DI office, situated beside Kasba police station of the Kolkata Police. Noting that the police have lodged cases against the protesting teachers over Wednesday's protest at Kasba, Gangopadhyay said that this should not have been done. "Cases have been lodged against innocent teachers who lost their jobs for the illegal acts of others," the BJP MP told reporters. Maintaining that he had not gone to meet Education Minister Bratya Basu Wednesday in protest against the police action, he said that the BJP leadership was with him in his decision. Gangopadhyay said that he, along with former Rajya Sabha MP Rupa Ganguly, came to the protest site at Acharya Sadan to express solidarity with the teachers and other staff who lost their jobs.

Gangopadhyay, as a judge of the Calcutta High Court, had ordered a CBI investigation in November 2021 into alleged irregularities in the recruitment process. He had also ordered the termination of more than 25,000 jobs of teaching and non-teaching staff in West Bengal government-run and -aided schools after finding irregularities in the process. The Supreme Court April 3 upheld a 2024 Calcutta High Court judgment annulling the recruitment of 25,753 teaching and non-teaching staff appointed through a recruitment drive by SSC in 2016, terming the entire selection process "vitiating and tainted". Those who were rendered jobless claimed that the reason behind their plight was the inability of the SSC to differentiate between the candidates who secured employment through fraudulent means and those who did not.

'Gujarat can witness one of the hottest years in 2025'

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Ahmedabad, April 10: As Gujarat grapples with soaring temperatures, Ahmedabad recorded a high of 42°C (108°F) Thursday, with a predicted forecast similar for the coming days.

Over the past few decades, Gujarat has witnessed a consistent increase in both minimum and maximum temperatures. Scientists warn that 2025 could be one of the hottest years on record if current trends continue.

The IMD's 'State-Level Climate Change Trends in India' report indicates an annual rise of approximately 0.02°C in these temperature metrics. While this increment may seem marginal every year, its cumulative effect over time has led to more frequent and intense heatwaves.

The IMD predicts that the intense heat will persist throughout April and May, with maximum temperatures ranging between 41°C to 45°C (106°F to 113°F) in parts of Gujarat. A slight respite is expected with the onset of the monsoon season in June, although temperatures are still projected to remain above normal during this period.

Experts suggest that several factors contribute to this warming phenomenon. Rapid urbanisation and industrialisation have transformed cities like Ahmedabad and Surat into heat islands, where concrete structures and asphalt surfaces absorb and retain heat, elevating local temperatures.

Additionally, deforestation for agricultural expansion and urban development has diminished the natural cooling effects of vegetation, further exacerbating the heat. Gujarat's geographical features also play a role. Its extensive coastline along the Arabian Sea means that rising sea temperatures can influence local climate conditions.

"Urbanisation in cities like Ahmedabad and Surat has replaced natural landscapes with heat-trapping concrete, asphalt, and steel. These materials retain heat well into the night, increasing not just daytime but also nighttime temperatures. It's a classic case of the urban heat island effect," said a climate scientist at the Gujarat Ecology Commission.

Further, Gujarat's semi-arid geography makes it more vulnerable to temperature extremes. Unlike forest-rich regions, dry land heats up faster and offers minimal natural cooling. This makes rural populations and agricultural

In May 2010, Ahmedabad experienced an extreme heatwave, with temperatures soaring to unprecedented levels

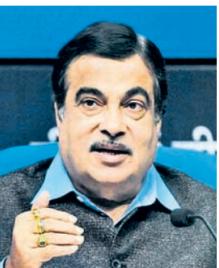

Studies indicate that during this period, there was an estimated 43 per cent increase in all-cause mortality, translating to approximately 1,344 excess deaths compared to similar periods in 2009 and 2011

2009 and 2011.

More recently, in May 2024, Gujarat recorded 187 cases of heatstroke, with Ahmedabad accounting for 69 of these cases. Notably, 152 of these cases across the state, including 66 in Ahmedabad, were reported in the last ten days of May when average temperatures reached 44.6°C.

In the agricultural sector, increased heat stress adversely affects crop yields, threatening food security and the livelihoods of farmers. Health-wise, the prevalence of heat-related illnesses has surged. For instance, during a heatwave in 2010, Ahmedabad recorded 76 heatstroke deaths in a single week.

Subsequent analyses revealed an excess of 800 deaths during that period, highlighting the severe impact of extreme heat on public health.

Rana to finally face law in India

India was trying to extradite Rana for many years because of his association with the LeT, HuJI and Headley, and for his active involvement in the Mumbai attacks

AGENCIES

New Delhi, April 10: Mumbai terror attack accused Tahawwur Hussain Rana, who was extradited to the country from the US Thursday, will now face the law in India, and his interrogation is likely to spill the beans on the role of Pakistani state actors behind the dastardly act that claimed 166 lives in 2008, official sources said.

The investigators also hope to find some important leads on his travels in parts of northern and southern India, days before the carnage in the country's financial capital in November 2008, they said. Rana visited Hapur and Agra in Uttar Pradesh, Delhi, Kochi, Ahmedabad, and Mumbai with his wife Samra Rana Akhtar between November 13 and November 21, 2008, the sources said.

They said there could have been a larger conspiracy aimed at targeting other places across the country behind his visits to these places, and the exact details would be ascertained only after his interrogation. Rana (64), a Pakistan-origin Canadian national, was brought from the US on a special flight by a multi-agency team comprising officials from the Indian law enforcement agencies and senior government functionaries, the sources said. Rana's extradition came as the US Supreme Court recently denied his application challenging it. Rana, who was lodged at a metropolitan detention centre in Los Angeles, is known to be associated with Pakistani-American terrorist David Coleman Headley, one of the main conspirators of the 26/11 Mumbai attacks. Rana's interrogation would help the probe agencies expose the role of Pakistani state actors behind the 26/11 attacks, and may shed new light on the investigation, the sources said. On November 26, 2008, a group of 10 Pakistani terrorists went on a rampage, carrying out coordinated attacks on a railway station, two luxury hotels and a Jewish centre after sneaking into Mumbai through the Arabian sea.

Among the 166 people killed were US, British and Israeli nationals. The nearly 60-hour assault sent shockwaves across the country and even brought India and Pakistan to the brink of war. The terrorists targeted multiple iconic locations in Mumbai, including the Taj Mahal and Oberoi hotels, Leopold Cafe, Chabad House and the Chhatrapati Shivaji Terminus train station, each of which Headley had scouted in advance.

In November 2012, Ajmal Amir Kasab, the lone surviving terrorist among the Pakistani attackers, was hanged to death at Yerawada Jail in Pune. Rana was wanted by the National Investigation Agency (NIA), which is probing the 26/11 attacks case.

Who is Narender Mann?

The Ministry of Home Affairs appointed Advocate Narender Mann as the Special Public Prosecutor for the trial against 26/11 Mumbai terror attack accused Tahawwur Hussain Rana in Delhi. Mann, a law graduate from Delhi University in 1990, has represented the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) and appeared in several important cases, including attempt on life of former CJI A N Ray by Ananda Margis. He was the Special Public Prosecutor for the CBI in the Delhi High Court between January, 2011 and April, 2019. As the CBI counsel, Mann handled criminal appeals, writ petitions, criminal revision petitions, quashing petitions, and criminal miscellaneous cases.

During the investigation, the roles of senior functionaries of terror outfits Lashkar-e-Taiba (LeT) and Harkat-ul Jihadi Islami (HuJI) -- Hafiz Muhammad Saeed alias Tayyaji, Zaki-ur-Rehman Lakhvi, Sajjid Majid alias Wasi, Illyas Kashmiri, and Abdur Rehman Hashim Syed alias Major Abdurrehman alias Pasha had emerged, the sources said.

They worked in active connivance with officials from Pakistan's spy agency Inter-Services Intelligence (ISI), namely Major Iqbal alias Major Ali and Major Sameer Ali alias Major Samir, as per the NIA.

After the completion of its investigation, the NIA filed a chargesheet before a Delhi court December 24, 2011, against all the accused under Section 120 B (criminal conspiracy), read with 121, 121A, 302, 468 and 471, of the IPC, and Sections 16,18 and 20 of Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act for providing logistic, financial and other assistance to Heady and the other co-conspirators towards the criminal conspiracy to organise terrorist attacks in India. The NIA also sent extradition requests to the US for the extradition of Headley and Rana, the sources said. Rana is said to have remained in contact with Major Iqbal, the sources said.

During his first visit to India, Headley spoke to Rana over phone for more than 32 times, they said. Subsequently, Headley spoke to Rana 23 times during his second visit, 40 times during the third visit, 37 times during the fifth visit, 33 times during the sixth visit, and 66 times during the eighth visit, they said, highlighting his active involvement in the Mumbai attacks conspiracy. The Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) in the US arrested Rana from Chicago a year after the attacks in October 2009 for providing support for an aborted plan to behead employees of a newspaper in Copenhagen (Denmark), and also for providing material support to the Lashkar-e-Taiba, which orchestrated the Mumbai attacks, the sources said, adding that Rana, however, was acquitted in the 26/11 case.

US suspends additional 26% tariff on India till July 9: WH

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, April 10: The US has announced the suspension of additional tariffs on India for 90 days until July 9 this year, according to the White House executive orders.

US President Donald Trump April 2 slapped universal duties on about 60 countries exporting goods to America and additional steep levies on countries like India, potentially impacting sales of products from shrimp to steel in the world's biggest economy. The move was aimed at cutting its trade deficit and boosting domestic manufacturing.

The US imposed an additional import duty of 26 per cent on India. The tariffs were high on its competitors like Thailand, Vietnam and China. This suspension of tariffs is not applicable to China, including Hong Kong and Macau.

Russia, US swap spa worker, tech smuggler prisoners

REUTERS
Moscow/Washington, April 10: Russia released a Los Angeles spa worker Thursday sentenced to 12 years in jail for donating to a charity aiding Ukraine in exchange for a man accused of crafting a global smuggling ring to spirit sensitive US electronics to Russia's military.
The exchange, which took place on the tarmac of Abu Dhabi airport, indicates significant detailed contacts between President Vladimir Putin's Kremlin and the administration of US President Donald Trump, who says he wants to strike a peace deal to end the war in Ukraine.

Footage on Russian state television showed Ksenia Karelina, a dual citizen who was found guilty last year of treason by a Russian court for donating $51.80 to a US-based charity providing humanitarian support to Ukraine, flying out of Russia.
Arthur Petrov, a dual German-Russian citizen arrested in 2023 in Cyprus at the request of the US for allegedly exporting sensitive microelectronics, was shown walking past Kare-lina towards a Russian plane where he underwent medical check-ups, complaining only of fatigue.

- "Petrov was exchanged for US citizen Ksenia Karelina, who also holds Russian citizenship and was sentenced to 12 years in a penal colony for treason in the form of financial assistance to a foreign state,"

Russia's Federal Security Service (FSB), the main successor to the Soviet-era KGB, said.
"We express our gratitude to the UAE leadership for their assistance," the FSB said. The UAE posted a picture of Karelina on the tarmac in Abu Dhabi beside a Russian plane.
LOVE AND SMUGGLING
Beyond the spymasters and high intrigue of Russian-US relations, Karelina's fiancé expressed joy and thanked Trump for his efforts to secure her release, saying their dog was awaiting her return.
"I am overjoyed to hear that the love of my life, Ksenia Karelina, is on her way home from wrongful detention in Russia," Chris van Heerden said. "I cannot wait to hold her. Our dog, Boots, is also eagerly awaiting her return."

A US official said Karelina is expected to arrive at Joint Base Andrews, in Maryland, later Thursday.
The United States lists a number of Americans - some dual citizens - who are in jail in Russia, including Stephen Hubbard who has been officially declared by Washington as wrongfully detained.

TRUMP'S TARIFF REPRIEVE

EU pauses countermeasures

REUTERS
Brussels/Beijing/Washington, April 10: The European Union will pause its first countermeasures against US tariffs after President Donald Trump temporarily lowered the hefty duties less than a day after imposing them on dozens of countries, European Commission chief Ursula von der Leyen said Thursday.
The Trump administration is weighing offers from more than a dozen countries on tariff deals and is close to reaching agreements with some of them, White House economic adviser Kevin Hassett said.

said.
The EU was due to launch counter-tariffs on about 21 billion euros ($23.25 billion) of US imports next Tuesday in response to Trump's 25% tariffs on steel and aluminium. It is still assessing how to respond to U.S. car tariffs and the broader 10% levies that remain in place.
"We want to give negotiations a chance," von der Leyen said on X. "While finalising the adoption of the EU countermeasures that saw strong support from our Member States, we will put them on hold for 90 days."

- EU will pause retaliatory countermeasures
- Beijing may again respond after imposing 84% tariffs
- Trump admin weighing offers, close to some deals, Hassett says
- Global stock markets rally; Wall St set for lower open
- Oil prices down on fears of trade war and possible recession

"USTR has informed us that there are maybe 15 countries now that have made explicit offers that we're studying and considering and deciding whether they're good enough to present the president," Hassett told reporters at the White House, referring to the US trade representative.
Principals in the administration's trade policy will meet at the White House Thursday to discuss how to prioritize the separate negotiations, Hassett

Trump's sudden decision Wednesday to pause most of his hefty new duties brought relief to battered markets and anxious global leaders, even as he ratcheted up a trade war with China.
His turnaround, which came less than 24 hours after steep new tariffs kicked in, followed the most intense episode of financial market volatility since the early days of the COVID-19 pandemic.
US stock indexes shot higher on the news, and the relief continued into Asian and European trading Thursday.

Before Trump's U-turn, the upheaval had erased trillions of dollars from stock markets and led to an unsettling surge in US government bond yields that appeared to catch Trump's attention.
Trump kept the pressure on China, the world's No. 2 economy and second-biggest provider of US imports, with an increase of tariffs on Chinese imports to 125% from the 104% level that kicked in Wednesday.

He also signed an executive order aimed at reducing China's grip on the global shipping industry and at reviving US shipbuilding.
TRADE WAR WITH CHINA
China rejected what it called threats and blackmail from Washington.
China will "follow through to the end" if the US persists, Commerce Ministry spokesperson He Yongqian told a regular press briefing. China's door was open to dialogue, but this must be based on mutual respect, the ministry said.

Beijing may again respond in kind after already imposing 84% tariffs on US imports Wednesday to match Trump's earlier salvo.
Trump, who claims the tariffs aim to fix US trade imbalances, said a resolution with China on trade is also possible. But officials have said they will prioritize talks with other countries as Vietnam, Japan, South Korea and others line up to try and strike a bargain.
China's yuan hit its lowest against the dollar Thursday since the global financial crisis.

Nothing to do with Canadian national Rana: Pak

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
Islamabad, April 10: Pakistan Thursday said that it has nothing to do with the 26/11 Mumbai terror attack accused Tahawwur Rana, asserting that he is a Canadian national and has not renewed his Pakistani documents for over two decades.
Born in Pakistan in 1961, Rana served in the Pakistan Army Medical Corps, before migrating in the 1990s to Canada, where he was given citizenship.
"He is a Canadian national and as per our record he has not renewed his Pakistani documents for over two decades,"

Foreign Office spokesperson Shafqat Ali Khan said while responding to a question during his weekly press briefing here. Though the spokesperson stopped short of providing details of "documents", such documents often include a national identity card for overseas Pakistanis and a passport.

Rana is known to be associated with Pakistani-American terrorist David Coleman Headley, one of the main conspirators of the 26/11 attacks. Headley conducted a recce of Mumbai before the attacks by posing as an employee of Rana's immigration consultancy.
A total of 166 people, including six Americans, were killed in the 2008 Mumbai terror attacks in which 10 Pakistani terrorists laid a more than 60-hour siege, attacking and killing people at iconic and vital locations in Mumbai.

Rana is accused of plotting the attack and has been extradited from the US, years after the horrendous attack at the Indian financial hub shook the country. In the same press conference, Khan condemned the changes in the Waqf laws by India, calling it an "infringement over the religious and economic rights of Indian Muslims".
"The passage of this discriminatory legislation is also reflective of the growing majoritarianism in India. There are serious apprehensions that it will contribute to further marginalization of Indian Muslims," he said while responding to a query.

GREENLAND 'FREEDOM CITY'?

As the Trump administration intensifies efforts to acquire Greenland from Denmark — or take it by force — some Silicon Valley tech investors are promoting the frozen island as a site for a so-called freedom city, a libertarian utopia with minimal corporate regulation, three people familiar with the matter told Reuters.
The discussions are in early stages, but the idea has been taken seriously by Trump's pick for Denmark ambassador, Ken Howery, who is expected to be confirmed by Congress in the coming months and lead Greenland-acquisition negotiations, the people said. Howery, whose involvement with the idea hasn't been previously reported, once co-founded a venture-capital firm with tech billionaire Peter Thiel, a leading advocate for such low-regulation cities. Howery is also a longtime friend of Elon Musk, a top Trump advisor.

Rich donors push Trump for a tech hub up north

Howery declined to comment. The White House did not respond to requests for comment. Sources who spoke to Reuters requested anonymity to discuss private conversations.
The vision for Greenland, one of the people said, could include a hub for artificial intelligence, autonomous vehicles, space launches, micro nuclear reactors and high-speed rail.
The discussions reflect a longstanding Silicon Valley movement to establish low-regulation cities globally, including in the United States, which Trump himself promised to do in a 2023 campaign video. Proponents use different names for variations on the idea, including startup cities or charter cities, with the common goal of spurring innovation through sweeping regulatory exemptions.
The administration's consideration of such a quixotic quest underscores the growing clout of tech magnates and Trump's increasingly expansionist foreign policy. After campaigning on a largely isolationist platform, Trump has since his November election suggested taking back the Panama Canal, annexing Canada and redeveloping the war-torn Gaza Strip after seizing the beachfront land from displaced Palestinians.

Greenland is about three times the size of Texas with a population of only 57,000. But the island is strategically important to the US military, which has a base there, and contains substantial deposits of minerals, including rare-earth.

Trump has refused to rule out taking Greenland by military force if Denmark won't sell it.
"We have to have Greenland," Trump said late last month as his Vice President, JD Vance, visited a US military base on the island.
Vance toured Greenland

- Silicon Valley investors propose Greenland as a libertarian 'freedom city'
 - Trump's expansionist policy includes potential military acquisition of Greenland
 - Greenland's strategic importance due to US military base and mineral deposits
- with his wife Usha Vance, a visit that ignited protests from Greenlanders, who overwhelmingly oppose becoming part of America, polls show. The island is owned by Denmark but governs itself. Greenland's new prime minister, Jens-Frederik Nielsen, said the US visit signalled a "lack of respect."
'NEW MANIFEST DESTINY'
The freedom-city movement reflects a fascination with settling new American frontiers, rooted in nostalgia for the nation's 1800s western expansion. Expanding to Greenland "can be the dawn of a new Manifest Destiny," said tech investor Shervin Pishevar, referring to the 19th-century philosophy that America was an exceptional nation with a God-given mission to conquer territory.

Thiel, a libertarian and early Trump supporter, wrote in 2009 that he no longer considered democracy compatible with freedom and has advocated escaping politics by colonizing outer space or seasteading — building communities in un-governed oceans.
Fellow venture capitalist Marc Andreessen, an informal advisor to Musk's Department of Government Efficiency (DOGE), is part of a tech-investor consortium seeking to build a city on grazing land outside San Francisco. Another venture capitalist and informal DOGE advisor, Joe Lonsdale, also promotes low-regulation cities. In a statement to Reuters, Lonsdale celebrated "expanding our country to Greenland" but did not comment on plans for a city there. AGENCIES

TRADE WAR

Moody's cuts growth forecast

The ratings agency downgrades India's 2025 GDP growth forecast to 6.1% citing US tariff impact

REUTERS

New Delhi, April 10: Moody's Analytics Thursday cut India's GDP growth forecast to 6.1 per cent for 2025 on looming higher US reciprocal tariff threats.

It said the US is one of India's largest trading partners, so a 26 per cent tariff hovering over imports of Indian goods will heavily impede the trade balance.

"We revised India's GDP growth forecast to 6.1 per cent in 2025 from 6.4 per cent in our March baseline," said the Moody's Analytics report titled 'APAC Outlook: US Versus Them'.

It said gems and jewellery, medical devices, and textile industries will be among the worst hit.

Regardless, we expect overall growth to be relatively insulated from the shock since external demand makes up a relatively small portion of GDP, Moody's Analytics said.

Given headline inflation has been easing at a healthy pace, we expect the Reserve Bank of India to lower interest rates, most likely in the form of 25-basis point cuts that take the policy rate to 5.75 per cent by the end of the year.

"This, paired with tax incentives announced earlier this year, should help boost the domestic economy and dampen the shock of the tariffs on overall growth relative to other vulnerable economies," Moody's said.

In a major relief for countries, US President Donald Trump Wednesday deferred by 90 days the reciprocal tariffs that was to come into effect from April 9 on 75 countries

In a major relief for countries, US President Wednesday deferred by 90 days the reciprocal tariffs that was to come into effect from April 9 on 75 countries with which the US has a trade imbalance with which the US has a trade imbalance.

The US, however, raised the tax rate on Chinese imports to 125 per cent "effective immediately".

However, the higher 10 per cent tariff, which was effective from April 5, will continue. In case of India, the additional duty of 26 per cent to be paid for exports to the US has been put on hold for 90 days.

Moody's Analytics said uncertainty is palpable, with tumbling and volatile equity markets headlining financial market turbulence.

The negative and pervasive impact of a sustained rise in uncertainty cannot be understated. Household and business sentiment is crumbling, and if the calamity continues, monetary policy easing that was supposed to characterise 2025 will lose some of its potency, it said.

Also, households won't want to spend more when the environment is so uncertain, regardless of stronger purchasing power, and businesses will hold back on additional investment as they navigate chaos, Moody's Analytics said.

As tariffs increase the cost and complexity of trade, they weaken global growth prospects. "The 'Liberation Day' tariffs declared last week increased the odds of a global recession. Under those tariffs, inflation across Asia would stay subdued amid weaker trade and growth dynamics," it added.

Inflation in the US, however, would rise as tariffs increased prices of producer and consumer goods, Moody's Analytics added.

India seeks quick US trade deal

NEW DELHI: India wants to move quickly on a trade deal with the United States, a government official said Thursday, after President Donald Trump's decision to pause reciprocal tariffs on dozens of countries, while hiking levies on China. India and the United States agreed in February to work on the first phase of a trade deal to be concluded late this year, with a view to reaching two-way trade worth $500 billion by 2030. "India is one of the first nations to start talks over a deal with the United States and to have jointly agreed to a deadline to conclude it," said the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity because of the sensitivity of the issue. India's trade ministry, which is leading the talks with the United States, did not immediately respond to an e-mail seeking comment. The Indian trade minister said at an event in New Delhi earlier this week that manufacturers in India and the US have suffered from China's unfair trade practices over the years. India will raise scrutiny on imports to spot any potential dumping of goods, including from China, the official said.

US stock futures dip after sharp rally

REUTERS

Washington, April 10: Wall Street's main indexes fell Thursday, coming off a blistering rally following US President Donald Trump's move to temporarily lower the heavy tariffs on dozens of countries.

The U-turn came less than 24 hours after the new tariffs took effect on most trading partners, lifting the S&P 500 to its biggest single-day percentage gain since 2008 Wednesday. The Nasdaq posted its biggest one-day jump since 2001.

Trump also announced a 90-day pause on many of his new reciprocal tariffs, but raised them to 125% on Chinese imports from 104%. Beijing had slapped 84% tariffs on US imports to match Trump's earlier levy.

The European Union said it had agreed on a 90-day pause on counter-tariffs on US goods, which were due April 15.

At 09:35 am the Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 718.88 points, or 1.77%, to 39,889.57, the S&P 500 lost 122.54 points, or 2.25%, to 5,334.36 and the Nasdaq Composite lost 457.83 points, or 2.67%, to 16,667.14.

Most S&P 500 sectors were in the red. Information technology and energy led the losses, falling 3.5% and 3.9%, respectively. Consumer staples was the only sector that saw gains.

Most megacap and growth stocks slid, with Tesla and Nvidia down more than 4% each. The CBOE Volatility Index - seen as Wall Street's "fear gauge" - fell from its August highs, but was last up at 36.17 points. The small-cap Russell 2000 was down 2.9%.

Meanwhile, data showed the consumer price index unexpectedly dipped 0.1% in March, in line with estimates and advanced 2.4% in the 12 months through March, compared with expectations of a 2.6% climb, according to economists polled by Reuters.

"We remain circumspect regarding the current inflation data, as these figures are reflective of a period prior to the implementation of recent tariffs," said Dan Siluk, portfolio manager at Janus Henderson.

"We expect more volatility from inflation reads in the months ahead." Traders now see nearly 90 basis points of interest-rate cuts in 2025, according to LSEG data.

Despite Wednesday's surge, the S&P 500 and the Dow are about 5% below levels seen before the reciprocal tariffs were announced last week.

Meanwhile, US bonds markets were sanguine after a sharp selloff in the last session, with the yield on the 10-year note dropping to 4.302% from its February peaks.

Automakers General Motors and Ford fell about 3% each after the previous session's gains. Downgrades from UBS and Goldman Sachs on the stocks added to their declines.

World's largest fuel-efficient container ship MSC Türkiye docks at Vizhinjam

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Thiruvananthapuram, April 10: Billed as one of the world's largest and most fuel-efficient container ships, MSC Türkiye docked at Vizhinjam International Seaport, operated by Adani Ports and SEZ Ltd (AP-SEZ), in Kerala Wednesday.

This is the first time the giant vessel has docked at an Indian port, sources in the know of the development said.

Hailed as a landmark event in India's maritime history, the arrival of MSC Türkiye is seen as a major boost to the Vizhinjam port's growing reputation as a global transshipment hub and highlights its capability to attract ultra-large container vessels (ULCVs) from around the world.

MSC Türkiye, which is run by the Mediterranean Shipping Company (MSC), is a modern engineering marvel. The vessel measures 399.9 metres in length, 61.3 m in width and 33.5 m in depth. The ship can load about 24,346 twenty-foot equivalent units (TEUs), making it one of the largest container ships ever built.

Apart from its immense size, what distinguishes MSC Türkiye is its eco-friendly design. The vessel has been engineered with a priority on fuel efficiency and reducing environmental impacts. Sources said it has a low-carbon footprint per container, which significantly decreases carbon dioxide emissions per tonne of cargo transported.

Flying the Liberian flag, the cargo ship represents a leap forward in sustainable global shipping. MSC Türkiye's arrival augurs well with the ambitious plan charted out by APSEZ to turn Vizhinjam port, which was founded in 2015 and started operations last year, into a major marine hub worldwide.

FII, DII turn net buyers in March

Foreign and domestic investors pump over $5bn into equity market

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Mumbai, April 10: Foreign and domestic investors showed strong confidence in the Indian equity market in March 2025, with both foreign institutional investors (FIIs) and domestic institutional investors (DIIs) emerging as net buyers, a new report said Thursday.

FIIs invested $975 million while DIIs made even stronger contributions with $4.3 billion in net purchases during the month, according to the JM Financial Securities' report.

The month witnessed a remarkable turnaround in FII sentiment. In the first half of March, up to the 19th, FIIs were net sellers, but they turned aggressive buyers in the latter half, pouring $3.6 billion into Indian equities.

This shift helped push FII shareholding in Indian stocks up to 16.8 per cent in March, compared to 15.9 per cent in February, the report said.

The sectors that attracted the most foreign inflows included banking, financial and insurance services (BFSI), telecom, and metals.

BFSI led the way with $1.7 billion in FII inflows, followed by telecom at $360 million, and metals at $219 million.

Other sectors that gained investor attention, albeit at a smaller scale, were realty, chemicals, media, and pharmaceuticals.

The report also highlighted that FIIs continued to maintain strong exposure in key sectors. BFSI, IT, Oil & Gas, Auto, and Pharma together accounted for nearly 60 per cent of total FII holdings in Indian equities.

The share of BFSI in FII Assets Under Custody (AUC) in India rose to 31.2 per cent in March from 30.8 per cent in February, while Pharma's share edged up to 6.9 per cent from 6.8 per cent.

However, IT services - the second-largest sector for FII holdings - saw its share decline to 9 per cent from 9.9 per cent in the previous month, influenced by ongoing geopolitical uncertainties.

Auto declined to 6.7 per cent from 7 per cent, while Oil & Gas remained unchanged, the report said.

Apple airlifts 600 tons of iPhones from India 'to beat' Trump tariffs

THE US TECH GIANT SELLS MORE THAN 220 MILLION IPHONES A YEAR WORLDWIDE, WITH COUNTERPOINT RESEARCH ESTIMATING A FIFTH OF TOTAL IPHONE IMPORTS TO THE US NOW COME FROM INDIA, AND THE REST FROM CHINA

REUTERS

New Delhi, April 10: Tech giant Apple chartered cargo flights to ferry 600 tons of iPhones, or as many as 1.5 million, to the United States from India, after it stepped up production there in an effort to beat President Donald Trump's tariffs, sources told Reuters.

The details of the push provide an insight into the US smartphone company's private strategy to navigate around the Trump tariffs and build up inventory of its popular iPhones in the United States, one of its biggest markets.

Analysts have warned that US prices of iPhones could surge, given Apple's high reliance on imports from China, the main manufacturing hub of the devices, which is subject to Trump's highest tariff rate of 125%. That figure is far in excess of the tariff of 26% on imports from India, but which is now on hold after Trump called a 90-day pause this week that excludes China.

Apple "wanted to beat the tariff," said one of the sources familiar with the planning.

The company lobbied Indian airport authorities to cut to six hours the time needed to clear customs at the Chennai airport in the southern state of Tamil Nadu, down from 30 hours, the source added.

The so-called "green corridor" arrangement at the airport in the Indian manufacturing hub emulated a model Apple uses at some airports in China, the source said.

About six cargo jets with a capacity of 100 tons each have flown out since March, one of

- Apple made discreet plan to boost India production
- Sunday shifts at Foxconn boosted iPhone shipments
- Indian government helped Apple clear customs faster
- Apple counts India as a new emerging manufacturing hub them this week just as new tariffs kicked in, the source and an Indian government official said.

The packaged weight of an iPhone 14 and its charging cable come to about 350 grams (12.35 oz), Reuters measurements show, implying the total cargo of 600 tons comprised about 1.5 million iPhones, after accounting for some packaging weight.

Trump consistently increased US tariffs on China, to stand at 125% by Wednesday, from 54% earlier.

At the 54% tariff rate, the $1,599 cost of the top-end iPhone 16 Pro Max in the United States would have surged to $2,300, calculations based on projections by Rosenblatt Securities show.

SUNDAY SHIFTS

In India, Apple stepped up air shipments to meet its goal of a 20% increase in usual production at iPhone plants, attained by adding workers, and temporarily extending operations at the biggest Foxconn India factory to Sundays, the source added.

Two other direct sources confirmed the Foxconn plant in Chennai now runs Sundays, which is typically a holiday. The plant turned out 20 million iPhones last year, including the latest iPhone 15 and 16 models.

As Apple diversifies its manufacturing beyond China, it has positioned India for a critical role. Foxconn and Tata, its two main suppliers there, have three factories in all, with two more being built.

Apple spent about eight months to plan and set up the expedited customs clearance in Chennai, and Prime Minister Narendra Modi's government asked officials to support Apple, one senior Indian official said.

Foxconn shipments from India to the United States surged in value to $770 million in January and $643 million in February, compared to the range of $110 million to $331 million in the prior four months, commercially available customs data shows.

More than 85% of the January and February air shipments of Foxconn were off-loaded in Chicago, Los Angeles, New York and San Francisco.

KLassic Rahul does it again

RAHUL'S WONDERFUL 93 AND SPINNERS' CRAFTINESS GUIDE DC TO SIX-WICKET WIN OVER RCB

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Bangalore, April 10: The craftiness of spinners Kuldeep Yadav and Vipraj Nigam echoed in the assiduous unbeaten 93 of KL Rahul as Delhi Capitals overcame a top-order meltdown to score a six-wicket win over Royal Challengers Bengaluru in their IPL match here Thursday.

Once the Royal Challengers were restricted to 163 for seven, the Capitals just needed to bat with common sense but it was a rare commodity in their front-line batters on the night.

But player of the match KL Rahul, whose knock came off 53 balls with seven fours and six sixes, added 111 runs for the fourth wicket with an equally level-headed Tristan Stubbs (38 not out) to score their fourth victory on the bounce.

DC made 169 for four. Rahul's innings was a prime example of risk management as he started at a slower tempo before shifting the gears seamlessly.

The way Rahul, who was dropped on five by Rajat Patidar off Yash Dayal, dealt with leg-spinner Suyansh Sharma and pacer Josh Hazlewood underlined his intelligent approach.

He was prudent against Suyansh, waiting for his chances to score runs on a sluggish track and carted him for a lone six — a sweep over mid-wicket.

But once Hazlewood returned for his second spell, Rahul used the extra pace to good effect to manufacture big shots such as a scorching six over the bowlers' head.

Stubbs too joined his partners with a couple of lovely straight hits off Bhuvneshwar to the fence as DC strolled home.

Earlier, the wizardry of Kuldeep and Nigam helped the Capitals stage a stirring comeback to restrict RCB to a below-par 163 for seven.

Left-arm wrist spinner Kuldeep (2/17) and leg-spinner Nigam (2/18) adjusted their lengths beautifully to halt RCB after the Capitals chose to bowl first.

But Delhi's decision to field looked utterly obtuse as Royal Challengers went off the blocks like a galloping horse, going past the 50-run mark in just three overs.

Central to that charge was opener Phil Salt's turbo-charged innings of 37 off 17 balls.

The England batter hammered Mitchell Starc for a sequence of 6, 4, 4, 4, 6 to collect 24 runs in the third over.

However, Salt got run out in a yes-no situation involving Virat Kohli (22, 14b). Kohli and Salt added 61 runs off 24 balls for the opening stand.

CSK, KKR clash: Dhoni returns as skipper

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Chennai, April 10: A beleaguered Chennai Super Kings will have their task cut out against Kolkata Knight Riders after losing regular skipper Ruturaj Gaikwad to injury, as they look to break a frustrating run of defeats in the IPL here Friday.

Gaikwad has been replaced by MS Dhoni after a fracture to his elbow ruled him out for the rest of the season, with the veteran wicketkeeper-batter taking over as the leader again.

Heading into the critical game, in which a loss could spell more trouble for CSK, the home team is taking some solace from the batters' impressive show in the last match against Punjab Kings, which they lost by 18 runs after being set a stiff target of 219 in Mul-lanpur.

CSK are now hoping for a change in fortune at Chepauk, which has so far this season not afforded them the advantage it has been known to give in the past, something that has also forced longtime coach Stephen Fleming to express his frustration after a massive loss against Royal Challengers Bengaluru some days back.

CSK did not enjoy home advantage at Chepauk, which has been a significant factor in their previous success. The pitch has changed significantly, making it harder for them to read and adapt to.

For CSK to change the tide,

Dhoni's return at the helm brings luck for CSK as the five-time winners try to overcome a string of defeats

CSK are placed ninth in the standings after four losses and a solitary win, while KKR are in sixth position with two wins and three defeats in five matches they have no option but to try and get acclimatised to the conditions here, and their spinners will have to find ways to succeed at a venue in which they have dominated for a prolonged period.

CSK will have to do course correction in order to get back to winning ways and as has been the case in last couple of weeks, a lot of the focus will again be on veteran Dhoni, who smashed a 12-ball 27 against PBKS with three sixes and a four.

The likes of Devon Conway, Rachin Ravindra and Shivam Dube will be entering the match on the back of some welcome runs, and that is one positive for CSK in these difficult times.

FIA deputy prez resigns

PARIS: Turmoil at the FIA, the governing body for Formula 1 and other auto racing, has deepened after its deputy president for sport resigned in protest at how it is run. Robert Reid's resignation is the latest sign of discontent with the direction taken by the FIA under President Mohammed Ben Sulayem, whose tenure has seen numerous senior officials leave or be replaced. "I took on this role to help deliver greater transparency, stronger governance, and more collaborative leadership," Reid posted on social media. "Over time, those principles have been increasingly set aside and I can no longer, in good faith, remain part of a system that no longer reflects them."

New Delhi, April 10: Suruchi claimed her second medal of the competition while former Asian Games champion Saurabh Chaudhary bagged an International Shooting Sport Federation (ISSF) medal after two years, as the pair took bronze, winning the 10m air pistol mixed team match 16-8 over compatriots Manu Bhaker and Ravinder Singh, on the concluding day of the ISSF World Cup Rifle/Pistol/Shotgun Argentina 2025.

With two Indian Olympians on either side of the competitive divide, Saurabh emerged as the most consistent of the four shooters to help seal the deal with a 10.7 in the 12th and what ended up as the last series of the match.

Earlier, the Indian pairs had finished third and fourth respectively in qualifying behind two Chinese pairs. Suruchi and Saurabh shot a cumulative 581 while Manu and Ravinder were behind them with 579. The Chinese topped with identical scores of 582.

It was difficult to separate the two Indian pairs in the initial stages of the bronze match-up as both tied at six points apiece after the first six series of single shots fired by each shooter.

Suruchi and Saurabh then gained momentum with three straight series wins and despite Manu and Ravinder pulling one back, it was too little too late.

This is India's eighth medal of the Argentina World Cup and they now have four gold, two silver, and two bronze to show for their efforts.

37-year-old cancer survivor keeps shutting down Europe's top strikers

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rome, April 10: Harry Kane, Erling Haaland, Romelu Lukaku, Mateo Retegui, Moise Kean. Across Europe and Serie A, Inter Milan center back Francesco Acerbi has held all five of those center forwards scoreless this season.

The latest defensive exploit from Acerbi came in the first leg of the Champions League quarterfinals at Bayern Munich Tuesday, when the 37-year-old cancer survivor conceded only one shot to Kane — which the England striker curled onto the post.

Otherwise, it was the relentless man-to-man lockdown effort reminiscent of the job that Acerbi did on Haaland in Inter's Champions League opener at Manchester City in September, which ended 0-0.

Acerbi also held Haaland scoreless in the 2023 Champions League final.

In all, Inter has conceded three goals in 11 Champions League games, but only two with Acerbi on the field — he missed the 1-0 loss to Bayer Leverkusen in December.

Acerbi, whose career was put on hold briefly due to testicular cancer more than a decade ago, has been just as effective in the Italian league.

He has held Lukaku and Serie A scoring leader Retegui scoreless twice each — two 1-1 draws with Napoli (Lukaku) and 4-0 and 2-0 wins over Atalanta (Retegui) that have been decisive in helping Inter to first place.

Actually, Acerbi has held Lukaku scoreless all four times they've faced each other since the Belgium forward left Inter, including two matches when Lukaku played for Roma last season.

Retegui (22 goals) and Kean stand 1-2 in the Serie A scoring chart.
