India, Pak set for World Cup blockbuster

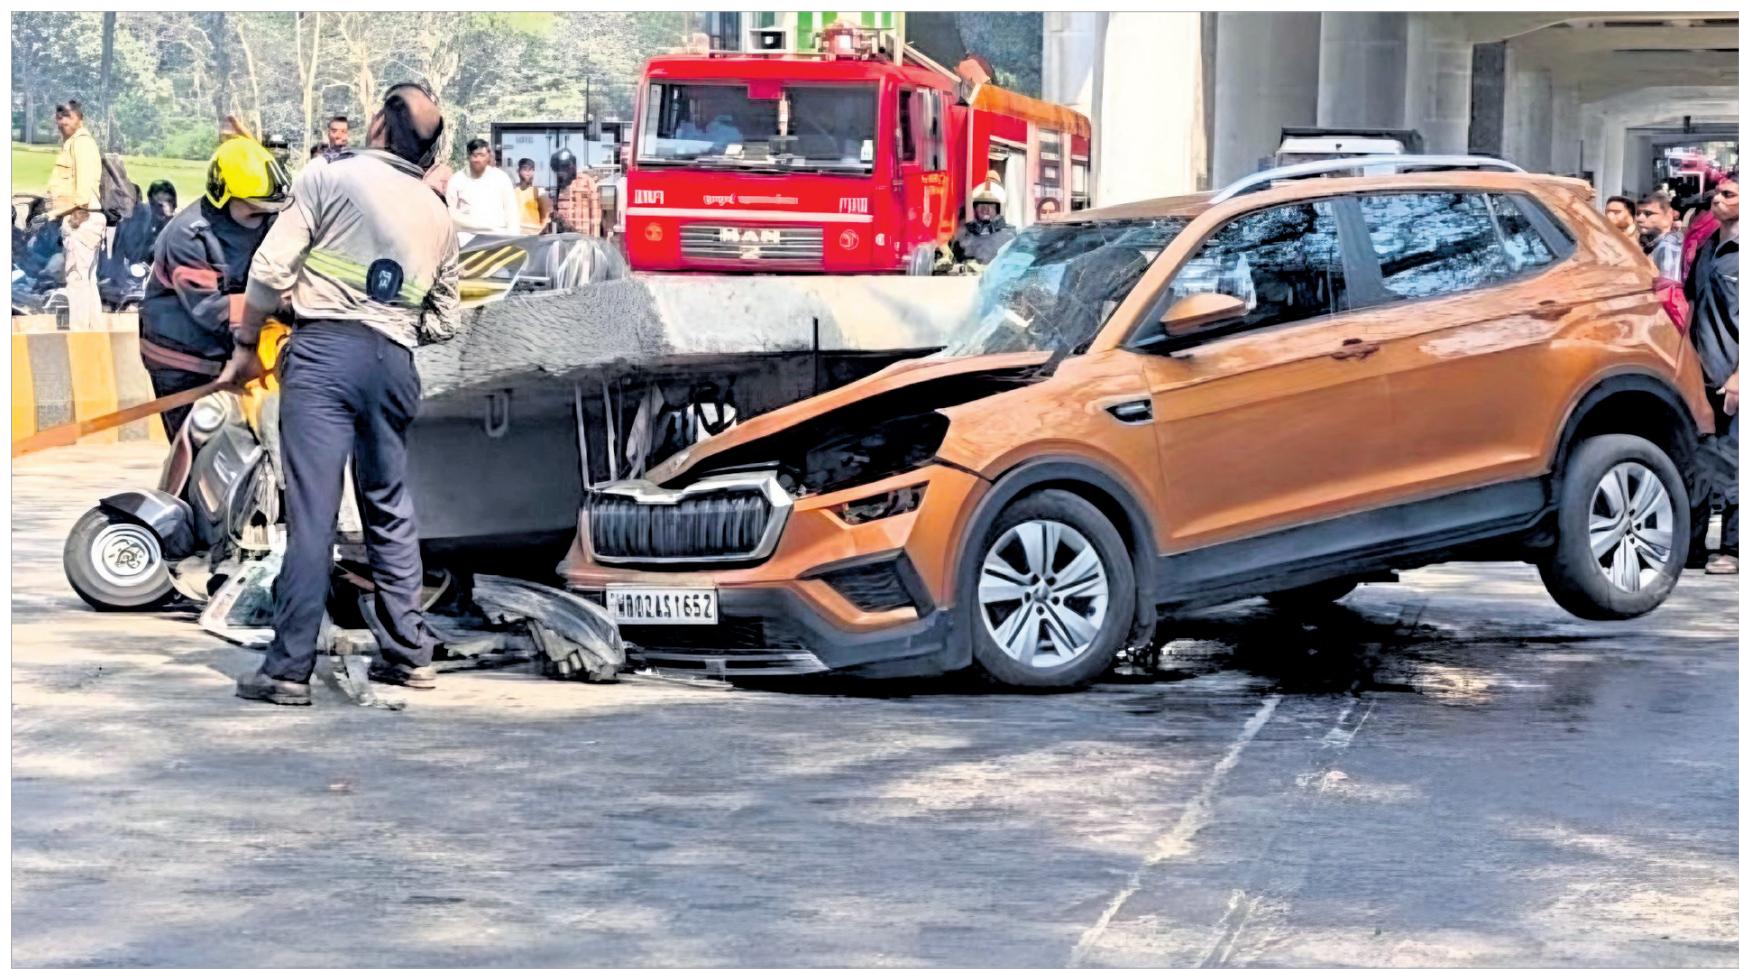

REUTERS

Colombo, Feb 14: India and Pakistan will clash in the Twenty20 World Cup in Colombo Sunday, still feeling the aftershocks of a tumultuous fortnight in which Pakistan's boycott threat - later reversed - nearly blew a hole in the tournament's marquee fixture.

With bilateral cricket a casualty of their fraught relations, emotions run high whenever the bitter neighbours lock horns in multi-team events at neutral venues.

India's strained relations with another neighbour, Bangladesh, have further tangled the geopolitics around the World Cup. When Bangladesh were replaced by Scotland in the 20-team field for refusing to tour India over safety concerns, the regional chessboard shifted.

Pakistan decided to boycott the Group A contest against India in solidarity with Bangladesh, jeopardising a lucrative Berhampur, Feb 14: A man was allegedly lynched on suspicion of theft in Ganjam district Saturday, police said. The incident took place at Sardula village in Bhanjanagar police station area.

The deceased, 37-year-old Bandal Pradhan, a resident of Kurnumia in Kandhamal district's G. Udayagiri police station limits, was attacked by residents of Sardula. He was declared brought dead at a hospital, police said.

Pradhan was rescued early Saturday and rushed to the sub-divisional hospital in Bhanjanagar, where doctors declared him brought dead, additional SP Ranjan Kumar Dey said.

Police said Pradhan, along with two others, was allegedly involved in looting a locked house of resident Sushant Gouda. While fleeing, Pradhan fell and broke his leg, after which villagers tied him to an electric pole and assaulted him. Police have arrested 20 people in this connection. The mobile phone of the deceased, iron rods and ropes used to tie his hands were seized.

Textile parks across state

Odisha's push to build multiple textile parks across districts such as Keonjhar, Sambalpur, Bolangir, Cuttack, Ganjam and Jagatsinghpur signals a deliberate shift from resource-led growth to jobs-led industrialisation. The announcement made by CM Mohan Charan Majhi, anchored by a ₹100-crore textile park in Keonjhar and a technical textile park in Bhadrak, aims to bring employment closer to home for youth who currently migrate to other states. With MoUs worth ₹7,800 crore already signed, the state is betting on modern infrastructure and logistics to create steady, women-friendly manufacturing work and diversify local economies beyond mining.

PNN & AGENCIES

Bhubaneswar, Feb 14: Chief Minister Mohan Charan Majhi Saturday announced that multiple textile parks will be established across Odisha, marking a significant step toward strengthening the state's industrial base and generating large-scale employment.

While laying the foundation stone for a ₹100 crore Textile Park and a ₹187 crore Disaster Recovery and Data Center in the campus of Dharanidhar University in Keonjhar district, the Chief Minister said that, in addition to a Technical Textile Park in Bhadrak, dedicated textile and apparel parks will be set up in Keonjhar, Sambalpur, Bolangir, Ganjam, Cuttack, and Jagatsinghpur.

"Our youth have been strengthening the textile industry in other states. Now, similar opportunities will be created in Odisha so that people can work closer to home," Majhi said.

Reaffirming the government's commitment to diversified industrial development, the Chief Minister said Keonjhar would no longer be known only for mining and steel.

"We are committed to transforming it into a multi-sector industrial hub. Our vision is to build a 'Golden Keonjhar,'" he added.

The proposed Textile Park, to be developed with an investment of ₹100 crore, is expected to create employment opportunities for nearly 1,200 young men and women.

With modern infrastructure and logistics support, Hindalco Industries will establish a garment manufacturing unit over seven acres of land, producing approximately 2.4 million garments annually.

Highlighting the transformative potential of the sector, the Chief Minister said the textile industry offers significant employment opportunities, particularly for women and youth.

He also noted that during the O-Tex Textile Conclave held in Bhubaneswar in July last year, 33 MoUs worth ₹7,800 crore were signed, creating employment potential for more than 53,000 people across the state. On the occasion, Majhi also laid the foundation stone for a Disaster Recovery and Data Centre project worth ₹187 crore, to be implemented by the Electronics & IT department through the Odisha Computer Application Centre.

The facility will serve as a backup to the State Data Centre in Bhubaneswar, ensuring uninterrupted delivery of digital government services during natural disasters or cyber threats.

The centre will also support data localization efforts and strengthen the resilience of the state's digital governance framework. Keonjhar was selected for the project as it falls under a low seismic risk zone (Zone II), making it suitable for critical digital infrastructure.

Emphasizing balanced regional development, the Chief Minister said ₹312 crore has been allocated for temple development in the district, while projects worth ₹1,900 crore were launched during the Makar festival.

"A prosperous Odisha will be built through the prosperity of its districts. Industrial growth and digital empowerment are key drivers of our journey toward a developed India," Majhi said.

VALENTINE'S DAY SHOCKER

Man shoots girlfriend, then himself inside car

AGENCIES

Noida, Feb 14: A 32-year-old man allegedly shot his 26-year-old girlfriend before turning the gun on himself inside a parked car in Sector 107 here, police said Saturday.

The bodies were found inside the car parked near pillar number 84 on Dadri Road under the limits of Sector 39 police station Saturday morning.

Police said they were alerted about the car, which had the registration number DL-14CL6473, prompting a team to respond to the scene.

Additional Deputy Commissioner of Police (Noida) Manisha Singh told PTI, "A boy and a girl were found inside the car with gunshot wounds to their heads. A pistol was found in the boy's hand, and the car was locked from the inside. Prima facie, it appears to be a case of suicide."

The deceased have been identified as Sumit, a resident of Trilokpuri in Delhi, and Rekha, a resident of Sector 101 in Noida. Their families have been notified, officials said.

Senior police officials and a forensic team inspected the scene. An inquest report was prepared, and the bodies have been sent for post-mortem examination, police stated.

According to reports, initial probe indicates that this is a case of a murder-suicide where the man first killed the woman and turned the pistol towards himself.

The man also left behind a note which stated that him and the woman had been dating for the last 15 years and that the woman had promised to marry him. However, he later found out that she was going to marry someone else.

Russia killed Navalny with frog toxin, say 5 European nations

LONDON: Russian opposition leader Alexei Navalny was poisoned with a lethal toxin from the skin of dart frogs, five European countries said Saturday, blaming the Russian state for the attack.

The foreign ministries of the UK, France, Germany, Sweden and the Netherlands said analysis of samples from Navalny, who died two years ago, "have conclusively confirmed the presence of epibatidine." It is a toxin found in poison dart frogs in South America that is not found naturally in Russia, they said.

They said in a joint statement that "Russia had the means, motive and opportunity to administer this poison." They said they were reporting Russia to the Organisation for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons for a breach of the Chemical Weapons Convention. P10

AI film school trains next gen of Hollywood moviemakers

REUTERS

Los Angeles, Feb 14: Laid-off and sidelined by last year's production slowdown, Hollywood visual effects veteran Michael Eng discovered a gap in his resume while perusing job listings in Los Angeles -- experience in machine learning.

Eng turned to Curious Refuge, an online school teaching filmmaking powered by AI, in a bid to reinvent his career amid the industry's rapid technological shift.

Launched in May 2023, Curious Refuge's well-regarded AI film academy has become a training ground for Hollywood workers racing to adapt as generative technology reshapes production, fueling new career paths even at a time when some in the industry fear losing their jobs to AI.

"I kind of just embraced it," Eng said of diving into AI tools after he was sidelined. "I jumped in."

Many in Hollywood remain wary of AI, with critics pointing to last year's debut of the AI-generated actress Tilly Norwood -- condemned by the SAG AFTRA actors union as replacing human performers with "synthetics" -- as a prime example of the industry's unease.

Eng is one of 10,000 students who have attended Curious Refuge's courses or workshops, looking to update their skills, the school says. Co-founders Caleb and Shelby Ward say 95% of the current students are entertainment or advertising industry professionals looking for new skills as AI gains a foothold in Hollywood.

Others, like Petra Molnar, are hobbyists who have been able to harness AI to find new careers.

Molnar said she saw herself as a creative person but was unable to gain entry into art school in her native Budapest. She was working as a dental hygienist in London when the COVID-19 pandemic shuttered her dental office. She used the time to explore her creative side, enrolling in classes -- initially studying digital product design and building her own dental app.

The rise of AI-powered chatbots like ChatGPT and image generators like Midjourney led her to Curious Refuge, where she began taking courses in 2023.

She has found a new career in advertising, using AI to create promotional videos, including one for AI infrastructure company WhiteFiber that was Founded in 2020, Curious Refuge began offering courses in AI-assisted documentary and narrative filmmaking and in advertising in early 2023. It now provides instruction in 11 different languages to students in 170 countries. Other educators, such as the Los Angeles Film School, offer an online bachelor's degree in digital filmmaking, and major film schools also are incorporating generative AI into their curriculums.

The Curious Refuge classes are pre-recorded and made available behind an online paywall, allowing students to learn at their own pace.

US military preparing for weeks-long Iran ops

REUTERS

Washington, Feb 14: The US military is preparing for the possibility of sustained, weeks-long operations against Iran if President Donald Trump orders an attack, two US officials told Reuters, in what could become a far more serious conflict than previously seen between the countries.

The disclosure by the officials, who spoke on condition of anonymity due to the sensitive nature of the planning, raises the stakes for the diplomacy underway between US and Iran.

US and Iranian diplomats held talks in Oman last week in an effort to revive diplomacy over Tehran's nuclear programme, after Trump amassed military forces in the region, raising fears of new military action.

US officials said Friday the Pentagon was sending an additional aircraft carrier to the Middle East, adding thousands more troops along with fighter aircraft, guided-missile destroyers and other firepower capable of waging attacks and defending against them. Trump, speaking to US troops Friday at a base in North Carolina, said it had "been difficult to make a deal" with Iran. "Sometimes you have to have fear. That's the only thing that really will get the situation taken care of," Trump said.

Asked for comment on the preparations for a potentially sustained US military operation, White House spokesperson Anna Kelly said. "President Trump has all options on the table with regard to Iran."

"He listens to a variety of perspectives on any given issue, but makes the final decision based on what is best for our country and national security," Kelly said. The Pentagon declined to comment.

US sent two aircraft carriers to the region last year, when it carried out strikes against Iranian nuclear sites. However, June's "Midnight Hammer" operation was essentially a one-off US attack, with stealth bombers flying from US to strike Iranian nuclear facilities. Iran staged a very limited retaliatory strike on a US base in Qatar.

The planning underway this time is more complex, the officials said. In a sustained campaign, US military could hit Iranian state and security facilities, not just nuclear infrastructure, one of the officials said. The official declined to provide specific detail.

Experts say the risks to US forces would be far greater in such an operation against Iran, which boasts a formidable arsenal of missiles. Retaliatory Iranian strikes also increase the risk of a regional conflict.

The official said the US fully expected Iran to retaliate, leading to back-and-forth strikes and reprisals over a period of time.

Trump has repeatedly threatened to bomb Iran over its nuclear and ballistic missile programmes and crushing of internal dissent. Thursday, he warned the alternative to a diplomatic solution would "be very traumatic, very traumatic". Iran's Revolutionary Guards have warned that in case of strikes on Iranian territory, they could retaliate against any US military base.

How Epstein used Nobel Peace Prize glamour to entice elites

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stavanger (Norway), Feb 14: Jeffrey Epstein repeatedly played up his ties to the former head of the Nobel Peace Prize committee in invitations to and chats with elites like Richard Branson, Larry Summers, Bill Gates and Steve Bannon, a top ally of President Donald Trump, the Epstein files show.

Thorbjorn Jagland, who headed the Norwegian Nobel Committee from 2009 to 2015, turns up hundreds of times in the millions of documents about the former US financier and convicted sex offender that were released by the US Justice Department last month.

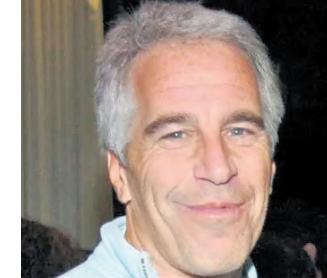

Since the release, Jagland, 75, has been charged in Norway for "aggravated corruption" in connection with an investigation prompted by information in the files, the economic crime unit of Norwegian police Okokrim said.

Okokrim has said it would investigate whether gifts, travel and loans were received in connection with Jagland's position. Its teams searched his Oslo residence Thursday, plus two other properties in Risør, a coastal town to the south, and in Rauland to the west.

His attorneys at Elden law firm in Norway said Jagland denies the charges and was questioned by the police unit Thursday.

While there is no evidence in the documents seen so far of any outright lobbying for the Nobel Peace Prize, Epstein repeatedly played up hosting Jagland at his properties in New York and Paris in the 2010s.

JEFFREY EPSTEIN

From an interesting guest to a subject of banter with Bannon

In September 2018, during Trump's first term and in an apparent allusion to his interest in the peace prize, Epstein had a varied text-message exchange with Bannon, at one point writing - in one of many messages with untidy grammar: "donalds head would explode if he knew you were now buds with the guy who on monday will decide the nobel peace prize."

"I told him next year it should be you when we settle China," he added, without elaborating.

In one email from 2013, mixing in investment tips and praise for PR tips, Epstein told British entrepreneur and magnate Richard Branson that Jagland would be staying with Epstein in September that year, adding, "if you are there, you might find him interesting."

A year after she left a job as White House counsel to President Barack Obama, in 2015, Kathy Ruemmler got an email from Epstein saying: "head of nobel peace prize coming to visit, want to join?"

In 2012, Epstein wrote to former Treasury Secretary and Harvard University president Larry Summers about Jagland, saying, "head of the nobel peace prize staying with me, if you have any interest."

In that exchange, Epstein referred to Jagland - also a former Norwegian prime minister and former head of the Council of Europe, a human rights body - as "not bright" but someone who offered a "unique perspective."

The financier wrote to Bill Gates in 2014, saying that Jagland had been reelected as head of the Council of Europe.

"That is good," Gates wrote. "I guess his peace prize committee job is also up in the air?"

During Jagland's tenure as chair of the committee, it gave the peace prize to Obama in 2009 and to the EU in 2012.

Jagland was brought into Epstein's orbit by Terje Rød Larsen, a Norwegian diplomat who helped broker the Oslo Peace Accords between Israel and Palestinians. Larsen and wife are also facing corruption charges in Norway due to their association with Epstein.

Govt sets deadline for land patta & RoR corrections

POST NEWS NETWORK

Bhubaneswar, Feb 14: The state government has directed officials to complete all pending corrections related to land pattas and Record of Rights (RoR)—particularly Column-2 entries—within a fixed timeline in mission mode across all districts of Odisha. District Collectors have been asked to personally monitor the progress.

In a letter issued February 13, Additional Chief Secretary of the Revenue and Disaster Management department Arbinda Kumar Padhee directed officials to dispose of all pending cases without procedural delay and ensure time-bound resolution.

Following a tehsil-wise review, Padhee expressed satisfaction over the proactive progress made in districts such as Nuapada district, Koraput district, Boudh district, Kalahandi district, Malkangiri district and Sambalpur district. However, concern was raised over delays and unsatisfactory performance in some other districts.

The Minister urged the officers to promptly inform the Department about any operational bottlenecks requiring intervention and assured personal

He reiterated that the issue reflects Odisha's structural economic challenges and called for immediate political and administrative intervention.

The BJD came to power in Odisha June 12, 2024, ending the 24-year rule of the BJD led by former Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik. In the Assembly elections held June 4, the BJD secured a majority with 78 seats in the 147-member House, later strengthened by the support of two independents.

Patra said Odisha's case for Special Category status is reinforced by socio-economic indicators.

Data from the NITI Aayog Multidimensional Poverty Index and the state Economic Survey 2024-25 place the poverty rate at 15.68 per cent. Though this marks an improvement, officials note that poor nutrition, limited access to clean cooking fuel and gaps in sanitation continue to affect development outcomes.

Family members initially alleged murder and filed an FIR. Acting on the complaint, police registered a murder case and began a detailed investigation. During the probe, investigators discovered that Swati had been in a relationship with Shubna.

Police inquiries revealed that the young woman allegedly took her own life after being subjected to harassment and mental torture by the accused. Based on the findings, Nayak was arrested and charged under Section 103(1) of BNS for abetment-related offences.

Enforced Reverence

There is always a shortage of nationalism in our country, because there seems to be so much demand for it. In all of my decades

I had not known of a demand for Vande Mataram to be tagged on to the national anthem but now we are told this is to be the case.

There are six stanzas to the song which will have to be memorised for those of us who do not know them. The recitation will have to be 3 minutes and 10 seconds long, as the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) has ordered. It is unclear in the orders whether this singing is voluntary (like Aadhaar) or compulsory (also like Aadhar).

This confusion arises from the wording. The MHA tells us that 'it is not possible to give an exhaustive list of occasions on which the singing — as opposed to the playing — of official version of National Song can be permitted', but it helpfully adds that 'there is no objection to the singing... as long as it is done with due respect'. There are no guidelines on what constitutes due respect but we will no doubt find out soon what constitutes violation. The more nationalistic among us will educate those who are less so.

Why I say it is unclear whether it is voluntary or not is because the order adds that 'the National Song may be sung on occasions which, although not strictly ceremonial, are nevertheless invested with significance because of the presence of Ministers etc' and further that 'mass singing is desirable.' What does the 'etc' include or exclude? What is the true interpretation of 'desirable'?

Again, we shall find out what happens when someone chooses to interpret the words 'may' and 'desirable' as being indicators of voluntary action. But all this is ultimately beside the point. The point, the main one, is that there is always a shortage of nationalism in our country and this is one way in which the shortage can be met. And it is also the case that this sort of thing works as our history tells us.

Exactly 50 years ago, in 1976, the then government added 'fundamental duties' to the constitution. These duties are to 'promote harmony and the spirit of common brotherhood amongst all the people of India transcending religious, linguistic and regional or sectional diversities; to renounce practices derogatory to the dignity of women'. Who can deny that this has happened? India would not be the global example for brotherhood and the safety of women if these instructions had not come to us.

There is also on the list 'protect and improve the natural environment including forests, lakes, rivers and wild life, and to have compassion for living creatures' and, my favourite, 'develop the scientific temper, humanism and the spirit of inquiry and reform'.

These duties were added because nationalism was in high demand and short supply in 1976 and that is the case of the present as well.

Cynics and haters of the present dispensation will argue that there are other ways to show love of nation. That anthems and slogans are peripheral to national progress. That we would be better off as a nation if we were also to behave better in traffic, for instance, and we were to not litter. The national song talks about rivers and it would be difficult to name a country where the waters are filthier than the ones here.

We could show our patriotism through refusing to take or give bribes. Or through not attempting to cheat on taxes, something that comes so naturally to the most patriotic among us that it is a wonder tax evasion has not been included in fundamental duties.

There is a long list of things that can be added here, but, as our government and its defenders will likely say: these are things that the citizens of many nations can do. They are not special.

We need something unique and distinct to show our love. That is precisely what this new order has given us. 'Whenever the official version of the National Song is sung or played', the MHA order cautions, 'the audience shall stand to attention'. Perhaps what this means is that once it has been determined by the venue that the song is to be played, the audience must comply and then participation is no longer voluntary. If that is the case, then what is the difference between song and anthem? One does not know, but our government in its wisdom surely does.

There is more: 'In all schools, the day's work may begin with the community singing of the National Song.' In my opinion this is necessary to instill the same levels of patriotism in the next generation as are to be found in our generation, and the one before ours. There are other benefits as well.

The unemployed will utilise their spare time memorising the six stanzas. They will further be productive by policing the crowd to see who is unobservant and straying from 'proper decorum'. Reports of them doing so violently should start reaching us at any moment now. The lazy will stand an additional 3 minutes and 10 seconds and improve their fitness.

FOCUS SUSTAINABILITY

ENERGY SOVEREIGNTY

The sun and wind are available to most countries, and they are especially strong in India. Drawing more on these sources would not only reduce dependence but also drive electrification, which is key to sustaining the industries and technologies of the future

Navneeraj Sharm & Arvind Subramanian

IF INDIA IS GOING TO OVERCOME ITS ENERGY DEPENDENCE, IT MUST ACCELERATE ITS TRANSFORMATION INTO AN ELECTRO-STATE - STARTING IMMEDIATELY

No sooner had the recent draft India-US trade agreement been made public than it was met with outcries from the Indian commentator. The biggest bone of contention was the US requirement that India phase out its oil imports from Russia. These had risen from 2% of total oil imports in 2021 to 36% by 2024, reflecting the massive discount on Russian oil — about $35 per barrel below Brent — following Russia's full-scale invasion of Ukraine.

In fact, with the discount declining to about $2 recently, oil imports from Russia have fallen accordingly. But controversies over the provenance of oil imports (be they from Russia, Iran, or Venezuela) are likely to continue, calling attention to the deeper, underlying problem afflicting India's economy: energy dependence.

Consider energy imports as a share of total energy consumption for India and China over the course of their recent economic history. Not only is India heavily dependent on imported energy, but its dependency has risen from 10% of energy consumption in 1990 to over 35% in 2023. By contrast, while China has also been quite energy dependent, it has been much less dependent than India at comparable points in its development.

The upshot is that economic dynamism and growing prosperity have made India more, not less, dependent on import energy. But now that geopolitical wrangling increasingly shapes international trade, India must reduce this dependence to maximize its strategic autonomy.

One option would be to invest more in hydrocarbons, as the United States under President Donald Trump has done. But another option is to embrace the Chinese approach and become a renewables-based electro-state. This has many advantages. The sun and wind are available to most countries, and they are especially strong in India. Drawing more on these sources would not only reduce dependence but also drive electrification, which is key to sustaining the industries and technologies of the future

To be sure, the move to renewables does risk trading oil dependence for technology dependence, since China controls over 80% of solar manufacturing and dominates battery supply chains. But that brings us to the second reason to make the shift: cheaper electricity will be crucial to seizing India's last opportunity to revive manufacturing. In

A Sixth of Humanity: Independent India's Development Odyssey, Devesh Kapur and one of us (Subramanian) show that manufacturing has been hampered by electricity costs that have been twice as high as they should be, and double those found in competitor countries.

Moreover, India has two other compelling reasons for shifting strategically from hydrocarbons toward renewables-based electricity. The first is pollution. The domestic social costs of burning coal and oil have been devastating, as a recent World Bank study demonstrates. New Delhi, an "open-air gas chamber," is a grim reminder of the consequences of doubling down on hydrocarbons. Thus, a shift to using more coal is inadvisable, even leaving aside the fact that $40-60 billion in thermal power investments are already stranded or at risk, and that new plants will only add to this burden as solar-plus-batteries outcompetes coal.

India's governmental and industry commitments to renewables are undeniable, and it has added renewable capacity at a brisk pace, including 50 gigawatts in 2025. Its potential for solar and wind is well-established, and its green hydrogen auctions have fetched globally competitive prices.

But serious structural and institutional problems threaten to stymie progress. The most important is the fragmentation of decision-making and governance across the central government and each of the 28 state governments, with the latter controlling the critical distribution sector.

As mostly public-sector monopolies, Indian distribution companies ("discoms") are chronically in financial straits, owing to populist political pressures that keep prices well below cost. After operating at a loss for many years, discoms overall have accumulated roughly $75 billion in debt.

As a result, they have been unable to buy power from renewable generators, which in turn have over 50 GW of excess supply. They also are poorly positioned to ramp up investment in the grid and storage systems ($50 billion is needed by 2035) without which India cannot possibly become an electro-state. Currently, some 60 GW of power is impeded by inadequate transmission capacity.

If India is going to overcome its energy dependence, it must accelerate its transformation into an electro-state — starting immediately. The central government is moving in the right direction, but much bolder reforms are required, especially on the part of state governments. The dominance of inefficient, poorly managed public-sector monopolies must be addressed. Fostering competition and creating rival institutions that are nimble enough to facilitate the technology transition will be essential. The slower India goes, the more vulnerable it will be to shifting geopolitics of energy.

BY INTEGRATING MODERN WASTE MANAGEMENT WITH ANCIENT WISDOM, OUR PLACES OF WORSHIP CAN ONCE AGAIN BECOME BEACONS OF PURITY

Temples have long served as the heart of Indian social and spiritual life, offering a sanctuary of peace and a conduit for divine communion. Millions flock to these sacred places seeking solace, guidance and a sense of belonging. Yet, paradoxically, these centers of spiritual purity have inadvertently become significant contributors to environmental pollution. The massive influx of devotees brings with it a logistical nightmare of waste management. From the plastic bags used for 'Prasad' to the non-biodegradable cutlery used in community kitchens, the sheer volume of single-use materials discarded within and around temple premises often contradicts the very sanctity these institutions represent. The serene atmosphere is frequently marred by the sight of overflowing bins and plastic-choked water bodies, creating a stark disconnect between the holiness of the ritual and the unholiness of its physical aftermath.

Despite this challenge, temples hold a unique and powerful position in the social hierarchy that makes them ideal catalysts for environmental change. They are not just places of worship but influential community hubs that command immense respect and authority. When a religious institution speaks, people listen with a depth of devotion that no government mandate can replicate. By adopting sustainable practices, temples can transform from being creators of waste into powerful role models for eco-friendly living. They have the potential to lead by example, proving that spirituality and environmental stewardship are two sides of the same coin. A temple that embraces a 'zero-waste' philosophy sends a resounding message to its devotees: that honoring the Creator is impossible without honoring the Creation.

The Odisha State Pollution Control Board (OSPCB) has recognized this potential with its recent, comprehensive public notice aimed at eliminating single-use plastics from temple premises. This notification is a landmark step towards maintaining temple sanctity while addressing the scourge of plastic waste.

The guidelines are specific and actionable, targeting devotees, vendors and administrators alike. Devotees are encouraged to return to traditional, sustainable alternatives like bamboo baskets and 'patra danas' (leaf plates) for their offerings. Vendors are instructed to abandon plastic cutlery and carry bags of less than 120 microns in favor of compostable and biodegradable materials such as wood, paper and metal. Crucially, the burden of implementation is shared by temple administrations, who are tasked with providing separate color-coded bins for dry and wet waste and ensuring that 'bisarjan' or the disposal of offerings occurs in barricaded areas of ponds to facilitate easy cleanup.

However, the path from policy to practice is often fraught with hurdles. The primary challenge in implementing these guidelines lies in the deeply ingrained habits of both the vendors and the visiting public. Furthermore, the sheer scale of operations in major temples makes monitoring and enforcement a Herculean task. Convincing the managing committees of these temples is the linchpin of this entire initiative. These committees must be engaged not through the cold language of environmental regulation, but through the warm lens of spiritual duty and heritage preservation. They must be convinced that the accumulation of plastic waste is a form of 'ashuddhi' or impurity that diminishes the spiritual vibration of the temple. By showcasing successful models where temples have significantly reduced their carbon footprint while enhancing the devotee experience, the PCB can provide a roadmap for others to follow. Financial incentives, recognition for 'Green Temples', and technical support for waste processing can further ease this transition.

In conclusion, the notification by the OSPCB is a visionary document that seeks to reclaim the ecological integrity of our sacred spaces. To ensure its success, we must move beyond mere compliance and strive for a genuine cultural shift. Temples must become the vanguards of a new environmental theology, where every ritual is performed with an awareness of its impact on the Earth. By integrating modern waste management with ancient wisdom, our places of worship can once again become beacons of purity, not just in the spiritual sense but in a very literal, physical one.

Intent matters

Sir, The relocation of the Prime Minister's Office to the newly inaugurated 'Seva Teerth' marks more than a physical shift; it signals a moral transition from colonial legacy to a governance culture rooted in service and self-reliance. From this new office, the first four decisions echoed its spirit — empowerment of the poor, women, youth and farmers — the foundational pillars of a Viksit Bharat. The approval of the PM Relief scheme granting Rs 1.5 lakh to accident victims, the Rs 2 lakh crore Agriculture Infrastructure Fund, and Rs 10,000 crore support for start-ups underline a governance model centered on dignity and opportunity. The Prime Minister's message to all who enter the building — to pause and reflect each day on how their actions will ease the life of an ordinary citizen — sets a high ethical benchmark. Yet buildings alone cannot transform governance. It is the conscience of those who work within that will determine whether Seva Teerth becomes merely an address or a living temple of public service.

Dhaka realignment

Sir, The resounding two-thirds victory of Tariq Rahman's BNP has delivered a decisive political mandate in Bangladesh. More than 60 per cent of voters have also endorsed sweeping constitutional reforms in a referendum held alongside the polls, lending the transition a level of public legitimacy. For Bangladesh, India and other neighbours, the outcome offers rare strategic relief after years of political uncertainty. From New Delhi's perspective, the BNP's clear win creates space to recalibrate a relationship central to India's regional security interests, but badly strained since the removal of former prime minister Sheikh Hasina. Historically, India's ties with the BNP have been uneasy. Yet the party's current distancing from Bangladesh Jamaat-e-Islami, a pro-Pakistan force, removes a major obstacle to cooperation. Rahman's promise of inclusiveness, minority protection and strategic non-alignment among India's neighbours is pragmatic. With the Awami League barred from contesting, the BNP has emerged as a familiar and workable partner for regional engagement.

To commemorate 1,000 days of the Congress government in Karnataka, title deeds will be distributed to around one lakh families

Responding to the BJP's criticism of the Congress's achievement convention, Siddaramaiah said, "It is their jealousy because they did nothing in the last four years. That is why they are criticising us."

Questioning the opposition's record, he said, "What did they do in the last four years? They made 600 promises. Not even 10 per cent of the promises made to the people of Karnataka were fulfilled."

"What moral right do they have to criticise us?" the chief minister asked. Highlighting his government's performance, the chief minister said, "We made 592 promises, of which 240 have been fulfilled. We will fulfil the remaining promises as well. The allegations against us are false."

Responding to repeated queries on party matters and leadership issues, Siddaramaiah said he had already made it clear that he would abide by the Congress high command.

"These programmes focus on the welfare and empowerment of marginalised ones, including Dalits, women, backward classes and farmers. We will continue to implement them," he said.

K'taka seeks MEA help as student goes missing in California

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Bangalore, Feb 14: The Karnataka government has requested the Ministry of External Affairs to extend all necessary assistance, coordinate with local law enforcement, and provide support to the family of a 22-year-old Indian postgraduate student who has gone missing in the US state of California.

Saketh Sreenivasaiah, a student at the University of California, Berkeley, hailing from Karnataka, has been reported missing in Berkeley, California, since the morning of February 12, it said.

In a letter to Foreign Secretary Vikram Misri, Karnataka Chief Secretary Shalini Rajneesh said Saketh is currently enrolled in the Master of Science program at the University of California, Berkeley.

According to information received from his family and housemates, his whereabouts remain unknown despite a formal complaint being lodged with the Berkeley Police Department, the letter dated February 13 stated.

Given the gravity of the situation and the mounting anxiety of his family residing in the state, she requested the ministry's intervention and support in the matter.

"It is requested that the Ministry of External Affairs, through the Consulate General of India in San Francisco, extend all necessary assistance, including coordination with local law enforcement and facilitation of support to the family," Rajneesh stated.

When contacted, Saketh's father, Sreenivasaiah, said he had submitted a memorandum to the state government requesting steps to help locate his missing son.

He said he last spoke to his son February 9 and later learned from his roommates that he had been missing since the morning of February 12.

The police are actively investigating the case; however, his whereabouts remain unknown.

"We still haven't been able to locate him. We are in touch with his roommates and others. We have written to the government seeking support and assistance to find our son," he told PTI. When asked whether he would travel to the US, Sreenivasaiah said he was considering it.

15 families ostracised for questioning community association accounts

INDO-ASIAN NEWS SERVICE

Yadgir, Feb 14: Despite the Karnataka Congress-led government enacting a law to contain the menace of social boycott, the continued practice of social boycott has come to light from Shahapur town of Yadgir district in Karnataka Saturday.

The families claim that despite lodging complaints with the police and concerned authorities, no action has been taken against those responsible.

The shocking incident of more than 15 families in Shahapur town of Yadgir district allegedly being ostracised by members of their own community for the past eight years has been reported.

The boycotted families said an unwritten rule has been enforced barring others from giving or accepting marriage alliances with them.

Gangu Bai Paanibaate, one of the members of boycotted family stated, "We are also being denied participation in community events such as Jihveshwara, Hanuman and Krishna Jayanti celebrations. The social boycott has severely affected our livelihood, relationships and basic social rights. We urge the district administration and concerned departments to intervene immediately."

The affected families, belonging to the Swakulisaali community, alleged that the boycott was imposed after they sought details about the accounts and income generated from properties owned by the community association.

According to them, the Jihveshwara Kalyana Mantapa and 18 commercial shops in Shahapur generate an annual income of around Rs 25 lakh. When 20 families questioned the income and its management, the association's president and members allegedly declared a social boycott against them.

Suresh Firangi, another man from family facing social boycott stated, "In a recent incident, a boy from one of the boycotted families was insulted and sent away during a sports event held as part of the Jihveshwara Jayanti celebrations."

Meanwhile, cases of social boycott in the name of superstition and customs have been reported repeatedly across the state, prompting legislative action.

In 2025, December 18, the Karnataka Legislative Assembly unanimously passed the Karnataka Social Boycott (Prevention, Prohibition and Redressal) Bill, 2025. Under the new law, if it is proved during an inquiry that a person has imposed or abetted a social boycott, they can face up to three years of imprisonment and a fine of Rs 1 lakh.

₹3.32 lakh-crore budget for 2026-27

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Amaravati, Feb 14: Striking a balance between welfare and development, the Andhra Pradesh government Saturday presented a Budget of over ₹3.32 lakh crore for 2026-27, up by ₹10,000 crore from FY26, with an estimated revenue expenditure of ₹2.56 lakh crore and capital expenditure of nearly ₹54,000 crore.

While presenting the Budget in the state assembly, Finance Minister Payyavula Keshav said the estimated revenue deficit would be around ₹22,000 crore (1.11 per cent of the GSDP) and the fiscal deficit is pegged at nearly ₹76,000 crore (3.84 per cent of the GSDP).

"From the financial standpoint, we are yet to come out of the woods. Things are not all that rosy. I still have my times of struggle while sorting the financial mess left behind by the previous regime. But our intentions are uncompromising," said Keshav.

According to the Finance Minister, the southern state will launch 'AP (Andhra Pradesh) Wealth Fund', which would become 'big' like the Norway and Abu Dhabi sovereign wealth funds, to run the whole state.

"It is proposed to set up an AP Wealth Fund with a seed corpus of ₹100 crore..." said Keshav.

Thanking Prime Minister Narendra Modi for initiating the process to introduce legislation to accord statutory status to the greenfield capital city of Amaravati, he said administrative sanction was given for 97 works worth ₹57,868 crore there.

As per FY27 budget figures, the state government is expected to raise ₹76,000 crore through open market loans and ₹19,000 crore from the Centre, while the GSDP during 2026-27 is pegged at ₹19.75 lakh crore.

Rahul slams govt over India-US trade deal

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Feb 14: Congress leader Rahul Gandhi Saturday

accused the government of cheating cotton farmers and textile exporters in the country over the India-US interim trade deal and said the agreement is likely to inflict deep damage on both sectors.

He also claimed that the trade deal, which now favours Bangladesh through zero per cent tariffs, will either finish the textile sector or the cotton farming or both, and the entire country knows this.

In a post on X, he said the government has neither protected the interests of cotton farmers nor that of textile exporters as a visionary government would have negotiated a deal that protected both and ensured prosperity for both the sectors.

Hitting back at Gandhi, Textile Minister Giriraj Singh accused Rahul Gandhi of spreading "misinformation without understanding the facts".

"India's cotton export story is stronger and more diversified than ever," Singh said, adding that it is not dependent on just one market.

In his post, Gandhi said Bangladesh is being given zero per cent tariff benefit on garment exports to the US - the only condition is that they import American cotton.

"After the announcement of 18 percent tariff on Indian garments, when I raised the question in Parliament about the special concession being given to Bangladesh, the reply from a minister of the Modi government was: 'If we also want the same benefit, we will have to import cotton from America'.

"Why was this fact hidden from the country till now? And what kind of policy is this? Is this really any kind of choice - or is it a trap designed to push us into a 'well in front, ditch behind' situation," he asked.

"A visionary government that thinks in the national interest would have negotiated a deal that protects and ensures the prosperity of both cotton farmers and textile exporters.

"But exactly the opposite has happened - Narendra 'Surinder' Modi and his ministers have made an agreement that is likely to inflict deep damage on both sectors," he said in his post.

Sibal also accused the government of agreeing to align India's foreign and economic policy with America, saying that such a thing had not happened in India's history. The former Union minister also took a swipe at Prime Minister Narendra Modi after he inaugurated the new PMO, named Seva Teerth, and two buildings of the central secretariat - Kartavya Bhawan 1 and 2 -- asking whether he has fulfilled his "kartavya (duty)" towards the country.

466 day care cancer centres functional across country

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Feb 14: More than 450 Day Care Cancer Centres are functional across the country, reflecting a steady expansion and strengthening of district-level chemotherapy services, Union Health Ministry sources said.

The government, in the Union Budget 2025-26, had announced the establishment of Day Care Cancer Centres (DCCs) in district hospitals across the country over the next three years, with 200 centres to be set up during the current fiscal.

duced in response to the rising burden of cancer and the need to strengthen the public health system so that chemotherapy services are available closer to patients' homes. "The objective is to decentralise routine cancer treatment and reduce dependence on tertiary hospitals for scheduled chemotherapy," a source from the health ministry said. Elaborating on it, the source said that cancer treatment typically requires multiple hospital visits over several months. Regular follow-ups and timely chemotherapy cycles are essential for effective outcomes.

For many patients, especially those in rural areas or belonging to economically in cities can be financially and physically demanding, he said. Expenses related to travel, accommodation, food, and loss of daily wages add to the burden.

Additionally, patients undergoing chemotherapy are often weak and require a companion or caregiver during hospital visits. This means that both the patient and the caregiver incur travel costs and often experience wage loss, increasing the overall financial strain on households, the source said.

Sources in the ministry said that before sanctioning new centres, a detailed gap analysis was undertaken in consultation with states and Union Territories based on the cancer burden, patient load, infrastructure readiness, etc. These institutes included government medical colleges, regional cancer centres, state cancer Institutes, and tertiary cancer hospitals with adequate oncology expertise. Training included chemotherapy administration, patient assessment, dose calculation, management of side effects, emergency response, infection control, safe handling of cytotoxic drugs, biomedical waste management, counseling of patients and caregivers, and referral coordination.

PM makes historic touchdown at NE's first emergency airstrip

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Guwahati, Feb 14: Prime Minister Narendra Modi Saturday made a historic touchdown at the Northeast's first Emergency Landing Facility in Assam's Dibrugarh district, and later launched a scathing attack on the Congress at a rally here, accusing the party of ignoring the region and fuelling insurgency during its rule in the state.

He also launched projects worth ₹5,450 crore during his third visit to the poll-bound Assam in three months. Modi took off from the Chabua airfield after his arrival and landed at the Emergency Landing Facility (ELF) in Moran on a stretch of National Highway-37.

The PM, after inaugurating the ELF, said, "It is a matter of immense pride that the Northeast gets an Emergency Landing Facility." "From a strategic point of view and during times of natural disasters, this facility is of great importance," Modi said on X. The ₹100-crore ELF, a 4.2-km reinforced stretch on the Moran bypass, will act as a strategic and multi-functional runway for IAF fighter jets and transport aircraft, strengthening defence, logistics and disaster response. During his day-long Assam visit, the Prime Minister, while addressing a public meeting here that also included BJP workers, launched an all-out attack on the Congress, accusing it of neglecting the Northeast and promoting insurgency in Assam during its rule.

He alleged that the Congress always endangered the nation's security, with fear and insecurity prevailing during its tenure in Assam. "The Congress indulged in polarisation and vote bank politics, and took decisions that promoted these," he said.

"The partition of the country took place due to the Mus lim League, but now there is 'MMC' " Maoist, Muslim League, Congress " and people should be aware of their intentions," Modi said. The PM accused the Congress of protecting infiltrators, and asserted that the BJP is "committed to ending illegal immigration, and so the next five years are very important for the state". He also claimed that the Congress, being out of power in Assam for 10 years, is "more dangerous than when it was in power, and this is evident from the venomous statements made by its leaders".

For seven decades, the Congress built only three bridges over the Brahmaputra river, but the BJP government constructed five bridges in 10 years, he asserted.

The PM paid tributes to the bravehearts who were martyred in Pulwama in 2019, and asserted that the world has seen how the government responded to the terror attack. The country's response was also witnessed during Operation Sindoar following the terror attack in Pahalgam last year, he said.

Maha Cong chief 'equates' Tipu with Shivaji

Maharashtra Congress chief Sapkal was speaking to reporters in Buldhana on the controversy over the portrait of Tipu Sultan in the office of Malegaon Municipal Corporation deputy mayor Shan-e-Hind Nihal Ahmed, which was opposed by Shiv Sena corporators there and Hindu outfits

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Nagpur/Buldhana, Feb 14: Maharashtra Congress chief Harshwardhan Sapkal Monday courted controversy by suggesting equivalence between Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj and 18th-century Mysuru ruler Tipu Sultan, triggering fierce condemnation from Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis, who called the comment "shameful".

Tipu Sultan remains a polarising figure of history, with one segment invoking his bravery in battle against the British, while others have pointed to his bigotry and ill-treatment of Hindus in several parts of south India. On the other hand, Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj is universal ly feted for his military genius as well as administrative skills based on benevolence and social welfare.

Sapkal was speaking to reporters in Buldhana on the controversy over the portrait of Tipu Sultan in the office of Malegaon Municipal Corporation deputy mayor Shan-e-Hind Nihal Ahmed, which was opposed by Shiv Sena corporators there and Hindu outfits.

While pointing to the valour of Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj and the way he presented the idea of 'Swarajya', Sapkal gave the example of Tipu Sultan's call for battle against the British and claimed this was an ideal articulated on the same lines.

"In that sense, Tipu Sultan emerged as warrior and a bhooputra of Bharat. He never embraced poisonous ideologies. Rather, as a symbol of valour, we should regard Tipu Sultan on par (samakaksh is the word Sapkal used) with Shivaji Maharaj," the Congress leader said.

Hitting out at Sapkal, Fadnavis said the comparison was condemnable and asserted the Congress leader must feel ashamed of himself.

"Maharashtra will not tolerate this. Sapkal should apologize for comparing Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj with Tipu Sultan. The Congress should take cognisance of this matter, and its allies must clear their stand on Sapkal's statement," Fadnavis told reporters in Nagpur.

Later, in a post on X, Sapkal said the valour of Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj is unparalleled, while Tipu Sultan was valiant and a lover of Swarajya.

"It was by taking Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj as an ideal that he (Tipu Sultan) fought against the British," Sapkal said in the post.

He further hit out by claiming those following the ideology of the Sangh-BJP were slaves and spies of the British when Tipu Sultan was fighting the foreign rulers.

"Therefore, Devendra Fadnavis should not get into the pretence of teaching us history. The people of Maharashtra have not forgotten what all BJP-RSS, (former governor) Bhagatsingh Koshyari along with others spewed against Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj and disrespected him," Sapkal said.

Posting an image, the Maharashtra Congress chief said, "These are the pictures of both Shivaji Maharaj and Tipu Sultan on the original copy of the Constitution."

Meanwhile, senior Maharashtra Congress spokesperson Atul Londhe also lashed out at Fadnavis.

Bangalore joyride turns fatal; 6 killed

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Bangalore, Feb 14: What began as an early morning "joyride" in an SUV ended in tragedy, claiming the lives of seven people, including six school students, who had set out secretly without informing their families, police said Saturday.

The multi-vehicle pile-up occurred early Friday morning near M Satyavara on the Hoskote-Dabaspet Highway in Bengaluru Rural district, they said.

According to police, six students set out in an SUV for a "joyride". The SUV car allegedly being driven by one of the students, Ayan Ali, reportedly at 150-160 kmph was en route from Hoskote towards Devanhalli when it allegedly struck a motorcycle from behind.

Ali took his father's car without parents knowledge, police said. The driver of the SUV allegedly lost control after the initial impact and crashed into a canter vehicle. Another car was also drawn into the wreckage, resulting in a severe pile-up. Six occupants of the SUV and the motorcycle rider identified as 26-year-old Gagan, a resident of Devanhalli, died on the spot, police said.

The impact of the accident flung the two-wheeler rider off the vehicle, and he hit the metal side crash barrier with extreme force, leading to his death.

The other deceased were identified as Ahram Sharif (16), Ashvin Nayar, Eethan George, Ayan Ali, Bharath - all 17 years old; Mohammed Farhan Shaik (18), students of Class X and XII.

Around 11 am Friday, grieving parents gathered at MVJ Hospital near Hoskote, struggling to come to terms with the fact that their children had died in the accident.

In a statement, the government said the initiative will lead to a total investment of ₹4 lakh crore in the urban sector over the next five years.

Delhi, Haryana, Maharashtra and Karnataka, will increase the existing railway network by about 389 kilometres.

Dhaka, Feb 14: BNP chairman Tarique Rahman Saturday prioritised law and order in Bangladesh "at any cost," saying the 13th general election opened a new chapter for building a safe and humane Bangladesh.

The Bangladesh Nationalist Party (BNP) leader, who is set to become the prime minister replacing the interim government chief Muhammad Yunus, also spoke about revival of SAARC and how his government's foreign policy will be guided by "the greater interests of Bangladesh and its people."

Rahman's BNP Friday secured a sweeping victory with more than two-thirds majority in the landmark parliamentary elections held Thursday.

"Our paths and opinions may differ but in the interest of the country, we must remain united. I firmly believe that national unity is our collective strength while division is our weakness," Rahman told a press conference here, a day after the landslide victory in the parliamentary polls.

Rahman, 60, said, "From today, we are all free, with the true essence of freedom and rights restored," but added that peace and law and order must be maintained at any cost. "We will not tolerate any kind of chaos."

The 13th Parliamentary elections assumed significance as they were held after a period of tumultuous political vacuum, instability and fragile security situation, including widespread attacks on minorities after the student-led protests brought down the over 15-year rule of Sheikh Hasina, who fled to India, in August 2024.

The BNP leader said the party will follow a foreign policy that protects the country's interests in its dealings with China, India, and Pakistan, newspaper Dhaka Tribune said. Bangladesh's foreign policy will be guided by "the greater interests of Bangladesh and its people," Rahman said.

About Bangladesh's future relations with China and the Belt and Road Initiative, he said: "If something is not in Bangladesh's interest, naturally we cannot pursue it. I am certain that mutual interests will be our first priority."

Dhaka Tribune further said that Rahman also spoke about revival of SAARC "the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation" saying, "SAARC was established through Bangladesh's initiative. We want it to function. We will discuss with our friendly states and try to revive SAARC."

The elections brought BNP to power with two thirds of majority after the party virtually went through nearly two decades of political wilderness.

BNP's former ally, the Jamaat-e-Islami, known to be close to Islamabad and which opposed Bangladesh's independence in 1971, emerged as the main Opposition in a changed political landscape. Deposed prime minister Hasina's Awami League was debarred by the outgoing interim government to take part in the polls.

The BNP and the Awami League had alternated state power and served as the main Opposition in parliament for decades amid bitter rivalry.

Rahman said the country is now set to begin its journey in a situation marked by a fragile economy left behind by an authoritarian regime, a weakened constitution and institutions, and a destroyed law and order system."

According to the Election Commission (EC), the BNP has bagged 209 out of 297 seats, while right-wing Jamaat-e-Is-

Russia killed Navalny with frog toxin, say 5 European nations

ASSOCIATED PRESS

London, Feb 14: Russian opposition leader Alexei Navalny was poisoned with a lethal toxin from the skin of dart frogs, five European countries said Saturday, blaming the Russian state for the attack.

The foreign ministries of the UK, France, Germany, Sweden and the Netherlands said analysis of samples from Navalny, who died two years ago, "have conclusively confirmed the presence of epibatidine." It is a toxin found in poison dart frogs in South America that is not found naturally in Russia, they said.

The countries said in a joint statement that "Russia had the means, motive and opportunity to administer this poison." They said they were reporting Russia to the Organisation for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons for a breach of the Chemical Weapons Convention.

British Foreign Secretary Yvette Cooper said "Russia saw Navalny as a threat. By using this form of poison the Russian state demonstrated the despicable tools it has at its disposal and the overwhelming fear it has of political opposition."

Navalny, who crusaded against official corruption and staged massive anti-Kremlin protests as President Vladimir Putin's fiercest foe, died in the Arctic penal colony in February 2024. He was serving a 19-year sentence that he believed to be politically motivated.

Navalny's widow, Yulia Navalnaya, said last year that two independent labs had found that her husband was poisoned shortly before he died. Navalnaya has repeatedly blamed Putin for Navalny's death, something Russian officials have vehemently denied.

Russian authorities said that the politician became ill after a walk and died from natural causes.

In 2020, Navalny was poisoned with a nerve agent attack he blamed on the Kremlin, which always denied involvement. His family and allies fought to have him flown to Germany for treatment and recovery. Five months later, he returned to Russia, where he was immediately arrested and imprisoned for the last three years of his life.

Kyiv: Drone strikes killed one person in Ukraine and another in Russia, officials said Saturday, ahead of fresh talks next week aimed at ending the war. An elderly woman died when a Russian drone hit a residential building in the Black Sea port city of Odesa, Ukraine's State Emergency Service said. In Russia, a civilian was killed in a Ukrainian drone strike on a car in the border region of Bryansk, regional Gov.

Alexander Bogomaz said. The attacks came a day after a Ukrainian missile strike on the Russian border city of Belgorod killed two people and wounded five, according to regional Gov Vyacheslav Gladkov.

US strikes Islamic State targets in Syria

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington, Feb 14: The US military Saturday reported a series of strikes against Islamic State group targets in Syria in retaliation for the December ambush that killed two US soldiers and one American civilian interpreter.

US Central Command said in a statement that American aircraft had conducted 10 strikes against more than 30 IS targets between February 3 and Thursday, hitting weapons storage facilities and other infrastructure.

At least 50 members of IS have been killed or captured, while more than 100 IS targets have been struck since the United States began its strikes after the December 13 ambush, according to Central Command. That attack killed Sgt. Edgar Brian Torres-Tovar, Sgt. William Nathaniel Howard, and Ayad Mansoor Sakat, the civilian interpreter.

Meanwhile, the Syrian Defense Ministry said Thursday that government forces took control of a base in the east of the country that was run for years by US troops as part of the fight against IS. The Al-Tanf base played a major role after IS declared a caliphate in large parts of Syria and Iraq in 2014.

Washington, Feb 14: Hundreds of judges around the country have ruled more than 4,400 times since October that President Donald Trump's administration is detaining immigrants unlawfully, a Reuters review of court records found.

The decisions amount to a sweeping legal rebuke of Trump's immigration crackdown. Yet the administration has continued jailing people indefinitely even after courts ruled the policy was illegal.

"It is appalling that the Government insists that this Court should redefine or completely disregard the current law as it is clearly written," US District Judge Thomas Johnston of West Virginia, an appointee of President George W Bush, wrote last week, ordering the release of a Venezuelan detainee in the state.

Most of the rulings center on the Trump administration's departure from a nearly three-decade-old interpretation of federal law that immigrants already living in the United States could be released on bond while they pursue their cases in immigration court.

White House spokeswoman Abigail Jackson said the administration is "working to lawfully deliver on President Trump's mandate to enforce federal immigration law."

SOARING NUMBER OF IMMIGRANT DETAINEES

Under Trump, the number of people in ICE detention reached about 68,000 this month, up about 75% from when Trump took office last year.

A conservative appeals court in New Orleans last week gave the Trump administration a victory in its drive to lock up more immigrants. Just because prior administrations did not fully utilize the law to detain people "does not mean they lacked the authority to do more," US Circuit Judge Edith Jones wrote in a decision reversing rulings that led to the release of two Mexican men. Both remain free, their lawyer said.

The move comes just weeks before US President Donald Trump is expected to meet Chinese President Xi Jinping in Beijing, raising the possibility of fresh tensions between the two countries, as per reports.

The Pentagon submitted its updated "Chinese Military Companies" list, also known as the 1260H list, to the Federal Register Friday. However, the document was suddenly removed from the website at the Pentagon's request without any explanation. A defence official later said the revised list would be released next week. Along with Alibaba and BYD, the Pentagon plans to add search engine giant Baidu. A White House memo reportedly alleged that Alibaba provided technical support for Chinese military operations and gave the Chinese government access to customer data.

Alibaba strongly denied the claims, saying it is not a military company and has no role in any military-civil fusion strategy. Baidu and BYD also rejected the Pentagon's allegations, calling them baseless and unfounded.

Both companies said they would consider legal options to challenge the decision, the report said.

Cabinet approves Rs 10k-cr fund for startups to mobilise venture capital, support deep-tech entities

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

New Delhi, Feb 14: The government Saturday said it has approved a Rs 10,000 crore Fund of Funds to mobile venture capital and support deep tech, tech-driven innovative manufacturing startups, and early-growth stage enterprises.

This was the second part of the Fund of Funds (FoF) scheme under the Startup India initiative. The first was established in 2016.

The FoF 2.0 has been designed to continue the momentum of investments in startups, with an expanded scope over FFS 1.0.

"The Union Cabinet, chaired by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, has approved the establishment of the Startup India Fund of Funds 2.0 with a total corpus of Rs 10,000 crore for the purpose of mobilising venture capital for the startup ecosystem of the country," a government statement said.

The Cabinet approved the second tranche of the Startup India Fund of Funds Scheme Friday.

The scheme, it said, is designed to accelerate the next phase of India's startup journey by mobilising long-term domestic capital, strengthening the venture capital ecosystem, and supporting innovation-led entrepreneurship across the country.

In 2016, the government constituted a Fund of Funds worth Rs 10,000 crore to provide seed capital and enable startups to take calculated risks.

Following the successful utilisation of the first tranche, a second phase of Rs 10,000 crore was sanctioned in the Union Budget for 2025-26.

Since the launch of Startup India in 2016, the number of government-recognised startups has risen from about 500 units recognised as startups to over two lakh at present. More than 49,400 startups were recognised in 2025, the highest in a single year.

"The Startup India Fund of Funds 2.0 follows the strong performance of the Fund of Funds for Startups (FFS 1.0), which was launched in 2016 to address funding gaps and catalyse the domestic venture capital market for startups," the statement said.

tal, and helping build a strong foundation for India's venture capital ecosystem.

While the first phase built the ecosystem, the second phase is designed to take Indian innovation to the next level.

The new fund will have a targeted, segmented funding approach to support deep tech and tech-driven innovative manufacturing.

It will prioritise breakthroughs in high-tech areas that require long-term capital.

The focus will also be on empowering early-growth stage founders to provide a safety net for new and innovative ideas, reducing early-stage failures caused by a lack of funding.

Further, it will encourage investments beyond major metros so that innovation thrives in every corner of the country.

The statement said it has been designed to address high-risk capital gaps and strengthen India's domestic venture capital base, particularly smaller funds, to further boost the domestic investment landscape.

Nomura drops April rate-cut call on firmer inflation, RBI 'stealth easing'

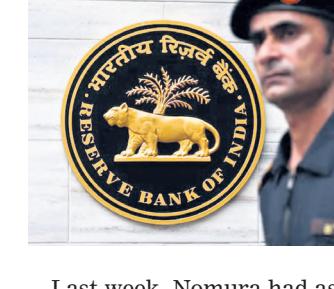

Nomura expects a 10-basis point upside to its inflation forecast for the January-June period under the new series, which increases to 20-50 bps in the second half of the fiscal year

REUTERS

Mumbai, Feb 14: Nomura no longer expects India's central bank to cut rates in April, it said, as inflation is expected to rise and given the "stealth" policy easing that has already taken place.

This comes after India Thursday released consumer price inflation data under a new series, which changes the weighting on key goods like food and housing and adds several online services for the first time to reflect changing consumption patterns.

Nomura has raised its inflation projection for the next fiscal year, which begins in April, to 4.1% from 3.9% based on the old series.

Last week, Nomura had assigned a 65% probability that the Reserve Bank of India would cut its policy rate by 25 basis points to 5%.

It now joins the likes of Capital Economics and ANZ in no longer expecting an April rate cut. Nomura said that "stealth easing" toward a 5% rate has effectively already taken place, strengthening the case for the RBI to pause.

The RBI targets the weighted average call market rate around the repo rate. The call rate has been around 5% over the last few days, the floor of the monetary policy corridor, reducing the need for rate cuts, the brokerage said.

Nomura expects a 10-basis point upside to its inflation forecast for the January-June period under the new series, which increases to 20-50 bps in the second half of the fiscal year.

The brokerage points out that one-year forward inflation is expected to inch back below 4%, limiting the need for a rate hike. The RBI targets inflation in a 2%-6% band.

The survey also revealed that 66.7 per cent of respondents stated that gold purchases are largely their personal decisions, and nearly 62 per cent stated that their most recent gold purchase was below 5 grams, indicating the changing nature of how the GenZ and Millennials look at gold.

According to the survey, 61.9 per cent of respondents would choose gold if they had Rs 25,000, tured how tradition-led buying is steadily giving way to a more individual, logic-driven approach.

During times of economic uncertainty, 65.7 per cent said gold feels like the safest option compared to bank savings, mutual funds or equities, it stated.

These findings underline gold's enduring role as the financial fallback across both Gen Z and Millennials.

The survey pointed to a clear move away from large, infrequent purchases toward lighter, more regular buying, as 61.9 per cent of recent purchases were below 5 grams, with 27.5 per cent buying less than 2 grams and 34.4 per cent buying between 2 and 5 grams.

For many first-time buyers, entry into gold is no longer limited to weddings. Nearly 24 per cent said their first gold purchase was triggered by their first salary or personal income, while 23.9 per cent cited an investment decision.

solid fuel conversion processes such as solid-to-solid and solid-to-liquid conversions. Technical sessions were held to promote collaboration on key environmental reporting in coal mining.

The objective is to ensure the standardised methodologies for accurate BTR reporting in the coal sector.

The programme began with the lighting of the ceremonial lamp, followed by the welcome of officials from the Ministry of Coal, the Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change, CIL, and other dignitaries.

lio when he was five, had secured world championship singles gold medals in 2009, 2015, 2019, 2022 and 2024.

Following Saturday's win, he surpassed China's legendary Lin Dan, who won five men's singles world titles in able-bodied badminton, making Bhagat the most decorated singles champion across world championship history in the sport.

The triumph also marked a significant redemption for Bhagat, who served an 18-month suspension for violating the Badminton World Federation (BWF) anti-doping whereabouts clause, which forced him to miss the 2024 Paris Paralympics.

Bhagat later combined with Sukant Kadam to claim the men's doubles SL3-SL4 title, defeating fellow Indians J Dilli and N Sivakumar 21-19, 21-16 in the final. The top-seeded Indian pair controlled key phases of the summit clash to complete a golden double for Bhagat.

In other results, N Sivakumar finished runner-up in the men's singles SL4 category after losing to top seed Lucas Mazar of France 12-21, 21-19, 14-21 in the final.

India's M Ramadas, the top seed in women's singles SU5, settled for silver following an 11-21, 11-21 defeat to China's Yang Qiu Xia in the title clash.

Greatest rivalry: India, Pakistan lock horns

Key match-ups

Sahibzada Farhan vs Jasprit Bumrah

The last time that the two were pitted against each other, Farhan came up trumps and became one of the rare international batters to hit Bumrah for two sixes in a single T20 game. Such was the hype around Farhan that he did an advertorial documentary gloating about the sixes that he hit against the Indian maestro in Dubai.

Babar Azam vs Kuldeep Yadav

Kuldeep Yadav has never bowled to Babar Azam in a T20I game but in ODIs, the left-arm wrist spinner got Babar out twice in three games and the highly-rated Pakistan right-hander managed only 28 runs in 52 deliveries across those games.

Hardik Pandya vs Usman Tariq

If any batter among the Indians has the best chance of demolishing the mystique surrounding Usman Tariq's stop and sling action, it has to be Pandya. It will be interesting to see how Salman Ali Agha uses Tariq and if it's in the middle overs between 7 to 16, there are high chances that there will be a duel.

Ishan Kishan vs Shaheen Shah Afridi

In the form of his life, Ishan Kishan can actually launch into Shaheen Shah Afridi with his range of strokes and the left-arm speedster's propensity to bowl deliveries moving away from the southpaw. It would be compelling to watch if Shaheen uses the short-ball ploy effectively against Kishan, who isn't very tall.

Pakistan's batters led by the irrepressible Sahibzada Farhan, who seemed to have gotten a grip over Jasprit Bumrah during last year's Asia Cup, Ayub, Abrar Ahmed, Shadab Khan and Mohammad Nawaz.

Tariq's side-arm stop and pause action has already become the talk of the town and battle with the versatile Indian batters would be an intriguing sub-plot of the showdown.

Without any disrespect to the Netherlands and the USA, they are yet to be tested by a quality bowling unit and India possesses one. From Bumrah to Varun Chakravarthy, India have proven match-winners in their den and even pace all-rounder Shivam Dube has improved leaps and bounds as a bowler in recent times.

Chance of rain?

The Sri Lanka Department of Meteorology has cautioned of a developing low-pressure point over Bay of Bengal, which potentially can mean up to 70 per cent chance of rain in the Khetarama area Sunday evening.

in the 14th minute, Hendrickx doubled the lead with a powerful drag-flick from another penalty corner.

Despite Indian goalkeeper Suraj Karkera making a crucial foot save moments later, Belgium struck again in the final minute of the quarter.

Opting for a variation on their third penalty corner, a sequence of short passes set up de Sloover to make it 3-0.

Belgium picked up right from where they left off in the second quarter. Earning their fourth penalty corner in the 17th minute, Hendrickx made no mistake with his drag-flick to extend the lead to 4-0.

Desperate for a response, India pushed forward.

The breakthrough came in the 24th minute when Abhishek dribbled past the Belgian defence and fired a shot. Although goalkeeper Loic Van Doren made the initial save, Lalage expertly poached the rebound to pull one back.

The third quarter saw a more balanced contest.

Moments later, a brilliant run by Sukheet Singh earned India a penalty corner of their own. Captain Harmanpreet stepped up and masterfully converted the chance in the 37th minute, scoring his first goal of the 2025-26 season to reduce the deficit to 4-2.

India started the final quarter with urgency, nearly making it 4-3, but Van Doren produced a superb save to deny the hosts.

Two minutes later, Indian goalkeeper Pawan stood tall to thwart a dangerous Belgian attack. As the clock ticked down, Belgium shifted to an ultra-aggressive approach to close out the game.

Pawan made a massive double save in the 56th minute to keep India's hopes alive, but despite their best efforts to find space in the final two minutes, the resolute Belgian defence held firm to secure the victory.

India will play their final match of the Rourkela leg Sunday against Argentina.

Quad God Malinin's Olympic dreams in shreds

REUTERS

Milan, Feb 14: The pressure had been building, the glare of Olympic expectation, the scrutiny of a sport that demands not only athletic precision but artistic perfection. And Friday, all of it came crashing down on Ilya Malinin.

The American phenom, considered virtually untouchable and a near-certain gold medallist, unravelled in stunning fashion in the men's free programme at the Milan-Cortina Olympics.

Malinin landed only three of his seven planned quadruple jumps, fell twice, and watched in disbelief as more than two years of competitive dominance dissolved into an eighth-place finish.

"In the moment, it definitely felt like not only nerves, but maybe the ice was also not the best condition for what I would like to have," he told a throng of reporters, half a dozen deep.

"That's not an excuse, we're all put in that situation, but the nerves were just so overwhelming."

"Going into my starting pose, all the traumatic moments of my life really just started flooding my head. So many negative thoughts rushed in, and I just did not handle it."

Only two months ago, the 21-year-old laid down a jaw-dropping performance at the Grand Prix Final, landing seven quads, including the quadruple Axel, to smash his own world record score in the free programme.

On Friday, his planned quad

Axel - a jump only he has ever landed in competition - turned into a single, prompting gasps from the crowd. He ended up getting a score of 156.33 that was a shocking 80-plus points less than that stunning Grand Prix skate.

The two-times world champion, who was not nearly at his best in the team event either, admitted he "still hasn't been able to process" what transpired, despite feeling prepared and confident heading into the day.

Some of the quads, he not ed, even felt "ideal." But something deeper was shifting beneath the surface.

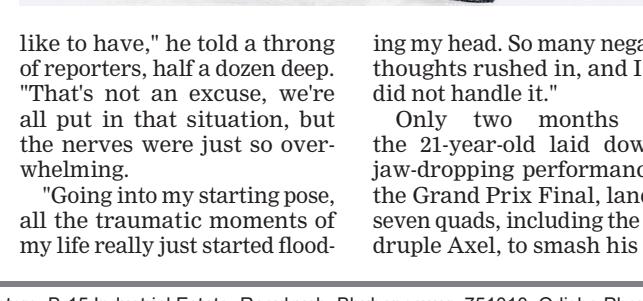

Asked to explain the pressure of being a huge Olympic favourite in his Games debut, he said: "It's not easy, being the Olympic gold hopeful is really just a lot to deal with, especially for my age."

"It's not like any other competition, it's the Olympics... it was really just something that overwhelmed me," he said.

In the quiet aftermath of the most painful competition of his career, he was already turning towards what comes next.

"Honestly, it's just something where you take what happened and what you learned, and decide what you want to do for the future and how to approach things," Malinin said. "I can't go back and change the outcome, even though I would love to. From here, it's just regrouping, figuring out what to do next."
